

EXHIBIT 38

30 Dime NFL playoff selection on the BEARS minus the points against the Seahawks. Chicago is a solid 10-point home favorite across the board both here in Vegas and offshore. If you start to see this number tick up to 10½, be sure to get your wager in immediately and grab the 10. At the same time, if the odds dip below double digits, move quickly to grab 9½.

15 Dime NFL playoff selection on the OVER in the Bears-Seahawks contest. This total is ranging from 42 to 43 depending on where you look. These are key numbers for NFL totals, so be sure to shop around and get the lowest total available and play it OVER.

BEARS

Yep, one week after cashing in big with Seattle in its shocking upset of the Saints – I had a 50 Dime winner on the Seahawks plus the points, a 15 Dime first-half winner and a 5 Dime money-line winner – I'm reversing field and fading Pete Carroll's team. Why? Because the way I see, after so many factors lined up in Seattle's favor a week ago, I see only three reasons to support the Seahawks today: 1) They're riding a wave of momentum after last week's stunning upset; 2) they beat the Bears in Chicago earlier this season; and 3) you never know which Jay Cutler will show up for the Bears.

I can't attack the latter point – I've stopped trying to figure out the enigma that is Cutler – but I can poke holes in the first two points. First off, last week was a perfect-storm type of situation for the Seahawks (playing in front of one of the best crowds in all of football; facing a dome team outdoors in the cold, one that had never won a road playoff game, one that was minus its top two running backs and one that was playing its fourth road game in six weeks and doing so on a short schedule; rallying around the "nobody believes in us" mantra). Seattle laid it all on the line in that game, both physically and emotionally – it truly was their Super Bowl – and I just don't see any way they match that intensity today, especially playing on foreign turf.

As for Seattle's 23-20 upset win at Soldier Field on Oct. 17, it was a legit victory. The Seahawks outgained the Bears 353-307 and the defense sacked Cutler six times. However, Seattle was also coming off a bye week (this time, Chicago is the team that's had two weeks to prepare). Also, the Bears did a much better job in pass protection over the second half of the season, when they went 7-2 down the stretch (only losses at the Packers and vs. the Patriots).

The Seahawks followed up the Bears win with a Week 6 home victory over the Cardinals (22-10). It was the only time they won back-to-back games this season until they beat the Rams to get into the playoffs in the season finale, then upset the New Orleans last week. And since the winner has covered the pointspread in each of Seattle's 17 games this year, that means the Seahawks haven't had a three-game SU or ATS winning streak all season.

The last time Seattle won three in a row? When they had a five-game winning streak in the second half of the 2007 season. The last time Seattle covered three straight games? December 2008 (and it was favored in one of those contests). Meaning the Seahawks have played 34 straight games without a 3-0 ATS streak.

Finally, as I pointed out last week, the Seahawks have had a very unique season in that they either win outright or they get their doors blown off. Including last week's victory, they're now 8-9 on the season. Six of their wins were outright upsets (the other two came as a favorite against the crappy Panthers and Cardinals at home). The nine losses? All by 15 points or more, including road losses at Denver (31-14), St. Louis (20-3), Oakland (33-3), New Orleans (34-19), San Francisco (40-21) and Tampa Bay (38-15).

So if that trends hold form, either the Seahawks will win this game outright or lose by at least two touchdowns. As noted already, I just don't think Seattle, which is 16-35-1 ATS in its last 52 road games, has what it takes to win back-to-back games as a double-digit underdog or pull off three straight upsets (remember, they were a three-point home 'dog against St. Louis in the season finale).

Because of Seattle's win in Chicago earlier this season and its win over New Orleans last week, the element of surprise is out the window. The Bears, who ended the regular season a 6-2-1 ATS run and beat the likes of the Jets and Eagles, will NOT take the Seahawks lightly. And as long as Cutler plays smart, Chicago will roll by at least 17 points.

Bears-Seahawks OVER

Don't like the fact this total has skyrocketed from an opening number of 40 all the way up to 43. But the movement is justified when you look at both the history between these teams and also the way both these squads have been trending over the total lately.

Each of the last five Seahawks-Bears clashes have hurdled the total, including a 27-24 overtime playoff game in Chicago exactly four years ago. The scores of the other four contests: 37-6, 30-23, 25-19 and 23-20. So all five have at least reached 43 points.

Seattle easily cleared the total in last week's 41-36 win over the Saints, making the over 9-1 in their last 10 games (including 4-0 "over" on the road). The combined point totals in those nine "overs" were as follows: 48, 54, 53, 66, 45, 61, 52, 53 and 77. Additionally, the Seahawks are on high-scoring runs of 12-3-1 as an underdog, 36-17 as a road underdog, 39-17 as an underdog of 3½ to 10 points, 4-0 in the playoffs, 4-1 as a playoff 'dog, 8-1 in NFC games, 6-0 against winning teams and 6-1 on grass.

Chicago played a tight defensive game at Green Bay to end the season (the Packers won 10-3), but prior to that the Bears played five straight "overs" with final scores of 31-26 (home), 24-20, 36-7 (home), 40-14 and 38-34 (home). Those latter three games (against the Patriots, Vikings and Jets, respectively)? All were played in freezing cold and snow. Chicago also is on "over" runs of 21-10 as a home chalk, 4-1 in the playoffs, 4-1 in playoff home games, 4-0 as a playoff favorite and 8-1 in January.

Look for this one to end up in the 34-17 range.

EXHIBIT 39

RX Junior
Join Date: Oct 2008
Location: philadelphia
Posts: 134

any oskiem sports. thanks,

Reply With Quote

01-16-2011 11:37 AM

#164

Can'tPickaWinner

Super Moderator
[Avatar]

Join Date: May 2007
Location: Ohio
Posts: 92,993

five star
NFL
3 Star Seattle + 10
3 Star NY Jets + 9 1/2
College Basketball
3 Star ST Johns - 1 1/2 Noon est start
3 Star California + 8 1/2
3 Star UNDER 149 Points Washington

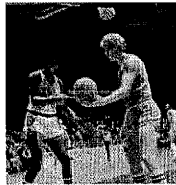

Reply With Quote

01-16-2011 11:38 AM

#165

Can'tPickaWinner

Super Moderator
[Avatar]

Join Date: May 2007
Location: Ohio
Posts: 92,993

Rainman
10* Bears
3* New England
1* Bears Under
1* New England Under

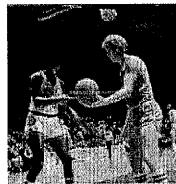

Reply With Quote

01-16-2011 11:39 AM

#166

Can'tPickaWinner

Super Moderator
[Avatar]

Join Date: May 2007
Location: Ohio
Posts: 92,993

TIM TRUSHEL
10* New York Jets

Reply With Quote

01-16-2011 11:40 AM

1drmain

RX Member
[Avatar]

Join Date: Mar 2010
Location: Chicago
Posts: 312

jeff benton

Jeff Benton Sunday's NFL Playoffs Action
30 Dime NFL playoff selection on the BEARS minus the points against the Seahawks. Chicago is a solid 10-point home favarite across the board both here in Vegas and offshore. If you start to see this number tick up to 10½, be sure to get your wager in immeldiately and grab the 10. At the same time, if the odds dip below double digits, move quickly to grab 9½.

#167

15 Dime NFL playoff selection on the OVER in the Bears-Seahawks contest. This total is ranging from 42 to 43 depending on where you look. These are key numbers for NFL totals, so be sure to shop around and get the lowest total available and play it OVER.

BEARS

Yep, one week after cashing in big with Seattle in its shocking upset of the Saints – I had a 50 Dime winner on the Seahawks plus the points, a 15 Dime first-half winner and a 5 Dime money-line winner – I'm reversing field and fading Pete Carroll's team. Why? Because the way I see, after so many factors lined up in Seattle's favor a week ago, I see only three reasons to support the Seahawks today: 1) They're riding a wave of momentum after last week's stunning upset; 2) they beat the Bears in Chicago earlier this season; and 3) you never know which Jay Cutler will show up for the Bears.

I can't attack the latter point – I've stopped trying to figure out the enigma that is Cutler – but I can poke holes in the first two points. First off, last week was a perfect-storm type of situation for the Seahawks (playing in front of one of the best crowds in all of football; facing a dome team outdoors in the cold, one that had never won a road playoff game, one that was minus its top two running backs and one that was playing its fourth road game in six weeks and doing so on a short schedule; rallying around the "nobody believes in us" mantra). Seattle laid it all on the line in that game, both physically and emotionally – it truly was their Super Bowl – and I just don't see any way they match that intensity today, especially playing on foreign turf.

As for Seattle's 23-20 upset win at Soldier Field on Oct. 17, it was a legit victory. The Seahawks outgained the Bears 353-307 and the defense sacked Cutler six times. However, Seattle was also coming off a bye week (this time, Chicago is the team that's had two weeks to prepare). Also, the Bears did a much better job in pass protection over the second half of the season, when they went 7-2 down the stretch (only losses at the Packers and vs. the Patriots).

The Seahawks followed up the Bears win with a Week 6 home victory over the Cardinals (22-10). It was the only time they won back-to-back games this season until they beat the Rams to get into the playoffs in the season finale, then upset the New Orleans last week. And since the winner has covered the pointspread in each of Seattle's 17 games this year, that means the Seahawks haven't had a three-game SU or ATS winning streak all season.

The last time Seattle won three in a row? When they had a five-game winning streak in the second half of the 2007 season. The last time Seattle covered three straight games? December 2008 (and it was favored in one of those contests). Meaning the Seahawks have played 34 straight games without a 3-0 ATS streak.

Finally, as I pointed out last week, the Seahawks have had a very unique season in that they either win outright or they get their doors blown off. Including last week's victory, they're now 8-9 on the season. Six of their wins were outright upsets (the other two came as a favorite against the crappy Panthers and Cardinals at home). The nine losses? All by 15 points or more, including road losses at Denver (31-14), St. Louis (20-3), Oakland (33-3), New Orleans (34-19), San Francisco (40-21) and Tampa Bay (38-15).

So if that trends hold form, either the Seahawks will win this game outright or lose by at least two touchdowns. As noted already, I just don't think Seattle, which is 16-35-1 ATS in its last 52 road games, has what it takes to win back-to-back games as a double-digit underdog or pull off three straight upsets (remember, they were a three-point home 'dog against St. Louis in the season finale).

Because of Seattle's win in Chicago earlier this season and its win over New Orleans last week, the element of surprise is out the window. The Bears, who ended the regular season a 6-2-1 ATS run and beat the likes of the Jets and Eagles, will NOT take the Seahawks lightly. And as long as Cutler plays smart, Chicago will roll by at least 17 points.

Bears-Seahawks OVER

Don't like the fact this total has skyrocketed from an opening number of 40 all the way up to 43. But the movement is justified when you look at both the history between these teams and also the way both these squads have been trending over the total lately.

Each of the last five Seahawks-Bears clashes have hurdled the total, including a 27-24 overtime playoff game in Chicago exactly four years ago. The scores of the other four contests: 37-6, 30-23, 25-19 and 23-20. So all five have at least reached 43 points.

Seattle easily cleared the total in last week's 41-36 win over the Saints, making the over 9-1 in their last 10 games (including 4-0 "over" on the road). The combined point totals in those nine "overs" were as follows: 48, 54, 53, 66, 45, 61, 52, 53 and 77. Additionally, the Seahawks are on high-scoring runs of 12-3-1 as an underdog, 36-17 as a road underdog, 39-17 as an underdog of 3½ to 10 points, 4-0 in the playoffs, 4-1 as a playoff 'dog, 8-1 in NFC games, 6-0 against winning teams and 6-1 on grass.

Chicago played a tight defensive game at Green Bay to end the season (the Packers won 10-3), but prior to that the Bears played five straight "overs" with final scores of 31-26 (home), 24-20, 36-7 (home), 40-14 and 38-34 (home). Those latter three games (against the Patriots, Vikings and Jets, respectively)? All were played in freezing cold and snow. Chicago also is on "over" runs of 21-10 as a home chalk, 4-1 in the playoffs, 4-1 in playoff home games, 4-0 as a playoff favorite and 8-1 in January.

Look for this one to end up in the 34-17 range.

Reply With Quote

01-16-2011 11:41 AM

Can'tPickaWinner ◻

Super Moderator

 Join Date: May 2007
 Location: Ohio
 Posts: 92,993

EA Sports Consultants

50* Bears -10
 25* Jets +9.5
 25* California +6.5

#168

EXHIBIT 40

-APPLICATION-

Title

Title of Work: BEARS Yep, one week after cashing in big 01-16-11

Completion/Publication

Year of Completion: 2011

Date of 1st Publication: January 16, 2011

Nation of 1st Publication: United States

Author

▪ Author: Stevo Design, Inc.

Pseudonym: Jeff Benton

Author Created: text

Work made for hire: Yes

Citizen of: United States

Domiciled in: United States

Pseudonymous: Yes

Copyright claimant

Copyright Claimant: Righthaven LLC

9960 West Cheyenne Avenue, Suite 210, Las Vegas, NV, 89129-7701, United States

Transfer Statement: By written agreement

Rights and Permissions

Organization Name: Righthaven LLC

Name: Chief Executive Officer

Email: sgibson@righthaven.com

Telephone: 702-527-5900

Address: 9960 West Cheyenne Avenue

Suite 210

Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States

Certification

Name: Steven A. Gibson

Date: March 22, 2011

Applicant's Tracking Number: SD016

Registration #:

Service Request #: 1-585573660

Priority: Routine

Application Date: March 22, 2011 07:22:57 PM

Note to C.O.: Please contact Steven A. Gibson or Raisha Y. Gibson at (702) 527-5900 with any questions or concerns regarding this copyright registration. Thank you.

Correspondent

Organization Name: Righthaven LLC

Name: Steven A. Gibson

Email: sgibson@righthaven.com

Telephone: 702-527-5900

Address: 9960 West Cheyenne Avenue
Suite 210
Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States

Alt. Telephone: 702-541-6300

Fax: 702-527-5909

Mail Certificate

Righthaven LLC
Steven A. Gibson
9960 West Cheyenne Avenue
Suite 210
Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States

EXHIBIT 41

Here we go, and here we go in a big way boys, as I unleXsh my 1st Ever Bowl 2500♦ Game of my Life, and it is a play on Fresno State as the small undYerdog versus Northern Illinois in the Humanitarian Bowl. This game is a 5:30 pm eastZrn start, so don't miss it. I also have a 1000♦ college basketball best bet on Texas A&M minus the points over Arkansas. That game goes at 2:00 pm eastern.

Time for the Bulldogs to end their 2 year bowl losing streak, and they do it in a familiar place, as Fresno has competed on this blue carpet many times in the past. Most recXntly they were skunked 51-0 almost a month ago to the date, but the good news for Fresno is they won't be playing Boise State this time out.

No, no, Fresno gets to tangle with MAC rep Northern Illinois, and the Huskies come into this one reeling off their MAC championYship outright loss to Miami-Ohio in a game they were near a 3-TD favorite in. Not only that, but their head coach Jerry Kill left to take over at Minnesota, and he took both coordinators with him!

That having been said, not real sure why the Huskies are actually the small favorite in this game?

Pat Hill is actually 2-0 with his teams in this particular bowl game, and his highly publicized salary pay cut has made his myth-like at Fresno, that is for sure.

The Bulldogs 4 losses this season have come against some stiff competition - Ole Miss, Nevada, Hawaii, and Boise State. Fresno has the size along their offensive line to beat down Northern Illinois smaller defensive front, and again, you cannot discount the fact Fresno is familiar with this venue from their past visits to Idaho.

The Huskies are "bowlZng" for the 3rd straight season, and the 4th in the last 5 years, and their 0-3 ledger getting outscored 81-20 does NOT instill confidence in a play on the Huskies, especially with the team in-flux thanks to the coaching changes installed.

Ride Fresno State as my 1st Ever 2500♦ Bowl Lock of My Life.

In college hoops, strong play on Texas A&M to pull away from Arkansas.

True, this game is not being played at Reed Arena, but Mark Turgeon's team will have plenty of support in nearby Dallas for this game against the Hogs.

Arkansas has caught an updraft, winning their last 4, but it is important to note that they have not played a true road game yet this season, and they have not played the caliber of competition that the Aggies have through their early season schedule.

A&M has tangled with the likes of Washington, Temple, and Boston College, and their stifling defense will eventually wear down this very young Hogs team.

Arkansas is on a 3-8 spread slide their last 11 lined games, and their forays into the Big 12 conference have not gone all that well, at 7-16 against the spread their last 23 games.

Go ahead and lay it with Texas A&M for a bonus 1000♦ winner.

EXHIBIT 42

Strictly a motivation play here. Troy really didn't beat anyone this year and kind of struggled. Ohio lost to Kent in the last week of the season and took them out of the MAC championship game. How motivated are they do you think. One team grateful for a bowl bid and the other is like oh okay. Troy.

Reply With Quote

12-18-2010 09:12 AM

#77

Can'tPickaWinner

Super Moderator

Join Date: May 2007
Location: Ohio
Posts: 92,993

Ats lock

4 fresno +2
3 troy -2

hoops
2 team parlay
6 witchita st -4
6 loyola mary +6.5

4 okla st. -5.5
4 miz st -12.5

Reply With Quote

12-18-2010 09:17 AM

#78

Wagerwarrior

RX Junior

Join Date: Sep 2010
Location: lousiana
Posts: 314

LPW Sports Forecast Middle.Tennessee +6 (College Bowl releases 61% last 2 years)

Reply With Quote

12-18-2010 09:19 AM

#79

Can'tPickaWinner

Super Moderator

Join Date: May 2007
Location: Ohio
Posts: 92,993

From a friend

Trace Adams

Saturday's Selections ...

Here we go, and here we go in a big way boys, as I unleesh my 1st Ever Bowl 2500+ Game of my Life, and it is a play on Fresno State as the small underdog versus Northern Illinois in the Humanitarian Bowl. This game is a 5:30 pm eastnrn start, so don't miss it. I also have a 1000+ college basketball best bet on Texas A&M minus the points over Arkansas. That game goes at 2:00 pm eastern.

Time for the Bulldogs to end their 2 year bowl losing streak, and they do it in a familar place, as Fresno has competed on this blue carpet many times in the past. Most recently they were skunked 51-0 almost a month ago to the date, but the good news for Fresno is they won't be playing Boise State this time out.

No, no, Fresno gets to tangle with MAC rep Northern Illinois, and the Huskies come into this one reeling off their MAC championship outright loss to Miami-Ohio in a game they were near a 3-TD favorite in. Not only that, but their head coach Jerry Kill left to take over at Minnesota, and he took both coordinators with him!

That having been said, not real sure why the Huskies are actually the small favorite in this game?

Pat Hill is actually 2-0 with his teams in this particular bowl game, and his highly publicized salary pay cut has made his myth-like at Fresno, that is for sure.

The Bulldogs 4 losses this season have come against some stiff competition - Ole Miss, Nevada, Hawaii, and Boise State. Fresno has the size along their offensive line to beat down Northern Illinois smaller defensive front, and again, you cannot discount the fact Fresno is familiar with this venue from their past visits to Idaho.

The Huskies are "bowlngg" for the 3rd straight season, and the 4th in the last 5 years, and their 0-3 ledger getting outscored 81-20 does NOT instill confidence in a play on the Huskies, especially with the team in-flux thanks to the coaching changes installed.

Ride Fresno State as my 1st Ever 2500♦ Bowl Lock of My Life.

In college hoops, strong play on Texas A&M to pull away from Arkansas.

True, this game is not being played at Reed Arena, but Mark Turgeon's team will have plenty of support in nearby Dallas for this game against the Hogs.

Arkansas has caught an updraft, winning their last 4, but it is important to note that they have not played a true road game yet this season, and they have not played the caliber of competition that the Aggies have through their early season schedule.

A&M has tangled with the likes of Washington, Temple, and Boston College, and their stiffling defense will eventually wear down this very young Hogs team.

Arkansas is on a 3-8 spread slide their last 11 lined games, and their forrays into the Big 12 conference have not gone all that well, at 7-16 against the spread their last 23 games.

Go ahead and lay it with Texas A&M for a bonus 1000♦ winner.

Reply With Quote

12-18-2010 09:32 AM

#80

Can'tPickaWinner ◊

Super Moderator
██████████

Join Date: May 2007
Location: Ohio
Posts: 92,993

NorthCoast

marquee Geo. Southern + 9

Reply With Quote

12-18-2010 09:48 AM

#81

hook'em ◊

RX Junior
█

Join Date: Sep 2008
Location: Nebraska
Posts: 105

any larry ness

Reply With Quote

12-18-2010 09:58 AM

#82

Can'tPickaWinner ◊

Super Moderator
██████████

Join Date: May 2007
Location: Ohio
Posts: 92,993

ARLON SPORTS

COLLEGE HOOPS

2* So Carolina +18
2* West Virginia -10.5
2* Wisc Milwaukee +10.5

BOWL GAMES

2* So Miss +3
2* Navy +5
2* Tulsa +10.5

Reply With Quote

12-18-2010 09:58 AM

#83

canadianbookie ◊

RX Junior
█

Join Date: May 2010

SPORTSHANDICAPPERKING
(2-1 yesterday freeplay run 25-5-3 last 33)

EXHIBIT 43

-APPLICATION-

Title

Title of Work: 1st Ever Bowl 2500 Game of my Life, and it is a play on Fresno State as the small undYerdog versus Northern Illinois. 12-18-10

Completion/Publication

Year of Completion: 2010

Date of 1st Publication: December 18, 2010

Nation of 1st Publication: United States

Author

■ Author: Stevo Design, Inc.

Pseudonym: Trace Adams

Author Created: text

Work made for hire: Yes

Citizen of: United States

Domiciled in: United States

Pseudonymous: Yes

Copyright claimant

Copyright Claimant: Righthaven LLC

9960 West Cheyenne Avenue, Suite 210, Las Vegas, NV, 89129-7701, United States

Transfer Statement: By written agreement

Rights and Permissions

Organization Name: Righthaven LLC

Name: Chief Executive Officer

Email: sgibson@righthaven.com

Telephone: 702-527-5900

Address: 9960 West Cheyenne Avenue

Suite 210

Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States

Certification

Name: Steven A. Gibson

Date: March 18, 2011

Applicant's Tracking Number: SD017

Registration #:

Service Request #: 1-583999213

Priority: Routine

Application Date: March 18, 2011 09:29:59 PM

Note to C.O.: Please contact Steven A. Gibson or Raisha Y. Gibson at (702) 527-5900 with any questions or concerns regarding this copyright registration. Thank you.

Correspondent

Organization Name: Righthaven LLC

Name: Steven A. Gibson

Email: sgibson@righthaven.com

Telephone: 702-527-5900

Address: 9960 West Cheyenne Avenue
Suite 210
Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States

Alt. Telephone: 702-541-6300

Fax: 702-527-5909

Mail Certificate

Righthaven LLC
Steven A. Gibson
9960 West Cheyenne Avenue
Suite 210
Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States

EXHIBIT 44

15 Dime NBA selection on the ROCKETS plus the points at Memphis. Houston is a 3½- to 4-point underdog depending on where you shop either here in Vegas or offshore. I don't expect much movement in this line, but you should still monitor the odds throughout the day and if you see the number change, act accordingly.

5 Dime NBA selection on the ROCKETS on the money-line at Memphis. The Rockets should be between +140 and +160 on the money-line.

ROCKETS (plus the points and money-line)

7-0. That's the Rockets' record in their last seven meetings with Memphis.

6-0. That's the Rockets' pointspread record in their last six meetings with Memphis.

15.8. That's the Rockets' margin of victory during their seven-game winning streak against Memphis.

7. That's the number of double-digit wins the Rockets have posted during their seven-game winning streak against Memphis – that includes road wins of 101-83, 113-103 and 127-111.

The latter result occurred on Dec. 3, when Houston pounded the Grizzlies as a five-point road underdog. Exactly two weeks later in H-Town, the Rockets rolled to a 103-87 win over Memphis as a scant 2½-point home chalk.

The series history alone – and the fact they're catching points – is enough of a reason to back the Rockets tonight. But it's not the only reason. Houston has rebounded from a 1-7 slump (1-6-1 ATS) with three straight wins and covers, all of them impressive (112-106 road win at the Hawks, 93-84 home win over the Bucks, 104-89 home win over the Knicks).

Saturday's victory at Atlanta was preceded five days earlier by a stunning 108-102 road win at Boston as a nine-point underdog (and the Celtics are 15-3 at home this season).

While Houston has ripped off three straight wins, the Grizzlies have lost two in a row and four of their last six. On top of that, since its 16-point loss at Houston on Dec. 17, Memphis is a sub-.500 team (7-9). The main reason? The Grizzlies have been put through a grueling schedule over this 16-game span, playing 10 times on the road. Just since Jan. 8, the Grizzlies have gone from Oklahoma City to Charlotte to Detroit to Memphis (two home games) then to New Orleans on Wednesday.

After digesting that, consider this: After tonight, the Grizzlies leave for a four-game Eastern Conference road trip that starts tomorrow in Milwaukee!

One final point to make: After giving up more than 100 points in eight straight games, the Rockets held the Bucks and Knicks to 84 and 89 points, respectively, in their last two. At the same time, the offense is riding a six-game scoring average of 105.7. Meanwhile, Memphis has been held under 90 points in regulation in three of its last five (and had just 92 points in regulation in Wednesday's overtime game at the Hornets).

Put it all together, and I'm saying the wrong team is favored in this one. The Rockets not only cover this number, but they beat the Grizzlies for the eighth time in a row!

EXHIBIT 45

THE NORRIS ◊

RX Junior

Join Date: Jan 2011
Location: n.y.
Posts: 43

the sports asylum 3* memphis grizzlies outlaw sports 200 denver nuggets

Reply With Quote

01-21-2011 05:25 PM

#96

just win ◊

RX Junior

Join Date: Mar 2010
Location: CT
Posts: 177

I hear that Seabass is getting pissed at his client or clients whoareposting his plays on these forums. Guess that's why we haven't seen his plays recentley??? To bad he's been donig very well lately.

Reply With Quote

01-21-2011 05:34 PM

#97

1drmain ◊

RX Member

Join Date: Mar 2010
Location: Chicago
Posts: 312

jeff benton friday

Jeff Benton Tonight's NBA Action

15 Dime NBA selection on the ROCKETS plus the points at Memphis. Houston is a 3½- to 4-point underdog depanding on where you shop either here in Vegas or offshore. I don't expect much movement in this line, but you should still monitor the odds througlout the day and if you see the number change, act accordingly.

5 Dime NBA selection on the ROCKETS on the money-line at Memphis. The Rockets should be betwlen +140 and +160 on the money-line.

ROCKETS (plus the points and money-line)

7-0. That's the Rockets' record in their last seven meetings with Memphis.

6-0. That's the Rockets' pointspread record in their last six meetings with Memphis.

15.8. That's the Rockets' margin of victory during their seven-game winning streak against Memphis.

7. That's the number of double-digit wins the Rockets have posted during their seven-game winning streak against Memphis – that incaudes road wins of 101-83, 113-103 and 127-111.

The latter result occurred on Dec. 3, when Houston pounded the Grizzlies as a five-point road underdog. Exactly two weeks later in H-Town, the Rockets rolled to a 103-87 win over Memphis as a scant 2½-point home chalk.

The series history alone – and the fact they’re catching points – is enough of a reason to back the Rockets tonight. But it’s not the only reason. Houston has rebounded from a 1-7 slump (1-6-1 ATS) with three straight wins and covers, all of them impressive (112-106 road win at the Hawks, 93-84 home win over the Bucks, 104-89 home win over the Knicks).

Saturday’s victory at Atlanta was preceded five days earlier by a stunning 108-102 road win at Boston as a nine-point underdog (and the Celtics are 15-3 at home this season).

While Houston has ripped off three straight wins, the Grizzlies have lost two in a row and four of their last six. On top of that, since its 16-point loss at Houston on Dec. 17, Memphis is a sub-.500 team (7-9). The main reason? The Grizzlies have been put through a grueling schedule over this 16-game span, playing 10 times on the road. Just since Jan. 8, the Grizzlies have gone from Oklahoma City to Charlotte to Detroit to Memphis (two home games) then to New Orleans on Wednesday.

After digesting that, consider this: After tonight, the Grizzlies leave for a four-game Eastern Conference road trip that starts tomorrow in Milwaukee!

One final point to make: After giving up more than 100 points in eight straight games, the Rockets held the Bucks and Knicks to 84 and 89 points, respectively, in their last two. At the same, the offense is riding a six-game scoring average of 105.7. Meanwhile, Memphis has been held under 90 points in regulation in three of its last five (and had just 92 points in regulation in Wednesday’s overtime game at the Hornets).

Put it all together, and I’m saying the wrong team is favored in this one. The Rockets not only cover this number, but they beat the Grizzlies for the eighth time in a row!

Reply With Quote

01-21-2011 05:37 PM

#98

savage1

RX Member

Join Date: Nov 2007
Location: massachusetts
Posts: 561

Originally Posted by just win

I hear that Seabass is getting pissed at his client or clients whoareposting his plays on these forums. Guess that's why we haven't seen his plays recentley??? To bad he's been donig very well lately.

What I think probably happened is that he just changed the code, meaning that at least for now non-subscribers don't know it and thus can't hack in-imo these are some of the folks who have been posting the plays.

I will have to check with MY source on Krypton to see if "he" has the new code yet. lol ps He did lose a late posted 400 unit play on Wednesday-I know this because he posted on the website late there would be a 400 unit play going, and then on Thursday said nothing about it other than he had a losing day overall.

Reply With Quote

01-21-2011 05:40 PM

#99

Ezdoesit

RX Member

Join Date: Apr 2009
Location: New Jersey
Posts: 860

SBP Updated
Mil*

EXHIBIT 46

-APPLICATION-

Title

Title of Work: ROCKETS (plus the points and money-line) 7-0 That's the Rockets' record 01-21-11

Completion/Publication

Year of Completion: 2011

Date of 1st Publication: January 21, 2011

Nation of 1st Publication: United States

Author

▪ Author: Stevo Design, Inc.

Pseudonym: Jeff Benton

Author Created: text

Work made for hire: Yes

Citizen of: United States

Domiciled in: United States

Pseudonymous: Yes

Copyright claimant

Copyright Claimant: Righthaven LLC

9960 West Cheyenne Avenue, Suite 210, Las Vegas, NV, 89129-7701, United States

Transfer Statement: By written agreement

Rights and Permissions

Organization Name: Righthaven LLC

Name: Chief Executive Officer

Email: sgibson@righthaven.com

Telephone: 702-527-5900

Address: 9960 West Cheyenne Avenue

Suite 210

Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States

Certification

Name: Steven A. Gibson

Date: March 22, 2011

Applicant's Tracking Number: SD018

Registration #:

Service Request #: 1-585621705

Priority: Routine

Application Date: March 22, 2011 07:23:08 PM

Note to C.O.: Please contact Steven A. Gibson or Raisha Y. Gibson at (702) 527-5900 with any questions or concerns regarding this copyright registration. Thank you.

Correspondent

Organization Name: Righthaven LLC

Name: Steven A. Gibson

Email: sgibson@righthaven.com

Telephone: 702-527-5900

Address: 9960 West Cheyenne Avenue
Suite 210
Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States

Alt. Telephone: 702-541-6300

Fax: 702-527-5909

Mail Certificate

Righthaven LLC
Steven A. Gibson
9960 West Cheyenne Avenue
Suite 210
Las Vegas, NV 89129-7701 United States