

Exhibit 41

WHNPA

@whnpa

Follow

(1/2) The WHNPA is appalled to learn that the White House spokesperson may have shared a manipulated video of CNN reporter Jim Acosta's interaction with a White House intern during a news conference. As visual journalists, we know that manipulating images is manipulating truth.

4:57 PM - 8 Nov 2018

52 Retweets 68 Likes

7

52

68

Tweet your reply

WHNPA @whnpa · Nov 8

(2/2) It's deceptive, dangerous and unethical. Knowingly sharing manipulated images is equally problematic, particularly when the person sharing them is a representative of our country's highest office with vast influence over public opinion.

2

28

53

