1 Defendant Google Inc., by and through its attorneys, Snell & Wilmer L.L.P. and Wilson
2 Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, hereby moves this Court for an extension of time within which to 3 conduct discovery.

4 This Motion is made and based upon the Memorandum of Points and Authorities
5 submitted herewith, the Declaration of Lance G. Kavanaugh attached hereto as Exhibit 1, and 6 upon such other matters to be adduced by the Court at the hearing hereof.

7 DATED this 19th day of May, 2005.

17 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

18 I.

19 INTRODUCTION

20 On April 13, 2005, this Court entered a Stipulation and Order for Extension of Time for 21 Fact Discovery to Complete Certain Depositions (First Request), which provided that the 22 deadline for completion of the deposition of Plaintiff and certain 30(b)(6) depositions of 23 Defendant be extended to May 20, 2005, and that the April 29, 2005 deadline for the close of 24 fact discovery apply to all other discovery.

25 Good cause exists for the extension requested herein. The requested extension is 26 required because of scheduling difficulties which caused the delay of the depositions in this
27 case. Because of the conflicting work and travel schedules of the parties, the earliest available
28 date for the deposition of Plaintiff is now June 3, 2005. This delay necessitates pushing back

1 the remaining discovery deadlines to allow the parties' experts to fully address any issues raised
2 during this deposition.

3 II.

4 STATEMENT OF FACTS

5 A. Completed Discovery

6 Plaintiff served one set of interrogatories, one set of requests for production, and one set
7 of requests for admissions on Defendant Google by mail on March 25, 2005. Google served
8 responses to Plaintiff's written discovery by mail on May 10, 2005.

9 Google served one set of interrogatories, one set of requests for production, and one set
10 of requests for admission on Plaintiff by hand delivery on March 30, 2005. Plaintiff served 11 responses to Google's written discovery by mail on May 10, 2005.

12 On May 13, 2005, Plaintiff deposed a corporate designee of Google pursuant to Fed. R.
13 Civ. P. 30(b)(6) on the following topics: (1) the standard operation of the Google cache; and 14 (2) the inclusion of Plaintiff's works listed in the First Amended Complaint in the Google
15 cache. On May 17, 2005, Plaintiff informed Google that he would not be taking the deposition
16 of Google's corporate designee on the remaining Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b)(6) topic.

17 B. Discovery That Remains To Be Completed

18 The deposition of Plaintiff, currently scheduled for June 3, 2005, remains to be 19 completed. Expert disclosures, rebuttal expert disclosures, and expert depositions also remain 20 to be completed.

21 C. Need For Extension

22 The need for an extension arises from the fact that the parties previously agreed to extend 23 the deadline for fact discovery in this case, but inadvertently failed to consider the need to 24 simultaneously extend the deadlines for expert disclosures. As a result under the current
25 discovery deadlines and pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(2), Google must prepare an expert
26 report setting forth all opinions to be expressed by its expert without having the opportunity to
27 depose the sole witness in Plaintiff's case -- the Plaintiff himself -- and without having 28 meaningful interrogatory responses from the Plaintiff. (Kavanaugh Declaration, ¶ 3, attached

1 hereto as Exhibit 1)

2 III

3 ARGUMENT

4 During a telephone conversation on May 17, 2005, Plaintiff recognized this issue and
5 agreed to extend the expert deadlines by a month. In reliance on that agreement, Google
6 stopped preparing its expert disclosure. Then, during a telephone conversation on May 18,
7 2005, Plaintiff stated that he had changed his mind, and refused to sign a stipulation to extend
8 the expert deadlines as he had already agreed to do. (Kavanaugh Decl., ¶ 4)

9 Google will be unfairly prejudiced if the expert discovery deadlines are not extended in 10 accordance with the parties' verbal agreement. Given Plaintiff's request to continue his
11 deposition and his failure to provide meaningful responses to Google's interrogatories, Google
12 lacks important factual information upon which its expert, John R. Levine, would base his final
13 opinions. Without adequate written discovery responses or the deposition of Plaintiff, Dr.
14 Levine's expert report will necessarily be incomplete. (Kavanaugh Decl., ¶ 5)

15 Google is not proposing any extension of pre-trial dates. Thus, Plaintiff will not be 16 prejudiced in any way by this extension of discovery deadlines. Plaintiff's refusal to sign the 17 stipulation he agreed to seems to be based upon a desire to obtain an advantage by forcing
18 Google to submit its expert disclosure before obtaining highly relevant factual information.
19 (Kavanaugh Decl., ¶ 6)

20 Google has been diligent in its attempts to schedule the deposition of Plaintiff. On 21 April 26, 2005, Google served notice of the deposition of Plaintiff by U.S. mail. The 22 deposition was to be taken on May 12, 2005 at the offices of Snell & Wilmer L.L.P. in Las 23 Vegas, Nevada. Attached as Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of the Notice of Deposition of 24 Plaintiff Blake A. Field. (Kavanaugh Decl., ¶ 7)

25 Because Google's 30(b)(6) witness was only available on May 13, 2005, the parties
26 agreed to reschedule Plaintiff's deposition. Attached as Exhibit B is a true and correct copy of 27 email to Plaintiff dated May 5, 2005 stating that Plaintiff's deposition would need to be
28 rescheduled based upon the availability of Google's corporate designee. (Kavanaugh Decl., ¶ 8)

1 Plaintiff has since requested that his deposition be conducted on June 3, 2005, and it has 2 been rescheduled for that date.

3 IV

4 CONCLUSION

5 For the foregoing reasons, Google requests this Court for an extension of the existing 6 discovery as follows:

- 7 1. Extension of fact discovery to complaint deposition of Plaintiff: June 4, 2005.
- 8 2. Designation of experts: June 20, 2005.
- 9 3. Designation of rebuttal experts: July 11, 2005.
- 10 4. Expert discovery: August 1, 2005.
- 11 5. Dispositive motions: August 29, 2005.
- 12 6. Joint Pretrial Order: September 16, 2005.

1 I, Lance G. Kavanaugh, declare as follows:

2 1. I am an attorney at Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, counsel for defendant Google
3 Inc. ("Google") in this lawsuit. I am over the age of eighteen and competent to make this
4 declaration. I make each of the following statements based on my personal knowledge, and I
5 could, if necessary, testify to the truth of each of them.

6 2. I submit this declaration in support of Google's ex parte motion to extend discovery.
7 On May 17, 2005, pro se plaintiff Blake A. Field (the "Plaintiff") and I verbally agreed to 8 extend expert discovery deadlines, but Plaintiff later reneged.

9 3. The need for an extension arises from the fact that the parties previously agreed to 10 extend the deadline for fact discovery in this case, but inadvertently failed to consider the need
11 to simultaneously extend the deadlines for expert disclosures. As a result, under the current
12 discovery deadlines and pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(2), Google must prepare an expert
13 report setting forth all opinions to be expressed by its expert without having the opportunity to
14 depose the sole witness in Plaintiff's case – the Plaintiff himself – and without having 15 meaningful interrogatory responses from the Plaintiff.

16 4. During a telephone conversation on May 17 2005, Plaintiff recognized this issue and 17 agreed to extend the expert deadlines by a month. In reliance on that agreement, Google stopped
18 preparing its expert disclosure. Then, during a telephone conversation on May 18, 2005, the 19 Plaintiff stated that he had changed his mind, and refused to sign a stipulation to extend the 20 expert deadlines as he had already agreed to do.

21 5. Google will be unfairly prejudiced if the expert discovery deadlines are not extended
22 in accordance with the parties' verbal agreement. Given Plaintiff's request to continue his
23 deposition and his failure to provide meaningful responses to Google's interrogatories, Google
24 lacks important factual information upon which its expert, John R. Levine, would base his final
25 opinions. Without adequate written discovery responses or the deposition of the Plaintiff, Dr.
26 Levine's expert report will necessarily be incomplete.

27 6. Google is not proposing any extension of pre-trial dates. Thus, the Plaintiff will not 28 be prejudiced in any way by this extension of discovery deadlines. Plaintiff's refusal to sign the

1 stipulation he agreed to seems to be based upon a desire to obtain an advantage by forcing
2 Google to submit its expert disclosure before obtaining highly relevant factual information.

3 7. Google has been diligent in its attempts to schedule the deposition of Plaintiff. On 4 April 26, 2005, Google served notice of the deposition of Plaintiff by U.S. Mail. The deposition
5 was to be taken on May 12, 2005 at the offices of Snell & Wilmer L.L.P. in Las Vegas, Nevada.
6 Attached as Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of the Notice of Deposition of Plaintiff Blake A.
7 Field.

8 8. Because Google's 30(b)(6) witness was only available on May 13, 2005, the parties
9 agreed to reschedule Plaintiff's deposition. Attached as Exhibit B is a true and correct copy of
10 email to Plaintiff dated May 5, 2005 stating that Plaintiff's deposition would need to be
11 rescheduled based upon the availability of Google's corporate designee.

12 9. Plaintiff has since requested that his deposition be conducted on June 3, 2005, and it
13 has been scheduled for that date.

14
15 I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the laws of the United States of 16 America that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on May 18, 2005, at Palo Alto,

Blake,

Google's designee for the following two 30(b)(6) topics is available for deposition on Friday, May 13, 2005 in Palo Alto:

- * The standard operation of the Google cache; and
- * The inclusion of Plaintiffs works listed in the First Amended Complaint in the Google Cache.

Please confirm that this date is acceptable by 12 p.m. PDT tomorrow. If we do not receive confirmation from you by then, we cannot guarantee that the witness will remain available at that time. I've left you voicemail regarding this as well but haven't heard back.

Note that if this date is acceptable, we will need to reschedule your deposition, which is currently noticed for May 12.
