

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

Chester County Employees' Retirement Fund, derivatively on behalf of nominal defendant Echostar
Corp.,

Plaintiff

v.

Charles W. Ergen, et al.,

Defendants

2:13-cv-00325-JAD-GWF

Order Denying Plaintiff's Renewed
Motion for Attorneys' Fees and Reimbursement of Expenses

[ECF No. 62]

11 This is the second of two shareholder-derivative actions that challenged the EchoStar
12 Corporation's compensation committee's 2011 decision to award its chairman and principal 13 shareholder Charles Ergen 1.5 million stock options—700,000 more than the annual cap set by the 14 company's stock-incentive plan. Without first making a demand on EchoStar's current board of 15 directors, two shareholders—Greg Jacobi and the Chester County Employees' Retirement Fund ("the 16 Fund")—separately sued EchoStar, Ergen, and several of EchoStar's directors for fiduciary breaches
17 and unjust enrichment. Mere weeks later, Ergen acknowledged the error; the committee cancelled
18 the 2011 award and waited until 2013 to reissue the 700,000 prematurely-issued options. The Fund
19 acknowledged that the cancellation mooted its claims.¹

20 The Fund now moves for an award of nearly $1.4 million in attorneys fees and expenses from 21 EchoStar, arguing that its lawsuit caused EchoStar's cancellation of the improper grant, resulting in a
22 $6.9 million savings to the corporation.² Although fee awards may be appropriate when a derivative
23 action confers a common benefit to shareholders, I find that the Fund has not shown that it deserves
24 credit for EchoStar's cancellation, that the cancellation ultimately benefitted the corporation, or that 25 its without-demand lawsuit was meritorious when filed, so I deny the motion.

26
27 ¹ ECF No. 19 at 2.

28 ² ECF No. 62 at 28.

1 Background

2 A. EchoStar and the 700,000 Ergen stock options

3 EchoStar is a Nevada holding company whose wholly-owned subsidiaries design and 4 distribute digital set-top boxes for satellite TV service providers and cable companies and provide 5 digital broadcast and satellite services to DISH Network and other satellite services.³ Ergen was 6 Chairman and a director of EchoStar since 2007, he is the company’s majority shareholder, and he
7 served as CEO until 2009. When Ergen stepped down as CEO, he was relieved of any significant 8 management responsibility. Ergen is the majority shareholder and Chairman of the board of 9 EchoStar’s spinoff company, DISH Network, which is also one of EchoStar’s primary customers.
10 On March 31, 2011, EchoStar’s three-member compensation committee, consisting of Tom Ortolfo,
11 C. Michael Schroeder, and Joseph Clayton, awarded Ergen 1.5 million stock options to purchase
12 EchoStar’s Class A common stock, valued at $21.6 million.⁴

13 B. The first-filed action: *Jacobi v. Ergen

14 On December 5, 2012, EchoStar shareholder Greg Jacobi filed a derivative action against 15 Ergen and other EchoStar directors and officers in this court.⁵ The complaint was served on 16 EchoStar on December 12, 2012.⁶ Jacobi alleged that the option grant violated the limitations of 17 EchoStar’s shareholder-approved amended and restated 2008 stock incentive plan (the “SIP”), which 18 provides, “no Participant may be granted Awards . . . in the aggregate in respect of more than 19 800,000 Shares in any one calender year. . . .”⁷ Jacobi contended that the award of options for the 20 excess 700,000 shares two years after Ergen stepped down as CEO was an ultra vires act, and that 21 the sheer size of the entire 1.5 million-option award “was fundamentally unfair to the Company for a 22

23 ³ This summary comes from Jacobi v. Ergen et al, 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 57 (Order 24 Granting Motion to Dismiss). It is not intended as any finding of fact.

25 ⁴ Id. at ¶¶ 5, 48.

26 ⁵ 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 1.

27 ⁶ 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 7 (affidavit of service).

28 ⁷ 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 1 at ¶ 47.

1 host of reasons.”⁸ Jacobi did not make a pre-suit demand on the board to challenge the award, and 2 he alleged that demand would have been “a futile and useless act because the Current Board is 3 incapable of making an independent and disinterested decision to institute and vigorously prosecute
4 this action.”⁹

5 C. The Fund’s second-filed derivative suit

6 Thirteen days after the Jacobi suit was filed and eight days after it was served on EchoStar,
7 the Fund filed its derivative complaint, challenging the very same conduct.¹⁰ Three weeks later,
8 Ergen filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission a Form 4/A in which he acknowledged 9 that the stock-option grant exceeded his limit and that the company was cancelling the issuance of 10 the improperly granted 700,000 options.¹¹ The Fund’s complaint was originally filed in the United 11 States District Court for the District of Colorado, and when the defendants moved to stay it in light
12 of Jacobi, or to transfer it to this court, the Fund acknowledged that “The cancellation of the 700,000
13 stock options granted to Ergen” had “rendered [its] claims moot” and the Fund intended “to 14 voluntarily dismiss” its complaint “as moot,” preserving its claim for attorneys’ fees and expenses,
15 for which a motion had already been filed.¹² The Colorado court transferred the Fund’s case here,
16 and I denied the original motion for fees and expenses without prejudice to the Fund’s ability to re-
17 urge it after I resolved dismissal motions in Jacobi.

18 I dismissed Jacobi’s complaint with leave to amend because he failed to sufficiently plead
19
20
21

22 ⁸ Id. at ¶¶ 50–51.

23 ⁹ Id. ¶ 75.

24 ¹⁰ ECF Nos. 1, 9.

25 ¹¹ ECF No. 19 at 2; see also ECF No. 62-1 at 3, ¶ 5 (acknowledging that the cancellation of the 26 700,000 stock options on January 8, 2013, resulted in all the recovery that the plaintiff could have 27 hoped for).

28 ¹² Id.

1 demand futility.¹³ Jacobi timely filed an amended complaint;¹⁴ defendants again moved to dismiss
2 it,¹⁵ and I granted that motion, ultimately dismissing Jacobi’s suit with prejudice for failure to
3 properly plead demand futility.¹⁶ Jacobi’s appeal is pending before the Ninth Circuit.¹⁷

4 D. The Fund’s motion for fees and expenses

5 Baldly claiming that its second-filed suit was the catalyst for EchoStar’s cancellation of the 6 improperly issued stock options that saved the company $6.9 million, the Fund renews its motion
7 and asks me to order the corporation to pay the Fund’s lawyers $1,384,600 for their efforts—which 8 represents 20% of the value of that benefit—under the common benefit doctrine.¹⁸ The defendants
9 and EchoStar oppose the motion, arguing that it was Jacobi’s complaint, if anything, that alerted 10 them to the problem, but neither lawsuit was meritorious when filed, and the cancellation only 11 postponed the issuance of the 700,000 options, so there was no real benefit to the company from 12 which a common-fund award is warranted. Jacobi argues that the Fund only piggy-backed on his 13 own complaint and, if anyone deserves a fee award, it’s him.¹⁹ Having considered the parties’
14 extensive briefing, I find that the Fund has not demonstrated its entitlement to fees and expenses in 15 this case, and I deny the renewed motion.²⁰

16
17
18
19
20 ¹³ 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 48.

21 ¹⁴ 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 49.

22 ¹⁵ 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 50.

23 ¹⁶ 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 57.

24 ¹⁷ Jacobi v. Ergen et al., USCA Case No. 16-15695.

25 ¹⁸ ECF No. 62.

26 ¹⁹ I granted Jacobi permission to intervene in this case for purposes of this motion. ECF No. 69.

27 ²⁰ I find this well-briefed matter suitable for resolution without oral argument. L.R. 78-2.

1 Discussion

2 “Federal courts . . . have the power to award attorneys’ fees ‘in the exercise of their equitable
3 powers.’”²¹ That power includes the ability to “award attorneys’ fees when ‘successful litigation
4 confers a substantial benefit on the members of an ascertainable class, and where the court’s
5 jurisdiction over the subject matter of the suit makes possible an award that will operate to spread the 6 costs proportionately among them.’”²² This common-fund or common-benefit doctrine has been 7 recognized to apply not just in class-action cases but also in shareholder derivative suits. “Where a
8 derivative suit has conferred substantial benefits to a corporation and its shareholders, plaintiff can 9 recover attorneys’ fees and expenses from the corporation.”²³ The parties agree that when a 10 derivative action has been mooted by the defendants’ post-filing actions, “plaintiffs should be 11 awarded fees if: (1) the action was ‘meritorious’ at the time of filing, (2) a substantial benefit was 12 conferred to an ascertainable class, and (3) a causal connection existed between the action and the 13 benefit.”²⁴

14 A. The Fund’s action was not meritorious when filed.

15 A claim is meritorious when filed “if it can withstand a motion to dismiss on the pleadings”
16 and “the plaintiff possesses knowledge of probable facts [that] hold out some reasonable likelihood 17 of ultimate success.”²⁵ The Fund’s derivative suit is materially similar to Jacobi’s, and it suffers
18 from the same fatal flaws that caused me to dismiss Jacobi’s lawsuit with prejudice for failing to 19 make a pre-suit demand.

20 Before a shareholder can file suit on the company’s behalf, he must first demand that the 21

22 ²¹*Winger v. Si Management, LP*, 301 F.3d 1115, 1120 (9th Cir. 2002) (quoting Hall v. Cole, 412 23 U.S. 1, 5 (1973)).

24 ²² Id. (quoting Mills v. Electric Auto-Lite Co., 396 U.S. 375, 393–94 (1970)).

25 ²³ Cooperstock v. Pennwalt Corp., 820 F. Supp. 921, 924 (E.D. Penn. 1993).

26 ²⁴ Id. at 923 (citing Mills v. Electric Auto-Lite Co., 396 U.S. 375); see also ECF Nos. 62 at 17; 66 at 27 9.

28 ²⁵ Chrysler Corp. v. Dann, 223 A.2d 384, 387 (Del. 1966).

1 board obtain for the company “the action that [he] desires.”²⁶ The pre-suit demand requirement is
2 excused only if the plaintiff demonstrates in his complaint that the demand would have been futile.²⁷
3 To determine demand futility, the district court applies the law of the state of incorporation—in this
4 case, Nevada.²⁸ When a shareholder files derivative claims without a pre-suit demand, he must plead
5 “with particularity . . . the reasons for not obtaining the action or not making the effort.”²⁹ The 6 relevant facts “must be put forth in the complaint and not merely in subsequent briefs.”³⁰ This 7 heightened pleading burden “is . . . more onerous than that required to withstand a Rule 12(b)(6)
8 motion.”³¹

9 When Jacobi and the Fund filed suit, EchoStar’s board consisted of seven directors: Charles 10 Ergen, Michael Dugan, R. Stanton Dodge, Tom Ortoff, C. Michael Schroeder, Anthony M. Federico,
11 and Pradman P. Kaul.³² I found that Jacobi had sufficiently pled that Ortoff, Schroeder, and Ergen
12 lacked the ability to exercise independent and disinterested business judgment to consider a pre-suit
13 demand, that everyone agreed that Federico (a new director) was independent, and that the real 14 dispute lay over Kaul, Dugan, and Dodge. But I ultimately found that Jacobi had not pled facts to 15 suggest that any of those three directors was compromised, so I dismissed Jacobi’s complaint for 16 failing to make the pre-suit demand on the Board.³³

17
18 ²⁶ Shoen v. SAC Holding Corp. 137 P.3d 1179, 1184 (Nev. 2006).

19 ²⁷ See id.

20
21 ²⁸ See In re Silicon Graphics, Inc. Secs. Litig., 183 F.3d 970, 989–90 (9th Cir. 1999) (abrogated on 22 other grounds by S. Ferry LP, No. 2 v. Killinger, 542 F.3d 776, 784 (9th Cir. 2008); ECF 1 at ¶ 10
(alleging that EchoStar is a Nevada corporation).

23 ²⁹ FED. R. CIV. P. 23.1.

24 ³⁰ Ryan v. Gifford, 918 A.2d 341, 357 (Del. Ch. 2007).

25 ³¹ Weiss v. Swanson, 948 A.2d 433, 441 (Del. Ch. 2008) (quotation omitted).

26 ³² ECF No. 1 at ¶ 45.

27
28 ³³ 2:12-cv-02075-JAD-GWF, ECF No. 57. I incorporate my findings, analysis, and conclusion from the materially similar Jacobi case here, specifically including ECF Nos. 48, 57.

1 The Fund argues that it pled facts to show a reasonable doubt about Dugan and Dodge’s
2 independence, so the failure to sufficiently plead demand futility would not have been a basis to 3 dismiss its suit. It basically cites the same facts that Jacobi pled and argued, and which I found
4 insufficient: Ergen recommends Dugan’s compensation for his role as EchoStar’s President and 5 CEO; and Ergen has input into Dodge’s compensation as an executive officer of DISH.³⁴ The Fund
6 argues that other courts have found similar facts sufficient to excuse pre-suit demand.

7 But the cases that the Fund cites do not render the Fund’s allegations about Dugan and Dodge
8 sufficient or compel a different demand-futility decision than I reached in Jacobi. Each is based on 9 the premise that a board member is naturally beholden to the person who controls his employment
10 and compensation.³⁵ And in each, the level of control was greater than what the Fund has alleged 11 here. Dugan and Dodge are alleged to be beholden to Ergen because he “recommends” and “in part 12 determine[s]” their compensation and because EchoStar’s SEC filings show that the company did
13 not consider them to be independent.³⁶ Ergen’s ability to provide input on Dugan and Dodge’s 14 compensation is simply not the level of control recognized to excuse pre-suit demand, and the 15 independence standards for demand-futility and for public filings are entirely different and thus not 16 dispositive.³⁷ I thus find that the Fund’s complaint would have suffered the same fate as Jacobi’s had

17
18 ³⁴ ECF No. 62 at 20–24.

19 ³⁵ See, e.g., In re Ezc Corp Inc. Consulting Agreement Derivative Litigation, 2016 WL 301245 (Del.
20 Ch. Jan. 25, 2016) (target of suit was controlling shareholder); In re Student Loan Corp. Derivative 21 Litig., 2002 WL 75479, at *3 (Del. Ch. Jan. 8, 2002) (target of action was “a majority stockholder in 22 a position to displace” the board member “from his lucrative CEO position”); Mizel v. Connelly, 1999 WL 550369 (Del. Ch. July 22, 1999) (target was company’s Chairman, CEO, and largest stockholder).

23 ³⁶ ECF No. 1 at 13, ¶ 45.

24 ³⁷ Under the NASDAQ standard, any inside director would be considered not independent. This is 25 not the applicable standard for analyzing demand futility. Because independence has a different 26 meaning in the demand-futility analysis than under these additional standards, I find these 27 designations of Dugan and Dodge immaterial to this analysis. Compare NYSE Listed Company
28 Manual § 303A.02 (2009), and NASDAQ Listing Rule § 5605 with Rales, 634 A.2d at 936; see also Stockman-Sann v. McKnight, 2013 WL 8284817, *9 (C.D. Cal. March 25, 2013) (declining to consider these standards in demand-futility analysis); accord, In re Google, Inc. Shareholder

1 the Fund not abandoned it as moot three weeks in: it would not have survived a 12(b)(6) challenge
2 because the Fund did not plead facts to show that its pre-suit demand on the Board was excused as 3 futile. The Fund’s action was therefore not meritorious when filed.

4 B. The Fund has not demonstrated that a substantial benefit was conferred to an
5 ascertainable class.

6 Even if I were to conclude that the Fund’s action was meritorious when filed, I would deny
7 the motion for fees and costs because the Fund has not shown that the cancellation conferred a
8 substantial benefit on the corporation and its shareholders. The problem with the stock-option award
9 to Ergen was that it exceeded the “calendar year 2011” limit set by the SIP.³⁸ To remedy the 10 violation, the corporation cancelled the 700,000 overage and held back that portion of the award, 11 reissuing those options in April 1, 2013.³⁹ Although the Fund’s expert, M. Travis Keath, states in his 12 declaration that the value of the cancellation was $6,923,000,⁴⁰ he says nothing of the reissuance of 13 the options in 2013. Defendants’ expert, Kevin J. Murphy, deems Keath’s decision to ignore the 14 replacement options a valuation error and opines in his declaration that the net effect to the company
15 was essentially a wash.⁴¹ So the cancellation did not ultimately result in a $6.9 million benefit to the 16 corporation and its shareholders, but merely a delay of the award with no net financial benefit. This 17 net effect does not justify an award of fees and costs.

18 C. The Fund has not demonstrated that it was the catalyst for the corporation’s action.

19 When the plaintiff can demonstrate a meritorious action and a substantial benefit to the 20 shareholders, “the burden then shifts to the defendant to prove that the lawsuit did not in any way 21

22 Derivative Litig., 2013 WL 5402220, *7 (N.D.Cal. Sept. 26, 2013).

23 ³⁸ ECF No. 1 at ¶ 30.

24 ³⁹ ECF No. 66-7, ¶ 18.

25 ⁴⁰ ECF No. 62-1 at 67–72, ¶ 10.

26 ⁴¹ ECF No. 66-7 at 11 (“Overall, it is my opinion that the accounting expense of the 700,000 options
27 invalidly granted on March 31, 2011 was approximately equal to the accounting expense of the 28 700,000 options validly granted on April 1, 2013.”).

1 cause their action which ultimately rendered the suit moot.”⁴² Because the Fund did not establish the 2 first two elements, it cannot benefit from the presumption that it was the catalyst for the 3 corporation’s cancellation of Ergen’s stock-option award.

4 But even if it were entitled to the presumption, I find that presumption rebutted. Jacobi filed
5 and served his suit first, so I can reasonably infer that it was the Jacobi suit that put the corporation
6 on notice of the allegation that the corporation’s award exceeded the 2011 annual limit under the 7 SIP. And there is nothing in the record suggesting that the credit goes to the Fund instead of Jacobi.
8 I thus find that the Fund has not satisfied any factor that would justify a common-fund attorney’s fees 9 award in this case.

10 Conclusion

11 Accordingly, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Chester County Employees’ Retirement 12 Fund’s Renewed Motion for Attorneys’ Fees and Reimbursement of Expenses [ECF No. 62] is 13 DENIED.

14 Dated this 31st day of July, 2017.

15
16 _____
17 Jennifer A. Dorsey
18 United States District Judge
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27

28 _____
⁴² Cooperstock v. Pennwalt Corp., 820 F. Supp. at 923.