

On the court's own motion, Plaintiff was given 30 days in which to file an amended complaint that stated a plausible claim for relief.

Plaintiff filed his Amended Complaint (Filing No. 13) on December 8, 2014. Plaintiff reasserted the allegations set forth in the original Complaint, and added that Defendants were aware Plaintiff suffers from intermittent explosive disorder and they should have known "the change in food servers would anger [him]." (Id. at CM/ECF p. 9.) Once again, Plaintiff failed to allege facts that would allow the court to draw the reasonable inference that Defendants responded to Plaintiff's filing of grievances with an adverse action. The court fails to see how the change in food servers would deter a person of ordinary firmness from filing grievances. Accordingly, the court will dismiss Plaintiff's retaliation claims against Defendants.

Plaintiff also seeks an injunction against the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services in his Amended Complaint. He seeks an order preventing the department from:

keeping seriously mentally ill inmates, as defined in the DSM-5 who have been diagnosed as such, in segregation on a continual basis for more than 180 days, except in cases where there is a strong likelihood, as supported by evidence, the inmate will seriously injure or kill another inmate and/or staff member and/or escape from the institution.

(Id. at CM/ECF p. 12.) Plaintiff alleges he "spent a good portion of his sentence in segregation" when he was housed at the Tecumseh State Correctional Institution ("TSCI"), and that his condition has improved since leaving TSCI. Plaintiff alleges no other facts concerning his time spent in segregation such as how long he was housed there or the conditions of his segregation.

Plaintiff's request for injunctive relief is unrelated to his claims for relief in his Complaint and Amended Complaint. That is, the court does not construe Plaintiff's Complaint or Amended Complaint to be an action alleging unconstitutional conditions of confinement. Moreover, Plaintiff is no longer incarcerated at TSCI in the segregation unit and, as a pro se litigant, he may not represent the interests of other parties. Accordingly, Plaintiff's request for injunctive relief is denied.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that: Plaintiff's Complaint and Amended Complaint are dismissed without prejudice. A separate judgment will be entered in accordance with this Memorandum and Order.

DATED this 17th day of February, 2015.

BY THE COURT:

s/ Joseph F. Bataillon
Senior United States District Judge
