

N. Professor Hankla

664. Professor Hankla is currently employed as an assistant professor at Georgia State University.

1) POLS3450 - U.S. Foreign Policy – Fall 2009

665. Professor Hankla taught POLS3450 during Fall 2009.

666. Forty-eight students enrolled in Professor Hankla's section of POLS3450.

667. Professor Hankla required his students to purchase the following works for POLS3450: Promised Land, Crusader State (McDougall); Domestic Sources of American Foreign Policy (Wittkopf).

i. Contemporary Cases in U. S. Foreign Policy: From Terrorism to Trade

668. Professor Hankla used an excerpt from the work Contemporary Cases in U. S. Foreign Policy: From Terrorism to Trade while teaching POLS3450 during Fall 2009.

669. Contemporary Cases is published by SAGE.

670. Contemporary Cases is 512 pages long.

671. Contemporary Cases is a collective work made up of works from several different contributors.

672. Contemporary Cases is not owned by SAGE by an assignment.

673. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases Professor Hankla placed on Georgia State University's ERes system is a single work provided by one contributor, and that contributor did not assign or grant an exclusive license to the work to SAGE.

674. Professor Hankla prepared a fair use checklist prior to requesting that the library put the excerpt of the work on Georgia State University's ERes system.

675. Professor Hankla originally only mentally filled out his fair use checklist, and recreated a fair use checklist that fairly and accurately represents the initial fair use checklist that he filled out for the excerpt of Contemporary Cases.

676. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was 33 pages long, and constituted approximately 6.4% of the work.

677. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was used for a nonprofit, educational purpose. Namely, the excerpt was used as part of Professor Hankla's course materials for the purpose of teaching his class, and neither Professor Hankla, Georgia State University, nor the named defendants profited from the use of the excerpt of Contemporary Cases.

678. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was not used for commercial purposes.

679. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was used by Professor Hankla for the purpose of teaching the students in his course.

680. Neither Georgia State University, Professor Hankla, nor the named Defendants profited from the use of the excerpt of Contemporary Cases that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system.

681. Professor Hankla did not use the excerpt of Contemporary Cases that he placed on Georgia State University's ERes system for the purpose of entertainment.

682. Professor Hankla's use of the excerpt of Contemporary Cases that he placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was necessary to achieve his intended educational purpose.

683. Professor Hankla did not publish or publicly distribute the excerpt of Contemporary Cases that he placed on Georgia State University's ERes system.

684. Professor Hankla's use of the excerpt of Contemporary Cases that he placed on Georgia State University's ERes system did not exceed his intended educational purpose.

685. Contemporary Cases is a published work.

686. Contemporary Cases is a factual work of nonfiction.

687. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases that Professor Hankla used in his course was important to his educational objectives.

688. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases that Professor Hankla used in his course amounts to 6.4% of the work, and as such, was a small portion of Contemporary Cases.

689. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases that Professor Hankla used in his course was not central to the work.

690. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases that Professor Hankla used in his course was narrowly tailored for Professor Hankla's educational purpose.

691. Professor Hankla's use of the excerpt of Contemporary Cases did not have a significant effect on the market or potential market for the copyrighted work because the ERes excerpt was restricted to his class.

692. Professor Hankla's use of the excerpt of Contemporary Cases stimulated the market for the original work.

693. The publisher of Contemporary Cases does not market any similar product.

694. Licensing or permission for Contemporary Cases is unavailable.

695. A small number of copies of the excerpt of Contemporary Cases were distributed—specifically, the ERes records indicate that the work was accessed 16 times.

696. Access to the excerpt of Contemporary Cases was limited to the students in the class by a password protected website.

697. The excerpt of Contemporary Cases was removed from the ERes system after the semester ended.

698. GSU lawfully owns a copy of Contemporary Cases.

(b) U.S. Foreign Policy: The Paradox of World Power

699. Professor Hankla used an excerpt from the work U.S. Foreign Policy: The Paradox of World Power while teaching POLS3450 during Fall 2009.

700. U.S. Foreign Policy is published by SAGE.

701. U.S. Foreign Policy is 564 pages long.

702. U.S. Foreign Policy is a collective work made up of works from several different contributors.

703. U.S. Foreign Policy is not owned by SAGE by an assignment.

704. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy Professor Hankla placed on Georgia State University's ERes system is a single work provided by one contributor, and that contributor did not assign or grant an exclusive license to the work to SAGE.

705. Professor Hankla prepared a fair use checklist prior to requesting that the library put the excerpt of the work on Georgia State University's ERes system.

706. Professor Hankla originally only mentally filled out his fair use checklist, and recreated a fair use checklist that fairly and accurately represents the initial fair use checklist that he filled out for the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy.

707. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was 36 pages long, and constituted approximately 9% of the work.

708. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was used for a nonprofit, educational purpose. Namely, the excerpt was used as part of Professor Hankla's course materials for the purpose of teaching his class, and neither Professor Hankla, Georgia State University, nor the named defendants profited from the use of the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy.

709. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was not used for commercial purposes.

710. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was used by Professor Hankla for the purpose of teaching the students in his course.

711. Neither Georgia State University, Professor Hankla, nor the named Defendants profited from the use of the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that was placed on Georgia State University's ERes system.

712. Professor Hankla did not use the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that he placed on Georgia State University's ERes system for the purpose of entertainment.

713. Professor Hankla's use of the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that he placed on Georgia State University's ERes system was necessary to achieve his intended educational purpose.

714. Professor Hankla did not publish or publicly distribute the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that he placed on Georgia State University's ERes system.

715. Professor Hankla's use of the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that he placed on Georgia State University's ERes system did not exceed his intended educational purpose.

716. U.S. Foreign Policy is a published work.

717. U.S. Foreign Policy is a factual work of nonfiction.

718. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that Professor Hankla used in his course was important to his educational objectives.

719. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that Professor Hankla used in his course amounts to 9% of the work, and as such, was a small portion of U.S. Foreign Policy.

720. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that Professor Hankla used in his course was not central to the work.

721. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy that Professor Hankla used in his course was narrowly tailored for Professor Hankla's educational purpose.

722. Professor Hankla's use of the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy did not have a significant effect on the market or potential market for the copyrighted work because the ERes excerpt was restricted to his class.

723. Professor Hankla's use of the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy stimulated the market for the original work.

724. The publisher of U.S. Foreign Policy does not market any similar product.

725. Licensing or permission for U.S. Foreign Policy is unavailable.

726. A small number of copies of the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy were distributed—specifically, the ERes records indicate that the work was accessed 18 times.

727. Access to the excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy was limited to the students in the class by a password protected website.

728. The excerpt of U.S. Foreign Policy was removed from the ERes system after the semester ended.

729. GSU lawfully owns a copy of U.S. Foreign Policy.