Defendants.

Case No. 2:14-cv-00400-APG-GWF

ORDER REGARDING PENDING MOTIONS

(ECF Nos. 128, 130, 140, 156)

12 I previously awarded Defendants EZconn Corporation and eGTran Corporation
13 (collectively “Defendants”) $50,000.00 in fees and costs incurred in connection with various
14 motions. ECF No. 125. The Defendants’ former counsel, Ruttenberg IP Law (RIPL), filed a motion
15 to enforce an attorneys’ charging lien against that award. ECF No. 130. Although the Defendants
16 argue that RIPL must file an independent action to recover its fees, “[c]ourts have long recognized
17 that fee disputes arising from litigation pending before a district court fall within that court’s
18 ancillary jurisdiction.” Curry v. Guam Mem’l Hosp. Auth., 941 F.2d 730, 731 (9th Cir. 1991). The 19 parties filed a host of motions related to RIPL’s motion to enforce its lien. This Order addresses
20 all of those pending motions.

21 RIPL’s Motion to Enforce Attorneys’ Lien (ECF No. 130)

22 RIPL claims both contractual and statutory bases for its assertion of a charging lien against 23 the fee award. Under RIPL’s fee agreement, the Defendants granted RIPL a contractual lien on 24 “any recovery obtained for [Defendants] in this matter or any other matter to secure the attorneys’
25 fees and costs for which [Defendants] have, or will be invoiced by [RIPL], relating to [RIPL’s]
26 representation of [Defendants] in this matter or any other matter.” ECF No. 135 at 5. Nevada
27 Revised Statutes § 18.015 provides RIPL a statutory lien against the fee award: “An attorney at law
28 shall have a lien [u]pon any claim, demand or cause of action . . . which has been placed in the

1 attorney's hands by a client for suit or collection, or upon which a suit or other action has been
2 instituted." This statutory lien is "for the amount of any fee which has been agreed upon by the
3 attorney and client. In the absence of an agreement, the lien is for a reasonable fee for the services
4 which the attorney has rendered for the client." Id.

5 The Defendants argue that RIPL is not entitled to a charging lien because RIPL withdrew
6 from its representation of the Defendants before the conclusion of the case. However, the Supreme
7 Court of Nevada has expressly held that a withdrawing attorney may enforce a charging lien
8 "because NRS 18.015's plain language makes no distinction between attorneys who worked on a 9 case before recovery and those who were working on a case at the moment of recovery." McDonald
10 Carano Wilson v. Bourassa Law Grp., 362 P.3d 89, 91 (Nev. 2015).

11 The Defendants also contend that RIPL should not recover any fees because I previously
12 found its fees to be excessive when I awarded only part of the fees the Defendants had requested.
13 ECF No. 142 at 10-11. RIPL responds that the Defendants' fee request (which was not prepared 14 or submitted by RIPL) included fees that were not billed to the Defendants, were written off, or 15 were for tasks other than the motions for which I awarded fees. ECF No. 147 at 13-16. Thus, RIPL
16 contends, my decision regarding the Defendants' fee request is not determinative of what the 17 Defendants owe RIPL. I agree. My ruling that the Defendants' fee request (ECF Nos. 101, 117)
18 was excessive was based on the amount of fees that the Defendants claimed were incurred for the 19 motions addressed in the fee request. ECF No. 125. To the extent that the Defendants included in 20 their request fees that they never paid or fees for other work, my ruling does not preclude RIPL
21 from recovering fees for work properly performed for the Defendants.

22 RIPL and the Defendants dispute the amount of fees RIPL is entitled to recover. Under 23 RIPL's fee agreement with the Defendants, "the parties consent to exclusive jurisdiction in 24 California for any any (sic) dispute arising out of, in connection with, or relating to" the fee
25 agreement. ECF No. 135 at 8. The fee dispute must be resolved in California. At this stage, RIPL
26 is entitled to assert a charging lien to secure whatever fees it is owed, under both the terms of its 27
28

1 fee agreement and N.R.S. § 18.015.<sup>1</sup> If it is determined that the Defendants owe fees to RIPL,
2 RIPL's lien could be enforced against the fee award entered in this case. In order to protect
3 whatever lien rights RIPL may have, I will order the plaintiffs to deposit into this court the $50,000
4 attorneys' fees I previously awarded. The funds will remain on deposit in this court until resolution
5 of the fee dispute between RIPL and the Defendants. Once that dispute is resolved, either party
6 may move to enforce or extinguish the lien and withdraw the funds.

7 Plaintiffs' Motion for Correction (ECF No. 128)

8 The plaintiffs seek clarification as to how much of the $50,000 award they are to pay to 9 each of the Defendants. ECF No. 128. The plaintiffs are jointly and severally liable for the $50,000
10 fee award. Because I am ordering the plaintiffs to pay the award into the court, their request for an 11 allocation between the defendants is moot. Once the plaintiffs deposit the award into court, they 12 are excused from any further obligation regarding the allocation of that payment.

13 The plaintiffs also seek clarification whether the Defendants are entitled to seek an award
14 of additional fees related to the Defendants' motions. Id. at 2:10-20. My fee award addressed fees
15 "incurred in connection with the following related motions: eGTran's motion to dismiss
16 (Dkt. #18), plaintiffs' motion to conduct jurisdictional discovery (Dkt. #35), plaintiffs' motion for 17 interim protective order (Dkt #47), EZconn's motion to dismiss (Dkt. #75), and Defendants' motion
18 for entry of final judgment (Dkt. #88)." ECF No. 125. The Defendants may not seek any other fees
19 incurred in connection with those motions. If the Defendants incurred fees for other work unrelated
20 to those motions, my order does not bar them from seeking to recover those fees in the Arizona
21 case. I defer to the Arizona judge to determine whether such fees should be awarded.

22 Plaintiffs' Motion to Strike Exhibits (ECF No. 140)

23 The plaintiffs filed a motion to strike and to inspect the exhibits offered in support of RIPL's
24 motion to enforce its lien. ECF No. 140. The plaintiffs do "not take a position with respect to the

26
27 <sup>1</sup> Sarman v. Goldwater, Taber and Hill, 396 P.2d 847, 849 (Nev. 1964), overruled on other
28 grounds by Argenta Consol. Min. Co. v. Jolley Urga Wirth Woodbury & Standish, 216 P.3d 779 (Nev. 2009) ("The attorney's right to be paid is not based upon, or limited to, his lien. It is based upon a contract, express or implied. The lien is but security for his right.").

1 enforceability of RIPL's purported lien." ECF No. 141 at 2. Nor should they. Both the fee dispute
2 and the validity of RIPL's purported lien are issues between RIPL and the Defendants. Because
3 the plaintiffs have no interest in the outcome of RIPL's motion to enforce its lien, the plaintiffs
4 have no right to inspect the exhibits offered in support of that motion. The plaintiffs' motion to 5 strike and inspect the exhibits (ECF No. 140) is denied.

6 Plaintiffs' Motion for Relief from Judgment (ECF No. 156)

7 The plaintiffs filed a motion seeking for relief from my award of attorneys' fees. ECF No.
8 156. They contend that RIPL's reply in support of its motion to enforce its lien points out that the 9 Defendants' motion for fees included fees that had been written off, were never billed to the client,
10 or were for unrelated tasks. I awarded the Defendants $50,000 based on my assessment of what
11 would be a reasonable amount for the subject motions. I relied upon my years of experience
12 handling civil cases before taking the bench, as well as my more recent reviews of fee applications.
13 While I am troubled that the Defendants appear to have sought reimbursement of fees that they 14 never paid, the total amount they requested did not factor into my ultimate decision. I was able to 15 separate out what I felt were reasonable and related tasks and fees from those that were not.
16 Accordingly, the plaintiffs' motion for relief from the attorneys' fee award (ECF No. 156) is denied.

17 Conclusion

18 The plaintiffs' motion for correction (ECF No. 128) is GRANTED IN PART. Within 14
19 days of entry of this Order, the plaintiffs shall deposit into this court the $50,000 attorneys' fees I
20 previously awarded. The plaintiffs are jointly and severally liable for that amount. Upon deposit
21 of the fee award, the plaintiffs will be free from further obligation for payment of that award.
22 Accordingly, the plaintiffs' request for an allocation of the award between the defendants is moot.

23 RIPL's motion to enforce an attorneys' lien (ECF No. 130) is GRANTED IN PART.
24 RIPL may assert a charging lien (under both its fee agreement and N.R.S. § 18.015) to secure
25 whatever fees it is owed. RIPL and the Defendants shall submit their fee dispute for resolution in 26 California. If it is determined that the Defendants owe fees to RIPL, RIPL's lien will attach to the 27 fee award I previously entered. The funds deposited into the court by the plaintiffs will remain on 28

1 deposit until resolution of the fee dispute between RIPL and the Defendants. Once that dispute is
2 resolved, either party may move to enforce or extinguish the lien and withdraw the funds.

3 The plaintiffs' motion to strike (ECF No. 140) is DENIED.

4 The plaintiffs' motion for relief from judgment (ECF No. 156) is DENIED.

5 Dated this 24th day of January, 2017.
