AMENDED ORDER

This case arises out of a homeowner’s association foreclosure sale. Pending before the Court is a Motion for Summary Judgment (ECF No. 50). For the reasons given herein, the Court denies the motion.

I. FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about March 15, 2013, Plaintiff LN Management, LLC Series 5664 Divot (“LN Management”) purchased real property located at 5664 Divot Place, Las Vegas, Nevada 89130 (the “Property”) at an HOA foreclosure sale. (Compl. ¶ 6, ECF No. 1-3). Plaintiff sued Defendants Kit Dansker and JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. (“Chase”) in state court to quiet title to the property and for a declaration that Plaintiff owns the Property free and clear of any purported interests of Defendants.

1 Chase removed and moved to dismiss. LN Management moved to remand. Dansker, the 2 previous homeowner, passed away. The Court denied both the motion to remand and a motion
3 to substitute Dansker’s estate as a party, based on fraudulent joinder. The Court granted the 4 motion to dismiss based on its interpretation of state statutes governing lien priorities. LN
5 Management appealed. After the Nevada Supreme Court resolved the statutory question
6 differently than this Court had, the parties stipulated to dismiss the appeal and conduct further
7 proceedings in this Court. Chase answered and filed a Counterclaim for unjust enrichment.

8 The parties stipulated to permit the Federal National Mortgage Association (“Fannie 9 Mae”) and the Federal Housing Finance Authority (“FHFA”), as conservator for Fannie Mae, to 10 intervene. Fannie Mae answered and filed a Counterclaim for quiet title and a declaration that 12
11 U.S.C. § 4617(j)(3) preempts state law such that the HOA foreclosure sale under state law cannot 12 have extinguished the first mortgage held by Fannie Mae at the time of the sale. Fannie Mae
13 joined Los Prados Community Association (“Los Prados”) as a Counterdefendant. FHFA
14 separately answered and filed an essentially identical Counterclaim. FHFA and Fannie Mae
15 voluntarily dismissed their Counterclaims against Los Prados, without prejudice. FHFA and 16 Fannie Mae have jointly moved for defensive summary judgment against the Complaint and for 17 offensive summary judgment on their Counterclaims.

18 II. LEGAL STANDARDS

19 A court must grant summary judgment when “the movant shows that there is no genuine
20 dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R.
21 Civ. P. 56(a). Material facts are those which may affect the outcome of the case. See Anderson
22 v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). A dispute as to a material fact is genuine if 23 there is sufficient evidence for a reasonable jury to return a verdict for the nonmoving party. See
24

1 id. A principal purpose of summary judgment is “to isolate and dispose of factually unsupported
2 claims.” Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323–24 (1986). In determining summary
3 judgment, a court uses a burden-shifting scheme:

4 When the party moving for summary judgment would bear the burden of proof at 5 trial, it must come forward with evidence which would entitle it to a directed
6 verdict if the evidence went uncontroverted at trial. In such a case, the moving party has the initial burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of fact on each issue material to its case.

7 C.A.R. Transp. Brokerage Co. v. Darden Rests., Inc., 213 F.3d 474, 480 (9th Cir. 2000) (citations
8 and internal quotation marks omitted). In contrast, when the nonmoving party bears the burden
9 of proving the claim or defense, the moving party can meet its burden in two ways: (1) by 10 presenting evidence to negate an essential element of the nonmoving party’s case; or (2) by 11 demonstrating that the nonmoving party failed to make a showing sufficient to establish an 12 element essential to that party’s case on which that party will bear the burden of proof at trial.
13 See Celotex Corp., 477 U.S. at 323–24. If the moving party fails to meet its initial burden,
14 summary judgment must be denied and the court need not consider the nonmoving party’s
15 evidence. See Adickes v. S.H. Kress & Co., 398 U.S. 144 (1970).

16 If the moving party meets its initial burden, the burden then shifts to the opposing party
17 to establish a genuine issue of material fact. See Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Zenith Radio
18 Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586 (1986). To establish the existence of a factual dispute, the opposing 19 party need not establish a material issue of fact conclusively in its favor. It is sufficient that “the 20 claimed factual dispute be shown to require a jury or judge to resolve the parties’ differing
21 versions of the truth at trial.” T.W. Elec. Serv., Inc. v. Pac. Elec. Contractors Ass’n, 809 F.2d
22 626, 631 (9th Cir. 1987). In other words, the nonmoving party cannot avoid summary judgment
23 by relying solely on conclusory allegations unsupported by facts. See Taylor v. List, 880 F.2d
24

1 1040, 1045 (9th Cir. 1989). Instead, the opposition must go beyond the assertions and
2 allegations of the pleadings and set forth specific facts by producing competent evidence that
3 shows a genuine issue for trial. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e); Celotex Corp., 477 U.S. at 324.

4 At the summary judgment stage, a court’s function is not to weigh the evidence and
5 determine the truth, but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial. See Anderson, 477
6 U.S. at 249. The evidence of the nonmovant is “to be believed, and all justifiable inferences are 7 to be drawn in his favor.” Id. at 255. But if the evidence of the nonmoving party is merely 8 colorable or is not significantly probative, summary judgment may be granted. See id. at 249–50.

9 III. ANALYSIS

10 FHFA and Fannie Mae argue that 12 U.S.C. § 4617(j)(3) prevents the sale of any
11 property in which the FHFA, as conservator for Fannie Mae, has an interest without consent.
12 They are correct. “No property of [FHFA] shall be subject to levy, attachment, garnishment,
13 foreclosure, or sale without the consent of the Agency, nor shall any involuntary lien attach to 14 the property of the Agency.” 12 U.S.C. § 4617(j)(3). The provision applies “in any case in 15 which [FHFA] is acting as a conservator or a receiver.” See id. § 4617(j)(1). A foreclosure sale
16 under NRS 116.3116, like any other foreclosure sale, therefore requires consent of FHFA.
17 FHFA and Fannie Mae do not ask the Court to unwind the sale, but they do ask the Court to rule
18 that the sale did not affect Fannie Mae’s interest in the Property. The Court would normally
19 grant the motion for the reasons given in Skylights LLC v. Byron, --- F. Supp. 3d ---, 2015 WL
20 3887061 (D. Nev. 2015) (Navarro, C.J.). The Court agrees with the relevant analysis in that case
21 in full and will not reproduce it here. In summary, the Supremacy Clause and § 4617(j)(3)
22 prevent NRS 116.3116 from extinguishing Fannie Mae’s interest in a property without consent.
24

1 The Court has granted summary judgment for this reason before. See My Global Village, LLC v.
2 Fed. Nat'l Mortg. Ass'n, No. 2:15-cv-211, 2015 WL 4523501 (D. Nev. July 27, 2015) (Jones, J.).

3 In the present case, however, movants' own evidence creates a genuine issue of material
4 fact as to whether FHFA or Fannie Mae owned the note and deed of trust at the time of sale.
5 FHFA and Fannie Mae have adduced evidence that Fannie Mae owned the "mortgage loan"
6 since about April 1, 2003, and that Chase is the current servicer. (See Curcio Decl. ¶ 4, ECF No.
7 50-1). But that would not be enough to entitle them to a directed verdict even if the evidence
8 went uncontroverted at trial. In Nevada, a payee, endorsee, or assignee of a promissory note who 9 is not also the beneficiary of an attendant deed of trust cannot foreclose but may only sue on the 10 note, and such a person therefore loses no legal rights via extinguishment of the deed of trust.

11 See Edelstein v. Bank of N.Y. Mellon, 286 P.3d 249, 254 (Nev. 2012). Although FHFA's

12 Counterclaim alleges that Fannie Mae is the beneficiary of the deed of trust, (see FHFA

13 Countercl. ¶¶ 8-9, ECF No. 40), movants have adduced no evidence of that, and both Fannie

14 Mae's and Chase's Counterclaims affirmatively allege that Chase is the beneficiary of the deed

15 of trust, (see Fannie Mae Countercl. ¶ 3, ECF No. 36; Chase Countercl. ¶ 3, ECF No. 32).¹

16 Additionally, movants themselves have asked the Court to take judicial notice of, inter alia, a

17 May 1, 2013 assignment of the "Deed of Trust with all interest secured thereby" from the FDIC

18 to Chase, indicating that Chase is not only the servicer of the loan but the beneficiary of both the

19 note and the deed of trust. (See Assignment, ECF No. 51-1, at 23; Deed of Trust 1, ECF No. 51-

20 1, at 2). If that is the case, only Chase can complain of the extinguishment of the deed of trust.

21 The Court needs no response from LN Management to deny summary judgment to FHFA and 22 Fannie Mae under these circumstances.

23 ¹ Fannie Mae's and Chase's Counterclaims would therefore appear to be subject to dismissal
24 based on their facial admissions of facts fatal to the claims made therein.

1 CONCLUSION

2 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Motion for Summary Judgment (ECF No. 50) is 3 DENIED.

4 IT IS SO ORDERED.
