Michael,

As you know, we have re-noticed the deposition of Ms. Miller for December 19, 2006, pursuant to the Maryland District Court's Order. Please confirm whether or not there are responsive documents, and if so, we would like to arrange to obtain them this week, in advance of the deposition. In addition, as you know, deposition notices have been served in the Maryland state court actions for Ms. Miller, as well as for Messrs. Sagan, Eisenberg and your brother, Paul Worsham.

I will be travelling from Miami to conduct all of the depositions, beginning on the 19th. Accordingly, I write to confirm that the depositions are proceeding, and ask that you please advise me immediately if you believe there are any issues related to my taking of these depositions as scheduled next week. A complete set of the notices is also attached for your reference.

Michael,

In addition to my prior emails, I have called your office several times today. I left a voice mail this morning, but this afternoon received what sounded like a fax tone. Please repond to my emails, or call. I want to confirm next week's depositions, which have now been noticed for nearly two weeks. As I have advised, I will be traveling form Miami to Maryland to take the depositions, and will be incurring associated travel costs. Your clients need to appear!

Mr. Kaplan

I have been out most of the last two days, and received email and voice mail messages from you.

Your notice of deposition of Lindsey Miller for Dec. 19 was served on me for the first time this week, and I only received it Monday evening, and mailed it to Ms. Miller Tuesday Dec. 12, so she is only just receiving a copy of this Notice by today (Wes) at the earliest. I will confer with her after she receives it. Until then I can not say anything further, other than you may not want to make any travel plans to Maryland for her deposition next week. I request that if you feel it necessary to communicate with me further regarding Ms. Miller, to do so in writing.

I am only aware of your admission pro hac vice in the federal case in Maryland, in which your motion indicated you are not admitted to the Maryland bar. Several motions were filed this week in the state cases in which you are not an attorney of record. I am not aware of Steven Sturgeon having withdrawn his appearance from any cases in which I have been involved and these motions were mailed to him.

Thank you for responding to my multiple emails.

First, let me address Ms. Miller's deposition in the federal court action. As you know, our subpoena has now been enforced by Court order, and Ms. Miller is required to produce the requested documents and appear for deposition. You have been advised by notice that we intend to proceed as directed by the Court's order. You indicate that you mailed the notice to Ms. Miller. I would expect that you would also contact her by telephone, and presumably by email to advise her of the date, and also to advise her of her obligation to appear. If you want to discuss some reasonable alternative date, just contact me. In the meantime, however, the deposition will proceed as noticed. If you or the witness do not intend to appear, please advise me immediately in writing. Please be advised, though, that absent court order, or some agreement about an alternative date, we intend to proceed.

Second, please do me the courtesy of providing me by fax or email with copies of the motions you say were filed in the state court actions.

Third, I am unclear on your position as to whether or not the witnesses will be appearing for those depositions. Will they or won't they? Please give me a definitive answer.

I look forward to your prompt response.

Mr. Kaplan

I have just now been able to reach Ms. Miller. She has been and currently is out of the state of Maryland until this weekend. She has thus not yet received the deposition Notice that was only served this Monday Dec. 11, 2006. The only Court Order I am aware of required Ms. Miller to be deposed within 10 days of November 29, 2006. December 19, 2006 is well outside this deadline. I have also been advised that Mr. Cooper has several cases scheduled for the morning of Dec. 19, 2006. Thus I presume you will not be attempting to depose Ms. Miller, and again suggest you not plan on deposing Ms. Miller on Dec. 19, 2006.

I am leaving for the airport in about an hour and will be focusing on another major case until I return on Monday Dec. 18, and do not expect to be communicating further on this during that time.

Michael,

Your email is evasive and non-responsive. Please provide me with written confirmation by noon tomorrow that Ms. Miller will be appearing for her deposition as noticed on December 19, 2006. Absent my receipt of that confirmation, we will have no choice but to seek appropriate relief from the Maryland District Court.

Mr. Kaplan

I have just now been able to reach Ms. Miller. She has been and currently is out of the state of Maryland until this weekend. She has thus not yet received the deposition Notice that was only served this Monday Dec. 11, 2006. The only Court Order I am aware of required Ms. Miller to be deposed within 10 days of November 29, 2006. December 19, 2006 is well outside this deadline. I have also been advised that Mr. Cooper has several cases scheduled for the morning of Dec. 19, 2006. Thus I presume you will not be attempting to depose Ms. Miller, and again suggest you not plan on deposing Ms. Miller on Dec. 19, 2006.

I am leaving for the airport in about an hour and will be focusing on another major case until I return on Monday Dec. 18, and do not expect to be communicating further on this during that time.

Michael,

As one last effort to resolve in good faith any issues related to the deposition of Ms. Miller pursuant to subpoena and court order, we remain willing to coordinate a reasonable alternative date with you if December 19th poses a problem. To do so, however, you need to provide the proposed alternative date (s) and confirm that Ms. Miller will appear at that time. We await your response, but again, if we do not hear from you today, we will have no choice but to address the issue with the court.

Robert,

I was the depo noticed pursuant to subpoena in our Florida case, which Judge Ryskamp ordered we could take, but which then didn't occur because the witness filed a motion for protective order. As you may recall, Miller is represented by Michael Worsham, the brothers' buddy Paul Worsham (who submitted an affidavit in our Florida case).

Robert,

The Maryland District Court issued an order today denying Lindsey Miller's motion for protective order, and ordering her to comply with your client's pending subpoena duces tecum within 10 days. Accordingly, we now plan to proceed with Ms. Miller's deposition in Maryland and intend to notice it for December 12, 2006. Please confirm your availability for that date.
