Manhattan Lawyer Happy To Help Out Brother-in-Law By Banging His Wife

By ELIE MYSTAL

If Law & Order were still around, this would make for a good episode. A Manhattan lawyer was accused by his sister-in-law of sexual assault. But now the lawyer has filed a countersuit claiming defamation. He says that he and his sister-in-law engaged in a consensual sexual relationship as he was trying to help her conceive.

Why does he say he did it? Because he respects her husband (his brother-in-law) so much!

You've got to love the self-importance of Manhattan attorneys....

UVA Law Grad Charged With Forcible Sodomy Allegedly Sodomized Second Victim During 1L Year

By STACI ZARETSKY

Another day, another round of allegations about a UVA Law grad behaving very, very badly — so badly, in fact, that criminal charges have been filed.

Back in October, we brought our readers news of Christopher Dumler, a “rising star” of Virginia’s Democratic party and a 2009 graduate of the law school that attracts flies like honey. At the time, we weren’t so much interested in Dumler’s political ambitions as we were in the allegations of forcible sodomy that he was facing. And now, just days before a preliminary hearing on that criminal charge, a second alleged victim has stepped forward with new accusations to stir the pot.

Christopher J. Dumler

As it turns out, Dumler was allegedly sodomizing this victim during his 1L year of law school....

We hesitate to make big predictions on the China economy, since we don’t employ economists at Kinney and even those folks have a hard time making such predictions with any accuracy recently. However, we do have our own set of data points to go on that are unique in the US biglaw industry in Asia. We have been cautiously optimistic since late October that ’13 looks to be a very good year HK / China.

Our Asia team is in daily contact with partners at top US and UK firms in Asia, especially in HK / China, where our Asia team has made more US associate placements than any other recruiting firm over the past 5 years. In fact, our Evan Jowers has alone made more than 150 US associate placements in Asia in the past five years. All of this activity gives our Asia team the opportunity to have close relationships with most of our firm clients in Asia. Evan Jowers and Robert Kinney have developed friendships or at least close business relations with most of the key US hiring partners in HK / China over the years and this enables them to get on the phone and have in person meetings with such persons on a regular basis.

Since November, we have noticed a much more positive outlook in HK / China from our US partner contacts

Judge of the Day: A State Judge's Alleged Affair and Baby Mama Drama Exposed — Via Incriminating Texts

By STACI ZARETSKY

Remember Judge Wade McCree? How could you not! He's the Michigan jurist who received our Judge of the Day honors back in April for sending nearly-nude photos of himself to one of his female bailiffs via sext message. When confronted with the issue, McCree told a Fox Detroit reporter he had "no shame in [his] game." When confronted by the Michigan Supreme Court, McCree was issued a censure for bringing shame to the judiciary, if not himself.

Now, you'd think that the good judge would clean up his act after a brush with the law, but of course, you'd be wrong. We wonder if he's got any shame in his game now that his alleged affair with a litigant has been exposed for all the world to see.

Judge Wade McCree

And you really won't believe where this woman claims they got it on, repeatedly....
