UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA and the STATE OF CALIFORNIA,

Ex rel. DIANA MASON

Plaintiffs,

v.

PRISM AUTISM FOUNDATION d/b/a
PRISM BEHAVIORAL SOLUTIONS,

Defendants.

Case No.: 3:19-cv-00043-W-BLM

ORDER GRANTING MOTION FOR ATTORNEY’S FEES UNDER 31
U.S.C. 3730 [DOC. 22 & 24]

Pending before this Court is Relator Diana Mason’s Motion for Attorney’s Fees under 31 U.S.C. § 3730. Defendant Prism Autism Foundation d/b/a Prism Behavioral Solutions (“Prism”) opposes this motion.

The Court decides the matter on the papers submitted and without oral argument. Civ. L. R. 7.1.d.1. For the reasons stated below, the Court GRANTS Relator’s motion [Doc. 22 & 24] and AWARDS $118,023.99 in attorneys’ fees and costs.

1 I. BACKGROUND

2 On January 8, 2019, Relator Diana Mason filed this qui tam action under seal
3 pursuant to 31 U.S.C. § 3730(b)(2), alleging that Prism violated the California and 4 Federal False Claims Acts. (See Compl. [Doc 1].) According to the Complaint, “Prism
5 serves families with children or young adults on the Autism spectrum.” (Id. ¶ 2.) Relator 6 was employed by Prism from March to June 2018 to work “directly with families to 7 develop and implement appropriate behavioral interventions for children and young 8 adults.” (Id. ¶¶ 8, 9.) Relator alleges that Prism defrauded Medicaid by (1) billing for 9 services not rendered, (2) overbilling for services rendered, and (3) billing for services
10 rendered without the supervision of a qualified provider. (Id. ¶ 3.)

11 Before filing the Complaint, Relator provided the Government with a pre-suit
12 Disclosure Statement and over sixty exhibits. (P&A [Doc. 22-2] pg. 4–5; Compl. ¶ 18.)
13 After over a three-year investigation, the U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of 14 California determined Prism “knowingly submitted over 2,300 claims for Medicaid
15 reimbursement for services not rendered.” (P&A pg. 3.) On May 6, 2022, both the state
16 and federal governments intervened for purposes of entering a settlement with Prism.
17 (Notice of Election to Intervene [Doc 20] 1:18–27.) Ultimately, the U.S. and California
18 recovered $650,000 in civil penalties and fines from Prism. (P&A pg. 3.)

19 While the settlement agreement was being finalized, Relator and Prism attempted
20 to negotiate reimbursement of Relator’s attorney’s fees and costs. Because the parties
21 were unable to agree, Relator filed this motion seeking $118,973.99 in fees and costs.
22 Prism opposes.

24 II. LEGAL STANDARD

25 The Supreme Court prefers the lodestar method to calculate attorney’s fees for 26 several reasons. First, “lodestar looks to ‘the prevailing market rates in the relevant 27 community.’” Perdue v. Kenny A. ex rel. Winn, 559 U.S. 542, 551 (2010)
28 (quoting Blum v. Stenson, 465 U.S. 886, 895 (1984)). Second, “the lodestar method

1 produces an award that roughly approximates the fee that the prevailing attorney would 2 have received if he or she had been representing a paying client who was billed by the 3 hour in a comparable case.” Id. Finally, “the lodestar method is readily administrable”
4 and the calculation is objective, which “cabins the discretion of trial judges, permits
5 meaningful judicial review, and produces reasonably predictable results.” Id.

6 The lodestar method requires “the district court to calculate the reasonable number 7 of hours” an attorney has “expended and multiply that number by the reasonable hourly
8 rate for” the attorney’s services. United States ex rel. Sant v. Biotronik, Inc., 716 F.
9 App’x 590, 591 (9th Cir. 2017) (citations omitted). The fee applicant bears the “burden 10 of producing evidence that their requested fees are ‘in line with those prevailing in the 11 community for similar services by lawyers of reasonably comparable skill, experience
12 and reputation.’” Chaudhry v. City of Los Angeles, 751 F.3d 1096, 1110 (9th Cir. 2014)
13 (quoting Camacho v. Bridgeport Fin., Inc., 523 F.3d 973, 980 (9th Cir. 2008)). The 14 “general rule” when calculating this fee “is that the rates of attorneys practicing in the 15 forum district... are used.” Gates v. Deukmejian, 987 F.2d 1392, 1405 (9th Cir. 1992).

16 After a fee applicant has met their burden, the defendant must then submit 17 evidence showing the requested fee is unreasonable. Id. at 1397–98. This may include 18 “affidavits of the plaintiffs’ attorney and other attorneys regarding prevailing fees in the 19 community, and rate determinations in other cases, particularly those setting a rate for the 20 plaintiffs’ attorney.” Beauchamp v. Anaheim Union High Sch. Dist., 816 F.3d 1216, 21 1224 (9th Cir. 2016) (quoting United Steelworkers of Am. v. Phelps Dodge Corp., 896 22 F.2d 403, 407 (9th Cir.1990)). When determining a rate’s reasonability, a judge may 23 “rel[y] on their own knowledge of customary rates and their experience concerning 24 reasonable and proper fees.” Ingram v. Oroudjian, 647 F.3d 925, 928 (9th Cir. 2011).

1 III. DISCUSSION

2 A. Hourly Rates

3 For purposes of evaluating if Relator’s attorney’s hourly rate is reasonable, Relator 4 argues the “community” of lawyers should not be attorneys practicing in this district, but 5 rather all “attorneys who specialize in qui tam litigation.” (P&A pg. 10.) Prism responds
6 by pointing out that Relator failed to offer evidence “on local prevailing market rates”
7 and, therefore, argues her fee request should be denied. (Opp. [Doc 31] 6:8.)

8 As an initial matter, the Court agrees with Prism that Relator failed to provide any 9 information regarding the prevailing market rates, whether among attorneys in this 10 district or, as Relator proposes, those specializing in qui tam litigation nationwide.
11 Nowhere in the points and authorities does Relator identify the rates of other attorneys
12 practicing in this district or in qui tam cases generally. (See P&A pg. 10–13.) The only 13 information provided by Relator concerns her attorneys. (See id.)

14 Next, the Court also finds Relator failed to support her contention that the 15 relevant community should be attorneys specializing in qui tam litigation. A court may 16 “look outside the forum when the relevant community lacks attorneys with ‘the degree of 17 experience, expertise, or specialization required to properly handle the case.’” Wright v.
18 Tehachapi Unified Sch. Dist., 743 F. App'x 125, 126 (9th Cir. 2018) (quoting Gates, 987 19 F.2d at 1405). Here, Relator has failed to provide any evidence that competent counsel in 20 San Diego was unavailable. See Gates, 987 F.2d at 1405 (approving San Francisco 21 attorney rates because moving party “offered numerous declarations of San Francisco and 22 Sacramento attorneys which directly support their contention that Sacramento attorneys
23 and law firms with the requisite expertise and experience to handle this type of complex 24 institutional prison reform litigation were unavailable.”)

25 Notwithstanding Relator’s failure to provide evidence regarding the local 26 prevailing market rates, the Court disagrees with Prism’s contention that Relator’s motion
27 should be denied for two reasons. First, an award of attorneys’ fees in this case are not 28 discretionary. Instead, 31 U.S.C. § 3730(d)(1) requires the Court to award Relator “an

1 amount for reasonable expenses which the Court finds to have been necessarily incurred,
2 plus reasonable attorneys' fees and costs." Second, the declarations attached to Relator's
3 motion, along with this Court's experience with attorney-fee motions, provide a sufficient
4 basis to evaluate the reasonableness of Relator's attorneys' billing rates. See Soler v.
5 Cnty. of San Diego, 2021 WL 2515236, at *4 (S.D. Cal. June 18, 2021), appeal dismissed
6 sub nom; Soler v. Wilkins, 2021 WL 4979447 (9th Cir. Aug. 19, 2021) (determining 7 reasonability of rates despite unhelpful supporting declarations); Youngevity Int'l, Corp.
8 v. Smith, 2018 WL 2113238, at *4 (S.D. Cal. May 7, 2018) (using discretion to 9 determine a reasonable rate for an attorney who submitted no evidence of skills,
10 experience, or credentials); Moriarty v. Am. Gen. Life Ins. Co., 2022 WL 3907152, at *3 11 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 19, 2022) ("notwithstanding Plaintiff's light-handed approach to meeting 12 her burden, the Court finds [the]... hourly billing rates reasonable").

13 The declarations attached to Relator's motion provide evidence regarding her
14 attorneys' background, training, and skill level. Mr. Hurlock, Mr. Furlong, and Mr. Karz
15 were billed at $500, $300, and $350 per hour respectively. (Hurlock Decl. [Doc 22-3] ¶
16 6.) Mr. Hurlock has practiced for 23 years with a "special focus on qui tam cases." (Id.
17 ¶5.) Mr. Furlong is an associate "with eight and a half years of experience." (Id. ¶6.) Mr.
18 Karz has 34 years of experience as a litigator and has "worked on a variety of complex
19 issues" including mass torts and consumer class actions. (Karz Decl. [Doc 22-4] ¶5.)

20 Courts in this district have "held a range of rates from $450–$750 per hour to be 21 reasonable for a senior partner." G&G Closed Cir. Events, LLC v. Zarazua, 2022 WL
22 3019859, at *2 (S.D. Cal. July 29, 2022) (citations omitted); Youngevity Int'l Corp., 23 2018 WL 2113238 at *5; see NuVasive, Inc. v. Alphatec Holdings, Inc., 2020 WL
24 6876300, at *3 (S.D. Cal. Mar. 20, 2020) (finding a $1,005 billing rate to be reasonable).
25 Mr. Hurlock's hourly rate of $500 falls well within the range of "customary rates" for 26 senior partners in this district.

27 This district has also "found hourly rates of $550 per hour or higher reasonable for 28 attorneys with partner level experience." Buchannon v. Associated Credit Servs., Inc.,

1 2021 WL 5360971, at *16 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 17, 2021). Mr. Karz’s hourly rate of $350 as 2 an attorney with 34 years of experience is below what this district had deemed 3 reasonable. Mr. Furlong’s associate rate of $300 an hour is also reasonable for this
4 district. See Buchannon, 2021 WL 5360971 at *15 (holding $375 was a reasonable rate
5 for an associate); Sengvong v. Probuild Co. LLC, 2021 WL 4504620, at *9 (S.D. Cal.
6 Oct. 1, 2021) (holding $450 was a reasonable rate for an associate); Herring Networks,
7 Inc. v. Maddow, 2021 WL 409724, at *7 (S.D. Cal. Feb. 5, 2021) (awarding attorney’s 8 fees for an associate with a rate of $470).

9 Mr. Hurlock’s, Mr. Furlong’s, and Mr. Karz’s rates are in “line with those 10 prevailing in the community” based on previous awards in this district and this Court’s 11 “knowledge of customary rates.” Chaudhry, 751 F.3d at 1110 (quoting Camacho, 523
12 F.3d at 980); Ingram, 647 F.3d at 928. Accordingly, this Court finds each of Relator’s 13 attorney’s rates reasonable, and will not make any reductions.

14 15 B. Hours Billed

16 Relator bears the burden to produce “evidence supporting the hours worked,” 17 though they are “not required to record in great detail how each minute of [their] time
18 was expended.” Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 437 n.12 (1983). Counsel may meet 19 their burden “by simply listing his hours and ‘identify[ing] the general subject matter of 20 his time expenditures.’” Fischer v. SJB-P.D. Inc., 214 F.3d 1115, 1121 (9th Cir. 2000)
21 (citations omitted). A court may reduce any “excessive, redundant, or otherwise 22 unnecessary hours,” as well as block-billed hours. Hensley, 461 U.S. at 434; Welch v.
23 Metro. Life Ins. Co., 480 F.3d 942, 948 (9th Cir. 2007).

24 Here, Relator’s attorneys submitted their billings statements to establish the total
25 hours billed. (See Hurlock Decl. ¶ 7, Ex. A [Doc. 22-5].) According to those statements, 26 from 2018 to 2022, Relator’s lead attorney, Mr. Hurlock, spent 158.9 hours on the case;
27 his associate, Mr. Furlong, billed 113.2 hours; and local counsel, Mr. Karz, billed 2.5
28 hours. (Hurlock Decl. Ex. A at pg. 1 of 12.)

1 In its opposition, Prism argues that the amount of time billed by Relator’s attorneys 2 is excessive and raises the following six objections: (1) unreasonable time billed to 3 emails; (2) travel time; (3) clerical or vague time entries; (4) duplicative attorney work;
4 (5) block billing; and (6) time billed to settlement discussions. The Court will address
5 each objection separately below.

7 1. Unreasonable Time Billed to Emails¹

8 Prism seeks a “77% reduction” in billable entries for what it contends are an 9 excessive number of emails. (Opp’n 14:10–24.) In support of this argument, Prism 10 identifies 18 emails that it contends do not “involve legal research or advice on issues in 11 the case” and thus time spent on the emails was unreasonable. (Id. 14:22–23; 15:2–5.)
12 The Court reviewed the 18 entries and finds Prism’s argument lacks merit.

13 At the heart of Prism’s argument are inaccurate descriptions of the relevant time 14 entries. For example, Prism cites the time entry on September 14, 2021, and claims the 15 1.2 hours billed was spent on two emails worth 18 words. (Opp’n. 16:4.) However, the 16 entry states the 1.2 hours were billed for “emails regarding settlement issues,” as well as 17 reviewing those settlement issues and beginning “to prepare [a] motion” regarding the 18 issues. (Hurlock Decl. Ex. A at pg. 8 of 12.) 1.2 hours is a reasonable amount of time to 19 spend on these tasks. With respect to the other 17 emails, Prism’s descriptions discount 20 the fact that the entries refer to multiple (not singular) emails and/or describe additional 21 work outside the emails (i.e., settlement issues).

22 For these reasons, the Court finds the amount of time billed to emails was not 23 unreasonable, particularly given the longevity of this case.

26
27
28 ¹ Prism also objects to emails on the basis that they were included in block-billed entries. The Court will evaluate this objection separately.

1 2. Travel Time

2 Prism objects to “10% of the fees sought by relator’s counsel” stemming “from 3 nearly 30-hours two different attorneys jointly spent flying across the country for a single 4 meeting.” (Opp. 9:6–8.) Prism asks the Court to excise the entries. (Id. 10:6–7.)

5 Travel time may be “reasonably compensated at normal hourly rates if such is the 6 custom in the relevant legal market.” Comcast of Ill. X, LLC v. Jung Kwak, 2010 WL
7 3781768, at *6 (D. Nev. Sept. 17, 2010) (citing Davis v. City & Cty. of San Francisco, 8 976 F.2d 1536, 1543 (9th Cir. 1992) vacated in part on other grounds, 984 F.2d 345 (9th 9 Cir. 1993)). But courts have held travel time and expenses may be deducted if out-of-10 town counsel was unnecessary. Fair Hous. Council of San Diego v. Owner’s Ass’n, 523
11 F. Supp. 2d 1164, 1173–78 (S.D. Cal. 2007, reversed on other grounds in The Fair Hous.
12 Council v. Owner's Ass'n, 381 F. App'x 674 (9th Cir. 2010).

13 Over the course of this multi-year litigation, Relator and her attorneys took a single 14 trip to San Diego. The purpose of this trip was to meet with the Assistant U.S. Attorney
15 investigating Relator’s allegation that Prism was engaged in an extensive scheme to bill 16 Medicaid for over 2,000 fraudulent claims. Mr. Hurlock and Mr. Furlong accompanied 17 Relator to “advance[e] [her] interests” in a “meeting that [could have] materially 18 affect[ed] the case.” (Reply [Doc 32] 6:13.) Under the circumstances, the Court finds 19 this travel was reasonable, and thus will not reduce fees for travel time.

20 Prism also seeks to deduct “the $3,992.77 in costs sought” for the travel. (Opp.
21 10:12.) Because the Court finds this travel reasonable, Prism’s request to remove the 22 costs associated with this travel is also denied.

23
24 3. Clerical or Vague Time Entries

25 Prism contends the following 28 items totaling more than $6,000 in fees are either 26 clerical or the descriptions are too vague and therefore the time should be denied or 27 significantly reduced:

Tasks that are “clerical in nature,” such as “filing, transcript, and document organization time,” should not be “billed at hourly rates” because they “should have been subsumed in firm overhead.” Nadarajah v. Holder, 569 F.3d 906, 921 (9th Cir. 2009). A district court has the discretion to reduce a fee award if a time entry is “vague and inadequately explained.” Neil v. Comm’r of Soc. Sec., 495 F. App’x 845, 847 (9th Cir. 2012); see Fischer v. SJB-P.D. Inc., 214 F.3d 1115, 1121 (9th Cir. 2000) (holding a district court has discretion to reduce a fee award to a reasonable amount when there is insufficient detail). An entry is considered “vague” when the Court cannot “determine whether the hours reflected therein were reasonably expended.” Kailikole v. Palomar Cmty. Coll. Dist., 2020 WL 6203097, at *5 (S.D. Cal. Oct. 22, 2020).

After reviewing all the time entries, the Court finds the majority are reasonable under the circumstances of this case. The “status of the matter” entries and descriptions (#s 1–3, 5, 10, 13–17, 19–22, 24–26) were not unreasonable in a case spanning four years. During that period, it was appropriate for the attorney to send emails every few months to update the client on the status of the case. The descriptions also adequately reflect the nature of the brief correspondence.

² The information in the table is taken from select entries from Prism’s Exhibit B [Doc. 31-3] at 2-15.

1 Additionally, Prism again fails to place the entries in context. For example, entry
2 #1 billed 0.4 hours for “emails regarding status of matter; review same.” Based on other
3 billing entries during the period, it is clear the email came towards the end of an active
4 period at the start of Mr. Hurlock’s investigation into the case. (See Hurlock Decl. Ex. A
5 at pg. 2 of 12.) Entries #13 and #14 are the only emails sent over a 5-month period. Two 6 emails (billed at barely over an hour together during this period) is reasonable to keep the 7 client apprised of the status of the case. Further, occasional short phone calls between 8 attorneys over the life of a case like this is reasonable (#s 23, 27–28).

9 With respect to entries #4, 6–9, the docket indicates the only document filed at the 10 time was the Complaint. As these entries only briefly mention filings and service, they 11 are too vague to determine whether the tasks were “clerical in nature,” and thus the Court
12 reduces entries #4, 6–9 by 50%. Finally, entries # 11–12, 18 are not too vague, and the 13 Court finds those entries to be reasonable over the life of this case.

14 Accordingly, this Court will exclude 2.2 hours equaling $950 on the basis that the 15 billing entries are too vague and appear to be clerical in nature.

16 17 4. Duplicative Attorney Work

18 Prism “identifi[ed] nearly 20 items for which relator seeks more than $12,000 in 19 fees,” which Prism argues is “duplicate work being done by multiple, capable attorneys.” 20 (Opp. 13:8–10.) Prism states because “relator’s counsel does not explain why it was 21 necessary for both attorneys” to perform the same tasks, the duplicative fees should be 22 removed. (Id. 13:25–26; 14:8–9.)

23 “[T]he participation of more than one attorney does not necessarily constitute an 24 unnecessary duplication of effort.” McGrath v. County of Nevada, 67 F.3d 248, 255 25 (9th Cir. 1995) (citations omitted). Additionally, “the pyramid law firm model of having 26 associates complete work that is then reviewed by partners” is not “a reason to reduce 27 hours.” Herring Networks, Inc. v. Maddow, 2021 WL 409724, at *9 (S.D. Cal. Feb. 5, 28 2021) (referencing Moreno v. City of Sacramento, 534 F.3d 1106, 1114-15 (9th Cir.

1 2008)). But some courts have held “intra-office conferences” may be “unnecessary and
2 duplicative.” Welch, 480 F.3d at 949; see Noyes v. Grossmont Union High Sch. Dist., 3 331 F. Supp. 2d 1233, 1250 (S.D. Cal. 2004) (imposing a 5% reduction in fees for 4 internal communications between co-counsel). Courts should generally defer to the 5 “winning lawyer’s professional judgment as to how much time he was required to spend”
6 on a contingency-fee case. Costa v. Comm’r of Soc. Sec. Admin., 690 F.3d 1132, 1136
7 (9th Cir. 2012) (citations omitted).

8 After reviewing the challenged billing entries, the Court finds the number of hours
9 billed is reasonable. Almost all the entries marked as “duplicative” are because both Mr.
10 Hurlock, the senior partner, and Mr. Furlong, the associate, worked on the same
11 document, such as the Complaint or Disclosure Statement. It is reasonable to have a 12 younger associate draft and prepare a document that the senior attorney then finalizes.
13 Thus, this Court will not reduce any time entries the Prism contends are “duplicative.”
14

15 5. Block Billing

16 Prism argues “81 time-entries, accounting for approximately half of relator’s 17 counsel’s time” were “block-billed for multiple tasks or whole days of work on a single 18 task.” (Opp. 17:16–18.) Prism “proposes a 50% reduction to block-billed time entries.”
19 (Id. 18:11–12.) Relator responds that the “time entries are not block-billed, but rather 20 reflect time expended on specific tasks” and not “the total daily time spent working on 21 the case.” (Reply 9:14–15.)

22 Block billing “makes it more difficult to determine how much time was spent on 23 particular activities,” and thus a district court has the authority “to reduce hours that are 24 billed in block format” when this leads to inadequate records. Welch, 480 F.3d at 948.
25 Block billing does not only mean billing “the total daily time spent working on the case.”
26 Id. at 945. It also occurs when “one amount of time is shown for working on more than 27 one discrete task.” Welch v. Metro. Life Ins. Co., 2004 WL 7334912, at *3 (C.D. Cal.
28

1 Sept. 20, 2004), vacated in part, 480 F.3d 942 (9th Cir. 2007) (citing Arbitration
2 Advisory 03-01, Detecting Attorney Bill Padding, available at <http://calbar.ca.gov>).

3 The danger in block billing comes when a court cannot properly discern if the 4 hours billed were reasonable for the task described. Though a court may “reduce 5 attorney’s fees documented where block-billing occurs,” the “reasonableness
6 determination remains within the discretion of the Court.” Cammarata v. Kelly Cap., 7 LLC, 2020 WL 4784745, at *4 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 18, 2020). Further, “block-billing is 8 permissible where it ‘involves the grouping of highly related tasks that rarely cover more
9 than a few hours.’” Thermolife Int’l, LLC v. Myogenix Corp., 2018 WL 325025, at *7
10 (S.D. Cal. Jan. 8, 2018), aff’d sub nom. Thermolife Int’l LLC v. GNC Corp., 922 F.3d
11 1347 (Fed. Cir. 2019) (quoting Sunstone Behavioral Health, Inc. v. Alameda County 12 Medical Center, 646 F.Supp.2d 1206, 1217 (E.D.Cal. Aug. 20, 2009)). A court does not 13 need to “reduce hours where entries ‘are detailed enough for the Court to assess the 14 reasonableness of the hours.’” Id. (quoting Campbell v. Nat’l Passenger R.R. Corp., 718 15 F.Supp. 2d 1093, 1103 (N.D. Cal. 2010)).

16 Many of Relator’s attorneys’ block-billed entries involved work on the Complaint.
17 In evaluating these entries, it is important that the Complaint reflects a significant amount 18 of factual investigation into areas such as Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), and the 19 possible treatments for children with ASD, as well as Prism’s alleged fraudulent conduct.
20 (Compl. ¶¶ 21–31, 61–89.) In addition, the Complaint involves substantial legal research
21 into Medicaid, the False Claims Acts, and the California Insurance Fraud Prevention Act.
22 (Id. ¶¶ 32–60.) Given the detail and research included in the Complaint, the Court finds 23 the time billed to Complaint-related block entries was reasonable.

24 With regard to other entries, though Relator’s attorneys’ time entries contain 25 multiple tasks, this does not lead to inadequate records. Most of the entries Prism objects
26 to as “block billed” involve a specific task, such as reviewing and revising the Disclosure 27 Statement, and “emails and t/cs regarding same.” The Court is satisfied the amount of 28 time spent on these tasks was reasonable. In the context of a case lasting four years and

1 including complicated factual and legal issues, all entries and descriptions appear
2 reasonable. Thus, the Court will not reduce the hours billed for any block-billed entries.

4 6. Settlement Hours

5 Prism argues “the Court should excise hours unreasonably expended on 6 settlement” by Relator’s counsel because Relator has “little to no authority” over the 7 settlement and because “attempts to settle fees [went] beyond relator’s own self-imposed 8 deadline for settlement.” (Opp. 19:20–22.) Relator, on the other hand, asserts if 9 “Defendant’s counsel had not played games in the settlement discussions the majority of 10 the fees and costs would not have ever been incurred.” (Reply 10:9, emphasis in 11 original.) Further, Relator asserts it is because of Prism’s “antics” that “the initial 12 settlement was reopened once the Government discovered” Prism “hid assets in 13 connection with false ability to pay argument.” (Id.)

14 Once the Government intervenes in a FCA case, though the Government has the 15 “primary responsibility for prosecuting the action,” a relator still maintains “the right to 16 continue as a party to the action.” 31 U.S.C. § 3730(c). By considering the extent to 17 which the relator “substantially contributed to the prosecution of the action” in 18 determining the share of the recovery the relator receives, the statute encourages 19 continued participation by a relator. Id. at § 3730(d)(1). Post-government intervention,
20 the FCA serves “the additional purpose of giving a relator the incentive to act as a check
21 that the government does not neglect evidence, cause undue delay, or drop the false
22 claims case without legitimate reasons.” US v. Northrop Corp., 59 F.3d 953, 963–64 n.8
23 (9th Cir. 1995). In other words, regardless of whether Relator had ongoing authority, the 24 fact remains she was essential to assisting with the Government’s understanding of 25 Prism’s conduct and thus remained important to the case leading up to settlement.

26 Indeed, Relator’s contribution to the settlement is evidenced by the 20% share paid
27 to her. A relator’s share in a settlement reflects “the extent to which the person 28 substantially contributed to the prosecution of the action.” 31 U.S.C. § 3730(d)(1). In a

1 qui tam action where the government intervenes, a relator may be awarded between 15%
2 and 25% based on their contribution in bringing about the settlement. Here, the 20%
3 award demonstrates the level of contribution Relator and her counsel brought to the case.

4 While Prism objects to the level of relator's counsels' participation post-
5 intervention, there is no evidence the Government similarly objected. Thus, this Court
6 will not reduce post-intervention hours.

8 IV. CONCLUSION

9 The Court GRANTS the Relator's motion for attorney's fees [Doc. 22 & 24] and 10 ORDERS Defendant Prism to pay Relator's attorneys' fees and costs in the amount of 11 $118,023.99.
