OPINION AND ORDER

These matters are before the Court on 13 Motions in Limine filed by Plaintiffs ArcelorMittal Indiana Harbor LLC and ArcelorMittal USA LLC (hereinafter collectively “ArcelorMittal”) on January 3, 2018, filed at DE 177, 179, 180, 181, 185, 187, 190, 196, 197, 198, 206, 207, and 208 and 14 Motions in Limine filed by Defendant Amex Nooter, LLC on January 3, 2018, filed at DE 188, 189, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, and 205.

The Court also considered the separate responses to each Motion in Limine. No Replies were permitted.

In determination of these issues the Court FINDS, ORDERS, ADJUDGES, and DECREES:

Federal Rule of Evidence 104 provides, in part: “Preliminary questions concerning admissibility of evidence shall be determined by the Court.” Motions in Limine to exclude evidence prior to trial are subject to a rigorous standard of review by the trial court. Courts may bar evidence in limine “only when evidence is clearly inadmissible on all potential grounds.” Dartey v. Ford Motor Co., 104 F. Supp. 2d 1017, 1020 (N.D. Ind. 2000) (quoting Hawthorne Partners v. AT&T Tech., 831 F. Supp. 1398, 1400 (N.D. Ill. 1993)). If evidence does not meet this standard, “the evidentiary rulings should be deferred until trial so that questions of foundation, relevance, and potential prejudice may be resolved in proper context.” Id. (quoting Hawthorne, 831 F. Supp. at 1400). Often, the “better practice is to deal with questions of admissibility of evidence as they arise, presenting the issues in a specific context, rather than excluding broad categories of evidence prior to trial.” United States v. Phillips, No. 1:12-CR-872, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 79916* 5-6 (N.D. Ill. June 12, 2014).

A court’s rulings in limine are preliminary in nature and subject to change. In this Order the Court is not making final determination on the admissibility of evidence. The Court reserves the right to change these rulings during the trial should the Court find that the evidence or arguments at trial justify such change.
