ORDER DENYING MOTION TO CORRECT SENTENCE

Petitioner Jerry Jimenez (“Petitioner”) pled guilty to one count of being a felon in possession of a firearm, in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 922(g)(1) and 924(a)(2), and the Court sentenced him to 69 months’ imprisonment.

Now before the Court are Petitioner’s Motion to Vacate, Set Aside, or Correct Sentence (Doc. 1) under 28 U.S.C. § 2255, Petitioner’s Motion to Dismiss Petition Without Prejudice (Doc. 15), and the Government’s Motion to Lift Stay and Deny Pending 28 U.S.C. § 2255 Motion on the Merits (Doc. 16). Because the Supreme Court recently rejected Petitioner’s argument in Beckles v. United States, 137 S. Ct. 886 (2017), his § 2255 motion and motion to dismiss without prejudice are DENIED. The Government’s motion to deny Petitioner’s § 2255 motion is GRANTED.

Background¹

On September 5, 2013, Petitioner pled guilty, without a written plea agreement, to one count of being a felon in possession of a firearm. On April 1, 2014, the Court sentenced him to 69 months' imprisonment under the United States Sentencing Guidelines (the "Guidelines"). In calculating Petitioner's Guidelines range, the Court found he was eligible for an enhanced base offense level because he had a prior conviction that qualified as a "crime of violence." Specifically, the Court adopted the Presentence Investigation Report ("PSR") finding that Petitioner's prior Missouri conviction for resisting arrest by fleeing qualified him for an enhancement under Guidelines § 2K2.1(a)(4)(A). PSR ¶¶ 9, 26 (Crim. Doc. 35). This resulted in a Guidelines sentencing range of 57 to 71 months' imprisonment. Id. ¶¶ 58, 59. Petitioner appealed, and the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed his sentence on November 18, 2014. United States v. Jimenez, 583 F. App'x 569 (8th Cir. 2014).

The window to file a petition for a writ of certiorari with the Supreme Court elapsed in February 2015. Sup. Ct. R. 13 ("[A] petition for a writ of certiorari to review a judgment in any case, civil or criminal, entered by . . . a United States court of appeals . . . is timely when it is filed with the Clerk of this Court within 90 days after the entry of the judgment.").

Petitioner filed the instant § 2255 motion on June 15, 2016. The Court withheld ruling while awaiting the Supreme Court's opinion in Beckles. That decision was handed down on March 6, 2017.

Discussion

I. The Court will not dismiss Petitioner's § 2255 motion without prejudice, and will consider the merits of his motion.

The Court first addresses Petitioner's motion to dismiss this matter without prejudice so he may file another motion pursuant to § 2255 without it being considered a second or successive petition requiring the permission of the Eighth Circuit to proceed (Doc. 15). The Government opposes this motion, arguing the Court "should not allow a state or federal prisoner to voluntarily dismiss a post-conviction motion to avoid application of an impending or recently issued adverse decision.” Gov’t Mot. at 3 (Doc. 16). Even if dismissing this motion without prejudice could allow Petitioner to file another § 2255 motion without permission from the Eighth Circuit, cf. Felder v. McVicar, 113 F.3d 696, 698 (7th Cir. 1997) (“[A] petitioner for habeas corpus cannot be permitted to thwart the limitations on the filing of second or successive motions by withdrawing his first petition as soon as it becomes evident that the district court is going to dismiss it on the merits.”); Thai v. United States, 391 F.3d 491, 495 (2d Cir. 2004) (“[I]f a petitioner clearly concedes upon withdrawal of a § 2255 petition that the petition lacks merit, the withdrawal is akin to a dismissal on the merits and subsequent petitions will count as successive . . .”), the Court will not acquiesce in this sort of gamesmanship. Petitioner’s motion to dismiss without prejudice is denied, and the Court will consider the merits of his § 2255 motion.

II. Petitioner’s enhanced base level sentence did not deprive him of due process.

A district court may vacate a sentence if it “was imposed in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States.” 28 U.S.C. § 2255(a). A § 2255 motion “is not a substitute for a direct appeal, and is not the proper way to complain about simple . . . errors.” Anderson v. United States, 25 F.3d 704, 706 (8th Cir. 1994) (internal citation omitted).

Petitioner argues his prior conviction for resisting arrest by fleeing no longer qualifies as a crime of violence in the wake of Johnson v. United States, 135 S. Ct. 2551 (2015), the Supreme Court decision invalidating the Armed Career Criminal Act’s (“ACCA”) residual clause, 18 U.S.C. § 924(e)(2)(B)(ii). Petitioner contends that under Johnson, the Court’s Guidelines calculation violated due process.

This argument is without merit. Petitioner was not sentenced under the ACCA, but instead under a similarly-worded provision in the Guidelines. See U.S.S.G. § 4B1.2. The Guidelines are not subject to a void-for-vagueness challenge under the Due Process Clause like the ACCA's residual clause was in Johnson. Beckles, 137 S. Ct. at 896. Unlike the ACCA, the Guidelines do not fix the permissible statutory range of punishment. Id. at 894. Instead, they merely guide the exercise of a sentencing court's discretion in choosing an appropriate sentence within the permissible range. Id. Petitioner was not sentenced in excess of the statutory 10-year maximum.

Because his claim is based on the same vagueness challenge the Supreme Court rejected in Beckles, it is denied.² Any other grounds for relief are time-barred. 28 U.S.C. § 2255(f) (“A 1-year period of limitation shall apply to [§ 2255 motions]. The limitation period shall run from the latest of . . . the date on which the judgment of conviction becomes final; [or] the date on which the right asserted was initially recognized by the Supreme Court, if that right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review . . .”).

Conclusion

For these reasons, Petitioner's Motion to Vacate, Set Aside, or Correct Sentence (Doc. 1) and Motion to Dismiss Case Without Prejudice (Doc. 15) are DENIED, and the Court declines to issue a certificate of appealability. The Government's Motion to Lift Stay and Deny Pending 28 U.S.C. § 2255 Motion on the Merits (Doc. 16) is GRANTED.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

² Indeed, Petitioner admitted that “[i]f Beckles holds that Johnson is not retroactively applicable to guidelines cases on collateral review, [his] case would necessarily be terminated.” Pet.'s Mot. to Stay at 2 (Doc. 5). Here, there is nothing to be applied retroactively because the Supreme Court held that the Guidelines are not subject to a void-for-vagueness challenge. Beckles, 137 S. Ct. 886.
