Footnote 7, page 9, should read:

"The navigation compass is not only used by Google in connection with GE, but is used universally in other advertisements provided by Google to move the display associated with the navigation compass. Such an example is illustrated in www.smartcar.com, and more particularly, http://www.thesmart.motortrak.com/retailer_locator/national_locator.php." wherein, the navigation compass is employed to move across a map illustrating where a smart car can be purchased. Therefore, GE is only the first use by Google of a navigation compass and it will employ it in various paid advertisements and their progeny."
