UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Respondent/Plaintiff,

v.

LUIS CANELA-RODRIGUEZ,

Petitioner/Defendant.

CRIM CASE NO. 12cr1904WQH
CIVIL CASE NO. 13cv553WQH

ORDER

HAYES, Judge:

The matter before the court is the Motion under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 to vacate, set aside, or correct sentence by a person in federal custody filed by the Defendant. (ECF No. 26).

On April 18, 2012, Defendant was arrested and subsequently charged with being a removed alien found in the United States, in violation of 8 U.S.C. § 1326(a) and (b).

On June 12, 2012, Defendant entered a plea of guilty to an Information charging removed alien found in the United States, in violation of 8 U.S.C. § 1326(a) and (b). Prior to the entry of the plea, Defendant and the Government entered into a Plea Agreement “pursuant to an early disposition (Fast-Track) program authorized by the Attorney General of the United States and the United States Attorney for the Southern District of California.” (ECF No. 13 at 2). The Plea Agreement provided that the Defendant agreed to waive Indictment and plead guilty to a single-count Information” and “agreed not to file or argue any substantive motions...”. Id. The Government agreed to recommend a departure under the United States Sentencing Guidelines §

1 5K3.1 of 4 levels for fast track and “to recommend that defendant be sentenced to the 2 low end of the advisory guideline range as calculated by the Government at the time of 3 sentencing, pursuant to this agreement.” Id. at 9.

4 On October 16, 2012, the Court held a sentencing hearing. Pursuant to the Plea
5 Agreement, the Government recommended a sentencing guideline range of 8-14 6 months<sup>1</sup> and a sentence of 8 months. (ECF No. 22). The Court sentenced the 7 Defendant to 8 months in the custody of the Bureau of Prisons and 1 year of supervised 8 release. (ECF No. 25).

9 On March 7, 2013, Defendant filed a motion pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255.
10 Defendant asserts that he received ineffective counsel because his attorney did not tell 11 him that the immigration judge violated his constitutional rights at the time of his 2002 12 removal hearing. Defendant contends that he was eligible for two types of relief from 13 deportation: voluntary departure and cancellation of removal at the time of his 2002 14 deportation hearing.<sup>2</sup>

15 Plaintiff United States asserts that the Defendant did not qualify for cancellation 16 of removal at his 2002 removal hearing because of his firearm conviction and that the 17 Defendant would not have received discretionary voluntary departure. Plaintiff United 18 States contends that the defense counsel was not required to collaterally attack the prior 19 removal based upon a claim that Defendant should have received relief which the 20 Defendant did not have a reasonable chance of receiving.

21 ANALYSIS

22 28 U.S.C. § 2255 provides:

23 A prisoner under sentence of a court established by Act of Congress 24 claiming the right to be released upon the ground that the sentence was 25 imposed in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States, or that the court was without jurisdiction to impose such sentence, or that the

26 <sup>1</sup>Without the 4-level departure for fast-track, the sentencing guideline range would have been 27 18-24 months.

28 <sup>2</sup> Defendant attached to his 2255 motion a pleading filed on his behalf in the Eastern District of Washington entitled “Memorandum in Support of Mitigated Sentence at Supervised Release Revocation Hearing.” (ECF No. 26 at 11-22).

1 sentence was in excess of the maximum authorized by law, or is otherwise 2 subject to collateral attack, may move the court which imposed the sentence to vacate, set aside or correct the sentence.

3 Unless the motion and the files and records of the case conclusively show 4 that the prisoner is entitled to no relief, the court shall cause notice thereof
5 to be served upon the United States attorney, grant a prompt hearing 6 thereon, determine the issues and make findings of facts and conclusions 7 of law with respect thereto. If the court finds that the judgment was 8 rendered without jurisdiction, or that the sentence imposed was not 9 authorized by law or otherwise open to collateral attack, or that there has 10 been a denial or infringement of the constitutional rights of the prisoner as 11 to render the judgment vulnerable to collateral attack, the court shall 12 vacate and set aside the judgment and shall discharge the prisoner or 13 resentence him or grant a new trial or correct the sentence as may appear 14 appropriate.

15 28 U.S.C. § 2255(a) and (b).

16 RULING OF THE COURT

17 In order to prevail on a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, Petitioner must 18 show that representation of counsel fell below an objective standard of reasonableness, 19 and that any deficiencies in counsel's performance were prejudicial. See Strickland v.
20 Washington, 466 U.S. 688, 690 (1984). Both deficient performance and prejudice are 21 required before it can be said that a conviction or sentence resulted from a breakdown 22 in the adversary process that rendered the result of the proceeding unreliable and thus 23 in violation of the Sixth Amendment. See United States v. Thomas, 417 F.3d 1053, 1056
24 (9th Cir. 2005).

25 Objective Standard of Reasonableness

26 In order to show that counsel's representations fell below an objective standard 27 of reasonableness, Defendant must identify "material, specific errors and omissions that 28 fall outside the wide range of professionally competent assistance." United States v.
Molina, 934 F.2d 1440, 1447 (9th Cir. 1991) (citation omitted). The inquiry is "whether counsel's advice was within the range of competence demanded of attorneys in criminal cases." Turner, 281 F.3d at 879 (internal quotations omitted). In making this determination, the court applies a "strong presumption that counsel's conduct falls within the wide range of reasonable professional assistance...." Strickland, 466 U.S. at 689. A deficient performance requires showing that "counsel made errors so serious

1 that counsel was not functioning as ‘counsel’ guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment.” Id.
2 at 687.

3 In this case, defendant entered into a Plea Agreement in which the Government 4 agreed to recommend a 4-level downward departure for fast track and a sentence at the 5 low end of the guideline range in exchange for the Defendant’s agreement “not to file 6 or argue any substantive motions.” (ECF No. 13 at 2). The Court concludes that the 7 advice of counsel to enter into the Plea Agreement and waive the filing of a motion 8 collaterally challenging the 2002 removal proceedings was within the “wide range of 9 professionally competent assistance.” United States v. Molina, 934 F.2d 1440, 1447
10 (9th Cir. 1991).

11 Aliens charged with illegal reentry under 8 U.S.C. § 1326 have a limited right to 12 challenge collaterally the validity of the removal order underlying their illegal reentry 13 offense. United States v. Bustos-Ochoa, ___ F.3d ___, 2012 WL 6579556 (9th Cir.
14 December 18, 2012). In order to succeed in a collateral attack under §1326(d), a 15 defendant must establish: (1) that he exhausted all administrative remedies available to 16 him to appeal his removal order, (2) that the underlying removal proceedings at which 17 the order was issued improperly deprived him of the opportunity for judicial review, 18 and (3) that the entry of the order was fundamentally unfair. 8 U.S.C. § 1326(d). Entry 19 of an order is “fundamentally unfair” if: “the deportation proceeding violated the alien’s 20 due process rights and the alien was prejudice as a result of the defects.” United States
21 v. Reyes-Bonilla, 671 F.3d 1036, 1043 (9th Cir. 2012). To prove prejudice, a defendant 22 “must demonstrate that he had plausible grounds for relief from deportation.” United 23 States v. Ramos, 623 F.3d 672, 684 (9th Cir. 2010). Defendant “must show that any 24 error ‘prejudiced [him] in a manner so as potentially to affect the outcome of the 25 proceedings; a mere showing that [he] would have availed himself of the procedural 26 protections denied him is not enough.’” Bustos-Ochoa, ___ F.3d ___, 2012 WL 27 6579556 at 2 quoting United States v. Cerda-Pena, 799 F.2d 1374, 1379 (9th Cir.
28 1986).

1 Defendant first claims that the immigration judge misinformed him by stating that 2 he was ineligible for cancellation of removal. Defendant attached to his 2255 motion 3 a pleading filed on his behalf in the Eastern District of Washington entitled 4 “Memorandum in Support of Mitigated Sentence at Supervised Release Revocation
5 Hearing.” (ECF No. 26 at 11-22).<sup>3</sup> This pleading states in part: “the IJ discussed 6 cancellation of removal with him, ultimately concluding that because of his firearm 7 conviction he was ‘ineligible’ for this form of relief.” Id. at 14. In order to be eligible 8 for cancellation of removal, Defendant would be required to show that he “has been a 9 person of good moral character during [the 10 years immediately preceding the date of 10 such application].” 8 U.S.C. §1229b(1)(B). Viewing the Defendant’s criminal history 11 at set forth in the Presentence Report in the light most favorable to the Defendant, the 12 Court concludes that any advice by defense counsel that Defendant was not likely to 13 prevail on a claim that he was entitled to such relief was within an objective standard 14 of reasonableness. See ECF No. 21 at 12-13.

15 Defendant also claims in the attached pleading that the IJ “failed to inform him 16 of his eligibility for voluntary departure and allow him to develop a record for relief.”
17 (ECF No. 26 at 17). The pleading states in part: “the IJ never specifically informed 18 [him] that he was eligible for voluntary departure. Instead, the IJ merely stated that as 19 a consequence of his prior conviction the IJ was denying voluntary departure.” Id.
20 Defendant does not include the transcript of the 2002 removal hearing. However, the 21 pleading attached to the 2255 motion states in part: “the IJ stated ‘Because of your 22 firearm conviction, I am denying your voluntary departure.’” (ECF No. 26 at 15).
23 Based upon the comments of the Immigration Judge at the 2002 hearing, the Court 24 concludes that defense counsel reasonably concluded that the Immigration Judge 25 considered voluntary departure and concluded that the Defendant would not receive this 26 discretionary relief. Any advice by defense counsel that Defendant was not likely to

27
28 <sup>3</sup>Defendant was convicted on August 13, 2010 of Deported Alien found in the United States in the Eastern District of Washington and received three years of supervised release.

1 prevail on a claim that he was entitled to such relief was within an objective standard
2 of reasonableness. There are no facts alleged by the Defendant that would support a 3 claim that the performance of his counsel was deficient because his counsel failed to file 4 a motion challenging the prior deportation on the grounds that he was entitled to relief 5 from removal.

6 Prejudice

7 To prevail on the prejudice prong of a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, 8 the defendant must show that there is “a reasonable probability that, but for counsel’s 9 unprofessional errors, the results of the proceedings would have been different. A 10 reasonable probability is a probability sufficient to undermine confidence in the 11 outcome.” Strickland, 466 U.S. at 69. In this case, the Defendant signed a favorable 12 plea agreement, entered a knowing and intelligent plea of guilty, and received a 13 sentence at the low end of the guideline range recommended in the plea agreement.
14 There are no facts presented in the petition which would support any claim that he was 15 prejudiced by advice of his counsel.

16 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Motion under 28 U.S.C. § 2255 to vacate, set 17 aside, or correct sentence by a person in federal custody filed by the Defendant Ramon 18 Avalos (ECF No. 26) is denied.
