UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

ACE BUSINESS SOLUTIONS, LLC,

Plaintiff,

vs.

GLOBAL MARKETING & DEVELOPMENT, INC., and AWESOME ENTERPRISES, LLC,

Defendants.

Case No. 15cv1464-MMA (NLS)

ORDER GRANTING MOTION TO INTERVENE

[Doc. No. 52]

Third parties TDL Global Ventures (“TDL”) and Losany Enterprises, LLC (“Losany”) (collectively, “the Intervenors”) move to intervene in this action pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 24. See Doc. No. 52. The Court found this matter suitable for determination on the papers and without oral argument pursuant to Civil Local Rule 7.1(d)(1). For the reasons set forth below, the Court GRANTS the Intervenors’ motion to intervene.

1 BACKGROUND

2 On July 2, 2015, Plaintiff Ace Business Solutions, LLC (“Plaintiff” or “Ace”) filed 3 this interpleader action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1335. See Doc. No. 1. Plaintiff requests 4 the Court determine, as between Defendants Global Marketing & Development, Inc.
5 (“GMD”) and Awesome Enterprises, LLC (“Awesome”), the rights to a particular sum of 6 money (“Net Distribution”) that Plaintiff has collected. Plaintiff Ace is a debt processing 7 company that provides processing services for GMD pursuant to an agreement between 8 the two entities. See Doc. Nos. 1, 24. Ace, as part of its services, collects payments from 9 consumers and pays portions of those funds to GMD. Plaintiff also used to provide 10 processing services to a company called 5STAR, Inc. (“5STAR”), which was originally 11 owned by Awesome. See Doc. Nos. 1, 21. At some point,¹ GMD acquired 5STAR and 12 thereby acquired 5STAR’s servicing obligations. See Doc. Nos. 1, 21. Awesome 13 disputes the propriety of this transaction and as a result, Awesome and GMD allegedly 14 began to give Ace conflicting instructions regarding to whom Ace should distribute 15 collected funds.

16 Specifically, on June 17, 2015, Ace alleges it received notice from attorneys who 17 represent organizations² that were previously affiliated with 5STAR, and who asserted 18 there were certain “improprieties related to the transfer of ownership of 5STAR to GMD 19 and/or parties affiliated with GMD,” which affected GMD’s entitlement to funds that Ace 20 would typically transfer to GMD. On June 26, 2015, Plaintiff received notice from GMD 21 requesting Plaintiff transfer to it the entire Net Distribution. Awesome claims a portion 22 of the Net Distribution, and asserts GMD is entitled to none of it because GMD 23 committed fraud and “misappropriate[d] companies and assets belonging to Awesome

26 _____
27 ¹ The particular facts surrounding 5STAR’s relationship to Awesome are unclear, but it appears that at this time, Awesome was still affiliated with 5STAR.

² The Complaint indicates that Awesome was one of these organizations. See Doc. No. 1, ¶ 20.

1 and businesses related to Awesome, [and] the revenue from debt invalidations businesses 2 belonging to businesses related to Awesome.” See Doc. No. 26.

3 Also, both GMD and Ace have filed counterclaims against one another arising out 4 of the agreement between them. See Doc. Nos. 9, 16. GMD has filed a counterclaim
5 against Ace alleging breach of contract and conversion. Ace has filed a counterclaim 6 against GMD asserting claims for breach of contract and breach of the covenant of good 7 faith and fair dealing.

8 On January 1, 2016, the Intervenors filed a motion to intervene in this action.³ See 9 Doc. No. 21. This Court denied the Intervenors’ initial motion on April 14, 2016. See 10 Doc. No. 30. The Intervenors had “made certain claims against GMD” in the District 11 Court of Maryland concerning both the Intervenors’ “rights to some of the interplead 12 monies to which GMD claimed to be entitled” as well as a breach of contract claim. See 13 Doc. No. 52, p. 5; see also Doc. No. 55, p. 7. When the Intervenors filed the first motion 14 to intervene, the Maryland action was still pending. See Doc. No. 52, p. 5. Both Ace and 15 GMD opposed the Intervenors’ first motion to intervene. See Doc. Nos. 24, 25.

16 Before the Intervenors brought this second motion to intervene, the District Court 17 of Maryland entered a final judgment in favor of the Intervenors against GMD for 18 $1,500,000.00. See Doc. No. 52, p. 5. Furthermore, the District Court in Maryland 19 issued a Writ of Execution to the Intervenors “as to the monies to which GMD is 20 entitled” in this case. See id. Purportedly based on the outcome of the Maryland case, 21 GMD assigned to the Intervenors “jointly, all rights and entitlements to . . . [a]ny monies 22 that presently are or will be due to GMD from the interplead monies in [the instant 23 action].” See Doc. No. 55, Lubar Decl., Exh. 2. GMD joined in the Intervenors’ second 24 motion to intervene and claimed it “does not intend to spend any significant money and judicial notice of filings in the instant case.

1 time defending the [interpleader action] and expects Intervenors to assert all rights to 2 which GMD would have been entitled.” See Doc. No. 52-4.

3 LEGAL STANDARD

4 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 24 governs motions to intervene in federal court.
5 Rule 24 states that a court must, upon a timely motion, allow intervention of right where 6 the movant:

8 (1) is given an unconditional right to intervene by a federal 9 statute; or (2) claims an interest relating to the property or 10 transaction that is the subject of the action, and is so situated 11 that disposing of the action may as a practical matter impair or 12 impede the movant’s ability to protect its interest, unless 13 existing parties adequately represent that interest.

13 Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(a). The Ninth Circuit has interpreted Rule 24(a) as requiring an 14 applicant meet all of the following four factors:

15 16 (1) the application for intervention must be timely;⁴ (2) the 17 applicant must have a ‘significant protectable’ interest relating 18 to the property or transaction that is the subject of the action; 19 (3) the applicant must be so situated that the disposition of the 20 action may, as a practical matter, impair or impede the 21 applicant’s ability to protect that interest; and (4) the applicant’s 22 interest must not be adequately represented by the existing 23 parties in the lawsuit.

22 Arakaki v. Cayetano, 324 F.3d 1078, 1084 (9th Cir. 2003), as amended (May 13, 2003);
23 Southwest Center for Biological Diversity v. Berg, 268 F.3d 810, 817–18 (9th Cir. 2001);
24 C.S. ex rel. Struble v. California Dep’t of Educ., No. 08-CV-0226-W(AJB), 2008 WL
25 962159, at *2 (S.D. Cal. Apr. 8, 2008). An applicant has a significant protectable interest 26

27 ⁴ The parties do not dispute the timeliness of the Intervenors’ motion.

1 where its interest is protected under some law, and there is a relationship between its 2 legally protected interest and the plaintiff's claims. See Donnelly v. Glickman, 159 F.3d 3 405, 409 (9th Cir. 1998). The resolution of the plaintiff's claims must actually affect the 4 applicant, but if there would be a substantial effect, the applicant "should, as a general 5 rule, be entitled to intervene." Id.; Southwest Center for Biological Diversity v. Berg, 268 6 F.3d 810, 822 (9th Cir. 2001).

7 In the alternative, courts may allow permissive intervention under Rule 24(b). The 8 court may allow anyone to permissively intervene who:

10 (A) is given a conditional right to intervene by a federal statute; 11 or (B) has a claim or defense that shares with the main action a 12 common question of law or fact. [. . .] (3) Delay or Prejudice. In 13 exercising its discretion, the court must consider whether the 14 intervention will unduly delay or prejudice the adjudication of 15 the original parties' rights.

16 Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(b). Further, a party seeking to permissively intervene must establish 17 that their motion was timely and that the court has an independent jurisdictional basis for 18 the party's claims. See C.S. ex rel. Struble, 2008 WL 962159 at *2.

19 DISCUSSION

20 A. TDL's and Losany's Grounds for Intervention

21 The Intervenors contend they may intervene as a matter of right, or in the 22 alternative, are entitled to permissive intervention in this interpleader action based on the 23 Writ of Execution and the assignment. See Doc. No. 52. The Intervenors contend their 24 interests are significantly different now as compared with when they filed their first 25 motion to intervene. See Doc. No. 52. Notably, the Intervenors argue that the Court 26 denied their first motion to intervene because of the Court's concern that the Intervenors 27 had a speculative interest in the current action. Now, the Intervenors argue, based on the 1 Writ of Execution and GMD’s assignment, they have a concrete “interest relating to the 2 property or transaction that is the subject of the action” and one which GMD will not 3 adequately protect. See Doc. No. 52. Because “GMD is no longer entitled to recover 4 any” of the interplead monies, the Intervenor’s assert they are no longer “potential 5 judgment creditors” but rather, “real-parties-in-interest.” See Doc. No. 52.

6 Moreover, the Intervenor’s argue GMD currently has little incentive to litigate their 7 rights to interplead funds because GMD assigned their rights in this action to the 8 Intervenor’s. See Doc. No. 52, p. 8. The Intervenor’s state that GMD has conducted 9 “nearly no discovery” relevant to pursuing interplead monies. See id.

10 Because the rights under the GMD/Awesome contract are the subject of Plaintiff’s 11 Complaint, the Intervenor’s “do[] not seek to expand the scope of issues in the case.” See 12 Doc. No. 52. The Intervenor’s contend the assignment “simply allow[s] [them] to protect 13 their interest in the exact same claims to the interplead monies that GMD would have had 14” See id. In other words, the Intervenor’s state they are not seeking to litigate any 15 additional contractual rights and therefore intervention is narrowly confined to the 16 contract at issue in Plaintiff’s Complaint. See id. at 10.

17 B. Plaintiff Ace’s Arguments in Opposition

18 Plaintiff contends that the Intervenor’s are no more than judgment creditors seeking 19 to collect on a judgment, which does not entitle them to intervention as a matter of right 20 or permissive intervention. See Doc. No. 55, p. 5. Further, Plaintiff argues that the 21 Intervenor’s are not assignees of the GMD contract, but rather, have only been assigned 22 the right to funds under the contract. Plaintiff argues this reinforces the idea that the 23 Intervenor’s are merely judgment creditors.

24 Also, Plaintiff asserts GMD still has incentive to litigate because GMD has to 25 defend against Plaintiff’s counterclaims. Plaintiff argues “the Amount of the ACE 26 counterclaims exceed the amount of the funds interplead and the damages alleged by 27 GMD in its claims against ACE.” See Doc. No. 55. Accordingly, Plaintiff contends

1 GMD “will protect its share in the proverbial pie.” See Doc. No. 55. Plaintiff also argues 2 that GMD has not provided the Court with any evidence that it will not defend the 3 counterclaims because GMD’s notice of joinder does not have evidentiary value as it is 4 not a declaration made under penalty of perjury.

5 Lastly, Plaintiff contends intervention would be prejudicial because it would 6 “explode this simple case involving one contract and three entities, into a multi-party, 7 multi-claim, multi-contract litigation seeking the resolution of claims, contracts and 8 issues” which Plaintiff is not involved in. See Doc. No. 55. Plaintiff further contends 9 they will be prejudiced by allowing intervention because the scope of discovery will be 10 expanded into numerous irrelevant issues in this case such as the legitimacy of the 11 Intervenors’ assignment. See Doc. No. 55.

12 C. Analysis

13 i. Timeliness of Plaintiff’s Opposition

14 As an initial matter, the Intervenors argue Plaintiff’s opposition brief was untimely.
15 The Intervenors contend that the brief was due on January 13, 2017 because pursuant to 16 the briefing schedule governed by the Civil Local Rules, the deadline would otherwise 17 fall on January 16, 2017—the Birthday of Martin Luther King, Jr., a federal holiday. See 18 5 U.S.C. § 6103. Plaintiff did not file the opposition until January 17, 2017. However, 19 the Civil Local Rules do not provide for the situation in which the deadline for filing an 20 opposition brief falls on a holiday. See Civ. L. R. 7.1(e)(2). Thus, Federal Rule of Civil 21 Procedure 6(a) governs, meaning that Plaintiff’s opposition brief was timely filed on 22 January 17, 2017. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 6(a) (stating that if the deadline lands on a holiday, 23 “the period continues to run until the end of the next day that is not a . . . legal holiday.”).

24 ii. Intervention of Right

25 The Intervenors have not pointed the Court to any federal statute that mandates 26 their intervention. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(a)(1). Thus, to intervene as of right, the 27 Intervenors must show they have a significant protectable interest related to the property

1 or transaction underlying the litigation, and are “so situated that disposing of the action 2 may as a practical matter impair or impede [their] ability to protect [their] interest, unless 3 existing parties adequately represent [those] interest[s].” Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(a)(2).

4 Regarding the present motion, the Court is persuaded that the Intervenor’s interests 5 are so situated. Specifically, the “Assignment of Claims and Rights” demonstrates a 6 property right to the underlying claims in this action. The Court’s task in evaluating the 7 scope of an assignment is to “enforce the intent of the parties.” See Klamath–Lake 8 Pharm. Ass’n v. Klamath Med. Serv. Bureau, 701 F.2d 1276, 1283 (9th Cir. 1983); see
9 also In re WellPoint, Inc. Out-of-Network UCR Rates Litig., 903 F. Supp. 2d 880, 896 10 (C.D. Cal. 2012). In joining the Intervenor’s second motion, GMD demonstrates its 11 intent that Intervenor protect their own interests in this action by stating that GMD “does 12 not intend to spend any significant money and time defending the underlying complaint 13 and expects Intervenor to assert all rights to which GMD would have been entitled.” See 14 Doc. No. 52-4. Thus, the Intervenor’s interests in this action have morphed from 15 speculative and theoretical into concrete and certain.

16 To have a significant protectable interest, a movant’s interest must itself be 17 affected by the resolution of the litigation. Plaintiff’s Complaint seeks a determination as 18 to what GMD is entitled to from the interplead monies, and the “Assignment of Rights 19 and Claims” divests GMD’s interests in asserting these claims to the Intervenor. It 20 therefore appears the Intervenor are not “one [] step removed” from the litigation’s 21 resolution because the Intervenor seek adjudication of some of the same issues as 22 Plaintiff does. See U.S. v. Ballantyne, No. 13-CV-53-BTM, 2013 WL 4716234, at *3 23 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 3, 2013). Thus, “there is a relationship between [rights created outside 24 the scope of this litigation] and the claims at issue” here. See Donnelly, 159 F.3d at 409;
25 Arakaki v. Cayetano, 324 F.3d 1078, 1084 (9th Cir. 2003), as amended (May 13, 2003).

26 Accordingly, the general rule that judgment creditors do not have legally 27 protectable interests in litigation involving the debtors does not apply here. See U.S. v.

1 Alisal Water Corp., 370 F.3d 915, 920 (9th Cir. 2004) (holding an “interest in the 2 prospective collectability of [a] debt [. . .] [was] not sufficiently related” to the action 3 because the interest was “several degrees removed” from the policies at issue). For the 4 above reasons, the Intervenor’s interests in this case are distinguishable from the 5 contingent creditor’s interests in Alisal based on the assignment and Writ of Execution 6 entitling the Intervenor “to the monies to which GMD is entitled in this litigation.” See 7 Doc. No. 52, p. 5.

8 Lastly, the Court is unpersuaded that the Intervenor’s interests are adequately 9 protected by Defendant’s interest in defending Plaintiff’s counterclaims. See Doc. No.
10 55, p. 10. Regardless of the “evidentiary value”⁵ of GMD’s notice of joinder, GMD has 11 indicated to the Court that it “does not intend to spend any significant money and time 12 defending the underlying complaint and expects Intervenor to assert all rights to which 13 GMD would have been entitled.” Doc. No. 52-4. Further, based on common sense, 14 GMD has little incentive to litigate issues relating to the underlying Complaint when it 15 has assigned all of its rights to any interplead funds to the Intervenor. Plaintiff’s 16 suggestion that GMD has an interest in defending the counterclaim because any money 17 GMD is awarded in this action “will be offset by the counterclaim damages awarded to 18 ACE” is similarly unpersuasive. See Doc. No. 55. Whether GMD has an interest in 19 defending the counterclaim is distinguishable from whether GMD has an interest in 20 defending the underlying Complaint, which the Intervenor are most concerned about.

21 For the foregoing reasons, the Intervenor have significant protectable interests that 22 are at risk of being impaired or impeded by the resolution of this action, and which are 23 not currently adequately protected. Therefore, the Intervenor are entitled to intervene as 24 a matter of right in this action.

26 ⁵ On that note, the Court OVERRULES all of Plaintiff’s evidentiary objections to the Intervenor’s 27 evidence as moot. The Court need only consider undisputed facts and the parties’ arguments in deciding this motion.

1 iii. Permissive Intervention

2 Even were the Court to find the Intervenor do not have the right to intervene 3 pursuant to Rule 24(a), the Court has discretion to allow them to intervene pursuant to 4 Rule 24(b). As an initial matter, the Intervenor do not claim to have a conditional right 5 to intervene under a federal statute. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 24(b). Accordingly, the 6 Intervenor must show they have a claim or defense that shares a common question of 7 law or fact with this action. Id. Also, the Court is required to determine whether 8 intervention would unduly delay or prejudice the adjudication of the current parties’ 9 rights. Id.

10 As the Court previously stated, GMD assigned the Intervenor its rights to the 11 funds disputed in this action. Therefore, the rights the Intervenor seek to protect by 12 intervening in this action directly relate to the issues raised by Plaintiff’s Complaint.
13 Based on the assignment, the Intervenor do not seek to litigate additional contractual 14 rights that are not already at issue in the current litigation. Thus, both the Intervenor and 15 Plaintiff have shared questions of law or fact—namely, both have an interest in 16 determining GMD’s rights to the funds in this interpleader action.

17 For those same reasons, the Court is unpersuaded that the Intervenor’s intervention 18 would “explode” this case into numerous unrelated and new claims, as Plaintiff argues.
19 See Doc. No. 55, p. 6; see Buffin v. City & Cty. of San Francisco, No. 15-CV-04959-20 YGR, 2017 WL 889543, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 6, 2017) (allowing intervenor whose 21 interests resembled a judgment creditor’s to permissively intervene based partially on the 22 intervention’s narrow scope). Further, the Intervenor assure the Court that any 23 discovery they would wish to take should the Court grant this motion would be minimal.
24 Thus, the Court does not find intervention will unduly delay or prejudice the adjudication 25 of the original parties’ rights.

1 CONCLUSION

2 For the foregoing reasons, the Court GRANTS the Intervenors' motion to 3 intervene. Doc. No. 52. IT IS SO ORDERED.
