Tea Party power fuels Angle

BY LAURA MYERS
LAS VEGAS REVIEW-JOURNAL

Fueled by a burst of support from the Tea Party, Sharron Angle has rocketed into a near dead heat with Sue Lowden in the white-hot U.S. Senate Republican primary, according to a new poll commissioned by the Las Vegas Review-Journal.

Lowden, who had been the Republican front-runner since February, lost support to Angle, the former Reno assemblywoman seen by likely Republican voters as the most conservative candidate in a contest in which three-quarters of Republican voters say they're somewhat or very conservative, the poll showed.

Danny Tarkanian lost ground to Angle, too. She passed him after gaining a bit of political star power and a bunch of financial support from an endorsement by the Tea Party Express, which launched radio and TV ads to help her win the GOP nomination to face U.S. Sen. Harry Reid in the fall.

All three top GOP candidates are capable of beating Reid, according to previous polls that have shown the Democratic Party incumbent in an uphill battle to win a fifth Senate term on Nov. 2.

"I'm confident that we'll be able to win the primary and also to defeat Harry Reid," Angle said Wednesday from rural Fallon, where she campaigned door to door, spoke to a group at the convention center and attended a gun supporters event. "These numbers really confirm what we've been fairly certain of all along: that if people heard my conservative message, they would respond."

Angle said voters can look at her eight-year record in the Assembly that shows a consistent pattern of opposing taxes and supporting smaller government. Those are two tenets of the Tea Party movement and conservative values in opposition to the Democratic Party's hold on Congress and the White House, government bailouts of industry, and Reid's and President Barack Obama's signature health insurance overhaul.

Lowden said she wasn't worried about the tightening primary race nine days before early voting starts May 22 and three weeks before the June 8 vote.

"We're confident that our lead will hold," Lowden said in an interview in Las Vegas. "We'll have a strong get-out-the-vote effort. You only need one more vote to win, but we'll win by more than that."

According to the Mason-Dixon poll, if the Republican primary were held today: Lowden would win 30 percent of the vote; Angle 25 percent; Tarkanian 22 percent; John Chachas 3 percent; and Chad Christensen 2 percent.

The telephone survey of 500 likely Republican voters in Nevada was taken on Monday and Tuesday and has a margin of error of plus or minus 4.5 percentage points.

In a similar Mason-Dixon survey taken April 5 to 7, Lowden led the crowded field of 12 Republicans with 45 percent support compared with 27 percent for Tarkanian, 5 percent for Angle, 4 percent for Las Vegas Assemblyman Christensen and 3 percent for Chachas, an Ely native and Wall Street investment banker.

"Lowden's loss has been Angle's gain," said Mason-Dixon pollster Brad Coker. "Lowden has been the anointed front-runner for a couple of months, which made her a target for everybody. And Angle got the Tea Party endorsement, and she's the most conservative candidate running."

Angle also has a history "of running strong down the stretch" in close elections, Coker added.

In 2006, Angle was all but counted out in a congressional GOP primary until the last few weeks, and then she narrowly lost to Rep. Dean Heller by fewer than 500 votes. Two years ago, she almost beat state Senate Minority Leader Bill Raggio, R-Reno, one of Nevada's most powerful lawmakers.

"Obviously, Angle still has her homestretch legs," Coker said, although he added that anything can happen in such a competitive race. "I think you have to be conservative and say it's a three-way race. But trend-wise, Angle has jumped out quickly and has the momentum."

The Tea Party Express, the national group that held an anti-Reid protest in the senator's hometown of Searchlight in late March, shook up the race April 15 when it endorsed Angle at a Tax Day news conference in Washington, D.C. The group's political action committee has been raising money for Angle with a goal of $500,000. It already has spent $200,000 for her, including on radio and TV ads.

Meantime, Angle has been stacking up endorsements from more than two dozen conservative groups and people, from Gun Owners of America to "Joe the Plumber."

Angle's name recognition has jumped to 85 percent compared with 67 percent about a month ago. Only 4 percent of GOP primary voters do not know Lowden's name, and only 3 percent do not know Tarkanian, a real estate developer and former basketball star for the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, whose dad is well-known ex-basketball coach Jerry Tarkanian.

The Tarkanian campaign expressed skepticism that Angle had risen so high so fast. Jamie Fisis, consultant to the campaign, said his tracking polls show Angle moving up to 16 percent support, Lowden dropping to 30 percent and Tarkanian gaining to tie the GOP front-runner in his best showing so far.

"In my mind it's still a two-way race because Angle does not have the name recognition to be ahead of either of the two candidates in contention," Fisis said.

Lowden blamed part of her recent drop in the polls to attacks from both her GOP foes -- especially Tarkanian -- and Reid, whose campaign has focused on her, criticizing her record as a casino executive who with her husband, Paul Lowden, has owned and managed four hotel-casinos.

The Reid campaign has released records that show problems with health and safety violations at the Lowden properties over the years that resulted in heavy fines and offered details of angry disputes with the unions over medical benefits for their workers.

Tarkanian has criticized Lowden for voting for fees as a lawmaker in the early 1990s and for telling a reporter recently that she understood why some members of Congress voted for the first government bailout during the Bush administration when lawmakers said it was needed to avoid massive business failures and a depression. She since has said she wouldn't have voted for bailouts then or now.

"It's not unexpected that the race would tighten after Harry Reid has spent $8 million going after me," Lowden said Wednesday, referring to how much his campaign has spent. "The Reid campaign and Harry Reid do not want me to come out of this primary, and so they have targeted me."

In the past month, Lowden has been dogged by near daily attacks by the Democratic Party for suggesting people could barter with their doctors for cheaper health care.

She defended her remarks made at a town hall meeting in Mesquite by saying that in the old days, people even used chickens to barter, a comment that prompted video spoofs and late-night talk show jokes about her.

The gaffe hasn't had much effect on Republican primary voters, however, according to the new Mason-Dixon poll, which asked what effect her remarks would have on support for her.

Some 70 percent of those polled said Lowden's bartering remarks would have "no effect" on their voting decision, 15 percent said they would be "less likely" to vote for her, and 12 percent said they would be "more likely" to vote for her. Another 3 percent said they weren't sure.

Lowden said that during her campaign stops in rural Nevada, voters have told her that they're still bartering with doctors to get cheaper medical care in some cases.

"I never said this was my health care policy, but bartering is still happening out there in rural Nevada," Lowden said Wednesday. "Harry Reid is the one who's out of touch if he doesn't know that."

Lowden has been running a primary and general campaign at the same time, which has cost her support among staunch conservatives and Tea Party movement supporters.

According to the new poll, 58 percent said they consider themselves "a supporter of the Tea Party movement." Another 27 percent do not, and 15 percent said they don't know or refused to answer.

"I am a member of the Tea Party movement, as well, and many of my supporters and volunteers are members," said Lowden, who spoke at the Tea Party Express event in Searchlight and has attended many local Tea Party group events as candidates compete for that key slice of the 2010 vote.

"It's not unexpected that Sharron would get their support, but they know I'm one of them, too."

Someone earlier requested corruption allegations against Reid? From associatedcontent.com Oct. 26, '06 penned by Greg Reeson. Interesting

News reports about Democratic Senator Harry Reid's Las Vegas land deals have begun to fade into the distant memories of most Americans when new news surfaced about the Nevada Congressman's possible illegal use of campaign funds. With two reports of alleged impropriety in less than two weeks, I can't help but wonder what's going to come up next.

First, Senator Reid allegedly violated Senate ethics rules when he failed to report a real estate transaction that netted him $1.1 million in 2004 for property he bought three years earlier. The Senator has attributed his failure to report the deal to a "clerical error" and promises to amend his ethics reports to account for the transaction. While he's at it, Senator Reid has revealed that he will report additional land deals that were also omitted from his ethics filings because of "clerical errors."

The most recent news reports allege that Senator Reid used campaign funds instead of his personal funds to pay Christmas bonuses to the support staff at the Ritz-Carlton, where he maintains his Washington residence.

Hmmm. What else has Harry "the war is lost" Reid been up to?

But now the government is looking for a place to put thousands of tons of nuclear waste from reactors. These salt beds could be the place. New Mexicans, however, are faced with the prospect of becoming the nation's default nuclear waste container.

The former mayor of Carlsbad, N.M., is solidly on the "yes, bring it on" side. He says the word "salt," and he grins.

"The biggest asset we have are those salt beds out here east of town," says Mayor Forrest, as he sips iced tea in the restaurant of the Stevens Hotel. Whenever I see Sue Lowden speaking at various political functions, I think of the following Bible verse:

"Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves." (Mat 7:15 - KJV)

Sue likes to talk about her humble beginnings but there is an obvious, but subtle, message that comes through every time I see her on the car that she drives and that message is total self centered thinking. Everything she says is about her - not the issues! "Harry Reid is after me because I'm the only one who can beat him." "I'm a businesswoman and I make payroll every two weeks." These are her favorite pitches. Does she make payroll or does the public corporation she is treasurer make the payroll? I,I,I,Me,Me,Me. If she donated a dollar every time she used the first-personal pronoun, no one would be homeless.

So, it's no wonder that the very conservative and very personable Mrs. Lowden is making a run. Angle speaks about the issues and Lowden speaks about herself. Unfortunately for Lowden, on June 8th, she will learn that the world does not revolve around her.

I was a Lowden supporter but...
For me that leaves Angle or Tark.

I'll be paying close attention from here on out.

Sue Lowden has one big problem....her record. She was a "play ball" Re who supported HR. Now in better times that might have been just a smi when we've learned that Harry lied to us about healthcare costs and sto front of the American people yesterday and lied about Sandra Day O'Co judicial record it means a lot. And Lowden is a moderate Republican whg good portion of blame for the disarray of the Nevada GOP.

Mr. Tarkanian is a journeyman candidate for everything without success mediocre attorney with an undistinguished record. He's being supported same type trial attorneys (G. Dallas Horton) that are the backbone of H; campaign coffers. While he may be a better alternative to Harry, he's j; Lowden light.

I like John Chachas but he poorly timed his entry into the campaign. It I we want real change in direction of our government Sharron Angle is th; choice.

I could change my support from Lowden to Angle. If she continues to sr numbers, it would not be a tough choice as Lowden has shown she tend "empty suit" when it comes to substance. I am impressed that Angle ha in the race and now I am looking closer.

Sadly, I donated max to Lowden already in primary. May need to send / cash -- but already gave a bunch. Bummer.

Angle is the best by far. She doesn't flip-flop. She tells it like it is and th it even if it's something people don't want to hear.

Reid & Lowden deny at one moment what they said the moment before. what they want to hear, then do what the puppetmasters behind the sce them to do. The net result is screw you.

Despite the claims, Lowden will not beat Harry Reid. Like in this primary fast once people find out what she's really like.

I would vote for anyone, including Donald Duck, before I voted for liar, I fire Harry Reid.

This clown is so far out of touch with Nevadans, it is beyond incredible. starting to believe some of his own lieing diatribes.

Enjoy Washington Harry, until November 2nd anyway -----

I've been watching this race a month now. Sue Lowden is a lying snob, Tarkanian I can't figure him out. But Sharon Angle has really impressed not be the biggest conservative but I like the fact that Sharon Angle is s everybody can trust. I don't see much difference between Sue Lowden & Reid.
