THE ROME AIRPORT ATTACK

46. On December 27, 1985, shortly after 9 a.m., four terrorists from the Abu Nidal Organization, with the aid, support, encouragement and involvement of the various named Defendants, stormed the International Flights terminal of the Leonardo Da Vinci Airport in Rome, Italy, brandishing Kalashnikov submachine rifles and type F1 hand grenades, which they had smuggled into the airport. As is described more particularly below, the Defendants provided direct and indirect material support for the planning and operation of this terrorist attack.

47. Before commencing their attack, the terrorists divided themselves into two pairs of attackers, so that both pairs could enter simultaneously through two different entrances and head for their intended targets, the check-in counters for TWA and El Al Airlines.

48. One pair emerged from a tunnel that lead to the terminal entrance labeled "35-36-37-38" in a burst of gunfire and exploding hand grenades, aiming for the passengers waiting at the TWA and El Al check-in counters.

49. The other pair entered through the terminal entrance marked "31-32-33-34" and opened fire on passengers standing in front of a bar/restaurant near the counters.

50. When the terrorists paused, allowing for their identification amidst the passengers' confusion and distress, airport security agents for El Al Airlines fired shots aimed for the terrorists, killing three of them.

51. Unfortunately, two other individuals were also wounded by the security officers.

52. Ultimately 13 people were killed and 75 wounded in the Rome Airport Attack, among them women, children and the elderly.

53. A simultaneous attack was executed by ANO terrorists employing the same strategy at the Schwechat Airport in Vienna, Austria, killing an additional three people and wounding 30.

54. On the same day that the Rome and Vienna airport attacks were carried out, December 27, 1985, the ANO claimed responsibility for both massacres.

55. The sole surviving terrorist in the Rome Airport Attack, Khaled Ibrahim Mahmood, Khaled Ibrahim Mahmood, a/k/a Al Hasan, Mohamed Sorhan Abdallah, Mohamed Weled Hussein Al Abdallah, Issa Suleiman Abdallah, or Ahmed Hussein Al Ajlan ("Khaled") was arrested and tried in Italy in connection with the massacre at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport.

56. On February 12, 1988, he was convicted by an Italian court of committing an act of terrorism, in addition to other related offenses, and sentenced to 30 years imprisonment and 1.5 million Italian lire in fines.

57. At his trial, Khaled admitted to being a member of the Abu Nidal Organization since the age of 11, and to participating in several ANO terrorist attacks, including the grenade attack on Rome's Café de Paris on September 10, 1985, during which the terrorists used the same type F1 grenades used in the Rome Airport Attack, the Vienna Airport Attack, and the hijacking of Egypt Air Flight 648 on November 23, 1985, all of which were directly supported by the government of Libya, and supported by the government of Syria.

58. Khaled also described in detail the planning and execution of the Rome Airport Attack.

59. He and the other members of his hit team were trained with the terrorists who conducted the Vienna Airport Attack at an ANO training camp in Syrian-controlled Lebanon.

60. During this training, he learned of a plan to conduct terrorist attacks at airports and tourist attractions frequented by Americans and Israelis, including an airport in Madrid, Spain.

61. Khaled was unavailable for the Madrid attack, but did not learn of anticipated role in the Rome Airport Attack until he arrived in Italy.

62. Upon conclusion of his training in Syria, Khaled met ANO leaders in charge of foreign operations and training at an apartment in Damascus, Syria, which served as the ANO's departure base for foreign operations.

63. He received airline tickets for travel to Rome as well as fake Moroccan passports before departing the foreign operations base.

64. Libya provided the terrorists who conducted the Rome and Vienna airport attacks with weapons and passports.

65. Upon arriving in Rome, Khaled met with ANO contacts Al Hamieda Rashid, a/k/a Mohamed Fouad ("Fouad") and Abu Mithkal ("ANO contacts") who provided him and his hit team members with weapons and operational instructions.

66. Khaled and his hit team learned of the objective of their attack, and were instructed to target as many Americans and Jews as possible, to take their passports and to hold them hostage.

67. The night before the attack, December 26, 1985, Khaled and another terrorist met Fouad and turned over their fake Moroccan passports.

68. The three went to Leonardo da Vinci Airport at approximately 11 p.m. to do a final check of the property, and Fouad identified the TWA and El Al counters.

69. On the morning of December 27, 1985, Khaled met his hit team and Fouad, each with the exception of Fouad carrying one or more suitcases holding smuggled weapons and personal belongings.

70. They arrived at the airport at seven minutes before 9 a.m. and commenced the attack.

71. The United States Department of State, Bureau of Public Affairs, Office of the Historian, in its report of Significant Terrorist Incidents, 1961- 2003, lists the Rome Airport Attack and the Vienna Airport Attack on December 27, 1985 as terrorist attacks that were conducted by the Abu Nidal Organization.

72. Background Information on Foreign Terrorist Organizations, released by the Office of Counterterrorism, of the United States Department of State, indicates that the ANO has received considerable support, including safe haven, training, logistical assistance, and/or financial aid from the states of Libya and Syria, each being a Defendant herein.

73. The instances of physical violence and/or death inflicted upon John Buonocore III, Salvatore Ferrigno, Frederick Gage, Don Maland, Mark Maland Charles Shinn, Jeanne Shinn, Elena Tommarello, Jeanette Sweis, Michael Sweis and Francesco Zerilli were undertaken intentionally upon them for the purpose of furthering the objectives of the governments of Libya and Syria and the terrorist objectives of the ANO, and such acts therefore constitute "torture" as defined in the TVPA.

DEFENDANTS' SPONSORSHIP AND SUPPORT FOR THE ABU NIDAL ORGANIZATION

74. The government of Libya, and also separately the government of Syria, sponsored and supported the Abu Nidal Organization, a/k/a Black June, Black September, the Fatah Revolutionary Council, the Arab Revolutionary Council, the Arab Revolutionary Brigades, and/or the Revolutionary Organization of Socialist Muslims, a known terrorist organization which was headed by Sabri Al Bana a/k/a Abu Nidal, prior to and at the time of the Rome and Vienna airport attacks.

75. Despite Libya's recent attempts to rejoin the laws of nations and forgo a path of terrorism, this has not always been the case. Since Defendant Mu'ammar al-Qadhafi seized political control of Libya by military coup in 1969, Libya has balked at international norms, abusing diplomatic privileges and using terrorism as an instrument of its own foreign policy.

76. Libya has used threats of terrorism, its material support and operational assistance for terrorist attacks, and actual terrorist violence as a means of political opposition, specifically targeting the United States and Israel.

77. Libya supported radical terrorist groups generally by providing terrorist training outside of Libya and by operating terrorist training camps in Tripoli in order to train, instruct, support and educate terrorists on the use of explosive devices, hijacking, assassination, and various commando and guerrilla techniques, in addition to abusing its diplomatic privileges by, among other things, storing arms and explosives at its diplomatic establishments.

78. Throughout the 1980s, both directly and through material support and resources provided to terrorist organizations such as ANO, Libya engaged in a concerted campaign of terrorist activities directed at the United States, Europe, Israel and their allies.

79. Libya's involvement in terrorism was particularly robust from early 1984 through several years after the Rome and Vienna airport attacks, which were committed on December 27, 1985.

80. Also during 1985, Libya was directly involved and/or provided material support for numerous terrorist attacks in addition to the Rome and Vienna airport attacks, including but not limited to the following:

- a. The ANO hijacking of Egypt Air Flight 648 on November 23, 1985, for which Libya provided passports and moved weapons in diplomatic pouches to the hijackers, allowing the terrorists to travel and to preposition their weapons for use in the attack;
- b. Also in November 1985, a team of four Libyan agents was arrested in Egypt in an attempt to assassinate former Libyan Prime Minister Bakoush, an enemy of the Qadhafi regime;
- c. The September 1985 ANO terrorist attack at Rome's Café de Paris, during which the ANO terrorists threw grenades provided by Libya at the restaurant, injuring 38 tourists, including American citizens;
- d. Also in September 1985, a Libyan diplomat smuggled approximately 100 letter bombs addressed to Tunisian journalists into Tunisia. Several of the bombs exploded, injuring two postal workers and causing Tunisia to sever diplomatic relations with Libya;

- e. In the United States in May 1985, a Libyan diplomat at the United Nations was declared persona non grata, and 16 non-official Libyans were subpoenaed to appear before a U.S. grand jury in connection with a plot to kill dissidents in several different states;
- f. In April 1985 in the former West Germany, Libyans were arrested at two separate murder scenes in which Libyans murdered a Moroccan citizen resident and an anti-Qadhafi Libyan student who had been the target of the Libyan regime for at least two years; and
- g. In Austria in February 1985 the former Libyan Ambassador to Austria, who resigned from his post under the Qadhafi regime in disgust, was assassinated outside of his home in Vienna.

81. The Abu Nidal Organization was, at all times relevant hereto, among the most dangerous and violent of the terrorist organizations supported by Libya and Syria, engaging in indiscriminate violence against bystanders, including children.

82. As of February 1989, the ANO conducted terrorist attacks in more than 20 countries on three continents, killing more than 300 people and injuring at least 650.

83. Libya provided substantial material support and sponsorship to the ANO, as well as providing logistical support for the ANO's specific terrorist operations.

84. The substantial material support to and sponsorship of the ANO by the government of Libya included, but was not limited to, assisting and/or providing the following:

- a. funds,
- b. facilities,

- c. airline tickets,
- d. free and unobstructed entry into, safe haven in, and exit from Libya by members of ANO,
- e. terrorist training in Libyan camps,
- f. use of the privilege of Libya's "diplomatic pouch",
- g. use of Libya's diplomatic freight privileges,
- h. official documents of all kinds, including passports,
- i. provision of uniforms, tanks and BM021 multiple rocket launchers,
- j. weapons, including hand grenades used in various ANO attacks, and
- k. actual operational assistance in pre-positioning of people and supplies for the conduct of terrorist operations.

85. During the year 1985 alone, the leader of the ANO met with Qadhafi at least twice, in addition to meeting separately with Qadhafi's chief lieutenant, Abd al-Salam Jallud, and conducting an interview from Tripoli.

86. Following these meetings, ANO leadership began to relocate to Tripoli from Syria.

87. With specific regard to the coordinated, simultaneous Rome and Vienna airport attacks, the government of Libya supported this operation by, among other things, providing the ANO terrorists who conducted the attacks with weapons and passports, which allowed the terrorists to travel.

88. The hand grenades used in the Rome Airport Attack and the Vienna Airport Attack, as well as in the ANO terrorist attacks on the Café de Paris and Egypt Air Flight 648 bear the same markings as those found on four Libyan terrorists, who were arrested on April 18, 1986, while approaching the US officers' club in Ankara, Turkey, carrying the hand grenades, which they obtained from the Libyan People's Bureau.

89. The United States Central Intelligence Agency therefore concluded that "[t]he similarities between the grenades seized in 1985 [in the Rome Airport Attack, the Vienna Airport Attack, the Café de Paris attack and the Egypt Air Flight 648 hijacking] and those captured in Turkey corroborate previous reporting that Tripoli provides operational support for the Abu Nidal group and uses its diplomatic installations to pass weapons to terrorists."

90. In the wake of the Rome and Vienna airport attacks, on January 2, 1986, Qadhafi threatened to "pursue U.S. citizens in their country and streets" in retaliation for any action taken by the United States in response to Libya's involvement in these terrorist attacks.

91. A Libyan news agency applauded the Rome and Vienna airport attacks as "heroic operations carried out by the sons of the martyrs of Sabra and Shatila"

92. The sponsorship by the government of Syria included, among other things, the provision of training in Syrian sponsored ANO terrorist training camps, military and general intelligence, travel documents, safe haven and free passage in and through Syrian controlled territory.

93. Syria further provided general material support to the ANO by providing the ANO with funds, travel documents, training support and protection at several facilities, including those located in the Bekaa Valley.

94. The sole surviving hijacker of the Rome Airport Attack, Khaled Ibrahim Mahmood, confirmed that he and the other three members of his hit team, in addition to the terrorists who carried out the Vienna Airport Attack, were trained in Syrian-occupied Lebanon by Syrians.

95. Syria also permitted ANO operatives to maintain an apartment in Damascus, where ANO terrorists would regularly stay before departing on terrorist missions.

96. It was customary for ANO terrorists to stay in this apartment during the organization phase of a given terrorist attack, and remain there until departing to conduct the attack.

97. Khaled confirmed that he stayed in this departure base prior to leaving for Italy to commit the Rome Airport Attack.

98. Had the attack not taken place as planned, or had Khaled escaped, he would have called the ANO's apartment in Damascus which served as the departure base for foreign operations to receive further instructions.

99. The United States Department of State, Office of the Secretary of State, Ambassador-At-Large for Counter-Terrorism, concluded that the ANO conducted the Rome Airport Attack and the Vienna Airport Attack, classifying these terrorist attacks as among the most brutal examples of ANO violence.

100. The Defense Intelligence Agency of the United States Department of Defense, and other intelligence agencies of the United States government, determined that the Abu Nidal Organization was sponsored by the governments of Libya and Syria.

101. The provision of material support for the ANO, a known terrorist organization, by the government of Libya and the government of Syria, acting directly and by and through their individual governmental representatives as named in the Complaint, and by other representatives of the government, constitute violations of applicable and numerous United States laws, thereby rendering the government of Libya, the government of Syria, and their individual governmental representatives named as Defendants herein, jointly and severally liable for their illegal acts and deeds, all to the damage of the Plaintiffs, and each of them, thereby entitling each to Judgment against each of the Defendants, jointly and severally, as prayed for in the within Complaint.
