Dear Kevin,

Further to our communications last week, I have discussed with my client the feasibility of providing Amgen with Roche's growth media. It is my understanding from Roche that the cell growth media is only available in liquid form. We can ship the five liters of media as requested by Amgen. However, Roche does not normally ship its media and cannot make any guarantees that agitation, temperature extremes, altitude etc. will not impact the media.

Please let me know what you would like us to do.

Best regards,

Patricia Carson
