EASTERN DISTRICT OF LOUISIANA

TREVOR CAMPBELL

CIVIL ACTION

VERSUS

NO. 17-3524

B.P. EXPLORATION &
PRODUCTION, INC., ET AL.

SECTION "R" (1)

ORDER AND REASONS

Before the Court is defendants BP Exploration & Production, Inc., BP American Production Company, and BP p.l.c.'s (collectively the "BP parties") motion for summary judgment.<sup>1</sup> For the following reasons, the Court grants the motion, and dismisses plaintiff's complaint.

I. BACKGROUND

This case arises from plaintiff Trevor Campbell's alleged exposure to toxic chemicals following the Deepwater Horizon oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. Plaintiff alleges that he assisted in the clean-up of the Deepwater

Horizon spill.<sup>2</sup> Campbell asserts that, as part of this work, he was exposed to harmful chemicals, including oil, oil-dispersing chemicals, and decontaminants.<sup>3</sup> Plaintiff asserts that such exposure has resulted in “dizziness, nausea, headaches, sinus problems, eye irritation, rashes, skin lesions, and various pulmonary issues.”<sup>4</sup>

Campbell’s case was originally part of the multidistrict litigation (“MDL”) pending before Judge Carl J. Barbier. Campbell’s case was severed from the MDL as one of the “B3” cases for plaintiffs who either opted out of or were excluded from the Deepwater Horizon Medical Benefits Class Action Settlement Agreement.<sup>5</sup> After Campbell’s case was severed, it was reallocated to this Court. On July 28, 2021, this Court issued a scheduling order which established, among other deadlines, that plaintiff’s expert disclosures had to be “obtained and delivered” to defense counsel by no later than February 25, 2022.<sup>6</sup> Defendants now move for summary judgment, arguing that because plaintiff has not identified any expert testimony, he is unable to carry his burden of causation.<sup>7</sup> Plaintiff has not filed an opposition to defendants' motion.

II. LEGAL STANDARD

Summary judgment is warranted when “the movant shows that there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a); see also Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322-23 (1986); Little v. Liquid Air Corp., 37 F.3d 1069, 1075 (5th Cir. 1994) (en banc) (per curiam). “When assessing whether a dispute to any material fact exists, [the Court] consider[s] all of the evidence in the record but refrain[s] from making credibility determinations or weighing the evidence.” Delta & Pine Land Co. v. Nationwide Agribusiness Ins., 530 F.3d 395, 398-99 (5th Cir. 2008). All reasonable inferences are drawn in favor of the nonmoving party, but “unsupported allegations or affidavits setting forth ‘ultimate or conclusory facts and conclusions of law’ are insufficient to either support or defeat a motion for summary judgment.” Galindo v. Precision Am. Corp., 754 F.2d 1212, 1216 (5th Cir. 1985) (quoting 10A Charles Alan Wright & Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice and Procedure § 2738 (2d ed. 1983)); see also Little, 37 F.3d at 1075. “No genuine dispute of fact exists if the record taken as a whole could not lead a rational trier of fact to find for the nonmoving party.” EEOC v. Simbaki, Ltd., 767 F.3d 475, 481 (5th Cir. 2014).

If the dispositive issue is one on which the moving party will bear the burden of proof at trial, the moving party “must come forward with evidence which would ‘entitle it to a directed verdict if the evidence went uncontroverted at trial.’” Int’l Shortstop, Inc. v. Rally’s, Inc., 939 F.2d 1257, 1264-65 (5th Cir. 1991) (quoting Golden Rule Ins. v. Lease, 755 F. Supp. 948, 951 (D. Colo. 1991)). “[T]he nonmoving party can defeat the motion” by either countering with evidence sufficient to demonstrate the “existence of a genuine dispute of material fact,” or by “showing that the moving party’s evidence is so sheer that it may not persuade the reasonable fact-finder to return a verdict in favor of the moving party.” Id. at 1265.

If the dispositive issue is one on which the nonmoving party will bear the burden of proof at trial, the moving party may satisfy its burden by pointing out that the evidence in the record is insufficient with respect to an essential element of the nonmoving party’s claim. See Celotex, 477 U.S. at 325. The burden then shifts to the nonmoving party, who must, by submitting or referring to evidence, set out specific facts showing that a genuine issue exists. See id. at 324. The nonmovant may not rest upon the pleadings, but must identify specific facts that establish a genuine issue for resolution. See, e.g., id.; Little, 37 F.3d at 1075 (“Rule 56 ‘mandates the entry of summary judgment, after adequate time for discovery and upon motion, against a party who fails to make a showing sufficient to establish the existence of an element essential to that party’s case, and on which that party will bear the burden of proof at trial.’” (quoting Celotex, 477 U.S. at 322)).

III. DISCUSSION

Plaintiff asserts claims for general maritime negligence, negligence per se, and gross negligence against the defendants as a result of the spill and its cleanup.<sup>8</sup> Defendants contend that plaintiff cannot prove that exposure to oil or dispersants was the legal cause of his alleged injuries, and thus he cannot prove a necessary element of his claims against defendants.<sup>9</sup> “Under the general maritime law, a party’s negligence is actionable only if it is a ‘legal’ cause’ of the plaintiff’s injuries.” Donaghey v. Ocean Drilling & Exploration Co., 974 F.2d 646, 649 (5th Cir. 1992). “Legal cause” is more than but-for causation; instead the negligence “must be a ‘substantial factor’ in the injury.” Id.

In a toxic torts case, “[s]cientific knowledge of the harmful level of exposure to a chemical, plus knowledge that the plaintiff was exposed to such quantities, are minimal facts necessary to sustain the plaintiffs’ burden.” Allen v. Pa. Eng’g Corp., 102 F.3d 194, 199 (5th Cir. 1996). And in cases, like this one, where “the conclusion regarding medical causation is not one within common knowledge, expert medical testimony is required to prove causation.” Seaman v. Seacor Marine L.L.C., 326 F. App’x 721, 723 (5th Cir. 2009) (per curiam); see also Troxler v. BP Expl. & Prod., Inc., No. 17-4207, 2022 WL 1081193, at *2 (E.D. La. Apr. 11, 2022) (noting that “the causal connection between exposure to oil or dispersants and Plaintiff’s injuries is not within the common knowledge of a layperson”).

Here, there is no indication that plaintiff has retained an expert to provide testimony at trial to establish causation. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(2)(B). Nor is there an indication that plaintiff will present expert testimony from his treating physician. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(2)(C). Plaintiff did not make any expert disclosures by the Court-ordered deadline,<sup>10</sup> nor did he move for an extension. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(2)(D) (“A party must make these disclosures at the times and in the sequence that the court orders.”). Additionally, plaintiff has failed to oppose the BP parties’ motion or provide any evidence of causation. Accordingly, because plaintiff cannot prove a necessary element of his claims against defendants, his claims must be dismissed. See Williams v. BP Expl. & Prod., Inc., No. 18-9753, 2019 WL 6615504, at *11 (E.D. La. Dec. 5, 2019) (“When a plaintiff has no expert testimony to prove his medical diagnosis or causation at trial, the plaintiff’s suit may be dismissed at the summary judgment stage.”).

IV. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, defendants’ motion for summary judgment is GRANTED. Plaintiff’s complaint is DISMISSED.
