SILVERS' MOTION TO DISMISS STELOR'S AMENDED CROSS-CLAIM AND SUPPORTING MEMORANDUM

Plaintiff, Steven A. Silvers ("Silvers"), moves to dismiss the amended cross-claim brought by counter-defendant, Stelor Productions, LLC ("Stelor") pursuant to Rule 12, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. As in its original cross-claim, Stelor is still trying to smuggle into this federal trademark infringement action completely unrelated state law contract claims against Silvers under the pretext of a federal declaratory judgment claim, which confers no original jurisdiction in this Court. Stelor is now trying to confuse the Court by mixing these contract claims against Silvers in with a counterclaim against Google for trademark infringement (a claim that merely duplicates Silvers' pending claim against Google). This procedural ploy does not change the claim equation or the test for supplemental jurisdiction, which requires that the facts and issues raised by Stelor's contract claims against Silvers be closely related to the facts and issues that will determine the outcome of Silvers' federal trademark infringement claim against Google – the original claim in this action. The amended cross-claim still fails that test.

Furthermore, this maneuvering does not alter the fact that there is a first-filed state court action pending that precludes Stelor from asserting these contract claims here. Silvers filed a declaratory and breach of contract action against Stelor in Florida state court on September 6, 2005 seeking a determination that the contract between the two has been terminated, and that Stelor's continued use, post-termination, of Silvers' trademarks is unauthorized. Three days later on September 9, Stelor filed this cross-claim against Silvers alleging the same breach of contract claims, which are now by virtue of the amendment the mirror image of the claim Silvers brought against Stelor in state court. Therefore, even if supplemental jurisdiction might attach, the Court should dismiss the cross-claim under the long established rule that the first-filed action proceeds and the subsequent action be dismissed, or at least stayed.

In Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith v. Haydu,¹ the Eleventh Circuit held that in the absence of compelling circumstances, the court initially seized of a controversy should be the one to decide the case, whether competing courts are state and federal courts with concurrent jurisdiction. The court reasoned that the "continued vitality and independence of concurrent judicial systems require our sensitive considerations of ongoing proceedings in state court, and that federalism concerns require that a federal court "tread lightly" when a state proceeding is already underway." Id. at 1173-74.

Likewise, the Florida Supreme Court has adopted the principal that:

"Where a state and federal court have concurrent jurisdiction over the same parties or privies and the same subject-matter, the tribunal where jurisdiction first attaches retains it exclusively and will be left to determine the controversy and to fully perform and exhaust its jurisdiction and to decide every issue or question properly arising in the case. This jurisdiction continues until the judgment rendered in the first action is satisfied, and extends to proceedings which are ancillary or incidental to the action first brought.”

Wade v. Clower, 114 So. 548 (Fla. 1927). See also Malloy v. Gunster, Yoakley, Valdes-Fauli & Stewart, P.A., 850 So.2d 578, 581 (Fla. 2d DCA 2003)(“When a state and federal court have concurrent jurisdiction over the same parties and the same subject matter, the court in which jurisdiction first attached should determine the controversy and decide every issue properly raise in the case before it.”); Cypress Gardens Condominium Assoc., Inc. v. Mieli, 804 So.2d 407, 408 (Fla. 4th DCA 2001)(reversing trial court for staying state court case in light of subsequent filed federal court case because state action was filed first and involved matters of state law, including interpretation of contractual terms.); Sunshine State Service Corp. v. Dove Investments of Hillsborough, 468 So.2d 281 (Fla. 5th DCA 1985)(case that is initiated first has authority to deal with the action.)

It makes no sense whatsoever to have two proceedings on the exact same issues. The cross-claim, which is entirely unrelated to the main case brought by Silvers against Google, should be dismissed and asserted in the pending breach of contract action filed against Stelor by Silvers in Florida Circuit Court.

I.

BACKGROUND

Silvers is the owner of the name “Googles” which he has used as a trademark for over twenty years in connection with goods and services directed to children’s education and entertainment. Silvers registered the “Googles” trademark with the United States Patent and Trademark Office in 1997, and by virtue of its long use the trademark has now achieved incontestable status. Silvers also owns and has registered the Internet domain name “googles.com,” which he has used since 1997 for his “Googles” Website.

In 2002, Silvers licensed the use of his “Googles” trademark to Stelor Productions, Inc. under a written License Agreement.² See Exhibit A. The License Agreement gave Stelor the limited right to commercially develop the “Googles” trademark and Silvers’ related intellectual property. The licensing relationship with Stelor, unfortunately, did not fare well because Stelor simply ignored most of its contractual obligations and has done little over the past three years other than spend investor money to fund the lifestyle of its principals.

On January 13, 2005, after three years of Stelor’s non-compliance, Silvers terminated the License Agreement. See Exhibit B. Stelor immediately sought to negotiate a reinstatement, and hoping to salvage the project, Silvers agreed to withdraw his January 13 termination letter under a Settlement Agreement that required Stelor, among other things, to cure its prior breaches under the License Agreement.³ Silvers retained the right to reinstate the termination if Stelor did not cure its breaches or perform its other obligations imposed by the Settlement Agreement.

Consistent with its prior conduct Stelor failed to cure the breaches or perform under the Settlement Agreement. Therefore, on April 27, 2005 Silvers reinstated the January 13 termination, and reminded Stelor in writing of its post-termination obligations, including providing to Silvers an inventory of licensed products. See Exhibit C. Stelor performed none of those post-termination obligations.

On May 5, 2005 Stelor filed a breach of contract claim against Silvers in the district court alleging wrongful termination and requesting the court to enjoin Silvers from terminating the License Agreement (the “License Agreement Action”). On May 27, 2005 Silvers moved to dismiss the License Agreement Action because Stelor failed to list the residence of each of its members on the face of the Complaint as required to establish diversity jurisdiction. In response to Silvers’ motion, Stelor filed the sworn declaration of Steve A. Esrig, Stelor’s President, in which he stated that none of Stelor's members reside in Florida. Esrig listed the residence of each member but would not identify any member by name.⁴ Stelor then went on to vigorously fight the motion to dismiss claiming over and over that diversity exists.

² Stelor Productions, Inc. has apparently assigned its rights under the License Agreement (if any) to the cross-claimant, Stelor Productions, LLC.

³ The Settlement Agreement also settled a pending federal court action between the parties.

On August 9, 2005 Judge Hurley dismissed the License Agreement Action for lack of subject matter jurisdiction but gave Stelor until August 29, 2005 to amend its Complaint and file evidence to support subject matter jurisdiction. Stelor declined the Court's invitation to file an amended complaint and instead filed a "response" to the dismissal Order sheepishly admitting that in fact diversity does not exist.⁵

Silvers' State Court Action Against Stelor

On September 6, just a few days after License Agreement Action was dismissed, Silvers filed a breach of contract action against Stelor in Florida Circuit Court for Stelor's failure to perform its post-termination obligations, and seeking to enjoin Stelor from representing itself as Silvers' licensee and using his intellectual property. See Exhibit D. Silvers has filed a Motion For Temporary Injunction and requested an evidentiary hearing. Stelor has not yet filed a response to the Complaint.

This Trademark Infringement Action Against Google, Inc.

On May 5, 2005, a week after Stelor was terminated, Silvers filed this action against Google, Inc. ("Google") for trademark infringement arising from the "reverse confusion" caused by Google's adoption and use of a mark almost identical to Silvers' senior "Googles" mark. The central issue in this case is whether under the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1051 et seq., Google's

⁴ This was not the first time Stelor mislead the Court by concealing information. In an attempt to mislead the Court about the validity of its business, Esrig filed a long list of purported "sub-licensees" it had engaged, but refused to identity any by name. We now know there are no sub-licensees.

use of the “Google” mark for children’s goods and services violates Silvers’ superior and exclusive rights to use virtually the same mark for the same goods and services. Silvers also challenges the validity of Google’s original federal trademark registration because it was fraudulently obtained.

Google’s Counterclaim

In response to the trademark infringement claim, Google filed a trademark infringement counterclaim against Silvers alleging that Silvers’ use of his “Googles” mark in connection with an alleged “search engine” violates its trademark rights.⁶ Google also filed a counterclaim against Stelor as Silvers’ licensee, who up until then was not a party to this action. Google may not have known at the time it filed the counterclaim that Silvers had terminated Stelor’s license. The factual allegations against Stelor, however, relate to Stelor’s conduct prior to termination of the License Agreement and are not affected in any way by the fact that Stelor has since been terminated.

Stelor’s Cross-Claim

On September 9, three days after Silvers filed the state court action, Stelor filed in this action a cross-claim against Silvers asserting basically the same breach of contract claims Judge Hurley dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction, i.e. seeking to reinstate the License Agreement based on Silvers’ alleged wrongful termination. But here, Stelor seeks to assert these claims under the federal Declaratory Judgment Act. The cross-claim alleges no other basis for original subject matter jurisdiction.

⁶ Silvers is unaware that his mark is being used in connection with a search engine, nor has he consented to such use.

II.
STELOR'S CROSS-CLAIM SHOULD BE DISMISSED

A. There Is No Original Subject Matter Jurisdiction

Stelor's alleged claim under the Declaratory Judgment Act, 28 U.S.C. §2201, et seq., does not provide the Court with subject matter jurisdiction. It is hornbook law that a claim under the Act must independently satisfy the subject matter jurisdiction requirements for an action to be brought in federal court. As put by the Eleventh Circuit:

. . . [T]he Declaratory Judgment Act does not, of itself, confer jurisdiction upon the federal courts; a suit brought under the Act must state some independent source of jurisdiction, such as the existence of diversity or the presentation of a federal question.

Borden v. Katzman, 881 F.2d 1035, 1037 (11th Cir. 1989) (citing Skelly Oil Co. v. Phillips Co., 339 U.S. 667 (1950)). See also, Kunkler v. Fort Lauderdale Housing Authority, 764 F. Supp 171, 175 (S.D. Fla. 1991) (Act can provide a procedural remedy if, and only if, the court has jurisdiction from another source).

Stelor's willful blindness in attempting to premise jurisdiction on the Act is eerily familiar. In the prior action before Judge Hurley, now dismissed, Stelor matter-of-factly alleged diversity of citizenship without disclosing the citizenship of its LLC members, and, when called on it, sheepishly conceded diversity did not exist.⁷

B. The Cross-Claim Is Not Sufficiently Related To Support Supplemental Jurisdiction

The Court should decline to exercise supplemental jurisdiction because Stelor's state law breach of contract cross-claim against Silvers has no legal or factual connection to any part of the trademark infringement action against Google. Further, the legal and factual questions unique to ⁷ Stelor had previously filed a sworn declaration from Steven A. Esrig, falsely stating that diversity existed. Stelor Productions is a small closely held company with a handful of shareholders or members; the citizenship of each could have been easily determined. We suspect that when Stelor lost the injunction and realized it had credibility issues with the Court, it went to great lengths to "discover" that diversity was in fact lacking so that the case would be dismissed.

Stelor's state law cross-claim against Silvers, if allowed to be brought here, will smother the federal trademark claim with a thick layer of non-relevant issues, witnesses and evidence that will undoubtedly distract or confuse the jury, and extend the trial.

(1) There is No Sufficient Nexus To The Main Claim

There is no question that original jurisdiction is lacking, thus, jurisdiction over Stelor's cross-claim necessarily depends on supplemental jurisdiction. 28 U.S.C. §1367(a) restricts supplemental jurisdiction to "...claims that are so related to claims in the action within . . .[the court's] original jurisdiction that they form part of the case or controversy under Article III of the United States Constitution." Here, the Court's original jurisdiction is conferred by the federal trademark statute, 15 U.S.C. §1051, et seq.

Section 1367(c) goes on to define circumstances in which a district court may decline to exercise its supplemental jurisdiction. The statute therefore contemplates a two-tiered analysis. The first step is to determine whether the claim comes within the Court's power because it is so related to the original action. If so, the second step requires a determination whether that power should be declined.

To decide whether Stelor's cross-claim against Silvers is part of the same case or controversy as Silvers' federal trademark action against Google, the Court must consider whether Stelor's cross-claim derives from "a nucleus of operative facts common to" the federal trademark claim and if they are such that it would ordinarily be expected to try them all in one judicial proceeding. See United Mine Workers v. Gibbs, 383 U.S. 715, 86 S.Ct. 1130 (1966). In other words, is the state law claim sufficiently related to the jurisdictionally sufficient claim that it is the "same case or controversy?" See Hudson v. Delta Air Lines, Inc., 90 F.3d 451, 455 (11th Cir. 1996)(court should consider whether claims arise from the same facts, or involve similar occurrences, witnesses or evidence); Harry Winston, Inc. v. Kerr, 72 F. Supp.2d 263, 264

(S.D.N.Y. 1999)(district court should consider, among other factors, the circumstances of the particular case, the nature of the state law claims, the character of the governing state law, and the relationship between the state and federal claims.)

This means that Stelor's breach of contract cross-claim against Silvers must be "so related" to Silvers' trademark infringement claim against Google that it arises from the same operative facts or forms part of the infringement claim. Simply stated, the facts that will determine whether Google has infringed Silvers' mark must also determine if Silvers wrongfully terminated the License Agreement.

Stelor's cross-claim fails the test. The facts that would support – or defeat – the cross-claim are not even remotely related to the facts that will determine whether Google has infringed Silvers' trademark rights or resolve the trademark infringement counterclaim. The main trademark infringement claim and counterclaim will narrowly focus on these "likelihood of confusion" issues: (1) type of marks; (2) similarity of the marks; (3) similarity of goods and services; (4) identity of marketing channels and consumers; (5) similarity of advertising; (6) the party's intent; and (7) actual confusion. See Conagra v. Singleton, 743 F.2d 1508 (11th Cir. 1984). Silvers infringement claim also raises legal and factual issues regarding whether Google's original trademark registration was fraudulently obtained. Thus, the core of the trademark infringement claims – the only claims that arise under federal law – will be resolved by a comparison of the trademarks, confusion evidence, and the trademark owners' conduct in adopting, using, and registering the marks.

The resolution of the cross-claim, on the other hand, is governed by the contractual language of the License Agreement and will involve factual determinations regarding Stelor's performance as Silvers' licensee, including whether Stelor: (1) failed to place on all licensed products the phrase "created by Steven A. Silvers;" (2) failed to pay Silvers royalties; (3) failed to collect revenue from the sale of Licensed Products; (4) diverted revenue to another entity; (5) failed to provide certified royalty statements; (6) failed to provide to Silvers samples of all licensed products, and all promotional and advertising materials associated with those products; (7) failed to include appropriate legal notices with the licensed products; (8) failed to maintain the requisite level of quality for the licensed products; (9) failed to maintain Silvers' intellectual property rights; (10) engaged in the unauthorized creation of characters and use of the "Googles" name; (11) failed to allow Silvers to audit its books and records; (12) failed to provide Silvers with stock options; (13) failed to commercial develop the property; (14) used the license to defraud investors of millions of dollars; and (15) failed to perform under a related consulting agreement and settlement agreement. None of these factual issues have any connection to the trademark infringement claim against Google.

Furthermore, the legal issues involved in the main case differ greatly from those raised in the cross-claim. The trademark claims assert violations of the Lanham Act, raising questions regarding trademark registration procedures, and the validity of the parties' federal trademark registrations. In contrast, the cross-claim requires application of state contract law to the interpretation of the provisions in the License Agreement, including Silvers' limitation of liability to Stelor, as well as state law regarding the licensor/licensee relationship post-termination.

When one compares the main federal trademark claims to the cross-claim, it is evident that the claims do not raise similar legal issues or flow from the same factual situation. Simply put, the facts needed to prove the cross-claim are vastly different from those needed to prove the main claim. In fact, evidence showing or disproving whether Silvers' wrongfully terminated Stelor will not offer even the slightest insight into whether Google has infringed Silvers' trademark rights. And, contrary to what Stelor wants the Court to believe, even if Stelor prevails on its wrongful termination claim, Stelor has no right to pursue this trademark infringement action against Google. Stelor's only remedy for wrongful termination is money damages, not reinstatement of the license. See infra, section 2.

Moreover, inclusion of Stelor's cross-claim will create havoc at trial. The evidence, witness testimony, and proof required to resolve Stelor's cross-claim, and the associated remedy and damages calculations, would be mixed in with the evidence, witness testimony and proof needed to resolve the trademark disputes, and the rather complex damages formula applied in reverse confusion cases. Not only would this distract from the main trademark claim, it would cause serious juror confusion that would prejudice Silvers' case against Google.

The legal and factual issues in the trademark infringement action are complex enough for a jury to determine. Adding unrelated breach of contract claims between Stelor and Silvers will inject literally dozens of factual issues each with its own evidence for the jury to consider in addition to the seven-factor likelihood of confusion issues presented by the main trademark claim. There is no logical relationship between the cross-claim and the main claim; Silvers should not be expected to try them both in one judicial proceeding. See Gibbs, 383 U.S. at 725, 86 S.Ct. at 1138; See also Hudson v. Delta Air Lines, Inc., 90 F.3d 451, 455 (11th Cir. 1996)(affirming district court's dismissal of state law breach of contract claim filed with an ERISA claim because of the lack of nexus between the state and federal causes of action.); Semi-Tech Litigation LLC v. Bankers Trust Company, 234 F.Supp.2d 297 (S.D. N.Y. 2002)(not reasonable to try claims against company for Trust Indenture Act and claims against officers of company for breach of fiduciary duty relating to the indenture in same case.); Singh v. The George Washington University, 368 F.Supp.2d 58 (D.D.C. 2005)(plaintiff's discrimination claim against school for violation of Title III of the ADA had almost no factual overlap with dean of school's counterclaim for defamation for statements plaintiff made about him relating to her dismissal and not sufficiently related to warrant exercise of supplemental jurisdiction.).

2. State Law Issues Dominate The Cross-Claim

Even if the Court were to determine that there is enough of a relationship between the trademarks claims and Stelor's breach of contract cross-claim to support supplemental jurisdiction, under the provisions and reasoning of Section 1367(c), the Court should decline that jurisdiction.

First, while Stelor's cross-claim does not raise particularly complex issues of state law, it involves strictly state law issues and contract interpretation, and presents at least one novel question. Stelor seeks by way of its cross-claim to be reinstated as licensee and to use Silvers' intellectual property without his consent. Under current Florida law, a party to a license agreement is only entitled to damages, not reinstatement by way of injunction, where the license is allegedly wrongfully terminated. See Airlines Reporting Corp. v. Incentive Int'l Travel, Inc., 566 So.2d 1377, 1379 (5th DCA 1990) (no injunctive relief to reinstate cancelled contract, damages only remedy); Shearson Lehman Hutton, Inc. v. Meyer, 561 So.2d 1331, 1332 (5th DCA 1990) (injunctive relief not available to prevent termination of agreement; remedy is damages); Jacksonville Elec. Auth. v. Beemik Bldrs. & Const., Inc., 487 So.2d 372 (1st DCA 1986) (no injunctive relief to prevent cancellation of contract, remedy is damages). What Stelor seeks will require the court to examine the current case law on this issue, and carve out some sort of novel exception to this established rule.⁸ Whether the facts and circumstances underlying the termination entitle Stelor to that exception is best left to the state court to decide.⁹

⁸ Stelor's cross-claim also raises the issue of whether a terminated licensee may continue to use a licensors' intellectual property after it has been terminated. While federal law has dealt extensively with this issue, (see infra) in the context of the Lanham Act, we know of no state law cases addressing the issue.

Furthermore, aside from being a distraction, the inclusion of Stelor's cross-claim in this case is simply unfair and prejudicial to Silvers. He should be able to have his day in court with Google without the Stelor sideshow diluting his case. Stelor can readily pursue its state law claims in state court, where a case is now pending that addresses the very issues Stelor wants decided here.

C. The Cross-Claim Should Be Asserted In The Pending State Court Action

It makes absolutely no sense to permit Stelor to assert claims in this action that will be litigated and adjudicated at the same time in the pending state court action, which was the first-filed action. In fact, Stelor's claims are so inextricably intertwined with the claims pending in state court that an adjudication of Silvers' claims in that action will encompass the claims asserted by Stelor in its cross-claim. The state action will determine whether Stelor was in breach of the License Agreement prior to termination, whether Silvers properly terminated Stelor, and whether Stelor breached its post-termination obligations. Stelor's defense to this action is necessarily that Silvers wrongfully terminated the License Agreement, which is the same claim it asserts here in its cross-claim. The factual issues that will resolve whether Silvers properly terminated are the very same factual issues that will resolve the outcome of Stelor's wrongful termination claim. There is no rational basis to inject this unrelated contract dispute between Stelor and Silvers into this trademark case that will decide the exceedingly narrow issue of whether Google has infringed Silvers' trademark. Whether Stelor breached the License Agreement or Silvers wrongfully terminated the License Agreement will not resolve one issue in this pending trademark dispute. In fact, the resolution of Stelor's contract claims will have zero affect on the outcome of the main trademark infringement claim. It makes far more sense to contends that Google's counterclaim alleges that Google, rather than Silvers, owns Silver's mark. (Amended Cross-claim, ¶71). But Google alleges no such thing, nor could it. Google simply claims the use of Silvers' mark for search engine services infringes Google's mark.

dismiss the cross-claim so that it can be properly asserted and resolved in the Silvers/Stelor action currently pending in state court.

III.

THE CROSS-CLAIM FAILS TO STATE A CLAIM FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

Stelor acknowledges in its cross-claim that Silvers has terminated the License Agreement with Stelor. As explained above, while Stelor is free to dispute the termination, its only remedy under Florida law should the termination be proved wrongful is for money damages.¹⁰ A court of equity cannot by injunction or specific performance maintain the licensor-licensee relationship against the will of the licensor even if termination of the relationship might leave the licensor legally liable for damages. See Airlines Reporting Corporation v. Incentive Internationale Travel, Inc., 566 So.2d 1377, 1379 (Fla. 5th DCA 1990). Therefore, Stelor's sole remedy is limited to money damages if Silvers wrongfully terminated. Stelor has no legal basis for a mandatory injunction to compel specific performance because injunctive relief is not a proper remedy for wrongful termination of a license.

Federal courts follow the same principal. For example, in A.L.K. Corp. v. Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc., 440 F.2d 761 (3d Cir. 1971) a movie theatre could not, by injunction, compel a film distributor to specifically perform under a license agreement for the distribution of movies. The only remedy - - loss of income from not showing the subject movie - - was recovery of damages. And in Freeplay Music, Inc. v. Verance Corp., 80 Fed. Appx. 137 (2d Cir. 2003) (unpub.) the court rejected the terminated licensee's request for injunctive relief to reinstate the license because the former licensee's injury could only be redressed with damages. This is why Judge Hurley rejected Stelor's request to preliminarily enjoin Silvers from terminating Stelor – its damages can be easily quantified, and thus there is an adequate remedy at law.¹¹ Furthermore, the License Agreement (drafted by Stelor) has an express provision that limits Stelor's remedy for any breach by Silvers to a monetary amount equal to the royalties paid to Silvers during the twelve-month period preceding a breach of contract claim:

¹⁰ To the extent Stelor contends that it is entitled to injunctive relief under the provisions of the Settlement Agreement, that argument is moot. Stelor's failure to perform under the Settlement Agreement and Silvers' reinstatement of the termination of the License Agreement renders the Settlement Agreement null and void, and the parties are placed back where they were when Stelor was first terminated. That is why the Settlement Agreement has no remedy provision for breach by either party.

- A. IN NO EVENT WILL EITHER PARTY BE LIABLE UNDER THIS AGREEMENT FOR ANY INDIRECT, INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, CONSEQUENTIAL OR PUNITIVE DAMAGES IN CONNECTION WITH OR ARISING OUT OF THIS AGREEMENT (INCLUDING LOSS OF PROFITS, USE, DATA, OR OTHER ECONOMIC ADVANTAGE), NO MATTER WHAT THE THEORY OF LIABILITY, EVEN IF THE EXCLUSIVE REMEDIES PROVIDED FOR IN THIS AGREEMENT FAIL OF THEIR ESSENTIAL PURPOSE AND EVEN IF EITHER PARTY HAS BEEN ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OR PROBABILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES. THE PROVISIONS OF THIS SECTION "LIMITATION OF LIABILITY" ALLOCATE THE RISKS UNDER THIS AGREEMENT BETWEEN LICENSOR AND LICENSEE AND THE PARTIES HAVE RELIED UPON THE LIMITATIONS SET FORTH HEREIN IN DETERMINING WHETHER TO ENTER INTO THIS AGREEMENT. (Emphasis provided)
- B. EACH PARTY'S LIABILITY TO THE OTHER UNDER THIS AGREEMENT FOR CLAIMS RELATING TO THIS AGREEMENT, WHETHER FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT OR IN TORT, SHALL BE LIMITED TO THE AGGREGATE ROYALTY FEES PAID BY LICENSEE TO LICENSOR DURING THE TWELVE MONTH PERIOD PRECEDING THE CLAIM.

This clear and unambiguous provision provides Stelor's exclusive remedy for an action against Silvers. There is no other provision that entitles Stelor to injunctive relief or any other remedy other than monetary damages.

¹¹ Even though Stelor is a terminated licensee, not a franchisee, this doctrine is consistent with the long line of Burger King cases from this district, in which the courts routinely reject a terminated franchisee's attempt, by way of injunction, to continue using the "Burger King" trademarks while contending the termination was wrongful. In these cases, the terminated franchisee's license to use the trademarks cannot be reinstated by way of injunction, and the sole remedy is damages for the alleged wrongful termination. See Burger King v. Agard, 911 F. Supp. 1499 (S.D. Fla. 1995); Burger King v. Majeed, 805 F. Supp. 994, 1003 (S.D. Fla. 1992); Burger King v. Hall, 770 F. Supp. 633, 638-39 (S.D. Fla. 1991); Burger King v. Austin, Bus. Fran. Guide CCH ¶9788 (S.D. Fla. 1990). This is also consistent with cases where the franchisor seeks to enjoin use of its trademark by a terminated franchisee. In those cases, the franchisor must show some evidence that the termination was proper to obtain injunctive relief. See e.g. McDonald's Corporation v. Robertson, 147 F.3d 1301 (11th Cir. 1998). The "some evidence" standard might apply if Silvers sought an injunction, but it does not govern Stelor's remedy should Silvers' termination of the license be deemed improper. Stelor's remedy is limited under both Florida law and the terms of the License Agreement to money damages; there is no remedy to reinstate the license. Under Florida law a court cannot by injunction or specific performance maintain the licensor-licensee relationship against the will of the licensor even if termination of the relationship might leave the licensor legally liable for damages. See Airlines Reporting Corporation v. Incentive Internationale Travel, Inc., 566 So.2d 1377, 1379 (Fla. 5th DCA 1990). Therefore, Stelor's sole remedy is limited to money damages if Silvers wrongfully terminated. This is true even if Stelor continues to perform under the license – which it has not. Stelor has not performed any of its obligations under the License Agreement for years.

This clear and unambiguous provision provides Stelor's exclusive remedy for an action against Silvers. There is no other provision that entitles Stelor to injunctive relief or any other remedy other than monetary damages.

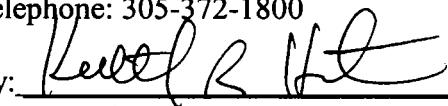

CONCLUSION

Stelor's cross-claim should be dismissed, and the Silvers/Stelor dispute should proceed in state court.

WHEREAS, LICENSOR is the sole and exclusive owner of the GOOGLES characters identified more fully in "Schedule A" attached hereto (the "Licensed Property");

WHEREAS, LICENSOR is the sole and exclusive owner of the GOOGLES trademarks identified more fully in "Schedule A" attached hereto (the "Licensed Trademarks");

WHEREAS, LICENSOR has the power and authority to grant to LICENSEE the right, privilege and license to use, manufacture, distribute, and sell those types of products that incorporate or are otherwise based on the Licensed Property as identified in "Schedule A" attached hereto (the "Licensed Products") and to use the Licensed Trademarks on or in association with such Licensed Products;

WHEREAS, LICENSEE has agreed, pursuant to a letter agreement, to act as a consultant for LICENSOR; and

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and agreements set forth herein, the parties, each intending to be legally bound hereby, do hereby agree as follows:

I. LICENSE GRANT

A. LICENSOR hereby grants to LICENSEE, for the Term of this Agreement as recited in "Schedule A" attached hereto, the exclusive (even as to LICENSOR), worldwide, sub licensable right and license to use, reproduce, modify, create derivative works of, manufacture, have manufactured, market, advertise, sell, distribute, display, perform, and otherwise commercialize the Licensed Products and Licensed Properties in the Territory. The license includes a license under any and all intellectual property rights and interests therein, including by way of explanation, products which deal with the creative characters known as The Googles, anything that contains the letters GOO (in upper or lower case) together with any and all products, which comprise and which will comprise those characters, likenesses, which include Iggle, Oogle, Oggie, Gooroo, Gootian(s), the planet Goo, slides, computer web site(s), membership lists, clubs, materials, patterns, prototypes, logos, trademarks, service marks, clothing, merchandise, educational products, marketing and promotional data and tools, packaging and advertising, modifications, updates and variations, and all other items associated therewith whether in singular or plural.

B. LICENSOR hereby grants to LICENSEE for the term of this Agreement as recited in "Schedule A" attached hereto, the exclusive (even as to LICENSOR), worldwide, sub licensable right and license to use the Licensed Trademarks on or in association with the Licensed Products as well as on packaging, promotional, and advertising material associated therewith.

C. LICENSEE shall have the right to sublicense LICENSEE's rights under this Agreement; provided that any and all such sublicenses shall be subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

D. No licenses will be deemed to have been granted by either party to any of its Intellectual Property Rights, except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement.

E. LICENSEE agrees to place on all Licensed Products, where practicable, the phrase "created by Steven A. Silvers" or other similar wording.

II. TERM OF THE AGREEMENT

This Agreement and the provisions hereof, except as otherwise provided, shall be in full force and effect commencing on the date of execution by both parties and shall extend for a Term as recited in "Schedule A" attached hereto (the "Term").

III. COMPENSATION

A. In consideration for the licenses granted hereunder, LICENSEE agrees to pay to LICENSOR, during the Term of this Agreement, a royalty in the amount recited in "Schedule A" attached hereto (the "Royalty") based on LICENSEE's Net Sales of Licensed Products. "Net Sales" shall mean the gross revenues on a cash basis (i.e., actually collected by LICENSEE but without counting any gross revenues twice) excluding shipping and handling charges, sales taxes, VAT, and other taxes imposed upon sales less (i) customary trade discounts, (ii) allowances actually shown on the invoice (except cash discounts not deductible in the calculation of Royalty) (iii) bona fide returns, charge backs, refunds or credits (net of all returns actually made or allowed as supported by memoranda actually issued to the customers), (iv) sales of remainder inventory made at less than the total of LICENSEE's actual cost of goods and actual direct selling costs solely for purposes of liquidation or close-out, (v) other uncollectible accounts, (vi) cooperative advertising allowances, (vii) sales commissions paid.

B. The Royalty owed LICENSOR shall be calculated on a quarterly calendar basis on collected funds (the "Royalty Period") and shall be payable no later than thirty (30) days after the termination of the preceding full calendar quarter, i.e., commencing on the first (1st) day of January, April, July and October with the exception of the first and last calendar quarters which may be "short" depending upon the effective date of this Agreement.

C. With each Royalty Payment, LICENSEE shall provide LICENSOR with a written royalty statement in a form acceptable to Licensor. Such royalty statement shall be certified as accurate by a duly authorized officer of Licensee, reciting on a country-by-country basis, the stock number, item, units sold, description, quantity shipped, gross invoice, amount billed to customers less discounts, allowances, returns and reportable sales for each Licensed Product. Such statements shall be furnished to Licensor whether or not any Licensed Products were sold during the Royalty Period. The LICENSEE hereby further agrees to provide the LICENSOR with a list of all of it's sub licensees added during the current royalty period.

D. If LICENSEE sells any Licensed Products to any party affiliated with LICENSEE, or in any way directly or indirectly related to or under the common control with LICENSEE, at a price less than the average weighted price charged to other parties, the Royalty payable to LICENSOR shall be computed on the basis of the averaged weighted price charged to other parties if the Licensed Products are not ultimately resold to unaffiliated third parties.

E. All payments due hereunder shall be made in United States currency drawn on a United States bank, unless otherwise specified between the parties and may offset or be offset from any other payments due to LICENSEE under this or any other agreement between the parties.

F. Late payments shall incur interest at the rate of ONE PERCENT (1%) per month from the date such payments were originally due.

IV. AUDIT

A. LICENSOR shall have the right, at its own expense, to have a nationally recognized certified public accounting firm, upon at least thirty (30) days written notice and no more than twice per calendar year, to inspect during normal business hours, LICENSEE's books and records and all other documents and material in the possession of or under the control of LICENSEE with respect to the subject matter of this Agreement at the place or places where such records are normally retained by LICENSEE.

B. In the event that such inspection reveals an underpayment discrepancy greater than 5% of the amount of Royalty owed LICENSOR from what was actually paid, LICENSEE shall have the opportunity to conduct its own audit. If LICENSEE agrees to the amount, if any, of any discrepancy, LICENSEE shall pay such discrepancy, plus interest, calculated at the rate of ONE AND ONE-HALF PERCENT (1 1/2%) per month. Upon settlement of any underpayment discrepancy, no further audit by LICENSOR shall be requested that year. That period end date shall represent the new period start date for future audits for underpayment discrepancies. In the event that such discrepancy is in excess of TEN THOUSAND UNITED STATES DOLLARS ($10,000.00), LICENSEE shall also reimburse LICENSOR for the cost of auditing fees in connection therewith.

C. All books and records relative to LICENSEE's obligations hereunder shall be maintained and kept accessible and available to LICENSOR for inspection for at least three (3) years after the expiration of the initial or any subsequent term.

D. In the event that an investigation of LICENSEE's books and records is made, certain confidential and proprietary business information of LICENSEE may necessarily be made available to the person or persons conducting such investigation. It is agreed that such confidential and proprietary business information shall be held in confidence by LICENSOR and shall not be used by LICENSOR or disclosed to any third party for a period of two (2) years from the date of disclosure, or without the prior express written permission of LICENSEE unless required by law, except LICENSOR may not disclose at any time to any third party any such confidential and proprietary business information which are trade secrets of LICENSEE. It is understood and agreed, however, that such information may be used by LICENSOR in any proceeding based on LICENSEE's failure to pay its actual Royalty obligation.

V. WARRANTIES AND OBLIGATIONS

A. LICENSOR represents and warrants that:

(i) the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement have been duly authorized by all necessary action of LICENSOR and this Agreement is a valid and binding obligation of LICENSOR, enforceable in accordance with its terms;

E. Such accounting and payment shall be due and paid within thirty (30) days of the quarterly calendar cited as the period basis for royalty calculation. Re: Silvers/Stelor License Agreement

Dear Mr. Esrig:

As you know we represent Steven Silvers, Licenser under the License, Distribution and Manufacturing Agreement dated June 1, 2002 ("License Agreement"), and party to the Letter Agreement dated June 1, 2002 ("Letter Agreement"). On November 12, 2004 we served notice on Stelor that it was in breach of several material provisions of both the License Agreement and Letter Agreement, a copy of which is attached.

Pursuant to paragraph 1(c) of the Letter Agreement, and paragraph IX-A of the License Agreement, this serves as notice that Mr. Silvers is exercising his option to terminate the License Agreement for Stelor's failure to cure its breach of the Letter Agreement within thirty (30) days, and breach of the License Agreement within sixty (60) days.

Pursuant to paragraph X of the License Agreement, Stelor must immediately provide Mr. Silvers with a complete schedule of all inventory of Licensed Products on hand or on order. Stelor has six (6) months to continue to sell this Inventory in accordance with the License Agreement. So long as Stelor is actively selling its inventory of Licensed Products, it may continue the use of the Licensed Intellectual Property associated with the inventory for this period. Outside the scope of its efforts to sell its inventory of Licensed Products, Stelor must immediately cease use of the Licensed Intellectual Property, including names, trademarks, signs, advertising and anything else that might make it appear that it is still handling the articles and products of Mr. Silver. Further, Stelor must return to Mr. Silvers all material relating to the Licensed Intellectual Property and inform its sub-licensees of the termination of the License Agreement.

Because the License Agreement is terminated, Stelor may not proceed to represent the interests of Mr. Silvers in TTAB Opposition Proceeding No. 91161251, TTAB Cancellation Proceeding No. 92043496, the domain dispute against Google pending before the National Arbitration Forum, or participate in TTAB Cancellation Proceeding No. 92043737. And, because the License Agreement is terminated, the action pending in federal district court is now moot. Thus, we will file the appropriate notices in these proceedings.

Our client regrets that this relationship did not work out, and would like very much to keep the relationship amicable throughout the six month inventory sell-off period.

Sincerely,

Gail A. McQuillkin

Re: Silvers/Stelor License Agreement

Dear Mr. Esrig:

On November 12, 2004, we served notice on Stelor that it was in breach of several material provisions of both the License Agreement and Letter Agreement, a copy of which is attached. Because Stelor did not cure those breaches, on January 13, 2005 we served on Stelor a notice of termination of the License Agreement, a copy of which is attached.

On January 28, 2005, Stelor and Silvers entered into a Settlement Agreement in which Silvers agreed to withdraw his notice of termination provided Stelor perform its obligations under the Settlement Agreement. Stelor, however, has:

- failed to provide Silvers with unit interests in Stelor LLC under paragraph 9;
- failed to pay Silvers monthly installments on royalty advances on the first of every month under paragraph 10 (a);
- failed to pay on April 1, 2005 the monthly advance on royalties required by Silver to maintain his insurance coverage through the Aurora Collection under paragraph 10 (b);
- failed to cooperate in the audit of the books and records of Stelor under paragraph 14; and
- failed to provide Silvers samples of Licensed Products that are being offered for sale under paragraph 15.

Furthermore, although Stelor has provided a written statement that it is not offering any

Furthermore, although Stelor has provided a written statement that it is not offering any products for sale, and no royalties due, that statement has proven to be false.

Stelor continues to be in breach of the License Agreement as outlined in our letter of November 12, 2004. This is to provide notice to you that due to Stelor's failure to perform its obligations under the Settlement Agreement, and failure to cure the breaches under the License Agreement, Silvers is reinstating his notice of termination of the License Agreement effective immediately.

Pursuant to paragraph X of the License Agreement, Stelor must immediately provide Silvers with a complete schedule of all inventory of Licensed Products on hand or on order. Stelor has six (6) months to continue to sell this Inventory, if any, in accordance with the License Agreement. So long as Stelor is actively selling its inventory of Licensed Products, it may continue the use of the Licensed Intellectual Property associated with the inventory for this period. Outside the scope of its efforts to sell its inventory of Licensed Products, Stelor must immediately cease use of the Licensed Intellectual Property, including names, trademarks, signs, advertising, web site, and anything else that might make it appear that it is still handling the articles and products relating to the Googles IP. Further, Stelor must return to Silvers all material relating to the Licensed Intellectual Property and inform its sub-licensees and those selling Googles related merchandise of the termination of the License Agreement.

Because the License Agreement is now terminated, Stelor may not represent Silvers' interest in any legal proceeding or action.

Sincerely,

Gail A. McQuilkin

Exhibit D

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE
11TH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT, IN AND
FOR MIAMI-DADE COUNTY, FLORIDA

CASE NO.

STEVEN A. SILVERS,

Plaintiff,

vs.
STELOR PRODUCTIONS, LLC,

Defendant,

COMPLAINT

Plaintiff, Steven A. Silvers, sues Stelor Productions, LLC and alleges:

1. This is an action for declaratory, supplementary and injunctive relief brought pursuant to Florida's Declaratory Judgment Act, Florida Statutes Section 86.011, et seq., and for breach of contract.
2. Silvers is an individual residing in Palm Beach County, Florida with a business address at 8983 Okeechobee Blvd., #202, West Palm Beach, FL 33411.

3. Defendant Stelor Productions, LLC is, upon information and belief, a limited liability company organized under Delaware law, with a place of business at 14701 Mockingbird Drive, Damestown, Maryland. Defendant is, on information and belief, the successor in interest to Stelor Productions, Inc., a corporation organized under Delaware law. Both entities are referred to here as "Stelor."
4. Silvers is the author of the children's book "GOOGLES and the Planet of Goo" and creator of numerous characters, illustrations and concepts based on the GOOGLES family of characters.

5. Silvers is the owner of 25 "GOOGLES" related trademarks, including "The GOOGLES and Design" mark, and "GOOGLES.com" domain name.
6. Silvers has registered and owns more than 120 domain names related to the GOOGLES concept and characters, including "GOOGLES.com."

7. Silvers also owns numerous copyrights and patents for the characters, illustrations, music and designs encompassed by the GOOGLES concept. The trademarks, copyrights, patents, domain name registrations and related derivative intellectual property are collectively referred to as "GOOGLES Intellectual Property."
8. Effective June 1, 2002, Silvers entered into a License, Distribution and Manufacturing Agreement ("License Agreement") with Stelor by which he granted Stelor a license to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property, and to manufacture and promote products and services based on the GOOGLES Intellectual Property ("Licensed Products"). Exhibit A.

9. Effective June 1, 2002, Silvers entered into a Consulting Agreement with Stelor which provided, among other things, that Silvers could terminate the License Agreement if Stelor breached the Consulting Agreement's compensation provisions. Exhibit B.
10. On November 12, 2004, Silvers sent a Notice of Termination, advising Stelor it had sixty (60) days to cure numerous breaches under the License Agreement or face termination as Silvers' licensee. Exhibit C. Silvers also invoked Stelor's breaches of the Consulting Agreement as a basis for termination.
11. On January 13, 2005, Silvers terminated the License Agreement for Stelor's failure to cure its numerous breaches. A copy of the termination letter is attached as Exhibit D.
12. On January 28, 2005, Silvers and Stelor entered into a Settlement Agreement under which Silvers agreed to withdraw the January 13, 2005 termination letter, but not the Notice of Termination, provided Stelor fully cured the breaches by its performance under the Settlement Agreement.

13. On April 27, 2005 Silvers reinstated his termination because Stelor had not performed its obligations under the Settlement Agreement. See Exhibit E.

14. The License Agreement provides, at ¶X(C):

Upon the expiration or termination of this Agreement, all the license rights of LICENSEE under this Agreement shall forthwith terminate and immediately revert to LICENSOR and LICENSEE, except as detailed above in Section (B) of the "Post Termination Rights" Section, shall immediately discontinue all use of the Licensed Property and the like, at no cost whatsoever to LICENSOR.

15. Silvers has advised Stelor on numerous occasions that the License Agreement is terminated, and demanded that Stelor comply with the post-termination provisions of the license Agreement.

Copies of Silvers' letters to that effect are attached as Exhibit F.

16. The License Agreement, ¶X, sets out Stelor's rights and obligations upon termination. Stelor is allowed to continue using the GOOGLES Intellectual Property on a limited basis for a limited period, but only if it meets certain requirements. The key requirement for Stelor to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property post-termination is the submission of an inventory of Licensed Product on hand. License Agreement, ¶X(B).

17. Stelor has failed to provide an inventory of Licensed Products. The 30 day period for Stelor to comply with this requirement expired on May 27, 2005.

18. Stelor has also failed to actively sell Licensed Products post-termination, according to the purported royalty statements Stelor has provided to Silvers.

19. Because Stelor has not complied with its post-termination requirements under the License Agreement, it has no right to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property for any purpose, even for a limited period.

20. Notwithstanding the termination, the reversion of all rights to Silvers, and Stelor's loss of any limited right to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property, Stelor continues to do. Upon information and belief, Stelor used the GOOGLES Intellectual Property at the Licensing Exhibition in New York City in July, 2005, to promote its own (non-licensed) website services. Stelor's website (steloproductions.com) continues to feature the GOOGLES trademarks, characters and concept, GOOGLES graphics and illustrations, GOOGLES music, and GOOGLES.com domain name.

21. Stelor's use of the GOOGLES Intellectual Property is without Silvers' authority or consent.

22. Silvers has repeatedly demanded that Stelor cease and desist from its unauthorized use of the GOOGLES Intellectual Property.

23. Stelor has refused to comply with Silvers' demand to cease and desist, and continues to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property without Silvers' authorization.

24. Silvers has retained the undersigned attorneys and agreed to pay them a reasonable fee.

COUNT ONE - DECLARATORY RELIEF

25. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 24 as though fully set forth.

26. Up until April 27, 2005, Silvers licensed his GOOGLES Intellectual Property to Stelor, pursuant to the License Agreement. On April 27, 2005, Silvers reinstated his prior termination of the License Agreement.

27. Pursuant to the License Agreement, ¶X, upon termination all licensed rights revert to Silvers, and Stelor is required to cease and desist from using the GOOGLES Intellectual Property.

28. Since April 27, 2005, Stelor has disregarded the termination of the License Agreement and continues to hold itself as Silvers' licensee. Stelor continues to use Silvers' GOOGLES Intellectual Property, without Silvers' authority or consent.

29. An actual and ripe controversy exists as to the effect of the termination of the License Agreement and Stelor's rights, or lack thereof, to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property.

WHEREFORE, Silvers requests that this Court declare the rights of the parties and provide the following relief:

- A. A declaration that the License Agreement is terminated, and that Stelor is no longer a licensee of Silvers.
- B. An order enjoining Stelor from:
 1. Using the GOOGLES Intellectual Property (including but not limited to Silvers' trademarks, domain names, copyrights, patents, and derivatives);
 2. Representing to others that it is Silvers' licensee, or that it is authorized to use or sublicense the GOOGLES Intellectual Property; and
 3. Selling or promoting any Licensed Product.
- C. A full accounting from Stelor of the commercialization of the GOOGLES Intellectual Property during the period the License Agreement was in effect, i.e. June 1, 2002 to April 27, 2005;
- D. Attorneys fees pursuant to contract and Florida Statutes Section 57.105;
- E. Costs; and
- F. Such other relief as the Court deems equitable.

COUNT II
BREACH OF CONTRACT

30. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 24

as though fully set forth.

31. This is an action for breach of the post-termination provisions of the License Agreement.

32. On April 27, 2005, Silvers' duly terminated the License Agreement.

33. Pursuant to the License Agreement, ¶X, Stelor is required, upon termination, to cease and desist using the GOOGLES Intellectual Property or selling any Licensed Property.

34. While Paragraph X of the License Agreement affords Stelor a limited period of time to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property, such use is conditioned on Stelor (i) providing an inventory of Licensed Product; and (ii) actively selling Licensed Product. Stelor has done neither, and therefore its right to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property has been extinguished.

35. Notwithstanding the termination of the License Agreement, Stelor continues to use the GOOGLES Intellectual Property. Such use is without Silvers' authority or consent.

36. Stelor has breached Paragraph X of the License Agreement.
37. As a result of Stelor's breach, and unauthorized use of the GOOGLES Intellectual Property, Silvers has been denied the exclusive use of and control over his own trademarks, copyrights, patents and domain names, as well as derivative products.

WHEREFORE, Silvers requests that this Court enter judgment in his favor and against Stelor and award the following relief:

- A. Enjoining Stelor from using the GOOGLES Intellectual Property, including but not limited to Silvers' trademarks, domain names, copyrights and patents;

- B. Requiring Stelzler to account to Silvers for commercializing the GOOGLES Intellectual Property from April 27, 2005 to the present, including all sales of Licensed Product and Derivatives, and to disgorge all revenues gained from such unauthorized conduct; and
- C. Requiring Stelzler, consistent with Paragraph X of the License Agreement, to return to Silvers all material relating to the GOOGLES Intellectual Property and derivatives, and to any inform sublicensees of the termination.

D. Attorneys' fees pursuant to contract and Florida Statutes Section 57.105.
E. Costs; and
F. Such other relief as the Court deems equitable.

DATED this 9th day of September, 2005.

WHEREAS, LICENSOR has the power and authority to grant to LICENSEE the right, privilege and license to use, manufacture, distribute, and sell those types of products that incorporate or are otherwise based on the Licensed Property as identified in "Schedule A" attached hereto (the "Licensed Products") and to use the Licensed Trademarks on or in association with such Licensed Products;

WHEREAS, LICENSOR has or will have the ability to manufacture, have manufactured, have sub-manufactured, distribute and sell or have sold and distributed the Licensed Products in the Licensed Territory more clearly defined in Schedule A (the Territory) and to use the Trademark(s) on or in association with the Licensed Products;

WHEREAS, LICENSEE desires to obtain from LICENSOR an exclusive license to use, manufacture, have manufactured and sell Licensed Products in the Territory and to use the Licensed Trademarks on or in association with the Licensed Products;

WHEREAS, LICENSEE has agreed, pursuant to a letter agreement, to act as a consultant for LICENSOR; and

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and agreements set forth herein, the parties, each intending to be legally bound hereby, do hereby agree as follows:

E. LICENSE GRANT

A. LICENSOR hereby grants to LICENSEE, for the Term of this Agreement as recited in "Schedule A" attached hereto, the exclusive (even as to LICENSOR, worldwide, sub licensable right and license to use, reproduce, modify, create derivative works of, manufacture, have manufactured, market, advertise, sell, distribute, display, perform, and otherwise commercialize the Licensed Products and Licensed Properties in the Territory). The license includes a license under any and all intellectual property rights and interests therein, including by way of explanation, products which deal with the creative characters known as The Googs, anything that contains the letters GOO (in upper or lower case) together with any and all products, which comprise and which will comprise those characters, licensees, which include Iggle, Ogle, Oggle, Googian(s), the planet Goo, slides, computer web sites(i), membership lists, clubs, materials, patterns, prototypes, logos, trademarks, service marks, clothing, merchandise, educational products, marketing and promotional data and tools, packaging and advertising, modifications, updates and variations, and all other items associated therewith whether in singular or plural.

B. LICENSOR hereby grants to LICENSEE the exclusive (even as to LICENSOR, worldwide, sub licensable right and license to use the Licensed Trademarks on or in association with the Licensed Products as well as on packaging, promotional, and advertising material associated therewith).

C. LICENSEE shall have the right to sublicense LICENSEE's rights under this Agreement, provided that any and all such sublicensees shall be subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

D. No licenses will be deemed to have been granted by either party to any of its Intellectual Property Rights, except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement.

H. TERM OF THE AGREEMENT

This Agreement and the provisions hereof, except as otherwise provided, shall be in full force and effect commencing on the date of execution by both parties and shall extend for a Term as recited in "Schedule A" attached hereto (the "Term").

III. COMPENSATION

A. In consideration for the license granted hereunder, LICENSEE agrees to pay to LICENSOR, during the Term of this Agreement, a royalty in the amount recited in "Schedule A" attached hereto (the "Royalty") based on LICENSEE's Net Sales of Licensed Products. "Net Sales" shall mean the gross revenues on a cash basis (i.e., actually collected by LICENSOR) but without counting any Gross revenues (i.e., excluding shipping and handling charges, sales taxes, VAT, and other taxes imposed upon sales less (i) customary trade discounts, (ii) allowances actually shown on the invoice (except cash discounts not deductible in the calculation of Royalty) (iii) bona fide returns, charge backs, refunds or credits (net of all returns actually made or allowed as supported by memoranda actually issued to the customer), (iv) sales of remainder inventory made at less than the total of LICENSEE's actual cost of goods and actual direct selling costs solely for purposes of liquidation or close-out, (v) other uncollectible accounts, (vi) cooperative advertising allowances, (vii) sales commissions paid.

B. The Royalty owed LICENSOR shall be calculated on a quarterly calendar basis on collected funds (the "Royalty Period") and shall be payable no later than thirty (30) days after the termination of the preceding full calendar quarter, i.e., commencing on the first (1st) day of January, April, July and October with the exception of the first and last calendar quarters which may be "short" depending upon the effective date of this Agreement.

C. With each Royalty Payment, LICENSEE shall provide LICENSOR with a written royalty statement in a form acceptable to Licensor. Such royalty statement shall be certified as accurate by a duly authorized officer of Licensee, reciting on a country-by-country basis, the stock number, item, units sold, description, quantity shipped, gross invoice, amount billed to customers less discounts, allowances, returns and reportable sales for each Licensed Product. Such statements shall be furnished to Licensor whether or not any Licensed Products were sold during the Royalty Period. The LICENSEE hereby further agrees to provide the LICENSOR with a list of all of its sub licensees added during the current royalty period.

D. If LICENSEE sells any Licensed Products to any party affiliated with LICENSEE, or in any way directly or indirectly related to or under the common control with LICENSEE, at a price less than the average weighted price charged to other parties, the Royalty payable to LICENSOR shall be computed on the basis of the averaged weighted price charged to other parties if the Licensed Products are not ultimately resold to unaffiliated third parties.

E. All payments due hereunder shall be made in United States currency drawn on a United States bank, unless otherwise specified between the parties and may offset or be offset from any other payments due to LICENSEE under this or any other agreement between the parties.

F. Late payments shall incur interest at the rate of ONE PERCENT (1%) per month from the date such payments were originally due.

IV. AUDIT

A. LICENSOR shall have the right, at its own expense, to have a nationally recognized certified public accounting firm, upon at least thirty (30) days written notice and no more than twice per calendar year, to inspect during normal business hours, LICENSEE's books and records and all other documents and material in the possession of or under the control of LICENSEE with respect to the subject matter of this Agreement at the place or places where such records are normally maintained by LICENSEE.

B. In the event that such inspection reveals an underpayment discrepancy greater than 5% of the amount of Royalty owed LICENSOR from what was actually paid, LICENSEE shall have the opportunity to conduct its own audit. If LICENSEE agrees to the amount, if any, of any discrepancy, LICENSEE shall pay such interest, calculated at the rate of ONE AND ONE-HALF PERCENT (1 1/2%) per month. Upon settlement of any underpayment discrepancy, no further audit by LICENSOR shall be requested that year. That period and date shall represent the new period start date for future audits for underpayment discrepancies. In the event that such discrepancy is in excess of TEN THOUSAND UNITED STATES DOLLARS ($10,000.00), LICENSEE shall also reimburse LICENSOR for the cost of auditing fees in connection therewith.

C. All books and records relative to LICENSEE's obligations hereunder shall be maintained and kept accessible and available to LICENSOR for inspection for at least three (3) years after the expiration of the initial or any subsequent term.

D. In the event that an investigation of LICENSEE's books and records is made, certain confidential and proprietary business information of LICENSOR may necessarily be made available to the person or persons conducting such investigation. It is agreed that such confidential and proprietary business information shall be held in confidence by LICENSOR and shall not be used by LICENSOR or disclosed to any third party for a period of two (2) years from the date of disclosure, or without the prior express written permission of LICENSEE, unless required by law, except LICENSOR may not disclose at any time to any third party any such confidential and proprietary business information which are trade secrets of LICENSEE. It is understood and agreed, however, that such information may be used by LICENSOR in any proceeding based on LICENSEE's failure to pay its actual Royalty obligation.

V. WARRANTIES AND OBLIGATIONS

A. LICENSOR represents and warrants that:

(i) the execution, delivery and performance of this Agreement have been duly authorized by all necessary action of LICENSOR and this Agreement is a valid and binding obligation of LICENSOR, enforceable in accordance with its terms;

(ii) the execution, delivery and performance by LICENSOR of this Agreement will not violate or conflict with any applicable U.S. law or regulation, or any order, writ, judgment or decree of any court or governmental authority to which LICENSOR is subject, or result in a violation, breach of, or default under any contract, lease, or other agreement binding on LICENSOR; and

(iii) LICENSOR owns the exclusive rights in and to the Licensed Intellectual Property, Licensed Patents, Licensed Trademarks, Licensed Copyrights necessary to effectuate the granting of the Licensing Rights from the LICENSOR to the LICENSEE as contemplated herein.

(ii) the execution, delivery and performance by LICENSOR of this Agreement will not violate or conflict with any applicable U.S. law or regulation, or any order, writ, judgment or decree of any court or governmental authority to which LICENSEE is subject, or result in a violation, breach of, or default under any contract, lease, or other agreement binding on LICENSEE; and

(iii) it will use its commercially reasonable efforts to promote, market, sell and distribute the Licensed Products.

C. Disclaimer of Warranties. EXCEPT AS EXPRESSLY PROVIDED ABOVE, NEITHER PARTY MAKES ANY WARRANTIES OR REPRESENTATIONS OF ANY KIND, EITHER EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, REGARDING THIS AGREEMENT AS TO ANY MATTER INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO IMPLIED WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE.

D. LICENSEE shall be solely responsible for the manufacture, production, sale and distribution of the Licensed Products or to have such Licensed Products manufactured, produced, sold and distributed, and will bear all related costs associated therewith.

VI. Notices, Quality Control, and Samples

A. The Licensed Products, as well as all promotional, packaging and advertising material relative thereto, shall include all appropriate legal notices.

B. The Licensed Products shall be of a high quality which is at least equal to comparable products manufactured and marketed by LICENSEE and in conformity with a standard sample provided by LICENSOR.

C. Prior to the commencement of manufacture and sale of the Licensed Products, LICENSEE shall submit to LICENSOR for his input, at no cost to LICENSEE, a reasonable number of samples of all Licensed Products which LICENSEE intends to manufacture and sell and of all promotional and advertising material associated therewith.

VII. Notices and Payment

A. Any notice required to be given pursuant to this Agreement shall be in writing and delivered personally to the other designated party at the above-stated address or mailed by certified or registered mail, return receipt requested or delivered by a recognized national overnight courier service.

B. Either party may change the address to which notice or payment is to be sent by written notice to the other in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph.

VII. INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY PROTECTION

A. LICENSOR hereby grants LICENSEE all right, power and interest to seek, obtain and maintain all Intellectual Property Rights associated with the Licensed Intellectual Property and Licensed Trademarks, Licensed Copyrights and any other Intellectual Property Rights granted herein. LICENSOR further agrees to assist LICENSEE as may be required to apply for and obtain recordation of and from time to time enforce, maintain and defend such Intellectual Property Rights. LICENSOR hereby grants LICENSEE an irrevocable power of attorney for the initial and any subsequent terms of this Agreement to act for and on LICENSEE's behalf and instead of LICENSOR, at LICENSEE's expense, to execute and file any such document(s) and to do all other lawfully permitted acts to further the purposes of the foregoing with the same legal force and effect as if executed by LICENSOR.

B. LICENSOR shall retain all rights, title and interest in the Licensed Intellectual Property and Licensed Trademarks and any modifications thereto based solely on such Licensed Intellectual Property. LICENSOR acknowledges LICENSOR's exclusive rights in the Licensed Intellectual Property and, further, acknowledges that the Licensed Intellectual Property and/or the Licensed Trademarks rights are unique and original to LICENSOR and that LICENSOR is the owner thereof. LICENSEE shall not, at any time during or after the effective Term of the Agreement, dispute or contest, directly or indirectly, LICENSOR's exclusive right and title to the Licensed Intellectual Property and/or the Licensed Trademark(s) or the validity thereof.

C. LICENSEE agrees that its use of the Licensed Intellectual Property and/or the Licensed Trademark(s) injures to the benefit of LICENSOR and that the LICENSEE shall not acquire any rights in the Licensed Intellectual Property and/or the Licensed Trademark(s) except for the license granted herein.

D. LICENSOR shall retain all rights, title and interest in and to the Licensed Intellectual Properties. The LICENSOR owns the exclusive rights to the Licensed Intellectual Property. LICENSOR hereby waives and releases LICENSEE from any and all current or future claims or causes of actions by third parties, whether known or unknown, arising out of or relating to such Licensed Intellectual Properties including, but not limited to, any claim that Licensed Products violate, infringe on or misappropriate any of LICENSOR's Intellectual Property Rights.

E. Each party shall execute all papers, testify on all matters, and otherwise cooperate in every way necessary and desirable to effect any of the provisions under this Section (Intellectual Property Protection). The party requesting such shall reimburse the other party for the expenses incurred as a result of such cooperation. The parties agree to take any actions or prepare or execute any documents reasonably requested by the other party. Furthermore, during the term of this agreement, LICENSOR shall not initiate or maintain any relationship or conversations with LICENSEE'S current or prospective clients/vendors/any company relationships with the media (press etc.) without the prior express written request by LICENSEE.

VI. TERMINATION

B. LICENSEE shall have the right to terminate this Agreement at any time on thirty (30) days written notice to LICENSOR. In such event, all money's paid to LICENSOR shall be deemed non-refundable and LICENSEE's obligation to pay any unpaid royalties shall be accelerated and shall become immediately due and payable.

C. Additionally, if, after five years of the initial intellectual property license, there are three consecutive years during which royalty payments to LICENSOR are less than one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00), LICENSOR has the option to cancel this Agreement in accordance with Section IX TERMINATION, Para. A.

X. POST TERMINATION RIGHTS

A. Not less than thirty (30) days prior to the expiration of this Agreement or immediately upon termination thereof, LICENSEE shall provide LICENSOR with a complete schedule of all inventory of Licensed Products then on hand or on order (the "Inventory").

B. Upon expiration or termination of this Agreement, LICENSEE shall be entitled, for an additional period of six (6) months, to continue to sell such Inventory. Such sales shall be made subject to all of the provisions of this Agreement and to an accounting for and the payment of Royalty thereon. Such accounting and payment shall be due and paid within thirty (30) days of the quarterly calendar cited as the period basis for royalty calculation. LICENSEE shall have the right to continue the use of the name(s) associate with the products and articles that encompass this Agreement for as long as LICENSEE is actively selling its inventory of articles and products. At the conclusion of LICENSEE'S efforts in this regard, LICENSEE agrees to discontinue the use of names, trademarks, signs, advertising and anything else that might make it appear that the LICENSEE is still handling the articles and products of LICENSOR.

C. Upon the expiration or termination of this Agreement, all of the license rights of LICENSEE under this Agreement shall forthwith terminate and immediately revert to LICENSOR and LICENSEE, except as detailed above in Section (B) of the "Post Termination Rights" Section, shall immediately discontinue all use of the Licensed Property and the like, at no cost whatsoever to LICENSOR.

D. Upon termination of this Agreement for any reason whatsoever, LICENSEE agrees to immediately return to LICENSOR all material relating to the Licensed Intellectual Property. Furthermore, upon termination or expiration of this Agreement, LICENSEE agrees to immediately inform all of its sub-licensees regarding the said termination or expiration of this Agreement.

XI. INFRINGEMENTS

A. During the Term of this Agreement and any and all option/renewal periods, LICENSEE shall have the sole right, in its discretion and at its expense, to take any and all actions against third persons to protect the Intellectual Property Rights licensed in this Agreement.

B. Upon request by either party to the other, the other party shall execute all papers, testify on all matters, and otherwise cooperate in every way necessary and desirable for the prosecution of any such lawsuit. Each party shall reimburse the other party for the expenses incurred as a result of such cooperation.

XII. INDEMNITY

A. LICENSEE agrees to indemnify and hold harmless LICENSOR, its agents, heirs, assigns and representatives, against all costs, expenses and losses (including reasonable attorneys' fees and costs) incurred through claims of third parties against LICENSOR based on product liability but excluding any claims based solely upon the use of the Licensed Intellectual Property or Licensed Trademarks by LICENSEE in accordance with the terms of this Agreement.

Signature

A. Right to Terminate on Notice. This Agreement may be terminated by either party upon sixty (60) days written notice to the other party in the event of a breach of a material provision of this Agreement by the other party, provided that, during the sixty (60) days period, the breaching party fails to cure such breach.

B. LICENSOR agrees to indemnify and hold harmless LICENSEE, its officers, directors, agents and employees, against all costs, expenses and losses (including reasonable attorneys' fees and costs) incurred through claims of third parties against LICENSEE based on or arising from (i) any infringement, misappropriation or other related action involving the Licensed Intellectual Property or Licensed Trademarks; or (ii) any breach of LICENSOR's obligations, representations, warranties or duties under this agreement.

C. With respect to any claims falling within the scope of the foregoing indemnifications: (i) each party agrees promptly to notify the other of and keep the other fully advised with respect to such claims and the progress of any suits in which the other party is not participating; (ii) each party shall have the right to assume, at its sole expense, the defense of a claim or suit made or filed against the other party; (iii) each party shall have the right to participate, at its sole expense, in any suit instituted against it; and (iv) a party assuming the defense of a claim or suit against the other party shall not settle such claim or suit without the prior written approval of the other party, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed.

XII. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY

A. IN NO EVENT WILL EITHER PARTY BE LIABLE UNDER THIS AGREEMENT FOR ANY INDIRECT, INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, CONSEQUENTIAL OR PUNITIVE DAMAGES IN CONNECTION WITH OR ARISING OUT OF THIS AGREEMENT (INCLUDING LOSS OF PROFITS, USE, DATA, OR OTHER ECONOMIC ADVANTAGE), NO MATTER WHAT THEORY OF LIABILITY, EVEN IF THE EXCLUSIVE REMEDIES PROVIDED FOR IN THIS AGREEMENT FAIL OF THEIR ESSENTIAL PURPOSE AND EVEN IF EITHER PARTY HAS BEEN ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OR PROBABILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES. Re: Silver/Stelcor License Agreement

Dear Mr. Barig:

As you know we represent Steven Silvers, Licensor under the License, Distribution, and Manufacturing Agreement dated June 1, 2002 ("License Agreement"), and party to the Letter Agreement dated June 1, 2002 ("Letter Agreement"). On November 12, 2004 we served notice on Stelcor that it was in breach of several material provisions of both the License Agreement and Letter Agreement, a copy of which is attached.

Pursuant to paragraph 1(c) of the Letter Agreement, and paragraph IX.A of the License Agreement, this serves as notice that Mr. Silvers is exercising his option to terminate the License Agreement for Stelcor's failure to cure its breach of the Letter Agreement within thirty (30) days, and breach of the License Agreement within sixty (60) days.

Pursuant to paragraph X of the License Agreement, Stelcor must immediately provide Mr. Silvers with a complete schedule of all inventory of Licensed Products on hand or on order. Stelcor has six (6) months to continue to sell this inventory in accordance with the License Agreement. So long as Stelcor is actively selling its inventory of Licensed Products, it may continue the use of the Licensed Intellectual Property associated with the inventory for this period. Outside the scope of its efforts to sell its inventory of Licensed Products, Stelcor must immediately cease use of the Licensed Intellectual Property, including names, trademarks, signs, advertising and anything else that might make it appear that it is still handling the articles and products of Mr. Silvers. Further, Stelcor must return to Mr. Silvers all material relating to the Licensed Intellectual Property and inform its sublicensees of the termination of the License Agreement.

Because the License Agreement is terminated, Stelcor may not proceed to represent the interests of Mr. Silvers in TTAB Opposition Proceeding No. 91161251, TTAB Cancellation Proceeding No. 90043496, the domain dispute against Google pending before the National Arbitration Forum, or participate in TTAB Cancellation Proceeding No. 92043757. And, because the License Agreement is terminated, the action pending in federal district court is now moot. Thus, we will file the appropriate notices in these proceedings.

Our client respects that this relationship did not work out, and would like very much to keep the relationship amicable throughout the six-month inventory sell-off period.

Sincerely,

Gail A. McQuillin

Re: Silvers/Stelcor License Agreement

Dear Mr. Esrig:

On November 12, 2004, we served notice on Stelcor that it was in breach of several material provisions of both the License Agreement and Letter Agreement, a copy of which is attached. Because Stelcor did not cure those breaches, on January 13, 2005 we served on Stelcor a notice of termination of the License Agreement, a copy of which is attached.

On January 28, 2005, Stelcor and Silvers entered into a Settlement Agreement in which Silvers agreed to withdraw his notice of termination provided Stelcor perform its obligations under the Settlement Agreement. Stelcor, however, has:

failed to provide Silvers with unit interests in Stelcor LLC under paragraph 9;
failed to pay Silvers monthly installments on royalty advances on the first of every month under paragraph 10 (a);
failed to pay on April 1, 2005 the monthly advance on royalties required by Silver to maintain his insurance coverage through the Aurora Collection under paragraph 10 (b); failed to cooperate in the audit of the books and records of Stelcor under paragraph 14; and failed to provide Silvers samples of Licensed Products that are being offered for sale under paragraph 15.

Furthermore, although Stelcor has provided a written statement that it is not offering any

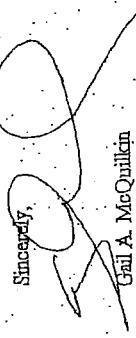

EXHIBIT "E"

Furthermore, although Stelor has provided a written statement that it is not offering any products for sale, and no royalties due, that statement has proven to be false.

Stelor continues to be in breach of the License Agreement as outlined in our letter of November 12, 2004. This is to provide notice to you that due to Stelor's failure to perform its obligations under the Settlement Agreement, and failure to cure the breaches under the License Agreement, Silvers is reinstating his notice of termination of the License Agreement effective immediately.

Pursuant to paragraph X of the License Agreement, Stelor must immediately provide Silvers with a complete schedule of all inventory of Licensed Products on hand or on order. Stelor has six (6) months to continue to sell this inventory, if any, in accordance with the License Agreement. So long as Stelor is actively selling its inventory of Licensed Products, it may continue the use of the Licensed Intellectual Property associated with the inventory for this period. Outside the scope of its efforts to sell its inventory of Licensed Products, Stelor must immediately cease use of the Licensed Intellectual Property, including names, trademarks, signs, advertising, web site, and anything else that might make it appear that it is still handling the articles and products relating to the Google IP. Further, Stelor must return to Silvers all material relating to the Licensed Intellectual Property and inform its sub-licensees and those selling Google related merchandise of the termination of the License Agreement.

Because the License Agreement is now terminated, Stelor may not represent Silvers' interest in any legal proceeding or action.

Sincerely,

Gail A. McQuillan

Re: Stelor Productions, Inc. v. Steven A. Silvers

Dear Dan:

This is in response to your letter of April 29, 2005. My client is not interested in Stelor's offer of late compliance with the terms of the Settlement Agreement or its obligations under the License Agreement. Mr. Silvers has terminated the License and intends to go in a different direction to develop his characters and intellectual property. We expect Stelor to honor its obligations under the termination provisions of the License Agreement.

Sincerely,

Re: Stelor Productions, Inc. v. Steven A. Silvers

Dear Kevin:

This is in response to your June 21, 2005 letter. As you know, our position is that the Settlement Agreement and License Agreement have been terminated due to Stelor's failure to perform under both. Your letter once again confirms that Stelor did not perform, and is simply another attempt post-termination to cure some but not all of Stelor's breaches. This is not acceptable to Mr. Silvers.

Your statement about tendering checks is wrong. The late checks were never tendered. You sent us copies of checks post-termination. Besides, tendering checks post-termination does nothing to cure breaches that occur pre-termination.

Further, even if the Settlement Agreement were in effect -- which it is not because Stelor did not perform -- Stelor is once again trying to impose conditions. There is no requirement that Silvers provide proof of payment for the $1000 royalty advance. It is Silvers' option to take up to $1000 per month against his future royalties. And, let me remind you that Silvers has already provide a declaration that he requires the $1000 to cover his health insurance premium payments, despite that he had no obligation to so (another condition you imposed before Stelor would honor its obligations).

Also, there is no condition on Silvers' right to audit Stelor that his auditor provide Stelor a list of information needed for the audit. The License Agreement states that he is entitled to see all the books and records and all documents and material related to the License Agreement.

As for the options, we will determine the status of the LLC certificates when we conduct discovery. On the topic of discovery, two weeks ago I offered to have a Rule 26 conference. That offer was met with stone cold silence. I am again offering to hold a Rule 26 conference so we can get this matter set for trial on an expedited track (assuming the Court does not dismiss the action). I am available this Friday to hold that conference.

Finally, this is to advise you that the federal discovery rules require that Stelor maintain all electronic documents and communications, including email sent and received. This means that all electronic materials must be maintained and preserved to avoid spoliation of evidence.

Sincerely,

Re: Stelor Productions, LLC v. Steven A. Silvers

Dear Kevin:

Enclosed are checks sent to Mr. Silvers by Stelor. While Mr. Silvers appreciated Mr. Esrig's kind wishes for a speedy recovery, the checks are being returned because the License Agreement has been terminated. Please inform Mr. Esrig that he is not to communicate directly with Mr. Silvers.

Sincerely,

Gail A. McQuillin

Re: License Termination

Dear Kevin:

Based on Mr. Estrig's recent declaration, it appears that Stelor is continuing to engage in the unauthorized use of Mr. Silvers' intellectual property and may be misrepresenting its status as a licensee. Because the License Agreement has been terminated, Stelor no longer has authority to act as Mr. Silver's licensee, and must cease and desist from conducting business that relates in any way to the License Agreement. In fact, the post-termination provisions in the License Agreement require Stelor to immediately inform all sublicensees, or in this instance potential sublicensees, that its license has been terminated. Stelor's apparent concealment of its termination is misleading as to these persons.

If Stelor persists in the unauthorized exploitation of Mr. Silvers' intellectual property, we will have no choice but to seek injunctive relief. To the extent Stelor incurs liability to third parties, based on its unauthorized conduct, or suffers "damages," Stelor obviously bears sole responsibility.

Furthermore, Stelor must make the necessary changes to eliminate all reference to the Googles name and "go" related words. While we have tried in good faith and as a courtesy to give Stelor enough time to make this transition, it appears that Stelor has taken no action. If Stelor fails to make these changes we will file an action for trademark infringement.

Very truly yours,

Kenneth R. Hartmann
