Re: Dunstan, et al. v. comScore, Inc., Case No. 1:11-cv-5807 (N.D. Ill.)

Dear Robyn:

I write to follow up on our June 29, 2012 telephone conversation regarding the production of Plaintiff Jeff Dunstan's ("Dunstan") unredacted antivirus logs. As you know, in our May 23, 2012 letter to Defendant comScore, Inc. ("comScore") we explained that Dunstan isn't required to produce the logs at this stage of bifurcated discovery, mainly because the purpose for your request is to better understand Dunstan's damages—a merits issue not within the current scope of class discovery—and the documents contain private and sensitive Internet usage data.

You took issue with our position in a letter dated May 31, 2012, primarily by arguing that because Plaintiffs seek to certify a Subclass of "All individuals and entities in the United States that have incurred costs in removing the Surveillance Software," and the logs may reveal the source of the problem linked to Dunstan's computer troubles, that the documents are relevant for class certification purposes. Although our position remains unchanged with respect to the logs, we have decided not to proceed with certification of the Dunstan Subclass, therefore we consider this issue moot.

In light of the above, please provide us with confirmation that comScore no longer requires the production of Dunstan's unredacted antivirus logs no later than tomorrow, July 3, 2012, so that we may put the matter to rest before our upcoming hearing in front of Judge Kim.

Very truly yours,
