PLAINTIFF STEVEN SILVERS' JOINDER IN STELOR'S MOTION FOR PROTECTIVE ORDER AS TO PRIVILEGED COMMUNICATIONS AND RESPONSE TO GOOGLE INC.'S CROSS MOTIONS TO COMPEL PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS AND PRIVILEGED LOG FROM STELOR & ESRIG AND FOR COSTS AGAINST STELOR AND ESRIG

Plaintiff Steven Silvers hereby joins in the Motion for Protective Order as to Privileged Communications filed by Stelor Productions, LLC. Silvers concurs with Stelor that the communications are privileged and should not be ordered produced. Silvers also opposes Google Inc.'s improper and unsupported Motion to Compel and Motion for Costs.

There is no doubt that a common interest exists between Silvers and Stelor as to the subject communications. Stelor and Silvers did have a Consulting Agreement, a License Agreement and a Joint Defense Agreement, all of which speak to a common interest to defend and maintain the intellectual property. Silvers confirms that he had numerous communications with Stelor in anticipation of litigation about maintaining those rights.

Google asserts that because Silvers has a dispute with Stelor a common interest no longer applies. That is untrue. The dispute over performance of the License Agreement is separate and distinct from the common interest in defending the marks. The common interest remains.

Wherefore, for the foregoing reasons, Silvers joins in Stelor's Motion for a Protective Order and Stelor's response to Google's improper and unsupported Motions to Compel and for Costs.
