Official Court Reporter

1 occurred to Xerox to add the claims over the weekend between
2 the teleconference with your Honor and the date for exchange
3 of proposed constructions, then it seems pretty clear to me
4 that Xerox doesn't have much of an investment in asserting
5 these dependent claims and can't claim that they're suffer-
6 ing much prejudice by being precluded from pursuing these
7 going forward.

8 The reason your Honor received the two letters
9 from the defendants is that Yahoo! did not receive from 10 the plaintiff its infringement contentions with respect to 11 Google and Google did not receive from the plaintiff its 12 infringement contentions with respect to Yahoo!, and so
13 we were not in a position to characterize the state of the 14 contentions with respect to Google. And for that same
15 reason, I don't have the exhibits regarding Google that Mr.
16 Stark was referring to when he was talking about the Google
17 components.

18 I can't say that with respect to Yahoo! at most
19 what they have done is provide 10,000-foot type contentions
20 with respect to a small portion of the limitations that are 21 at issue. It is simply not correct that, for example, the 22 particular limitation that I brought out, that that is just 23 a culmination of everything else.

24 You know, the crux of many of the issues that
25 are going to be brought before your Honor in this case going

1 forward have to do with this notion in that limitation of
2 restricting a search to the category of information that
3 is identified by the assigned classification label,
4 restricting a search to the category, and there is just
5 nothing in these contentions that tells us what Xerox's
6 theory is as to how our products are doing that. And we ask
7 ourselves, why are we here? How can these patents possibly
8 be asserted against these products? That question or that 9 limitation is front and center, and we have nothing on that 10 front from them in these contentions.

11 THE COURT: And from the defense perspective, is 12 there urgency that I rule on these issues before me today in 13 advance of our meeting next Monday?

14 MR. FENWICK: No, your Honor, so long as we're 15 not expected to provide joint construction charts on the 16 dependent claims next Monday.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

18 Is there anything from Google?

19 MR. PERLMAN: The only thing I would add, your 20 Honor, is that -- and Mr. Stark was talking about how we 21 should -- you know, that Google knows what the CAT2 Mixer is 22 and things like that. I mean, it's true that I could go to 23 Google and get an explanation of the CAT2 mixer, but the 24 plaintiff has the burden to show infringement. And it's 25 there that the interrogatory asks for them to explain those

1 contentions. So they should be able to do that; and to say
2 that we can go talk to an engineer to figure out how the
3 product works is not a sufficient answer.

4 That is all I have.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, counsel.

6 Well, as you may have gathered from my
7 questioning, what I am going to do is give these disputes a
8 little bit more attention before I give you a ruling on them.

9 I recognize that if I have not ruled by the time
10 I see you next Monday that I cannot expect the joint claim
11 construction chart to be filed Monday, which I think is when 12 it is presently due. So at this point, you should assume 13 that I'm not going to get you a ruling until after we have
14 the argument on Monday and that you will be given a reason-
15 able number of days after I do get you a ruling before you
16 will need to file your joint claim construction chart.

17 Is there anything else we need to address at 18 this time, Mr. Fenwick?

19 MR. FENWICK: No, your Honor.

20 THE COURT: And Mr. Perlson?

21 MR. PERLSON: No, your Honor.

22 THE COURT: And Mr. Stark?

23 MR. STARK: Your Honor, if I might just briefly
24 respond to one comment that Mr. Fenwick made. And that was 25 on the subject of whether we got an investment, so to speak,

1 in the dependent claims.

2 I simply respectfully submit that the issue
3 is not whether I personally or my team has invested a lot
4 of time in the dependent claims but in my client Xerox's
5 capability to substantively assert their rights with respect
6 to those claims on the one hand versus prejudice to the 7 defendants on the other hand, which, for reasons I have
8 explained, I would submit is nonexistent.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you all very much for 10 your time. We'll see you on Monday. Good-bye.

11 (The attorneys respond, "Thank you, your Honor.")

General Search Tips

About the Google Directory

The Google directory integrates Google's sophisticated search technology with Open Directory pages to create the most useful tool for finding information on the web. Key improvements include the following:

- Importance ranking. The Google directory starts with a collection of websites selected by Open Directory volunteer editors. Google then applies its patent-pending PageRank technology to rank the sites based on their importance. Horizontal bars, which are displayed next to each web page, indicate the importance of the page, as determined by PageRank. This distinctive approach to ranking web sites enables the highest quality pages to appear first as top result for any Google directory category.
- Smarter search within directory categories. Google uses the advanced technology that powers its regular web search to learn more about each page listed in its directory. This capability enables users to search deeper within categories and produces more relevant results than any other directory search.
- Web search integration. Google's innovative classification technique connects regular Google search results with information in the Google directory. This technology gives users one-click access from regular Google search results to the most relevant hand-selected web pages in the Google directory.
- Clean, uncluttered user interface. The Google directory uses the same no-nonsense, user-friendly interface design that distinguishes the google.com site from other search engine sites.

Frequently Asked Questions

When would I use the Google directory instead of Google's regular web search?

The good news is that you don't need to choose between the two. Google's regular web search results are enhanced by information from the Google directory. Look for the addition of editorial descriptions and links to Google directory categories in some search returns. These additions mean that Google has found relevant information about that particular page in the directory and is bringing it to you. Click on the link to find similar pages in the same category or to find other categories like the one for your result.

in California.

Google's directory engine also lets you search within a category once you've decided on the specific subsection of the web that interests you. In this way, you'll get only responses that fall within that category. For example, you may want to search for teams named "Cougars" within the college basketball section of the directory only, instead of across the entire web.

Finally, you might prefer to use the directory when you only want to see sites that have been evaluated by an editor. The Open Directory project has 20,000 volunteer editors reviewing websites and classifying them by topic. Google's search technology lets you arrange those sites by their importance instead of alphabetically, which means you'll get the benefit of both human judgment and a sophisticated ranking algorithm.

Web Pages Ordered by PageRank

Unlike other directories that can only list web pages alphabetically regardless of how good they are, the web pages in the Google directory are ordered according to Google's patent-pending PageRank™ technology. This means that the most relevant and highly-regarded sites on any topic are listed first ... not buried deep within a list of other pages. You can read more about PageRank and how it works by clicking here.

What do the horizontal green bars mean?

The green ratings bars are a measure of the importance of a web page, as determined by Google's patent-pending PageRank technology. These PageRank bars tell you at a glance whether other people on the web consider a page to be a high-quality site worth checking out. Google itself does not evaluate or endorse websites. Rather, we measure what others on the web feel is important enough to deserve a link. And because Google does not accept payment for placement within our results, the information you see when you conduct a search is based on totally objective criteria.

Category Search vs. Web Search

When you enter a search in the Google directory engine, only the category you are currently in will be searched. This can be particularly useful in restricting your search to a particular topic or domain.

For example, a search over the entire web for 'lions' might return pages about lions (the animal), Lions (the football team), Lions (the public service organization), or any number of other subjects. By searching for "Lions" within the category "Sports > Football, American > Professional >", you will see only results related to the Detroit Lions football team.

What are 'Related Categories'?

Related categories contain web pages that are similar to the ones in the category you are looking at, but in a different part of the directory. For example, "Reference > Books" shows up as a related link to the category "Business > Industries > Publishing" because books and publishing are related. "Books" has been put in the "Reference" category and "Publishing" has been put in the "Business" section of the directory, but you can move from one area to the other by clicking on the Related Categories link.

Why are some category names in boldface?

The largest subcategories on each page are listed in bold letters, helping you to find the most popular categories in the directory more quickly.

How many web pages are in the directory?

The Google directory contains over 1.5 million URLs.

What is the Open Directory Project?

The Open Directory Project is a large public directory managed by Netscape. The ODP is maintained by a group of volunteer editors from around the world who evaluate sites for inclusion in the directory. The web pages selected by these editors are organized into a number of broad categories under which are many more specific subcategories. Google uses this hierarchy as the basis for its directory.
