

1 action.” Tradebay, 278 F.R.D. at 602-03. Courts in this District have formulated three 2 requirements in determining whether to stay discovery pending resolution of a 3 potentially dispositive motion; motions to stay discovery may be granted when: (1) the 4 pending motion is potentially dispositive; (2) the potentially dispositive motion can be decided without additional discovery; and (3) the Court has taken a “preliminary peek” at the merits of the potentially dispositive motion and is convinced that the plaintiff will be unable to state a claim for relief. See id.

5 See Kor Media Group, LLC v. Green, ___ F.R.D. ___, 2013 WL 5838679, *1 (D. Nev. Oct. 29, 2013).

6 The parties must establish a proper basis for staying discovery (and obtain Court approval) even if they 7 have stipulated to doing so. See Local Rule 7-1(b); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 16(b)(4) (the scheduling 8 order may be modified “only for good cause and with the judge’s consent”).

9 The pending motion and stipulation raise several issues not addressed by the parties:

10 1) The case law in this district is well-settled that a blanket stay of all discovery pending 11 resolution of a dispositive motion is only appropriate where that motion will dispose of 12 “all claims against all defendants.” F.T.C. v. AMG Servs., Inc., 2012 WL 3730561, *2
13 (D. Nev. Aug. 28, 2012); see also Tradebay, 278 F.R.D. at 602. More on-point here, a 14 blanket stay of all discovery ordinarily will not be granted with respect to discovery
15 concerning a defendant based on a co-defendant’s filing of dispositive motion. See, e.g., 16 White v. American Tobacco Co., 125 F.R.D. 508, 509 (D. Nev. 1989) (denying motion 17 to stay discovery against one defendant based on motion to dismiss filed by another 18 defendant for which no joinder was filed). The pending motion for summary judgment 19 was filed by Western United, and was not joined by Liberty Mutual. Nonetheless, the 20 parties are seeking a blanket stay of all discovery.

21 2) The Court must also take a preliminary peek at the merits of the potentially 22 dispositive motion and will stay discovery only when it is “convinced” that the 23 plaintiff’s claims will be dismissed. See, e.g., Kor Media, 2013 WL 5838679 at *2-3.
24 In this case, briefing on the motion for summary judgment has not been completed.
25 Indeed, the response in opposition has not yet been filed. It is not clear to the Court how 26 it can take a preliminary peek at the motion for summary judgment when briefing is not 27 complete.

1 3) Staying discovery pending a potentially dispositive motion is improper when 2 resolution of that motion requires additional discovery. See, e.g., Kor Media, 2013 WL
3 5838679, at *1. At the previous hearing on the motion to stay, Western United's counsel 4 expressed concern that the planned depositions may include testimony regarding the 5 arguments made in the motion for summary judgment. Rather than a reason to stay 6 discovery, that appears to indicate that discovery should not be stayed because 7 additional, relevant discovery has not yet been completed. Indeed, staying discovery at 8 this junction would seriously delay the ultimate resolution of this case if the motion for 9 summary judgment is eventually denied so that further discovery could be conducted.
10 See, e.g., Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(d) (allowing court to deny or defer ruling on motion for 11 summary judgment where additional discovery is required).

12 4) The only clearly articulated basis for staying discovery is Western United's assertion 13 that it would like to avoid unnecessary expenses. The case law in this District is clear 14 that inconvenience and expense alone is not sufficient reason to stay discovery. See, 15 e.g., Tradebay, 278 F.R.D. at 601.

16 Again, the Court at this time expresses no opinion as to the ultimate ruling on the pending motion and 17 stipulation, but the unaddressed issues outlined above concern the Court in that staying discovery may 18 cause an undue delay in the resolution of the case without a sufficiently compelling reason for doing
19 so. The Court directs counsel to be prepared to address these issues at the December 13, 2013, hearing 20 on this matter.
