DEFENDANTS

ORDER SEPARATING CLAIMS & EXTENDING TRO

Originally, Plaintiffs in this case sought only to challenge Mississippi's 15-week abortion ban, claiming it violated their Constitutional rights to due process and equal protection.¹

Consequently, the Court entered a Temporary Restraining Order to prevent Defendants from enforcing the Ban.² Plaintiffs have since amended their complaint, dropping the equal protection challenge to the Ban and adding five separate challenges to Mississippi's other abortion laws.³

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 42 allows the Court to "order a separate trial of one or more separate issues [or] claims" for "convenience, to avoid prejudice, or to expedite and economize." The Court will do so here, separating this case into two Parts. Part I will deal with the challenge to the Ban, and will proceed according to a discovery schedule the Court will adopt after the parties have fully briefed Plaintiffs' pending discovery motion.⁴ Part II will deal with the challenges to Mississippi's other abortion laws, and will proceed according to a case management order the parties are to obtain from Magistrate Judge F. Keith Ball.

² Docket No. 9.

³ Amended Complaint at Docket No. 23.

⁴ Docket No. 16.

On September 24, 2018, the Court will hold a hearing on a preliminary injunction regarding the Ban. The Restraining Order is EXTENDED until 30 days after the conclusion of that hearing, pursuant to Defendants' consent and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65.

SO ORDERED, this the 11th day of April, 2018.
