IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

WILLIAM PIMENTAL,

Petitioner,

v.

WARREN L. MONTGOMERY,
Warden,

Respondent.

Case No. 16-cv-2212-LAB (DHB)

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION OF UNITED STATES MAGISTRATE JUDGE
REGARDING PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

William Pimental (“Petitioner”), a state prisoner proceeding pro se and in forma pauperis with a 28 U.S.C. § 2254 petition for writ of habeas corpus (“Petition”), seeks relief from his September 17, 2013 conviction and his 16 years sentence stemming from San Diego Superior Court Case No. SCD246994 for one count of active participation in a criminal street gang, one count of assault by means likely to produce great bodily injury (“GBI”), and one count of assault with a deadly weapon. (See ECF No. 1 at pp. 1-2.<sup>1</sup>) Petitioner alleges the following grounds for relief: (1) the prosecutor knowingly introduced false evidence through

1 the testimony of witness Betty Edwards, (2) ineffective assistance of counsel, and 2 (3) insufficient evidence, and (4) instructional error.<sup>2</sup> (ECF No. 1 at pp. 7-31.)
3 Warren L. Montgomery (“Respondent”) filed an Answer on January 6, 2017, 4 opposing any habeas relief. (ECF No. 9.) Petitioner filed a Traverse on April 17, 5 2017. (ECF No. 19.) The Court has reviewed the pleadings, the record, and 6 controlling law, and for the reasons discussed below, hereby RECOMMENDS that 7 the Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus be DENIED.

8 I. BACKGROUND<sup>3</sup>

9 Betty Edwards testified that, on March 25, 2013, she was driving past the 10 Encanto trolley station in San Diego when she saw two young men, later identified 11 as Raphael Castro and John Sanchez from the Encanto criminal street gang, trying 12 to “jump” another young man, Pedro Arellano, from the rival Shelltown gang.
13 (ECF No. 1 at p. 108.) Edwards told the attackers to leave Arellano alone, but they 14 did not heed her. Id. After the attack, Castro and Sanchez briefly talked to 15 Petitioner—who had just gotten off the trolley and was an older Encanto gang 16 member—telling him that a rival gang member had “fucked up one of their 17 homies.” Id. Pimental replied, “Go get him.” Id. Castro and Sanchez then began 18 chasing Arellano as Petitioner ran alongside them. Id. at pp. 108-109. During the 19 incident, Edwards heard the participants shout “Encanto” and “Shelltown.” Id.

20 Edwards also testified that during the stabbing incident, Petitioner was nearby 21 in the Encanto trolley station parking lot. Id. at p. 109. Afterwards, Petitioner told 22 Castro and Sanchez that the two of them needed to leave the scene. Id. Petitioner 23 did not leave on the trolley because Arellano had boarded that trolley. Id. After the 24

25 <sup>2</sup> Petitioner conceded his fourth ground for relief and agreed that the state 26 court’s rejection of his instructional error claims regarding the aiding and abetting 27 instruction and the natural and probable consequences doctrine was not contrary to 28 or an unreasonable application of Supreme Court authority. (ECF No. 19 at p. 6.)
Therefore, the Court will not address this ground herein.

1 incident, Edwards told Petitioner that he was going to jail. Id. Petitioner replied, 2 “Bitch, shut up. These are my little homies. Stay out of it. I told them to do it.” Id.

3 Kimberley Johnson testified generally in accord with Edwards’s testimony.
4 Id. at 109. Johnson identified Petitioner as an older male who yelled, “69,” while 5 encouraging Sanchez and Castro during the incident.<sup>4</sup> She added that she asked 6 Petitioner why he had not told Sanchez and Castro to stop attacking Arellano, but 7 Petitioner told her to shut up. Id. at pp. 109-110.

8 Arellano testified that, during the fight, Petitioner intervened on his behalf, 9 telling one of the attackers, “Stop. Get off of him,” and pulling an attacker off of 10 Arellano. Id. at p. 109.

11 San Diego Police Department Detective Damon Sherman, who testified as a 12 gang expert, interviewed Petitioner post arrest. Id. at p. 110. In that interview, 13 Petitioner admitted that he was present at the crime scene, knew the attackers, and 14 knew that Arellano belonged to a different gang. Id. Petitioner also admitted to 15 seeing one of the attackers armed with a knife before the stabbing. Id. Petitioner 16 explained why he did not stop the fight, stating, “If I were to, you know, even hold 17 my little homies from proceeding in this activity, that there might be a possible 18 consequence...‘for I.’” Id. Detective Sherman testified that Petitioner was a 19 member of the Encanto gang based on his own admission, his association with gang 20 members, and his gang tattoos. Id. at p. 111. Detective Sherman also identified 21 three predicate crimes committed by Encanto gang members. Id. at pp. 110-111.
22 Detective Sherman testified the attack on Arellano was gang related in part because 23 it occurred within the Encanto gang territory and the participants shouted gang 24 names during the incident. Id. at p. 111. Detective Sherman further testified about 25

26
27 <sup>4</sup> A San Diego Police Officer testified that the Encanto gang claims the 28 number 69 as their symbol because 69th street runs through the Encanto neighborhood. Id. at 109.

1 the individuals involved in the incident, based on surveillance videos, which were 2 played for the jury. Id.

3 On September 17, 2013, a jury convicted Petitioner of the following counts:
4 count one, active participation in a criminal street gang (Pen. Code § 186.22, subd.
5 (a).); count two, assault by means likely to produce great bodily injury (Pen. Code §
6 245, subd. (a)(4)); and, count three, assault with a deadly weapon (Pen. Code § 245, 7 subd. (a)(1).) (ECF No. 1 at p. 49.) The jury also found true allegations that 8 Petitioner committed counts two and three for the benefit of, at the direction of, or 9 in association with a criminal street gang, pursuant to Penal Code section 186.22, 10 subdivision (b)(1). Id. The trial court sentenced Petitioner to 16 years in prison.
11 Id.

12 On October 28, 2013, Petitioner filed an appeal with the California Court of 13 Appeal, Fourth Appellate District, Division One in which he alleged that there was 14 insufficient evidence to support his convictions and findings on the gang 15 allegations. Id. The appellate court denied Petitioner's appeal in its entirety and 16 affirmed the trial court's judgment in an unpublished opinion on January 27, 2015.
17 Id. at p. 50. Petitioner then filed a Petition for Review with the California Supreme 18 Court, which was denied on April 15, 2015. Id. at p. 50.

19 On January 11, 2016, Petitioner filed his Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus 20 ("Petition") with the Superior Court of California, County of San Diego alleging 21 two claims: (1) ineffective assistance of trial counsel, and (2) the prosecutor 22 knowingly admitted false evidence. (ECF No. 1 at p. 50.) The Superior Court 23 denied Petitioner's petition in its entirety on February 18, 2016. Id. at pp. 49-53.
24 Petitioner did not file his Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus in the California Court 25 of Appeal. Id. at p. 3. Petitioner filed a petition for writ of habeas corpus with the 26
27
28

1 California Supreme Court which was summarily denied it without citations on June 2 8, 2016.<sup>5</sup> Id. at p. 47.

3 II. DISCUSSION

4 A. Standard of Review

5 A federal court “shall entertain an application for a writ of habeas corpus in 6 behalf of a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court only on the 7 ground he is in custody in violation of the Constitution or laws or treaties of the 8 United States.” 28 U.S.C. § 2254(a). The Antiterrorism and Effective Death 9 Penalty Act of 1996 (“AEDPA”) controls review of this Petition. See Lindh v.
10 Murphy, 521 U.S. 320 (1997). Under AEDPA, a habeas petition will not be 11 granted with respect to any claim adjudicated on the merits by the state court unless 12 that adjudication: (1) resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an 13 unreasonable application of clearly established federal law; or (2) resulted in a 14 decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the 15 evidence presented at the state court proceeding. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(1) and (2); 16 Early v. Packer, 537 U.S. 3, 8 (2002). In deciding a state prisoner’s habeas 17 petition, a federal court is not called upon to decide whether it agrees with the state 18 court’s determination rather, the court applies an extraordinarily deferential review, 19 inquiring only whether the state court’s decision was objectively unreasonable.
20 Yarborough v. Gentry, 540 U.S. 1, 4 (2003); Medina v. Hornung, 386 F.3d 872, 21 877 (9th Cir. 2004).

22 A federal habeas court may grant relief under the “contrary to” clause if the 23 state court applied a rule different from the governing law set forth in the United 24 States Supreme Court cases, or if it decided a case differently than the Supreme 25 Court on a set of materially indistinguishable facts. Bell v. Cone, 535 U.S. 685, 694

26 <sup>5</sup> Therefore, the Superior Court provided the “last reasoned decision” 27 addressing Petitioner’s first two grounds for relief while the California appellate 28 court on direct appeal provided the “last reasoned decision” addressing Petitioner’s insufficient evidence ground for relief.

1 (2002). A federal court may grant relief under the “unreasonable application” 2 clause if the state court correctly identified the governing legal principle from 3 Supreme Court decisions, but unreasonably applied those decisions to the facts of a 4 particular case. Id. Additionally, the “unreasonable application” clause requires 5 that the state court decision be more than incorrect or erroneous; to warrant habeas 6 relief, the state court’s application of clearly established federal law must be 7 “objectively unreasonable.” Lockyer v. Andrade, 538 U.S. 63, 75 (2003).

8 “Clearly established federal law” means the law as determined by the United 9 States Supreme Court. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(1). “[W]hen a Supreme Court decision 10 does not ‘squarely address[] the issue’ . . . it cannot be said, under AEDPA, there is 11 ‘clearly established’ Supreme Court precedent addressing the issue,” and the federal 12 court “must defer to the state court’s decision.” Moses v. Payne, 555 F.3d 742, 754 13 (9th Cir. 2009). See also Carey v. Musladin, 549 U.S. 70, 77 (2006) (the lack of 14 holdings from the Supreme Court on the issue presented precludes relief under 28 15 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(1)).

16 In applying 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)(2), federal habeas courts must defer to 17 reasonable factual determinations made by the state courts, to which a statutory 18 presumption of correctness attaches. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(e)(1); see Schriro v.
19 Landrigan, 550 U.S. 465, 473-74 (2007). To determine whether habeas relief is 20 available under § 2254(d), the Court “looks through” to the last reasoned state court
21 decision as the basis for its analysis. Ylst v. Nunnemaker, 501 U.S. 797, 801-8-3 22 (1991). If the dispositive state court order does not “furnish a basis for its 23 reasoning,” federal habeas courts must conduct an independent review of the record 24 to determine whether the state court’s decision is contrary to, or an unreasonable 25 application of, clearly established Supreme Court law. See Delgado v. Lewis, 223 26 F.3d 976, 982 (9th Cir. 2000), overruled on other grounds by Andrade, 538 U.S. at 27 75-76; accord Himes v. Thompson, 336 F.3d 848, 853 (9th Cir. 2003).

1           B. Prosecutorial Misconduct – Knowing Introduction of False Evidence

2           Petitioner argues that the prosecution either knowingly used or failed to 3 correct false testimony, namely Betty Edwards’ testimony that Petitioner
4 encouraged the second assault on Arellano. (ECF No. 1 at pp. 7-9.) Petitioner 5 highlights Edwards’ testimony during cross examination where she testified that 6 Petitioner admitted to her that he “told them [Castor and Sanchez] to do it.” Id. at 7 p. 7. However, Petitioner contends that the record is “devoid of any statements by 8 Edward[s] telling police those specific words allegedly made by Petitioner.” Id.
9 Moreover, Petitioner asserts that Edwards never told Officer Villagran that he told 10 her that, “[H]e told them to do it.” Id. at p. 8.

11           The Superior Court reasoned as follows:

12           “Petitioner provides no basis in law or in fact to support his 13 proposition that the prosecution knowingly introduced false evidence 14 against Petitioner. Petitioner cites to portions of the reporter’s 15 transcript, which he purports is the testimony of Betty Edwards, but 16 fails to submit the actual records for review. Moreover, even if the 17 court assumes, arguendo, that Ms. Edwards testified as Petitioner 18 claims she did, there is absolutely no basis for the court to believe that 19 Ms. Edwards rendered false testimony. In fact, the testimony 20 Petitioner claims Ms. Edwards gave at trial appears substantially 21 similar to the statement she allegedly gave Officer Villagran.
22 Furthermore, Petitioner fails to prove that any inconsistencies were 23 material or probative on the issue of Petitioner’s guilt. To the 24 contrary, according to both the alleged testimony at trial and the police 25 report of Officer Villagran, Ms. Edwards essentially identified 26 Petitioner as an instigator who told his fellow gang members to ‘get 27 [the victim]’ before the assault occurred.”

28 (ECF No. 10-16 at pp. 4-5).

1 In opposition, Respondent argues that the state court reasonably rejected the 2 claim that the prosecutor presented false testimony. (ECF No. 9-1 at pp. 9-11.) 3 Specifically, Respondent points out the state court’s finding that Petitioner failed to 4 support his claim with any documentary evidence. Id. at p. 10 (citing ECF No. 10-5 16 at p. 4). Also, Respondent highlights the state court’s findings that Ms.
6 Edwards’ testimony “appear[ed] substantially similar to the statement” that 7 Edwards gave to Officer Villagran and Petitioner “fail[ed] to prove that any 8 inconsistencies were material or probative on the issue of [Pimental’s] guilt.” Id. at 9 p. 10 (citing ECF No. 10-16 at p. 4). Respondent ultimately asserts that Petitioner’s 10 claim should be rejected because he has failed to meet his burden to establish a 11 factual basis for attributing knowledge to the government that the testimony was 12 false. (ECF No. 9-1 at p. 11.) For that reason, Respondent argues the state court’s 13 rejection of Petitioner’s claim was neither contrary to, nor an unreasonable 14 application of, clearly established United States Supreme Court precedent. Id.

15 In his reply, Petitioner contends it was a critical omission that the jury never 16 heard from Officer Villagran that, on March 25, 2013, Edwards failed to precisely 17 state that Petitioner confessed, “[H]e told the little homies to do it.” (ECF No. 19 at 18 p. 4.) Petitioner alleges that Edwards perjured herself when she testified that 19 Petitioner instructed Castro and Sanchez to attack the victim. Id. In addition, 20 Petitioner asserts that Edwards’ false testimony was material to the disputed issue 21 of whether Petitioner aided and abetted the underlying assault. Id.

22 Analysis

23 The “clearly established law” upon which Petitioner claims he is entitled to 24 habeas relief is Napue v. Illinois, 360 U.S. 264, 269 (1959), wherein the Supreme 25 Court declared, “[A] conviction obtained through the use of false evidence, known 26 to be such by representatives of the State must fail under the Fourteenth 27 Amendment.” In other words, “[A] criminal defendant is denied due process of law 28

1 when a prosecutor either knowingly presents false evidence or fails to correct the 2 record to reflect the true facts when unsolicited false evidence is introduced at 3 trial.” Hayes v. Brown, 399 F.3d 972, 984 (9th Cir. 2005).

4         Petitioner’s contention that Edwards’ trial testimony is inconsistent with her 5 statement to police is undercut by the record. Officer Villagran’s report was 6 attached to Petitioner’s initial habeas petition before the Superior Court. (ECF No.
7 10-17 at pp. 122-123.) Under the heading “Statement of Betty Edwards (Witness),” 8 Officer Villagran reported that Edwards saw Petitioner, not hitting Arellano, but 9 telling Sanchez and Castro to, “Get him.” Id. at pp. 122-123. Officer Villagran’s 10 report explains Edwards stated to the police that Petitioner said, “Shut up those are 11 my Lil homies,” and continued to yell, “Get him,” as Edwards told the three males 12 to stop fighting. Id. at p. 123. On cross examination, Edwards responded, “Yeah. I 13 told them that[;]” when asked, “So you don’t recall telling the officers that Mr.
14 Pimental told you, “I told them to do it?” (ECF No. 10-3 at p. 86.) The Court finds 15 that the state court correctly reasoned, “[T]he testimony Petitioner claims Ms.
16 Edwards gave at trial appears substantially similar to the statement she allegedly 17 gave Officer Villagran.” (ECF No. 10-16 at pp. 4-5). Although, Officer 18 Villagran’s report does not state verbatim that Petitioner stated, “I told them to do 19 it;” her statement and testimony together corroborate the prosecutor’s contention 20 that Petitioner aided and abetted the assault by encouraging the attackers. Petitioner 21 fails to address Edwards’ statements included within Officer Villagran’s report 22 which were consistent with her testimony at trial.

23         Moreover, assuming arguendo the statement by Edwards was false, 24 Petitioner has not shown that the prosecutor knew the statement was false at the 25 time Edwards testified at trial. Accordingly, the Court finds that the state court’s 26 reasoning was neither contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of 27 clearly established federal law nor resulted in a decision that was based on an 28

1 unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented at trial.
2 Therefore, the Court RECOMMENDS that Petitioner’s claim of habeas relief on 3 the ground of prosecutorial misconduct and/or a due process violation resulting 4 from a conviction based on false testimony be DENIED.

5 C. Ineffective Assistance of Counsel – Cumulative Errors

6 Petitioner alleges that trial counsel was ineffective for failing to do the 7 following: (1) object to three instructions later submitted to the jury, CALCRIM
8 Nos. 358 [Evidence of Defendant’s Statements] (see ECF No. 10-1 at p. 42.), 359
9 [Corpus Delicti: Independent Evidence of a Charged Crime] (Id.), and 1403
10 [Limited Purpose of Evidence of Gang Activity] (see id. at p. 54.); and (2) impeach 11 witness Betty Edwards. (ECF No. 1 at pp. 11-27.) Petitioner ultimately asserts that 12 his trial counsel’s cumulative errors require reversal. Id.

13 The Superior Court of California, San Diego County, denied Petitioner’s 14 ineffective assistance of counsel (“IAC”) claim as follows;

15 “Here, Petitioner failed to provide evidence showing that his 16 counsel’s performance fell below an objective standard of 17 reasonableness or that any potential deficiency prejudiced Petitioner’s 18 defense. For example, Petitioner claims that counsel failed to object to 19 prejudicial jury instructions and evidence, and did not properly impeach 20 a critical witness. However, Petitioner fails to provide a single portion 21 of the trial transcript to support his self-serving statements. Moreover, 22 the Petition contains no evidence establishing that the outcome of 23 Petitioner’s trial would have been affected had his counsel made the 24 alleged requisite objections or presented the purported impeachment 25 evidence. As such, Petitioner has not shown a reasonable probability 26 exists that, but for his trial counsel’s purported errors, the result of the 27 proceedings would have been more favorable to Petitioner. Therefore, 28

1           Petitioner has failed to show the requisite deficient representation and 2           prejudice to maintain his ineffective assistance of counsel claims.”

3           (ECF No. 1 at p. 52.)

4           Respondent argues that the state court reasonably rejected Petitioner’s IAC 5           claim. (ECF No. 9-1 at pp. 11-14.) Respondent reiterates that Petitioner fails to 6           demonstrate deficient performance as he failed to present affidavits from trial 7           counsel to explain why counsel did not object to the challenged instructions or 8           attempt to impeach Edwards. Id. at pp.13-14. Also, Respondent contends 9           Petitioner failed to establish prejudice since the jury instructions were intended to 10          limit the purposes for which certain evidence could be considered against him. Id.
11          at p. 14. Respondent similarly contends that Petitioner failed to establish how not 12          impeaching Edwards negatively affected the verdict for Petitioner. Id.

13          In reply, Petitioner argues that Respondent’s contentions should be rejected.
14          (ECF No. 19 at p. 5.) Specifically, Petitioner claims that no evidence needs to be 15          presented until an evidentiary hearing is conducted, for which Petitioner believes 16          his allegations entitle him, and witnesses have been examined. Id. Petitioner 17          asserts that requiring him to submit a declaration from trial counsel would 18          contradict the Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668 (1984) standard. Id.
19          Petitioner also asserts that Respondent incorrectly contends that he failed to 20          establish prejudice as trial counsel’s alleged errors relating to jury instructions and 21          failure to impeach Edwards were particularly prejudicial considering the charges 22          Petitioner faced. Id. Petitioner concludes that his allegations warrant him an 23          evidentiary hearing and federal habeas relief. Id.

24                   Analysis

25          The Supreme Court has explained that, if there is a reasonable probability 26          that the outcome of a criminal trial might have been different as a result of a legal 27          error, the defendant has established prejudice, and is entitled to relief. Lafler v.
28          Cooper, 132 S. Ct. 1376, 1385-86 (2012); Glover v. United States, 531 U.S. 198,

1 203-04 (2001). Where a habeas petition governed by AEDPA alleges ineffective
2 assistance of counsel, the Strickland prejudice standard is applied and federal courts 3 do not engage in a separate analysis applying the Brecht harmless standard.
4 Avila v. Galaza, 297 F.3d 911, 918, n. 7 (9th Cir. 2002). Under this rubric, in 5 reviewing ineffective assistance of counsel claims in a federal habeas proceeding:

6 The question “is not whether a federal court believes the state court’s 7 determination” under the Strickland standard “was incorrect but whether that 8 determination was unreasonable—a substantially higher threshold.” And, 9 because the Strickland standard is a general standard, a state court has even 10 more latitude to reasonably determine that a defendant has not satisfied that 11 standard.

12 Knowles v. Mirzayance, 556 U.S. 111, 123 (2009) (citations omitted); see also 13 Runnigeagle v. Ryan, 686 F.3d 758, 775 (9th Cir. 2012).

14 Thus, under Strickland, Petitioner must show that defense counsel’s 15 representation was not within the range of competence demanded of attorneys in 16 criminal cases, and there is a reasonable probability that, but for counsel’s 17 ineffectiveness, the result would have been different. See Hill v. Lockhart, 474 U.S.
18 52, 57 (1985). An ineffective assistance of counsel claim should be denied if the 19 petitioner fails to make a sufficient showing under either of the Strickland prongs.
20 See Strickland, 466 U.S. at 697 (courts may consider either prong of the test first 21 and need not address both prongs if the defendant fails on one).

22 As an initial matter, Petitioner is not entitled to an evidentiary hearing at this 23 point as “review under [28 U.S.C.] § 2254(d)(1) is limited to the record that was 24 before the state court that adjudicated the claim on the merits.” Cullen v.
25 Pinholster, 563, U.S. 170, 181 (2001).

26 The Superior Court found that Petitioner’s petition contained no evidence 27 establishing that the outcome of Petitioner’s trial would have been affected had his 28 counsel made the alleged objections or impeached the identified witness. (ECF No.
10-16 at p. 4.) The Court here agrees with the Superior Court’s reasoning as

1 Petitioner fails to indicate how remedying any of the alleged errors raises a 2 reasonable probability of a different outcome at his trial. Assuming arguendo that 3 Petitioner’s trial counsel was deficient for not objecting to the jury instructions, the 4 Court finds the verdict against Petitioner would not be undermined as the 5 challenged jury instructions merely limited the use of the trial evidence during jury 6 deliberations. The jury could still consider Petitioner’s admission to being a 7 member of the Encanto gang, knowing that one of the attacker’s possessed of a 8 knife, failing to prevent the second attack due to gang-related consequences, 9 amongst other evidence before the jury at trial. Accordingly, there is no indication 10 that the use of the challenged jury instructions negatively affected or prejudiced 11 Petitioner at trial. The Superior Court’s habeas decision did not result in an 12 unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented at trial.
13 Petitioner’s ineffective assistance of counsel claim based on his trial counsel’s 14 failure to properly impeach Betty Edwards fails as Edwards’ testimony at trial was 15 consistent with her statement to Officer Villagran. Therefore, the Court
16 RECOMMENDS that Petitioner’s claim for habeas relief on ineffective assistance 17 of counsel grounds be DENIED.

18 D. Insufficient Evidence

19 Petitioner contends that insufficient evidence supported his convictions for 20 assault and the findings on gang enhancements. (ECF No. 1 at p. 30-31.) Since the 21 Superior Court did not address the sufficiency of evidence claim Petitioner raised, 22 the Court looks to the “last reasoned decision” provided by the California appellate 23 court on direct appeal dated January 27, 2015. In rejecting the Petitioner’s 24 sufficiency of the evidence claim, the California Court of Appeals reasoned,

25 “Edwards and Johnson testified that Pimental had encouraged Sanchez 26 and Castro to retaliate against Arellano. Pimental ran alongside the two 27 as they proceeded to attack Arellano a second time. Afterwards, when 28

1 the two women confronted Pimental about his failure to stop the 2 attack, he claimed he had directed Sanchez and Castro to undertake the 3 attack. Pimental subsequently admitted to Detective Sherman that he 4 had told Sanchez and Castor, 'Hey man, you guys, go,' noting they 5 were energized. Pimental also knew before the stabbing that Sanchez
6 had a knife. In light of that evidence and the gang expert's testimony 7 regarding the hierarchy within the Encanto gang, the way in which 8 younger gang members look up to older members, and the fact that 9 gang members are expected to back each other up and not abandon one 10 another, it was significant that Pimental admitted to the gang expert 11 that he did nothing to stop the attack because he feared adverse 12 consequences for himself if he had done so<sup>6</sup>...

13 Here, the evidence shows that Sanchez, Castro and Arellano were gang 14 members. During the fight, gang names were shouted. Sanchez and 15 Castro told Pimental that Arellano had 'fucked up' one of their 16 'homies.' In response to that show of disrespect by a rival gang 17 member, Pimental directed Sanchez and Castro to attack Arellano. A 18 jury could reasonably infer from the circumstances of the assault and 19 the customs and priorities of the Encanto gang that Pimental intended 20 by his support and encouragement of Sanchez and Castro to boost the 21 Encanto gang's reputation. The expert testified that among gang 22 members, respect from others was important to instill fear among rival 23 gangs, permitting the Encanto gang to further its criminal interests.
24 We conclude that sufficient evidence supports the mental element of 25 the gang enhancement."

26 (ECF No. 10-12 at pp. 6, 10).

27 <sup>6</sup> Petitioner was interviewed by a Detective Sherman, who later testified at 28 trial as a gang expert for the prosecution.

1 In opposition to Petitioner’s claim, Respondent argues that the state court 2 reasonably rejected Petitioner’s claims of insufficient evidence. (ECF No. 9-1 at 3 pp. 14-19.) Specifically, Respondent contends Petitioner failed to establish the 4 California appellate court’s rejection was contrary to or an unreasonable application 5 of Supreme Court authority as he did not present any argument challenging its 6 rejection. Id. at p. 18.

7 In reply, Petitioner contends that there is no evidence in this case which 8 suggests Petitioner instigated the assaults on Arellano, especially with the knife, 9 prior to the attack. (ECF No. 19 at p. 6.) Petitioner suggests that Petitioner’s police 10 interview represents a clearer version of what happened and that he did not know of 11 the existence of the knife prior to the attack. Ibid.

12 Analysis

13 The United States Supreme Court has “made clear that [insufficient 14 evidence] claims face a high bar in federal habeas proceedings because they are 15 subject to two layers of judicial deference.” Coleman v. Johnson, 132 S.Ct. 2060, 16 2062 (2012).

17 The first layer is the standard of review for insufficient evidence claims, 18 which is “whether, after viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the 19 prosecution, any rational trier of fact could have found the essential elements of the 20 crime beyond a reasonable doubt.” Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U.S. 307, 319 (1979) 21 (italics in original). Under this standard, Jackson “makes clear that it is the 22 responsibility of the jury—not the court—to decide what conclusions should be 23 drawn from evidence admitted at trial.” Cavazos v. Smith, 132 S.Ct. 2, 3-4 (2011).
24 Consequently, “[a] reviewing court may set aside the jury’s verdict on the ground 25 of insufficient evidence only if no rational trier of fact could have agreed with the 26 jury.” Id. at 4; see Johnson, 132 S.Ct. at 2065 (“[T]he only question under Jackson 27 is whether [the jury’s] finding was so insupportable as to fall below the threshold of 28

1 bare rationality.”). Also, under Jackson, a reviewing court “faced with a record of 2 historical facts that supports conflicting inferences must presume—even if it does 3 not affirmatively appear in the record—that the trier of fact resolved any such 4 conflicts in favor of the prosecution, and must defer to that resolution.” Jackson, 5 443 U.S. at 326; McDaniel v. Brown, 558 U.S. 120, 133 (2010).

6 The second layer is the “additional layer of deference” under AEDPA 7 requiring a petitioner to establish that the state court unreasonably applied the 8 Jackson standard to the facts of the case. Juan H. v. Allen, 408 F.3d 1262, 1274-5 9 (9th Cir. 2005). More specifically, “a federal court may not overturn a state court 10 decision rejecting a sufficiency of the evidence challenge simply because the 11 federal court disagrees with the state court. The federal court instead may do so 12 only if the state court decision was ‘objectively unreasonable.’” Cavazo, 132 S.Ct.
13 at 4 (quoting Renico v. Lett, 559 U.S. 766, 773 (2010)).

14 In California, to be guilty of a crime as an aider and abettor, a person must 15 aid the direct perpetrator by acts or encourage him by words or gestures. People v.
16 Villa, 156 Cal.App.2d 128, 134 (195). Under the natural and probable 17 consequences doctrine, the person must give such aid or encouragement “with 18 knowledge of the criminal purpose of the [direct] perpetrator and with an intent or 19 purpose either of committing, or of encouraging or facilitating commission of, the 20 crime in question. People v. McCoy, 25 Cal.4th 1111, 1118 (2001); People v.
21 Beeman, 35 Cal.3d 547, 560 (1984). To establish a gang enhancement, the 22 prosecution must prove two elements: (1) that the crime was “committed for the 23 benefit of, at the direction of, or in association with any criminal street gang,” and 24 (2) the defendant had “the specific intent to promote, further, or assist in any 25 criminal conduct by gang members.” Cal. Pen. Code §186.22, subd. (b)(1).

26 Viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the prosecution, a 27 rational trier of fact could find the essential elements of the assault under an aider 28

1 and abettor liability, with a gang enhancement, beyond a reasonable doubt.
2 Edwards' statement to Officer Villagran and testimony corroborate the prosecutor's 3 contention that Petitioner aided and abetted the assault by encouraging the 4 attackers. Kimberley Johnson testified that Petitioner as an older male who yelled, 5 "69," while encouraging Sanchez and Castro during the incident. Petitioner
6 admitted to being a member of the Encanto gang, knowing that one of the attacker's 7 possessed of a knife, failing to prevent the second attack due to gang-related 8 consequences, amongst other evidence before the jury at trial. The attackers made 9 Petitioner aware that the attack was in retaliation for Arellano's disrespect of a 10 younger Encanto gang member. In addition, Petitioner failed to prevent the further 11 attack on Arellano by Castro and Sanchez after being made known of the parties' 12 affiliations, the attacker's possession of a knife, and the attackers' intent could be 13 construed as encouragement and/or facilitation of the attackers' later behavior.
14 Accordingly, the Court finds that a rational trier of fact could impute specific intent 15 to promote or further the attackers' criminal conduct on Petitioner as he admitted 16 that he could not prohibit the retaliation from taking place or he would face 17 retribution from his Encanto gang affiliates. For those reasons, the Court 18 RECOMMENDS that Petitioner's claim for habeas relief on sufficiency of the 19 evidence grounds be DENIED.

20 E. Instructional Errors

21 Petitioner lastly claims that the trial court erroneously instructed the jury on 22 the law of aiding and abetting and the natural and probable consequences doctrine.
23 (ECF No. 1 at pp. 32-36.) In response, Respondent argues that Petitioner's claims 24 of instructional error do not raise a federal question. (ECF No. 91 at pp. 19-20.) In 25 his traverse, Petitioner concedes that the state court's decision was not contrary to, 26 or an unreasonable application of clearly established federal law. (ECF No. 19 at p.
27 6.) Therefore, the Court RECOMMENDS that Petitioner's claim for habeas relief 28

1 on grounds of instructional error be DENIED.

2 III. CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

3 The Court submits this Report and Recommendation to United States District 4 Judge Larry A. Burns under 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1) and Local Civil Rule 72.1(d) of 5 the United States District Court for the Southern District of California. For all the 6 foregoing reasons, IT IS HEREBY RECOMMENDED that Petitioner’s Petition 7 for Writ of Habeas Corpus be DENIED.

8 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that no later than December 29, 2017, any party 9 to this action may file written objections with the Court and serve a copy on all 10 parties. The document should be captioned “Objections to Report and 11 Recommendation.”

12 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED any Reply to the Objections shall be filed with 13 the Court and served on all parties no later than ten (10) days from service of 14 Petitioner’s filed Objections. The parties are advised that failure to file objections 15 within the specified time may waive the right to raise those objections on appeal of 16 the Court’s Order. See Turner v. Duncan, 158 F.3d 449, 455 (9th Cir. 1998); 17 Martinez v. Ylst, 951 F.2d 1153, 1157 (9th Cir. 1991).

18 IT IS SO ORDERED.
