Fundamental roles

- a. Money – raising money (a task shared with the Wider Support Group) and disbursement.
- b. Day to day liaison with the men on all elements of resettlement discussed below.

Money

- a. Fund-raising and custodian
 - i. Central financial repository. First Presbyterian Church performed this function citywide for Katrina. The church has set up a separate account for this project. The bookkeeping procedures are those previously used for Katrina, so there is no learning curve. The current balance is $9200. The process of raising money has just commenced.
 - ii. Other tax-exempt conduits to feed into the central repository, e.g., Presbyterians, Temple Israel, Quakers, Unitarian Universalists, United Church of Christ, Methodists and others. See Wider Support Group, below.
- b. Disbursement. The Steering Committee would approve major expenditures and give instructions to First Presbyterian Church. A subset of the Committee will approve lesser expenditures.

Non-monetary Components of the Day to Day Realities

Spiritual home

The Islamic Center of Tallahassee

Housing

The Committee has secured an appropriate apartment near public transportation and the Islamic Center.

Furnishings will be donated and bought.

Cell phones will be provided to each of the men (ID card necessary or lend phones of others)

Jobs

The Committee has firm job offers for the three men at Bianca Restaurants owned by a member of the Islamic Center. These will be jobs that require modest English and working skills until we know the skill levels and interests of the men.

Eventually men can decide on what is a good fit of a job based on more refined skill sets, if any.

Committee will deal with legal issues related to employment. The United States Parole Office in Tallahassee has already indicated it can be of assistance in this working with INS.

Transportation

a. i. Initially public transport and
ii. Volunteer supporters will supplement public transportation. A Welcome and Transportation Committee will be made up of persons who volunteer from the mosques, churches, and the synagogue.

b. Self-sufficiency

Establish driving skills of one or more of the men.

United States Parole Office will assist in obtaining identification so that one or more of the men can obtain drivers' license(s). Committee will assist in getting licensed.

When drivers' permits are obtained, the Committee will buy a used car.

Committee will pay for automobile insurance.

Health

Checkup by doctor and dentist and provision for care. These professional services will be donated and/or financed by the Committee.

Psychological assessment is recommended if the language barrier can be handled.

Language training

Instruction in English as second language. Tutors or program.

General social integration

The Welcome and Transportation Committee will take responsibility for integrating the men into the community. E.g., learning how to shop, structuring opportunities to get out and about, etc.

The men will be given “hot lines” on their cell phones to a limited number of persons who will be available 24/7 to deal with problems not anticipated.

THE WIDER SUPPORT GROUP

The organization already in place which can reach the greatest number of persons in the shortest time is the Tallahassee Interfaith Clergy. A substantial part of this is already in place in that a number of religious leaders have signed on as of this writing.

The functions of the wider support group are:

1. Dissemination of knowledge of the project. Education of congregations has commenced.
2. Public endorsement of the project and welcome on behalf of more than 15 communities of faith.

3. Money-raising. Substantial money has been raised already and that effort is just beginning.

4. Responding to “wish lists,” e.g., furniture for dwelling.

5. Provide some of the persons for the Welcome and Transportation Committee.
