When she's not dealing with angry managers, [DOE II] is worried that gases, like carbon monoxide, are warming up the earth's atmosphere. [DOE II] helped organize a group of 227 US college students (she was the only high school student) and they headed to Netherlands for the United Nations' global warming conference last November. It wouldn't have been hard to spot her group. They were decked out in Americans flags in protest of America's contribution to global warming.
