Presently before the court is the moving defendant's motion to dismiss complaint. (Doc. # 11). Plaintiff Ramanirahamn filed three documents that collectively represent her opposition: (1) an initial response, (2) a "statement of shock," and (3) an amended response. (Docs. # 19, 20, 21). The defendants filed a reply in support of the motion. (Doc. # 25).

Pro se litigants are held to a less stringent pleading standard than attorneys. Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519, 520 (1972). However, all complaints must set forth enough facts to state a claim that is plausible on its face. Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544 (2007). The court evaluates the pleading according to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8, which requires a short and plain statement showing that the pleader is entitled to the relief sought.

To comply with Rule 8, a complaint must clearly and concisely state which defendants are liable for which wrongs based on which facts. McHenry v. Renne, 84 F.3d 1172, 1178 (9th Cir.1996). Moreover, the complaint should not contain irrelevant or only slightly relevant material.

¹ Id. It is the plaintiff's duty to ensure the complaint is coherent, logical, and well-organized. Hearns v. San Bernardino Police Dept., 530 F.3d 1124, 1127 (9th Cir. 2008).

3 The plaintiff has failed to meet her duty to ensure that her complaint is coherent, logical, and
4 well-organized, and it should therefore be dismissed. The plaintiff has filed a pleading filled with
5 conspiracies, poor grammar, and a montage of stories that are conclusory and vacuous. For example,
6 the plaintiff writes: “I take it now that the Las Vegas United States attorney office in Las Vegas,
7 condone sex crimes, profiting off victims, racial profiling and hate crimes committed on children
8 who are Iranian, my child with a Muslim Iranian father.” (Doc. # 20). This mix of poor grammar and
9 conclusory allegations runs rampant within her 94 page complaint. Not only has the plaintiff failed
10 to provide even a scintilla of evidence to meet the pleading requirements under Rule 8, she has 11 attempted to link the moving defendants with a voluminous smattering of what appears to be every 12 conceivable human rights violation.

13 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 54(b) provides that when “multiple parties are involved, the 14 court may direct entry of final judgment as to one or more, but fewer than all, claims or parties, only 15 if the court expressly determines that there is no just reason for delay.

16 The moving defendants are similarly situated with the remaining defendants. The plaintiff's
17 failure to meet the pleading requirement under Rule 8 applies to her claims against the remaining
18 defendants as they are to the moving defendants. The complaint is therefore also dismissed to the 19 remaining defendants.

20 || Accordingly,

21 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED ADJUDGED AND DECREED that the moving defendants'
22 motion to dismiss (doc. #11) be, and hereby is, GRANTED.

23 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the case of Ramanirahamn v. Fed. Bank. Ct. of Nev, et.
24 al. (2:10-cv-01459-JCM-GWF) be DISMISSED in its entirety.

25 DATED March 21, 2011.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE
