

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF MICHIGAN
SOUTHERN DIVISION

LOUIS ANTHONY WILBON,

Plaintiff,

Case No. 1:13-cv-1155

v.

Honorable Paul L. Maloney

GEORGE S. BUTH et al.,

Defendants.

OPINION DENYING LEAVE TO PROCEED IN FORMA PAUPERIS - THREE STRIKES

Plaintiff, a prisoner incarcerated at Charles Egeler Reception and Guidance Center (RGC), filed a complaint pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Plaintiff seeks leave to proceed in forma pauperis. Because Plaintiff has filed at least three lawsuits that were dismissed as frivolous, malicious or for failure to state a claim, he is barred from proceeding in forma pauperis under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(g). The Court will order Plaintiff to pay the $400.00 civil action filing fee applicable to those not permitted to proceed in forma pauperis within twenty-eight (28) days of this opinion and accompanying order. If Plaintiff fails to do so, the Court will order that his action be dismissed without prejudice. Even if the case is dismissed, Plaintiff will be responsible for payment of the $400.00 filing fee in accordance with In re Alea, 286 F.3d 378, 380-81 (6th Cir. 2002).

Discussion

The Prison Litigation Reform Act (PLRA), Pub. L. No. 104-134, 110 Stat. 1321 (1996), which was enacted on April 26, 1996, amended the procedural rules governing a prisoner's request for the privilege of proceeding in forma pauperis. As the Sixth Circuit has stated, the PLRA was “aimed at the skyrocketing numbers of claims filed by prisoners – many of which are meritless – and the corresponding burden those filings have placed on the federal courts.” Hampton v. Hobbs, 106 F.3d 1281, 1286 (6th Cir. 1997). For that reason, Congress put into place economic incentives to prompt a prisoner to “stop and think” before filing a complaint. Id. For example, a prisoner is liable for the civil action filing fee, and if the prisoner qualifies to proceed in forma pauperis, the prisoner may pay the fee through partial payments as outlined in 28 U.S.C. § 1915(b). The constitutionality of the fee requirements of the PLRA has been upheld by the Sixth Circuit. Id. at 1288.

In addition, another provision reinforces the “stop and think” aspect of the PLRA by preventing a prisoner from proceeding in forma pauperis when the prisoner repeatedly files meritless lawsuits. Known as the “three-strikes” rule, the provision states:

In no event shall a prisoner bring a civil action or appeal a judgment in a civil action or proceeding under [the section governing proceedings in forma pauperis] if the prisoner has, on 3 or more prior occasions, while incarcerated or detained in any facility, brought an action or appeal in a court of the United States that was dismissed on the grounds that it is frivolous, malicious, or fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted, unless the prisoner is under imminent danger of serious physical injury.

28 U.S.C. § 1915(g). The statutory restriction “[i]n no event,” found in § 1915(g), is express and unequivocal. The statute does allow an exception for a prisoner who is “under imminent danger of serious physical injury.” The Sixth Circuit has upheld the constitutionality of the “three-strikes” rule against arguments that it violates equal protection, the right of access to the courts, and due process, and that it constitutes a bill of attainder and is ex post facto legislation. Wilson v. Yaklich, 148 F.3d 596, 604-06 (6th Cir. 1998); accord Pointer v. Wilkinson, 502 F.3d 369, 377 (6th Cir. 2007) (citing Wilson, 148 F.3d at 604-06); Rodriguez v. Cook, 169 F.3d 1176, 1178-82 (9th Cir. 1999); Rivera

v. Allin, 144 F.3d 719, 723-26 (11th Cir. 1998); Carson v. Johnson, 112 F.3d 818, 821-22 (5th Cir. 1997).

Plaintiff has been an active litigant in the federal courts in Michigan. The Court has dismissed at least three of Plaintiff's lawsuits as frivolous or for failure to state a claim. See Wilbon v. Baran et al., No. 5:02-cv-60158 (E.D. Mich. Aug. 14, 2002); Wilbon v. Baran et al., No. 1:07-cv-322 (W.D. Mich. July 20, 2007); Wilbon v. Thomas et al., 2:07-cv-11903 (E.D. Mich. July 23, 2007). In addition, Plaintiff has been denied leave to proceed in forma pauperis on at least one other occasion because he has three strikes. See Wilbon v. Ford, No. 2:10-cv-14081 (E.D. Mich. Feb. 10, 2011).

Moreover, Plaintiff's allegations do not fall within the exception to the three-strikes rule because he does not allege sufficient facts to establish that he is under imminent danger of serious physical injury. In order to sufficiently allege imminent danger, Plaintiff must establish that the threat or prison condition is "real and proximate" and the danger of serious physical injury existed at the time the complaint was filed. Rittner v. Kinder, 290 F. App'x 796, 797 (6th Cir. 2008).

In his complaint, Plaintiff alleges claims for a variety of constitutional violations in connection with his arrest, prosecution and sentence for uttering and publishing, MICH. COMP. LAWS § 750.249. To the extent he raises the imminent-danger exception, Plaintiff alleges only that as a result of the constitutional violations complained of in his complaint, Plaintiff suffered loss of liberty, opportunity for proper/needed medical care and physical and emotional pain and injuries. Plaintiff continues to [suffer] physical pain and injury, and emotional stress and injury. These continued injuries pose irreparable harm and injuries. Plaintiff is in imminent danger of serious physical and emotional harm/injury.

Plaintiff's conclusory allegations are insufficient to establish that he is under imminent danger of serious physical injury. Plaintiff does not set forth any allegations describing a real and imminent threat or risk, nor does he explain what physical harm might come to him. Even assuming arguendo, Plaintiff is trying to allege that his incarceration at RGC, itself, is putting him at imminent risk of serious physical harm, he fails to set forth any allegations to suggest that he is receiving inadequate medical care at RGC. Consequently, Plaintiff fails to allege any facts that would support the application of the imminent-danger exception to the three-strikes rule in this case.

In light of the foregoing, § 1915(g) prohibits Plaintiff from proceeding in forma pauperis in this action. Plaintiff has twenty-eight (28) days from the date of entry of this order to pay the entire civil action filing fee, which is $400.00. When Plaintiff pays his filing fee, the Court will screen his complaint as required by 28 U.S.C. § 1915A and 42 U.S.C. § 1997e(c). If Plaintiff fails to pay the filing fee within the 28-day period, his case will be dismissed without prejudice, but he will continue to be responsible for payment of the $400.00 filing fee.

¹To the extent Plaintiff tries to allege a claim for deliberate indifference to his medical needs, he fails to allege any facts to suggest his medical needs are not currently being met.
