CURRENT POSITIONS

- Assistant Professor, Department of Political Science, Georgia State University, Atlanta, Georgia. August 2005 – Present.
- Director of Graduate Studies, Department of Political Science, Georgia State University, Atlanta, Georgia, January 2010 – Present.

EDUCATION

- Ph.D. in Political Science (May 2005). Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia. “Entering the Global Economy: Democracy, Party Strength, and the Political Economy of International Trade.”
- M.A. (1999). The London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE), London, United Kingdom. History of International Relations.
- B.S.F.S. cum laude (1997). Georgetown University, School of Foreign Service, Washington, DC.

SPECIALIZED FIELDS

I study the impact of domestic political institutions on economic policy, drawing from both international relations and comparative politics. More specifically, my research has focused on the influence of political parties, electoral systems, legislative-executive relations, and sub-national governments on decision-making in trade policy, fiscal policy, and governance quality. To address these questions, I make use of a variety of methods, including quantitative cross-national analyses and qualitative, field-work based case studies focusing on India and the European Union.
