What is Lioness Visions?

Mission:

To provide quality multimedia productions worldwide while maintaining substance and integrity.

The situations that arise from abuse, whether it's sexual, physical, drug, or financial, can be detrimental to the development of positive individuals and communities. Low self-esteem, unwanted pregnancy, STD's, premature death or suicide, and mental illness are the results of those abuses. This is especially true in the African American community. The issues are swept under a rug, and never discussed or talked about. Along those lines, African Americans are not likely to receive help for their problems because of the stigma attached to receiving help; or "airing dirty laundry". Another reason African Americans are less likely to receive help is lack of access to health insurance. Instead of proactively preventing these outcomes, African Americans and other minorities tend to self medicate instead of reaching out. Having a mental illness is seen as a personal weakness instead of a medical condition. Thus begins "the cycle". The cycle is continuous because it is generational in scope. If one doesn't know anything different, then one doesn't know to seek help. These detriments of society are the basis for the birth of Lioness Visions.

Lioness Visions started from the minds of Rhasha Hoosier, Angenita Childs, and Delina Hill-Brooker. The women collaborated on a book, entitled Revealing & Healing: 3 Women's Stories of Survival. The original idea was that the book would be written, marketed to the masses, and become a profit generator. However, through the writing process, the ladies discovered their testimonies were a ministry. This book was penned as a testimony of the lives and trials of the three women, and their triumphs over adversity. These women suffered sexual abuse at the hands of men who were close to them, drug abuse from isolation, lack of self-esteem and depression, physical and emotional abuse from those who were closest to them; yet, they found a light within themselves to turn the negative aspects of their lives into positive learning experiences. Why the name Lioness Visions? The Lioness is the queen of the jungle, thus the queen of her community. Her duties are to not only take care and nourish her family, but to make sure the community is nourished as well. She bonds in sisterhood with the other lionesses in the community instead of fighting against them. In essence, the Lioness envisions a united family, which is the building block of a united community. She uses her strength to hold it together.

Business Etiquette

Phone Calls

All business related phone calls shall be done during regular business hours as time permits. All calls should be held to a professional standard.

Answering Email

All business related emails should be answered within one(1) business day. What to do an emergency situation: If either of the owners is sending out an email with an attachment, it must be approved. In regards to the soundtrack or any email blast, it must be approved as well. Use the Lioness Vizions email address to contact external people and denote high priority if you need immediate response.

Voice Mails

All business related voicemails should be listened to at least three times a day.

Conference Calls

The staff of Lioness Vizions shall have at least one (1) business related conference call per week. This is to keep everyone on the same aspects on the business, also follow up on any tasks the staff is to complete.

Conflict Resolution

In the event of conflict, all parties, Hoosier, Childs, Hill-Brooker, will air out the conflict via telephone. In the event a decision has to be made, 2/3 majority votes wins out the decision, when it comes to serious business matters. However, before any decision is made, careful research must be conducted by all three parties, then revisited at a later time. No one person shall make a decision for the business without the consent of the other owners.

Absences or Leave

If one party has to take a leave of absence, for whatever reason, contact must be made as soon as time permits, via email or telephone. If there is no answer, leave a voicemail. Someone has to be contacted immediately. In the event of an extended leave, and a serious business decision needs to be made, then the absent party has three (3) business days to contact the other parties. If no contact has been made, then the other parties are free to go make a decision. In the event that the two remaining parties cannot agree, then a mediator shall be contacted based on their specialty or field.

In addition, if the missing party refuses to answer any phone calls or if no contact has been made within seven (7) business days, the remaining parties can file suit against the missing party for breach of contract.

Projects and Divisions of Proceeds

Lioness Visions is a for profit business, therefore it is necessary to discuss financial matters in pursuit of the business.

Any proceeds made from any project that has a positive outcome, meaning profit, those monies will be divided as follows:

The first three years - 70% business, 30% owners.

Years four through eight - 55% business, 45% owners

Years nine on - 40% business, 60% owners

Any Lioness Visions project encompasses all parties, ie each party gets a percentage off each project. The percentages break down as follows:

Initiator of project - 70%

Other parties - 15% each

On collaborations:

If all three are collaborating - 33% each

If two are collaborating - 40% for the collaborators, 20% for the non-collaborating party.

Checks and Balances

When payment is required for business related expenses, i.e. printing, then the hired bookkeeper is responsible for making sure the payment is made. There must be two signatures on the check, and each check must be approved before payment can be sent out. The co-owners will each be paid as if they are on payroll. Taxes and all will be taken out on the front end. The back account is with Chase bank. Everyone will have access to the account, however monies will not be drawn out without prior approval of the co-owners. When it comes to monetary transactions, the approvals must be in writing via email. Financial statements will be reviewed monthly by the co-owners. There must be a financial conference call or meeting once a month to gage progress of the business. In the event an immediate decision has to be made, and there is no return call or emails, the 2/3 majority vote ensues, and if the two remaining parties do not agree, the bookkeeper will present the best decision for the business.

Outside Collaboration

In the event of an outside collaboration, the primary party in the collaboration will receive 75% of the proceeds of the collaboration. The other two parties will receive 12.5% each.

The collaboration must be beneficial to the business as a whole, which means before any contracts are signed, the collaboration must be discussed among all three parties.

Acquiring Authors and Singers

We are designed to give authors a chance at showcasing their work that wouldn't otherwise get published by mainstream publishing houses. Each author or singer must be evaluated by all three owners. In the event of an author - a writing sample must be included as well as a cover letter explaining any education they may have had. Once the sample has been read by all three owners, and it is decided that the owners would like to have them as an author, a meeting is scheduled.

A singer/rapper must send in a demo tape, along with a biography. Once all three owners listen to it, and decide if the artist is one the owners would like to have, then a meeting is scheduled.

In the event that the owners do not agree, a 2/3 vote will ensue. The majority wins on the vote, however, if the lone party believes in that artist or author, they are free to assist them in any way they can.

Training Procedures

The Street Team has to be trained on effective marketing. This will be handled by our marketing consultant.

A workbook will be completed to go along with Revealing & Healing. Once this workbook is done, all or one of the co-owners will go to various institutions to give them assistance in using the book to help the women they serve. This curriculum will be formatted and implemented at a later date.
