ORDER

On March 9, 2015, this court entered an order that granted in part, and denied in part, respondents’ motion to dismiss (ECF No. 48). ECF No. 60. Having concluded that petitioner’s amended petition contains unexhausted claims, the court gave the petitioner thirty days to either abandon his unexhausted claims, voluntarily dismiss his petition without prejudice while he pursues exhaustion in state court, or file a motion for stay and abeyance pursuant to Rhines v. Weber, 544 U.S. 269 (2005). On May 18, 2015, the court entered an order that extended that deadline for twenty days. ECF No. 70. On June 8, 2015, petitioner, through counsel, filed a motion for stay and abeyance. ECF No. 71. For the reasons that follow, that motion shall be granted.

In Rhines v. Weber, 544 U.S. 269 (2005), the Supreme Court placed limitations upon the discretion of the court to facilitate habeas petitioners' return to state court to exhaust claims. The Rhines Court stated:

1 [S]tay and abeyance should be available only in limited circumstances. Because 2 granting a stay effectively excuses a petitioner's failure to present his claims first to 3 the state courts, stay and abeyance is only appropriate when the district court 4 determines there was good cause for the petitioner's failure to exhaust his claims first 5 in state court. Moreover, even if a petitioner had good cause for that failure, the 6 district court would abuse its discretion if it were to grant him a stay when his 7 unexhausted claims are plainly meritless. Cf. 28 U.S.C. § 2254(b)(2) (“An application
8 for a writ of habeas corpus may be denied on the merits, notwithstanding the failure
9 of the applicant to exhaust the remedies available in the courts of the State”).

10 Rhines, 544 U.S. at 277.

11 The Court in Rhines went on to state that, “[I]t likely would be an abuse of discretion for a 12 district court to deny a stay and to dismiss a mixed petition if the petitioner had good cause for his 13 failure to exhaust, his unexhausted claims are potentially meritorious, and there is no indication that 14 the petitioner engaged in intentionally dilatory litigation tactics.” Id. at 278.

15 Thus, the court may stay a petition containing both exhausted and unexhausted claims if: (1)
16 the habeas petitioner has good cause; (2) the unexhausted claims are potentially meritorious; and (3)
17 petitioner has not engaged in dilatory litigation tactics. Rhines, 544 U.S. at 277; Gonzalez v. Wong,
18 667 F.3d 965, 977–80 (9th Cir. 2011). “[G]ood cause turns on whether the petitioner can set forth a 19 reasonable excuse, supported by sufficient evidence, to justify [the failure to exhaust a claim in state 20 court].” Blake v. Baker, 745 F.3d 977, 982 (9th Cir. 2014). “While a bald assertion cannot amount to 21 a showing of good cause, a reasonable excuse, supported by evidence to justify a petitioner's failure 22 to exhaust, will.” Id. An indication that the standard is not particularly stringent can be found in 23 Pace v. DiGuglielmo, 544 U.S. 408 (2005), where the Supreme Court stated that: “[a] petitioner's 24 reasonable confusion about whether a state filing would be timely will ordinarily constitute ‘good 25 cause’ to excuse his failure to exhaust.” Pace, 544 U.S. at 416 (citing Rhines, 544 U.S. at 278).

26 Here, Leavitt contends that his state post-conviction counsel was ineffective and, despite 27 Leavitt’s repeated requests, failed to present issues to the state court that are now before this court as 28 unexhausted claims. The court of appeals in Blake held that ineffective assistance of counsel by 29 post-conviction counsel can constitute good cause to obtain a Rhines stay. Blake, 745 F.3d at 983.

1 In so holding, the court noted that its decision was consistent with Martinez v. Ryan, — U.S. —, 2 —, 132 S.Ct. 1309, 1315 (2012), in which the United States Supreme Court held that ineffective
3 assistance by state post-conviction counsel “at initial-review collateral proceedings may establish 4 cause for a prisoner's procedural default of a claim of ineffective assistance at trial.” Id. (quoting
5 Martinez, 132 S.Ct. at 1315)

6 Leavitt has demonstrated good cause under Rhines for failing to exhaust certain claims prior 7 to filing his federal petition. In reaching this conclusion, the court is deciding only the preliminary 8 procedural issue of whether the federal action should be stayed while the petitioner pursues further
9 exhaustion in the state courts. See Blake, 745 F.3d at 984 (satisfaction of the Rhines good-cause 10 standard “only permits a petitioner to return to state court . . . to exhaust his unexhausted claims” and 11 thus does not require a stronger showing than that required to establish cause under Martinez to 12 overcome a procedural default). The court reserves judgment as to merits of petitioner’s 13 unexhausted habeas claims and as to whether any procedural default of those claims shall be 14 excused. Cf. Gonzalez, 667 F.3d 965, 979–80 (9th Cir.2011), cert. denied, 133 S.Ct. 155 (2012)
15 (noting that, in the circumstances presented, a stay was appropriate because it provided the state
16 courts with the first opportunity to resolve a Brady claim based upon evidence developed on federal 17 habeas review).

18 Respondents do not dispute that Leavitt’s unexhausted claims are not “plainly meritless” and 19 that Leavitt has not engaged in dilatory litigation tactics. Because this court concludes that Leavitt 20 has satisfied the criteria for a stay under Rhines, his motion for a stay and abeyance of this federal 21 habeas corpus proceeding shall be granted.

22 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that petitioner's motion for stay and abeyance (ECF No.
23 71) is GRANTED. This action is STAYED pending exhaustion of petitioner’s unexhausted claims.

24 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the grant of a stay is conditioned upon petitioner further 25 litigating his state post-conviction petition or other appropriate proceeding in state court and 26

1 returning to federal court with a motion to reopen within forty-five (45) days of issuance of the 2 remittitur by the Supreme Court of Nevada at the conclusion of the state court proceedings.

3 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Clerk shall administratively close this action, until 4 such time as the court grants a motion to reopen the matter.

5 Dated October 16, 2015.
