

in this case should similarly be denied and discovery should proceed.

4. At the present time there is no Order to preserve evidence in this case and the defendants have been in the process of trying to obtain information from putative class members and even enter into settlement agreements. Therefore, the defendant should not now be heard to argue that the legal proceedings should be stayed. Indeed, it may be over two months until a decision is rendered on whether the matter will be certified as a Class and whether this matter will be transferred.

Therefore, for all the foregoing reasons it is respectfully requested that the Motion to Stay All Proceedings be denied.
