1 II. Discussion

2	A. Legal Standard for Reconsideration
3	Where a ruling has resulted in final judgment or order, a motion for reconsideration may be
4	construed either as a motion to alter or amend judgment pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure
5	59(e), or as a motion for relief from judgment pursuant to Rule 60(b). School Dist. No. 1J
6	Multnomah County v. AC & S, Inc., 5 F.3d 1255, 1262 (9th Cir.1993), cert. denied 512 U.S. 1236
7	(1994). Because Plaintiffs filed their Motion within 28 days of the Court's Order, the Motion is
8	considered under Rule 59(e). However, the standards governing reconsideration are the same under
9	either rule. The Court may grant relief for:
10	<ul><li>(1) mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect;</li><li>(2) newly discovered evidence that, with reasonable diligence, could not have</li></ul>
11	been discovered in time to move for a new trial under Rule 59(b); (3) fraud (whether previously called intrinsic or extrinsic), misrepresentation,
12	or misconduct by an opposing party; (4) the judgment is void;
13	(5) the judgment has been satisfied, released, or discharged; it is based on an earlier judgment that has been reversed or vacated; or applying it prospectively
14	is no longer equitable; or (6) any other reason that justifies relief.
15	(0) any other reason that justifies rener.
16	Fed. R. Civ. P 60(b)
17	The Ninth Circuit has held that a Rule 59(e) motion for reconsideration should not be granted
18	"absent highly unusual circumstances, unless the district court is presented with newly discovered
19	evidence, committed clear error, or if there is an intervening change in the controlling law." Marlyn
20	Nutraceuticals, Inc. v. Mucos Pharma GmbH & Co., 571 F.3d 873, 880 (9th Cir.2009) (quoting 389
21	Orange St. Partners v. Arnold, 179 F.3d 656, 665 (9th Cir.1999)). A motion for reconsideration must
22	set forth the following: (1) some valid reason why the court should revisit its prior order; and (2)
23	facts or law of a "strongly convincing nature" in support of reversing the prior decision. Frasure v.
24	United States, 256 F.Supp.2d 1180, 1183 (D.Nev.2003). A motion for reconsideration is properly
25	denied when the movant fails to establish any reason justifying relief. Backlund v. Barnhart, 778
26	F.2d 1386, 1388 (9th Cir.1985) (holding that a district court properly denied a motion for reconsideration in which the plaintiff presented no arguments that were not already raised in his original motion). "Motions for reconsideration are not the proper vehicles for rehashing old arguments, and are not intended to give an unhappy litigant one additional chance to sway the judge."

 Retired Independent Guards Ass'n of Nevada v. Board of Trustees, Independent Guards Ass'n of
 Nevada-Wackenhut Services, Inc. Pension Trust Fund, 2012 WL 1900938, *1 D.Nev. 2012)
 (internal quotations and citations omitted).

Plaintiffs are representing themselves pro se. Courts must liberally construe the pleadings of pro se parties. See United States v. Eatinger, 902 F.2d 1383, 1385 (9th Cir. 1990). However, "pro se litigants in the ordinary civil case should not be treated more favorably than parties with attorneys of record." Jacobsen v. Filler, 790 F.2d 1362, 1364 (9th Cir.1986).

B. Failure to File an Opposition

12 The Local Rules for the District of Nevada provide that failure to provide points and 13 authorities in opposition to a motion "shall constitute a consent to the granting of the motion." LR 7-14 2(d). The Local Rules "no less than the federal rules or acts of Congress, have the force of law." 15 Corey v. McNamara, 409 F.Supp.2d 1225, 1228 (D.Nev. 2006) (citing United States v. Hvass, 355 16 U.S. 570, 574-575 (1958)). The Ninth Circuit has held that delay caused by failure to adhere to local 17 rules does not constitute excusable neglect. See Watson v. Schwarzenegger, 347 Fed.Appx. 282, 285 18 (9th. Cir. 2009) (no abuse of discretion where district court held that unfamiliarity with local rules 19 did not constitute excusable neglect).

Plaintiffs, who have engaged in repeated litigation in relation to the Property, fail to provide any facts or argument offering a valid excuse for their neglect in failing to oppose the Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings. Instead, Plaintiffs beg the question of whether their neglect was excusable by asserting that their "excusable neglect was that [they] failed to file the opposition on time." The Court will not reconsider its prior orders where Plaintiffs fail to offer any valid basis for their neglect of the Local Rules. See Backlund 778 F.2d 1388. Accordingly, the Court continues to view Plaintiff's failure to respond as consent to granting of the Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings and reconsideration is denied.

C. Other Basis for Reconsideration

Plaintiffs also argue that the Court should set aside its prior Order because their late-filed Opposition to the Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings contains "facts and law ... of a strongly convincing nature."

7 The Opposition largely regurgitates the allegations of the complaint, without specifically 8 responding to arguments raised in the Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings. Specifically, Plaintiffs fail to address the following arguments made by Defendants: uninvolved entities are named in the 9 10 Complaint; Plaintiffs cannot recover for wrongful foreclosure because they are in default and no sale 11 has occurred; the fraud claim is defective and inadequately pled; the quiet title claim is invalid; and 12 the claim for declaratory relief is unfounded and cannot survive in the absence if other viable claims. 13 Instead, Plaintiffs' Opposition merely rehashes discredited arguments attacking the validity of the 14 MERS system, arguing that the note was split from the deed of trust when the loan was pooled, and 15 asserting the inapplicable Uniform Commercial Code as a basis for their "show me the note" 16 argument.

The arguments in the late-filed Opposition do not convince the Court to reconsider its prior Order. Even if the Court set aside the prior Order and considered the Opposition, it would still grant the Motion for Judgment on the pleadings because Plaintiffs' Complaint fails as a matter of law.
Accordingly, reconsideration is denied.
