STATEMENT OF INTEREST OF THE UNITED STATES

The United States, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 517,¹ hereby respectfully informs the Court that the Court's invitation to the Attorney General to submit views regarding the application in this case of the head-of-state immunity doctrine continues to remain under active consideration.

As indicated in the report submitted to the Court on June 1, 2006, the United States remains in the midst of significant discussions concerning the course of U.S.-Libya relations. On June 30, 2006, the United States rescinded Libya's designation as a state sponsor of terrorism. See Rescission of Determination Regarding Libya, 71 Fed. Reg. 39696 (July 13, 2006). The United States also continues its diplomatic discussions with Libya about the possible resolution of claims brought by American citizens against Libya or its officials for their possibly tortious actions, including claims pending in United States courts. Indeed, the possible resolution of some of these claims was addressed during a September 23, 2006 meeting in New York City between the Secretary of State and her Libyan counterpart. In this context, it would serve the diplomatic and foreign policy interests of the United States to delay further responding to the Court's invitation because participation in litigation at this time could make it difficult for the United States to play a constructive role in promoting resolution of the claims.

The United States has been in contact with counsel for the plaintiffs and with Libyan authorities through diplomatic channels, neither of whom have raised any objection to the United States deferring any filing until a later date. The United States therefore would plan to report on the status of its position to the Court no later than January 15, 2007. The United States appreciates the Court's patience in this matter.

Dated: September 29, 2006

Respectfully submitted,

PETER D. KEISLER
