

Exhibit F

From: IP Enforcement [mailto:ipenforcement@fb.com]
Sent: Tuesday, December 13, 2011 12:13 AM
To: Links, Greg
Subject: Re: Notice of Violation

Greg,

Thank you very much for your message and your prompt action to resolve this matter.

With respect to learning more about COG, please note we have recently updated our Platform Page with much useful information, including tutorials and examples. I would suggest you start there: <https://developers.facebook.com/docs/beta/opengraph/tutorial/>

Regards,
Gretchen
Facebook Legal

From: "Links, Greg" <glinks@wanttt.com>
Date: Thu, 8 Dec 2011 21:23:16 +0000
To: Kat <ipenforcement@fb.com>
Subject: RE: Notice of Violation

Gretchen,

Thank you for your note. In good faith, we are removing the F logo that is next to our Want button. In addition, we are removing the F logo from the cover images that are listed on the partner page as you point out and all references to Facebook's Open Graph 2.0.

When Facebook announced Open Graph/Timeline, like many developers, we were very excited about the new features and have been anxiously awaiting its roll-out. At the time, we actually looked at the Brand Permissions guidelines and believed we were in compliance. We see now that page has changed since we looked at it last.

We would like to open a dialogue with someone there about permissions and timeline in general as we are interested in understanding more fully the proposed timeline of Open Graph as well as display options. Would you have a name and phone number of someone with whom I could speak?

Sincerely,

Greg
Want Team

From: IP Enforcement [mailto:ipenforcement@fb.com]
Sent: Thursday, December 08, 2011 2:25 PM
To: Links, Greg
Subject: Notice of Violation

Re: Wanttt.com "official" want button
<http://wanttt.com/partner/wanttt.com/partner/facebook/>

Dear Sir/Madam,

I write regarding your promotion of your "Want" button using our highly recognizable F logo.

Facebook appreciates your interest in developing applications that allow people to connect and share with Facebook. While we encourage third parties to implement the Facebook API and Open Graph in their applications, we cannot allow third party applications to look like they might be official Facebook applications or endorsed or sponsored by Facebook.

As we hope you can appreciate, protection of its famous trademarks is very important to Facebook. It is in both our interest that you develop your own distinctive branding for your applications, and use Facebook's trademarks only as specifically authorized under Facebook's policies.

By combining your logo with prominent use of our F logo, in close proximity to a statement that you offer the "official" want button, and on a page under the header "partner," you are suggesting that your service is endorsed or sponsored by Facebook. This is not permitted without Facebook's authorization.

In addition, you may not combine our F logo with your logo, or incorporate our logo into the lockups for your "want" button.

Accordingly, we require that you remove the F logo from your buttons and the cover image of the pages listed above. You may refer to our brand permissions center at www.facebook.com/brandpermissions for more information about proper and authorized uses of our brand assets. Please confirm in writing within 48 hours that these changes have been completed.

Finally, I note that you say on your website that your button is fully integrated with Facebook's Open Graph 2.0. It is my understanding that it is impossible for your button to result in posts to Facebook under Open Graph 2.0, because your app has not yet been approved by Facebook. Accordingly, you would be served by revising your materials to reflect that reality, in order to avoid misleading your customers.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Regards,
Gretchen
Facebook Legal