

E X
H
I
B
I T

14

PENGAD 800-651-6889
PLAINTIFF'S EXHIBIT
KTM 19

Contents

mission	Preface	viii
	1 Introduction
	The aims of the book	1
randike (ed.):	The climate for language testing	2
paper	Research and development: needs and problems	8
l from	Research and development: an agenda	12
er by	Overview of the book	13
m the	Notes	15
apted (ed.): xtract	2 Measurement
m the	Introduction	18
ntext n the	Definition of terms: measurement, test, evaluation	18
nicat-	Essential measurement qualities	24
er by	Properties of measurement scales	26
	Characteristics that limit measurement	30
	Steps in measurement	40
	Summary	49
	Notes	50
	Further reading	52
	Discussion questions	52
	3 Uses of Language Tests
	Introduction	53
	Uses of language tests in educational programs	53
	Research uses of language tests	67
	Features for classifying different types of language test	70
	Summary	78
	Further reading	79
	Discussion questions	79
	4 Communicative Language Ability
	Introduction	81

vi Contents

Language proficiency and communicative competence	82
A theoretical framework of communicative language ability
Summary	84
Notes	107
Further reading	108
Discussion questions	109
5 Test Methods
Introduction	111
A framework of test method facets	116
Applications of this framework to language testing	152
Summary	156
Notes	157
Further reading	158
Discussion questions	159
6 Reliability
Introduction	160
Factors that affect language test scores	163
Classical true score measurement theory	166
Generalizability theory	187
Standard error of measurement: interpreting individual test scores within classical true score and generalizability theory	197
Item response theory	202
Reliability of criterion-referenced test scores	209
Factors that affect reliability estimates	220
Systematic measurement error	222
Summary	226
Notes	227
Further reading	232
Discussion questions	233
7 Validation
Introduction	236
Reliability and validity revisited	238
Validity as a unitary concept	241
The evidential basis of validity	243
Test bias	271
The consequential or ethical basis of validity	279
Post mortem: face validity	285

Summary	289
Notes	291
Further reading	294
Discussion questions	294
8 Some Persistent Problems and Future Directions
Introduction	296
Authentic language tests	300
Some future directions	333
A general model for explaining performance on language tests	348
Apologia et prolegomenon	351
Summary	356
Notes	358
Further reading	358
Discussion questions	358
Bibliography	361
Author index	395
Subject index	397