Pronounced as "Chig-whibt," this is a phrase that stands for "cheerful girls with big tits," the most prestigious sort of girls. Guys that are lucky enough to have a CGWBT girlfriend are envied by their friends.

I like CGWBT. They need not be particularly smart. They do, however, need to be cheerful and have big tits.

Ex-World Bank Official Disappears From Trial

From: The Washington Post | Date: October 21, 1994 | Author: Rajiv Chandrasekaran

"Federal and local investigators are searching for a former World Bank official who disappeared this week during his trial in Loudoun County on charges of using forged checks to buy thoroughbred horses for his 10-year-old daughter.

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS

FOR THE FOURTH CIRCUIT

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff-Appellee,

v. [DOE II's father], a/k/a John No. 97-5026 Putko, a/k/a Robert Ganley, a/k/a

Frank Swigert, a/k/a Dominic

Carcelli,

Defendant-Appellant.

Appeal from the United States District Court for the District of Maryland, at Greenbelt.

Alexander Williams, Jr., District Judge.

(CR-96-338-AW)

Submitted: September 29, 1998

Decided: November 9, 1998

Before MURNAGHAN, MICHAEL, and MOTZ, Circuit Judges.

Affirmed by unpublished per curiam opinion.

COUNSEL

W. Michel Pierson, PIERSON, PIERSON & NOLAN, Baltimore,

Maryland, for Appellant. Lynne A. Battaglia, United States Attorney,

Dale P. Kelberman, Assistant United States Attorney, Baltimore,

Maryland, for Appellee.

Unpublished opinions are not binding precedent in this circuit. See Local Rule 36(c).

OPINION

PER CURIAM

[DOE II's father] appeals from the district court order entered pursuant to his guilty plea finding him guilty of aiding and abetting the interstate transfer of stolen property in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 2, 4 (1994). Finding no merit to his claims, we affirm.

[DOE II's father] claims that the district court's failure to further inquire into the details of his mental disorder and his medication requires this Court to find that he did not knowingly and intelligently plead guilty, thereby invalidating his guilty plea. Due process requires that a guilty plea be knowingly and voluntarily entered. See Henderson v. Morgan, 426 U.S. 637, 645 n.13 (1976). "A plea may be involuntary either because the accused does not understand the nature of the constitutional protections that he is waiving . . . or because he has such an incomplete understanding of the charge that his plea cannot stand as an intelligent admission of guilt." Id. (citation omitted). The voluntariness of a plea is a mixed question of law and fact this Court reviews de novo. See Savino v. Murray, 82 F.3d 593, 603 (4th Cir. 1996). Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 11 was designed to assist the district court in "making the constitutionally required determination that a defendant's guilty plea is truly voluntary." McCarthy v. United States, 394 U.S. 459, 465 (1969). However, in assessing the voluntariness of a defendant's plea, this court does not require district courts to follow a set script in conducting Rule 11 colloquies, see United States v. Wilson, 81 F.3d 1300, 1307 (4th Cir. 1996), and will reverse a conviction made pursuant to a plea only if a trial court's violation of Rule 11 affects a defendant's substantial rights. United States v. DeFusco, 949 F.2d 114, 116-17 (4th Cir. 1991).

[DOE II's father] claims that the district court had an obligation to go beyond the normal Rule 11 colloquy to ensure the voluntariness of his plea due to his psychiatric history and current use of medication. We find that [DOE II's father] has failed to demonstrate a defect in his Rule 11 hearing.

The district court made a point of developing the record with respect to [DOE II's father] state of mind, and then made an express finding of competence which took into account [DOE II's father] 's medical history, assertion of recent drug use, overall awareness and ability to respond to questioning, and the assurances of counsel that [DOE II's father] possessed the capacity to voluntarily plead guilty. See United States v. Rossillo, 853 F.2d 1062, 1066 (2d Cir. 1988); see also United States v. Cole, 813 F.2d 43, 46 (3d Cir. 1987). Therefore, we find no merit to [DOE II's father] 's claim that the trial court failed to adequately protect his constitutional rights.

We also find that [DOE II's father] has failed to demonstrate that his plea was not voluntarily entered in violation of his due process rights. Initially, we note that [DOE II's father] does not concretely claim that at the time of his plea hearing he lacked the capacity to voluntarily plead guilty or that his psychological disorders had any effect on his ability to understand the nature of the charges against him or the consequences of pleading guilty. Notably absent from the record is any indication that [DOE II's father] was not in complete command of his faculties at his plea hearing, see Carey v. United States, 50 F.3d 1097, 1099 (1st Cir. 1995), and [DOE II's father] 's comments from that hearing suggest that he understood the specific nature of the charges to which he pled guilty. The only evidence in the record suggesting that [DOE II's father] may have lacked the capacity to voluntarily plead guilty is a synopsis of his medical history included in his presentence report. Despite this account of [DOE II's father] 's poor mental and emotional health, the record taken as a whole supports the district court's determination that [DOE II's father] knowingly and voluntarily pled guilty.

[DOE II's father] further claims that counsel was ineffective for not ensuring that he possessed the requisite capacity to voluntarily plead guilty. "The rule in this circuit is that a claim of ineffective assistance should be raised in a 28 U.S.C. § 2255 motion in the district court rather than on direct appeal, unless the record conclusively shows ineffective assistance." United States v. Williams, 977 F.2d 866, 871 (4th Cir. 1992). Because [DOE II's father] fails to demonstrate that he did not knowingly and voluntarily plead guilty, he has not conclusively shown that his attorney was ineffective for allowing him to enter his guilty plea on this basis. Accordingly, he is foreclosed from raising his ineffective assistance of counsel claim in this proceeding. We therefore affirm [DOE II's father] 's conviction. We dispense with oral argument because the facts and legal contentions are adequately presented in the materials before the court and argument would not aid the decisional process.

This e-mail will be dispatched to the entire YLS faculty within the next five minutes. I've assembled a spreadsheet with their addresses and every single one of them will be notified about what our darling little [DOE III] has done. I post this here as a warning to all those who would try to regulate the more antisocial posters- we have the power now.

Dear Yale Law faculty,

I write to you now about a very important issue that affects a non-trivial number of you. Although you undoubtedly deal with self-entitled, spoiled students on a regular basis, there's one person in particular whose history I feel you must be made aware of before problems arise. [DOE III], a student in your 09 class, has a felon as a father who stole money from the World Bank to buy her horses. I kid you not, she asked her father for horses so he took money from an organization aimed at helping the poor. Just imagine how hard she must have begged him in order to commit such an odious crime. One could make the argument that her character at ten is not representative of her values as an adult, if it wasn't for the recent evidence to the contrary. She spent in excess of $150 to remove material that was in the public domain, simply because she found it offensive that it emphasized her good looks. If such reckless use of money in the name of free speech suppression is not indicative of a damaged character, I don't know what it is. Best of luck to you in managing this liability, it is regretful that the admissions process can't encapsulate the entire person.

XOXO

HTH

Just sent this using the feedback part of their site.

Greetings,

I want to bring your attention to some information potentially harmful to your firm's reputation. Obviously your clients do not want to be represented by someone who is not of the highest character value, which is why I believe you should know a bit more about an employee of yours.

I've recently discovered [DOE II] of Yale Law School is one of your summer hires. It is true that she does have a fine academic pedigree, but there is some distressing information about her readily available online. Some of what is written about her is of dubious value. Regardless, there is good reason to believe some of your clients may not be so careful in how they interpret what has been written—especially as to how it relates to the quality of your firm. Included below is a sample, but a simple Google search will return an even more extensive record.

I noticed that two autoadmit threads about me have been removed from my google cache. If you were responsible for that, I would like to thank you. Could you please deactivate those threads altogether so that they are no longer accessible?

- http://www.autoadmit.com/thread.php?thread_id=578881&mc=69&forum_id=2
- http://rate-this-huge-breasted-cheerful-big-tit-girl-from-yls.autoadmit.com/thread.php?thread_id=572917&mc=80&forum_id=2

I would also like to request that you remove/deactivate the following thread, which still appears on google:

Finally, there are photos of me still posted on hidebehind.com, which can be accessed through top14girls.blogspot.com. If you have control over that website, I would appreciate your removing the links.

Thanks for your assistance,

[DOE II]

Just got another email sent to my personal school email address asking that some thread be deleted. This is the fourth time this has happened in the past week or so, and it's starting to get really annoying.

You see that email address listed on the right of the main page, right under the text "Email Us"? Well, in case you haven't figured it out, THAT'S THE EMAIL TO SEND COMPLAINTS TO.

In other words:

-- Do not send stuff to my personal (non-business) email address. There are many reasons my school email isn't listed anywhere on this site (35 meg quota, violation of school ITS policy to use school email business purposes, etc.). If I wanted you to email me about something related to xo at my school email address, I would have given you my school email address.

-- Do not send stuff to my personal AutoAdmit address, since at best all I'm going to do is forward it to the contact account so rachmiel can look it over.

-- Do not send stuff to rachmiel's personal (non-business) email address.

-- Do not contact me via AIM, telephone, or other means asking me to delete a thread or remove something, especially if I have no idea who you are and have never spoken to you in my entire life.

-- Do not contact rachmiel via AIM, telephone, or other means.

-- The same goes for CCs. If you emailed contact@autoadmit.com, CCing the email to my personal address, rachmiel's personal address, etc. is just going to piss us off.

I'm not sure what's caused this sudden onslaught of people sending stuff to my personal address, but I am this close to just taking every xo-related complaint that's sent to my personal email address and posting it on this thread.

So, in conclusion, if you want to contact us, email us at the contact email, and ONLY the contact email.

Thank you.

Well, I can't help them. That's the whole point... rachmiel is the point person for all the stuff these people are complaining about, not me. Emailing me serves no purpose except to waste my time.
