Dear Linda,

This letter is to inform you of egregious problems regarding elections, and unfortunately justice within the Treasure State. I hold an Educators License signed by you, and we first met at the 2001 MEA annual meeting at the capitol. I was a student teacher delegate, and as far as I know, the first student to pass an agenda item in front of the full delegation.

With that being said, it pains me greatly to share what I must tell you. Before I do, I am very impressed with you initial rejection of bonus checks issued by Brad Johnson. You are a shining star within a very troubled state.

For the second time, I have attempted to submit recall petitions against my elected officials in Ravalli County. Equal protection has been violated both times. The Recall Act is simpler than a 5th grader can understand. This is too much for Regina Plettenberg. When the law is not followed, and all people are not treated equally this violates equal protection. My right to petition my government was also violated (twice). My right to Recall was violated twice. As I explained to Ms. Plettenberg, I am not trying to electrocute anyone, merely bring an election challenge.

The legal analysis is pathetic at best, and is protecting rogue officers.

Ravalli county further believes that all 29,000 eligible persons from 18 to 99 are registered. You know this is not possible and is burdensome government.

A government should help and protect it's people, not maliciously harm them. Such is the case with Ravalli County. I was a decorated FEMA officer until a fake arrest warrant was issued in 2007. Steve Bullock, current AG threatened the loss of my home in Hamilton, and my job with FEMA if I questioned Ravalli County. I was cited by the Ravalli County Sheriff for defending my home from being burnt down by a drunken neighbor. Combustibles were stacked to the roof of my home which the state fire marshal stated on two visits was "...obviously a violation."

I have previous contact with Allen Miller of your office, since I worked for Ralph Nader's 2004 campaign in two states.

The current signature requirement in Ravalli County asks for nearly 4500 signatures for any initiative, or independent candidate for office locally. I could put myself on as a candidate for US President with 5000 signatures. Does this sound like control to you? It seems that Ms. Plettenberg has no business being an election administrator.

More on the state problems: The group I was a part of in Hamilton found serious problems or criminal activity within the Bar Association, Judicial Commission, Highway Patrol, Supreme Court, and the Montana Justice Department. Ravalli County loves to ruin lives, even encourage 5 county detainees to take their own in 2005.

As I started this letter, I wanted to state the respect I have for you, and your service to Montana. This is no joke, and people here are suffering and dying at the hands of this problem that I am presenting to you. We have contacted the US Justice Department, but are not sure of their efforts. The Hamilton Police chief will be trained by the FBI in Washington, DC this year. When a citizen cannot trust courts, attorneys, or any aspect of their justice system, why should your elections person not turn to your in house counsel?

My options are to become a foreign national (if my rights are not to be upheld, I don't want them), or flee my home in Ravalli County. Acts of intimidation are also coming my way, with even attempts at physical harm.

Please do what you can to provide a just elections department in 56 counties in Montana.

Michael Spreadbury
