Re: Lindsay Blankmeyer (DOB 6.22.89)

Dear Mr. Wiernicki:

I am writing with permission of Ms. Lindsay Blankmeyer who has been my patient since May 2008.

Lindsay is treated for depression, anxiety, attention deficit disorder and sleep disorder. Over the course of her illnesses, she has had serious bouts of distress and impairment in function but for many months now has been stable.

I have recently been apprised of the conflict Lindsay is having with her roommate, and it appears she may be heading into another bout of emotional decline as a result.

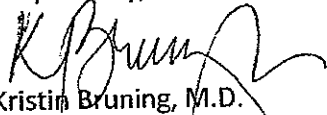

It is my strong medical recommendation that Lindsay NOT be removed from her current dormitory room as I believe this will be a stressor that will cause her significant distress and place her at great risk to emotionally deteriorate.

I hope you will strongly consider Lindsay being allowed to remain in her current room for the remainder of this, her final year, at Stonehill College.

If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact me at 631.923.1272.

Thank you for taking the time to take these matters into consideration.

Respectfully,

Kristin Bruning, M.D.
