

1 Order to Show Cause, and Alternatively Request for Continuance to Conduct Discovery Pursuant 2 to FRCP 56(f). (Dkt. #18). Professor Jason Schultz filed Brief of Amicus Curiae. (Dkt. #21).
3 Righthaven filed its Reply in Support of Plaintiff's Response to Order to Show Cause. (Dkt. #22).
4 Righthaven filed an Opposition to Professor Jason Schultz filed Brief of Amicus Curiae. (Dkt.
5 #24). Righthaven filed Plaintiff's Identification of Genuine Issues of Material Fact that Require 6 Resolution Prior to Continued Fair Use Hearing. (Dkt. #28). Defendants filed an Opposition to 7 Plaintiff's Identification of Genuine Issues of Material Fact that Require Resolution Prior to 8 Continued Fair Use Hearing. (Dkt. #29). Professor Schultz filed Brief of Amicus Curiae
9 Professor Jason Schultz in Response to Plaintiff's Identification of Genuine Issues of Material Fact
10 that Require Resolution Prior to Continued Fair Use Hearing. (Dkt. #30). Thereafter, the Court
11 reset the hearing for oral argument on the Order to Show Cause for March 18, 2011.
12

13 The Court, having considered the papers and pleadings submitted and oral arguments of 14 the parties present, finds there are no issues of material fact precluding the entry of judgment
15 pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(f)(3).

16 Specifically, as to the first fair use factor – the purpose and character of the use – the Court
17 finds there is no dispute as to Defendants' non-profit status and the fact that Defendants did not 18 sell, license, or publish the work commercially. See Affidavit of Kayse Jama (Dkt. #7-2) and 19 Complaint, Exhibit 2 (Dkt. #1-1). The Court further finds that no reasonable jury could conclude 20 that any general donation or solicitation for donations to Defendants' mission would constitute 21 using the work for a commercial purpose. Moreover, the Court finds that Defendants have made a 22 transformative use by targeting a different audience for a different purpose than the original 23 publisher, the Las Vegas Review-Journal. See Perfect 10, Inc. v. Amazon.com, Inc., 487 F. 3d 701,
24 722 (9th Cir. 2007) (finding fair use where defendant used a copyrighted work "in a new context 25 to serve a different purpose"). The Court also finds that because Righthaven does not exploit or 26 offer the work to the public in any form, there can be no substitution of the Defendants' use for 27
28

1 Righthaven's use of the work under the first fair use factor. See Perfect 10, Inc. v. Amazon.com,
2 Inc., 508 F.3d 1146 (9th Cir. 2007). This factor weighs in favor of Defendants.

3 As to the second fair use factor – the nature of the work – the Court finds no genuine issue
4 of material fact, because the nature of the work can be determined by examination of the article.
5 Complaint Exhibit 1 (Dkt. #1-1). The news story at issue is largely factual and thus deserving of 6 minimal copyright protection. This factor weighs heavily in favor of Defendants. See Los Angeles
7 News Serv. v. KCAL-TV Channel 9, 108 F.3d 1119, 1122 (9th Cir. 1997).

8 As to the third factor – the amount and substantiality of the use – the Court finds that while 9 Defendants posted the entirety of the work, this was reasonable in light of the purpose and 10 character of the use under the first factor – to inform its members of important social and political 11 information about immigrant issues. See Amazon, 508 F.3d at 1165; Kelly v. Ariba Soft Corp., 336
12 F.3d 811, 820-21 (9th Cir. 2003). See also A.V. v. iParadigms, LLC, 562 F.3d 630, 642 (4th Cir.
13 2009); Bond v. Blum, 317 F.3d 385, 393 (4th Cir. 2003). Nuñez v. Caribbean Int'l News Corp., 14 235 F.3d 18, 24 (1st Cir. 2000); Field v. Google Inc., 412 F. Supp. 2d 1106 (D. Nev. 2006).
15 Because the amount copied was reasonable in relation to the purpose of the copying, this factor 16 favors neither party. See Campbell v. Acuff-Rose Music, Inc., 510 US 569, 586 (1994).

17
18 Righthaven's reliance on Worldwide Church of God v. Philadelphia Church of God, Inc., 19 227 F.3d 1110 (9th Cir. 2000) is misplaced. As an initial matter, that case does not stand for the 20 broad proposition that use of an entire work precludes a fair-use finding. Id. at 1118 (recognizing 21 that “ ‘wholesale copying does not preclude fair use per se’ ”) (quoting Hustler Magazine, Inc. v.
22 Moral Majority, Inc., 796 F.2d 1148, 1155 (9th Cir. 1986)).

23 In Worldwide Church of God, a church owned the copyright in a 380-page book written by 24 its founder entitled “Mystery of the Ages.” 227 F. 3d at 1112. The church stopped distributing the 25 book when certain of its doctrines changed. Id. at 1113. A splinter group countermanded that 26 directive by printing and distributing 30,000 copies of “Mystery of the Ages.” Id. When the new 27 group ignored the church's cease-and-desist letter, the church filed a copyright infringement
28

1 action. Id. The splinter group made no attempt to claim that its use was transformative or served
2 some different purpose than the original work. Instead, the group merely relied on its non-profit
3 status as a defense. That was unavailing. By distributing “Mystery of the Ages” in bulk, the 4 splinter group was able to draw thousands to its congregation, and those members tithed 10% of 5 their income to the new church. Id. at 1118.

6 Worldwide Church of God is distinguishable. First, Defendants’ use of the short news 7 article at issue serves a different purpose than the original work by providing information to its 8 members concerning the specialized topic of immigrant and refugee rights. See Amazon, 508 F.3d 9 at 1165 (“making an exact copy of a work may be transformative so long as the copy serves a 10 different function than the original work”). Second, as discussed above, Defendants’ use was not 11 competitive with either Righthaven’s use or even the use of the original copyright owner, the 12 Review-Journal. By contrast, the parties in Worldwide Church of God were directly competing for 13 same tithing members.

14
15 As to the fourth factor – the effect of the use upon the potential market for or value of the 16 original work – the Court finds that Defendants use was socially beneficial in that it informed its 17 members of important social and political information. Amazon, 487 F.3d at 724-25; Field, 412 F.
18 Supp. 2d at 1119 (finding fair use where Google’s cache of works served “different and socially 19 important purposes” than the original works). Furthermore, Righthaven has failed to produce any 20 evidence that there is a potential market for the work in this case, as it does not make any 21 commercial use of the work. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(d) Declaration of Shawn Mangano (Dkt. #15)
22 and Righthaven’s Identification of Genuine Issues of Material Fact that Require Resolution Prior 23 to Continued Fair Use Hearing (Dkt. #28). See also Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(1) (“A party asserting 24 that a fact . . . is genuinely disputed must support the assertion by . . . citing to particular parts of 25 materials in the record.”); Matushita Elec. Indus. Co., Ltd. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 26 587 (1986) (“the nonmoving party must come forward with ‘specific facts showing that there is a 27 genuine issue for trial.’”) (quoting former Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e)) (emphasis in Matushita); 28

1 Precision Airmotive Corp. v. Rivera, 288 F.Supp.2d 1151, 1154 (W.D. Wash. 2003) (“A
2 continuance is not justified when all the information and knowledge is already in Plaintiff’s 3 possession.”).

4 Moreover, in light of eBay Inc. v. MercExchange, LLC, 547 U.S. 388 (2006), where the 5 Supreme Court held that there should be no presumption of harm where the holder of a patent does 6 not commercially exploit the patented invention, this Court finds that the same reasoning should 7 apply under the fourth fair use factor where a copyright holder does not commercially exploit a
8 copyrighted work. See Salinger v. Colting, 607 F.3d 68 (2nd Cir. 2010) (applying eBay’s
9 reasoning to copyright law); Blanch v. Koons, 467 F. 3d 244, 258 (2d Cir. 2006) (fourth factor 10 “greatly favors” a fair use finding where the copyright holder was not commercially exploiting 11 photograph); Field, 412 F. Supp. 2d at 1121 (fourth factor favored defendant where there was “no
12 evidence of any market for [the copyright holder’s] works.”); NIMMER ON COPYRIGHT §
13 13.05[A][4] (2010) (“On occasion, the lack of market harm is apparent.”). This factor also weighs 14 in favor of defendants.
15

16 Finally, the four factors must be considered “in light of the purposes of copyright,” which 17 are “[t]o promote the Progress of Science and useful Arts and to serve the welfare of the public.”
18 Perfect 10 v. Amazon.com, 508 F.3d at 1163 (internal citations omitted). In light of the above
19 findings, the Court concludes that Defendants’ use advances the Copyright Act’s purpose.
20

21 Accordingly,

22 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that summary judgment be 23 GRANTED in favor of Defendants.

24 DATED this ____ day of March, 2011.
