Are you at least willing to acknowledge that (1) SMART's buses are a non-public forum, (2) that consistent with the Sixth Circuit opinion, the "fatwa advertisement" is at least, in some part, "political," and (3) also consistent with the Sixth Circuit opinion, that SMART's decision on the advertisement was "viewpoint neutral"?

You need not wait for the motion to be completed. Quite frankly, for dispositive motions such as this, a meet and confer is almost useless. I can tell you now, and I am certain your position is the same—we will not concur in any relief in which judgment is granted in your favor.

I have not yet completed the motion and don't know if we should do that before I do. We expect to file nearer the deadline date.

Christian,

We technically need to do a meet and confer on the cross-motions for summary judgment—should not take very long. You available for a phone call later today or tomorrow. I am good today after 3 pm. Tomorrow afternoon is open right now as well. Tx.
