

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

Darryl Henderson,

Plaintiff

v.

Nevada Department of Corrections, et al.,

Defendants

Case No.: 2:16-cv-00276-JAD-CWH

Order (1) Granting in Part and Denying in Part Motion for Summary Judgment and
(2) Granting Motion to Seal

[ECF Nos. 41, 43]

Darryl Henderson's right earlobe was partially torn from his head during a physical altercation that he had with correctional officers while he was an inmate in the care of the Nevada Department of Corrections (NDOC). Henderson's injury required stitches and later developed into a keloid—abnormal scar tissue. Henderson sues the NDOC; correctional officers Martin Urriola, Efrain Lona, and Christopher Zuniga; and medical doctor Romeo Aranas for actions related to the altercation and his subsequent medical care. He claims that the defendants retaliated against him for filing prison grievances, used excessive force against him, and were deliberately indifferent to his serious medical needs. Henderson also alleges that the defendants are liable under state law for intentional infliction of emotional distress (IIED) and assault and battery.

The defendants move for summary judgment on all claims and to seal six of their summary-judgment exhibits.<sup>1</sup> I find that compelling reasons exist to seal the judicial records, so I grant the defendants' motion for that relief. Henderson doesn't raise any triable issues of fact on his deliberate-indifference and IIED claims but he does raise them on his excessive-force, retaliation, and assault-and-battery claims, and the defendants have not demonstrated that they

---

<sup>1</sup> ECF Nos. 41 (summary-judgment motion), 43 (motion to seal).

1 are entitled to any form of immunity on these claims. I therefore grant the defendants' summary-
2 judgment motion in part and order the parties to a mandatory settlement conference on 3 Henderson's excessive-force, retaliation, and assault-and-battery claims.

4 Background

5 On October 19, 2013, while he was an inmate at the High Desert State Prison (HDSP),
6 Henderson's right earlobe was partially torn from his head during a physical altercation with 7 correctional officers. Henderson received medical treatment for his injury. The laceration was 8 stitched the same day at the University Medical Center and the sutures were removed a week
9 later by Dr. Aranas at the HDSP. Six months later, Henderson filed a medical kite reporting that 10 his ear was bothering him. The NDOC's medical staff discovered that Henderson had developed 11 a keloid. Henderson filed six more medical kites complaining that the keloid was growing,
12 painful to the point of keeping him awake, itchy, causing his ear to ring and bleed, and making 13 him deaf. Henderson repeatedly asked for surgery to remove the keloid but received only non-14 surgical treatments from the NDOC's medical staff. Henderson claims that he got surgery to 15 remove the keloid after he was released from the NDOC's custody. These facts are not disputed;
16 where the parties disagree is how the physical altercation occurred.

17 I. Defendants insist that they used only necessary and proportional force.

18 Correctional officer Urriola explains that while the inmates were exiting their cells to go 19 to dinner, Henderson approached Urriola "in an aggressive manner with his hands in his 20 pockets."<sup>2</sup> Henderson's behavior led Urriola to believe that Henderson had contraband on his 21 person, so Urriola ordered Henderson to put his hands on the wall. Henderson initially refused
22 but after he complied, Urriola "began a clothed body search for contraband." Henderson, 23

---

<sup>2</sup> ECF No. 42 at 7, ¶¶ 5–8.

1 however, “kept removing his hands from the wall[,] so Urriola ordered several times “not to take
2 his hands off the wall and advised him that such behavior is taken as an act of aggression.”
3 Urriola recounts that Henderson then “came off the wall in an aggressive manner, swinging his 4 left arm towards me” “[a]t which point I used . . . Henderson’s momentum to spin him around 5 and immediately place him on [the] ground face down.” Urriola then repeatedly yelled for 6 Henderson to “stop resisting,” but Henderson continued trying to get on his knees.<sup>3</sup>

7 Urriola next heard officer Zuniga, who was stationed in the control room, fire a blank
8 shot.<sup>4</sup> Henderson, whose left hand was hidden under his body, continued to resist. Officer Lona
9 then “arrived on the scene, assisted with securing Mr. Henderson’s left arm, and eventually 10 applied wrist restraints.” Medical was then called to evaluate Henderson and discovered that his 11 right earlobe had been lacerated during the altercation, which Urriola suspects was caused by his 12 watch band.<sup>5</sup>

13 II. Henderson claims that he was attacked for no reason other than officer animus.

14 Henderson tells a different story, which begins a day or two before the altercation when 15 Urriola randomly pat-searched Henderson while he was on his way to eat. Henderson claims
16 that another correctional officer witnessed the search and “sarcastically” told Urriola that 17 Henderson liked to file grievances and would file one against Urriola for the search.<sup>6</sup> Henderson
18 explains that he had filed a grievance against that officer for allegedly challenging him to fight.<sup>7</sup>

---

20 <sup>3</sup> Id.

21 <sup>4</sup> Id. at 7–8, ¶¶ 9–14.

22 <sup>5</sup> Id. Lona’s and Zuniga’s descriptions of the altercation are consistent with Urriola’s account.
ECF No. 42 at 17–20 (Lona’s declaration), 22–24 (Zuniga’s declaration).

23 <sup>6</sup> ECF No. 46 at 22, ¶¶ 3–4.

<sup>7</sup> Id. at ¶ 5.

1 When Henderson returned from the recreation yard on the day of the altercation, he
2 noticed that his “cell had been searched and left in disarray.”<sup>8</sup> Urriola was working Henderson’s
3 housing unit that day and “the only officer present on the tier[,]” so Henderson asked Urriola if 4 he had searched and messed up Henderson’s cell. Urriola said that he hadn’t. Henderson asked
5 Urriola to call a lieutenant so Henderson could voice a complaint, but Urriola refused to do so.
6 Urriola then ordered Henderson to get on the wall and told Henderson that he had gotten what he 7 deserved for being a snitch. Henderson theorizes that this statement was “a clear reference to the 8 event of the previous day when” the other correction officer told Urriola that Henderson liked to 9 file grievances and would file one against Urriola. Henderson declares that he went back to his 10 cell and asked Urriola and the other unit officers to call a lieutenant, but they refused do to so.
11 Henderson recounts that he and Urriola “then engaged in a verbal exchange” in which Urriola
12 yelled that he was “gonna fuck [Henderson’s] baby’s moma [sic].”<sup>9</sup>

13 Henderson asserts that later the same day when Zuniga was opening the cell doors to let 14 the inmates out for dinner, Zuniga did so “in a very unusual manner” that resulted in Henderson
15 being left alone in the unit after the other inmates had entered the “sallyport area.”<sup>10</sup> Henderson
16 saw Urriola standing nearby wearing a black t-shirt and gloves and a “smirk on his face.”
17 Urriola ordered Henderson against the wall—Henderson voiced his dismay but obeyed the 18 order—and Urriola proceeded to “aggressively” pat search Henderson “for several minutes” and 19 repeatedly threatened to take Henderson down if he came off the wall. Henderson denies 20 Urriola’s account that he came of the wall swinging; he claims it was Urriola who “suddenly”

---

22 <sup>8</sup> Id. at 22–23, ¶¶ 6–14.

23 <sup>9</sup> Id.

<sup>10</sup> Id. at 23–24, ¶¶ 15–18, 22–27.

1 slung Henderson “off the wall to the floor and punched and kicked [him] repeatedly . . . for no
2 justifiable reason.” Zuniga fired a blank shotgun blast and Lona “assisted” in Urriola’s
3 “unprovoked attack” of Henderson by “punching and kicking” him.<sup>11</sup>

4 Discussion

5 I. Defendants’ summary-judgment motion [ECF No. 41]

6 A. Summary-judgment standard

7 Summary judgment is appropriate when the pleadings and admissible evidence “show
8 there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the movant is entitled to judgment as a 9 matter of law.”<sup>12</sup> When considering summary judgment, the court views all facts and draws all 10 inferences in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party.<sup>13</sup> In deciding a motion for 11 summary judgment, “[c]redibility determinations, the weighing of evidence, and the drawing of 12 legitimate inferences from the facts are jury functions, not those of a judge . . . .”<sup>14</sup> If reasonable 13 minds could differ on material facts, summary judgment is inappropriate because its purpose is 14 to avoid unnecessary trials when the facts are undisputed, and the case must then proceed to the 15 trier of fact.<sup>15</sup>

16 If the moving party satisfies Rule 56 by demonstrating the absence of any genuine issue 17 of material fact, the burden shifts to the party resisting summary judgment to “set forth specific 18 facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.”<sup>16</sup> “To defeat summary judgment, the

---

19
20 <sup>11</sup> Id.

21 <sup>12</sup> See Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 330 (1986) (citing FED. R. CIV. P. 56(c)).

22 <sup>13</sup> Kaiser Cement Corp. v. Fishbach & Moore, Inc., 793 F.2d 1100, 1103 (9th Cir. 1986).

23 <sup>14</sup> Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 255 (1986).

<sup>15</sup> Warren v. City of Carlsbad, 58 F.3d 439, 441 (9th Cir. 1995); see also Nw. Motorcycle Ass’n v. U.S. Dep’t of Agric., 18 F.3d 1468, 1471 (9th Cir. 1994).

<sup>16</sup> Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256; Celotex, 477 U.S. at 323.

1 nonmoving party must produce evidence of a genuine dispute of material fact that could satisfy
2 its burden at trial.”<sup>17</sup>

3
4 B. Henderson hasn’t shown that the defendants were deliberately indifferent to his serious medical needs.

5 Henderson’s first claim for relief is under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and alleges that the 6 defendants denied him medical care in violation of the Eighth Amendment.<sup>18</sup> Though
7 Henderson pleads this claim for relief “against all defendants,”<sup>19</sup> he concedes in response to the 8 defendants’ summary-judgment motion that he intended to plead it against only Dr. Aranas.<sup>20</sup>

9 A prisoner who claims inadequate medical care must show that prison officials were 10 deliberately indifferent to his serious medical needs.<sup>21</sup> A plaintiff can prevail on a deliberate-
11 indifference claim if he can show that prison officials denied, delayed, or intentionally interfered 12 with medical treatment and that the delay or interference caused further injury.<sup>22</sup> Indifference to 13 a prisoner’s medical needs must be substantial; mere indifference, negligence, medical 14 malpractice, or even gross negligence are insufficient to establish deliberate indifference.<sup>23</sup> The 15 mere difference of medical opinion likewise does not suffice.<sup>24</sup> A prisoner must instead show 16 that the course of treatment chosen was medically unacceptable under the circumstances and 17

---

18 <sup>17</sup> Sonner v. Schwabe North America, Inc., 911 F.3d 989, 992 (9th Cir. 2018).

19 <sup>18</sup> ECF No. 21 at ¶¶ 35–43.

20 <sup>19</sup> Id. at 7.

21 <sup>20</sup> ECF No. 46 at 8.

22 <sup>21</sup> Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 106 (1976).

23 <sup>22</sup> Lemire v. Cal. Dep’t of Corrections and Rehabilitation, 726 F.3d 1062, 1081–82 (9th Cir. 2013).

24 <sup>23</sup> Id.

<sup>24</sup> See Franklin v. State of Or., State Welfare Div., 662 F.2d 1337, 1344 (9th Cir. 1981).

1 taken in conscious disregard to his health.<sup>25</sup> Personal liability under § 1983 arises only upon
2 personal participation by the defendant.<sup>26</sup> “A person deprives another of a constitutional right,
3 within the meaning of section 1983, if he does an affirmative act, participates in another’s
4 affirmative acts, or omits to perform an act which he is legally required to do that causes the 5 deprivation of which the plaintiff complains.”<sup>27</sup>

6 Henderson argues that Dr. Aranas “knew of and disregarded [his] serious medical need 7 for an outside surgical consult and surgical removal of the keloid.”<sup>28</sup> Henderson theorizes that 8 he needed an outside surgical consultation because his medical records reflect that an 9 unidentified doctor sought “URC” approval for a surgeon to evaluate his keloid. URC stands for 10 the “Utilization Review Committee,” which is responsible for approving all outside medical 11 consultations.<sup>29</sup> But there is no evidence that Dr. Aranas knew about Henderson’s keloid, any of 12 his medical kites, or his requests to have the keloid removed. Nor is there any evidence that Dr.
13 Aranas knew about the request for URC approval or that committee’s ruling. Dr. Aranas
14 declares that his only interaction with Henderson was removing the sutures from his right ear on 15 October 30, 2013,<sup>30</sup> and he “was not aware of Mr. Henderson’s medical kites detailing the keloid 16 [that] he had developed and his requests for surgery.”<sup>31</sup> Dr. Aranas transitioned from being a 17 physician at HDSP to the NDOC’s medical director eight months before Henderson first

---

19 <sup>25</sup> See Toguchi v. Chung, 391 F.3d 1051, 1058 (9th Cir. 2004).

20 <sup>26</sup> Taylor v. List, 880 F.2d 1040, 1045 (9th Cir. 1989).

21 <sup>27</sup> Leer v. Murphy, 844 F.2d 628, 633 (9th Cir. 1988) (brackets and internal quotation omitted).

22 <sup>28</sup> ECF No. 46 at 11.

23 <sup>29</sup> Id. at 9; ECF No. 44-4 at 4 (sealed).

<sup>30</sup> ECF No. 42 at 43, ¶¶ 5–6.

<sup>31</sup> Id. at 43, ¶ 6.

1 complained about the keloid.<sup>32</sup> Henderson’s failure to show personal participation by Dr. Aranas
2 is fatal to his deliberate-indifference claim.

3       This claim also suffers from another defect: Henderson received a surgical consultation
4 while in the NDOC’s custody, just not from an “outside” surgeon, and the surgeon didn’t 5 recommend surgery to treat the keloid. Dr. Aranas declares that if he had been aware of 6 Henderson’s medical requests, he would have reviewed Henderson’s medical file “to find that he
7 received pain medication, instruction on non-pharmaceutical measures to relieve his pain,
8 including massage, hydrocortisone ointment, steroid injections, and Dr. Jurani’s recommendation
9 not to proceed with surgery.”<sup>33</sup> Dr. Aranas explains that “Dr. Jurani was a trained surgeon who 10 was briefly employed by the NDOC in 2015.”<sup>34</sup> Henderson’s “progress notes” contain an entry
11 that is consistent with Dr. Aranas’s statement that Dr. Jurani recommended against surgery.<sup>35</sup>
12 This entry reflects that Henderson was advised that surgery “will leave no earlobe” and the 13 keloid could “come back bigger” after surgery.<sup>36</sup> Henderson was given two injections instead.<sup>37</sup>
14 Another entry one month later reiterates that surgery was not recommended and that Henderson
15 “agrees further injections will probably not be very helpful.”<sup>38</sup> There is no evidence that 16 Henderson requested or received further treatment for the keloid.

---

18 <sup>32</sup> See id. at ¶ 3. Dr. Aranas declares that he became the NDOC’s medical director in August
19 2013. Henderson submitted his first medical kite about his ear on April 30, 2014. ECF No. 44-5
20 at 2 (sealed); accord ECF No. 21 at ¶ 24.

21 <sup>33</sup> Id. at ¶ 10.

22 <sup>34</sup> Id. at ¶ 11.

23 <sup>35</sup> ECF No. 44-4 at 3 (sealed).

<sup>36</sup> Id.

<sup>37</sup> Id.

<sup>38</sup> Id. at 2.

1 Henderson's only evidence that the treatment he received was not medically acceptable
2 under the circumstances is his declaration that he got the keloid surgically removed after he was 3 released from the NDOC's custody.<sup>39</sup> But Henderson's declaration that he later got surgery is 4 not sufficient to raise a triable issue of fact that the non-surgical treatment he received while in 5 the NDOC's custody was medically unacceptable under the circumstances. Thus, I grant the 6 defendants' summary-judgment motion on Henderson's deliberate-indifference claim.

7
8 C. Factual disputes preclude summary judgment on Henderson's excessive-force and assault-and-battery claims.

9 Henderson's second claim for relief is under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and alleges that the 10 defendants used excessive force against him in violation of the Eighth and Fourteenth 11 Amendments.<sup>40</sup> Though Henderson pleads this claim for relief "against all defendants,"<sup>41</sup> he 12 concedes in response to the defendants' summary-judgment motion that he did not intend to 13 plead it against Dr. Aranas.<sup>42</sup> Henderson's fourth claim for relief is for common-law assault and 14 battery and is alleged "against all defendants[.]"<sup>43</sup> but Henderson concedes that he did not intend
15 to plead this claim against Dr. Aranas either.<sup>44</sup>

16 "[T]he unnecessary and wanton infliction of pain . . . constitutes cruel and unusual
17 punishment forbidden by the Eight Amendment."<sup>45</sup> In the prison context, "the core judicial 18

---

19 <sup>39</sup> ECF No. 46 at 24, ¶ 32.

20 <sup>40</sup> ECF No. 21 at ¶¶ 44–54.

21 <sup>41</sup> Id. at 8.

22 <sup>42</sup> ECF No. 46 at 4.

23 <sup>43</sup> ECF No. 21 at 9.

<sup>44</sup> ECF No. 46 at 15.

<sup>45</sup> Hudson v. McMillian, 503 U.S. 1, 5 (1992) (quotation omitted).

1 inquiry is . . . whether force was applied in a good-faith effort to maintain or restore discipline, or
2 maliciously and sadistically to cause harm.”<sup>46</sup> In Whitley v. Albers, the Supreme Court
3 articulated five factors that are relevant in determining whether officers acted maliciously:
4 (1) the need for force, (2) “the relationship between the need and the amount of force used,” (3)
5 “the extent of the injury inflicted,” (4) “the extent of the threat to the safety of staff and inmates,”
6 and (5) “any efforts made to temper the severity of a forceful response.”<sup>47</sup> “The standard for 7 common-law assault and battery by a police officer . . . mirrors the federal civil[-]rights[-]law
8 standard: Liability attaches at the point at which the level of force used by a peace officer
9 exceeds that which is objectively reasonable under the circumstances.”<sup>48</sup>

10       The extent of the injury inflicted here isn’t disputed, but the facts on the record about the 11 other four factors are. The defendants claim that they used only as much force as was necessary 12 to restore discipline and regain control of Henderson, whom they claim started the incident by 13 approaching Urriola in an aggressive manner and repeatedly resisted the defendants’ efforts to 14 control him. Henderson denies the defendants’ version of events, declaring that he was always 15 physically compliant, and Urriola started the incident by leaving his cell in disarray after a search
16 and then later attacked him for no reason with Lona’s and Zuniga’s help.

17       The amount of force that was used is also disputed. The defendants contend that Urriola
18 took Henderson down to the ground after Henderson suddenly came off the wall and turned left,
19 supposedly to swing at Urriola. Urriola then struggled to restrain Henderson until Zuniga fired a 20 blank shot and Lona removed Henderson’s left arm from beneath his body and applied wrist

---

21
22 <sup>46</sup> Id. at 6–7.

23 <sup>47</sup> Whitley v. Albers, 475 U.S. 312, 321 (1986).

<sup>48</sup> Ramirez v. City of Reno, 925 F. Supp. 681, 691 (D. Nev. 1996).

1 restraints. Henderson counters that Zuniga opened the cell doors in a way that left Henderson
2 alone with Urriola, who was dressed for a fight wearing a black t-shirt and gloves. Urriola then 3 pat-searched Henderson for several minutes, threatening all the while to “take [him] down” and 4 ultimately took him down to the ground without cause. Henderson asserts that Urriola and Lona
5 punched and kicked him while he was on the ground and that his ear was lacerated sometime
6 during the altercation.

7       The defendants argue that I should reject Henderson’s account because it is entirely based 8 on his self-serving declaration. I decline to do so because Henderson offered a detailed 9 declaration, not conclusory allegations unsupported by facts, and the defendants’ account is 10 equally based on their own self-serving declarations. Taking Henderson’s account as true, if the 11 jury finds that he did not approach Urriola aggressively but physically complied with Urriola’s
12 order to get on the wall and remained there until Urriola suddenly threw him to the floor and was 13 prone on the ground while Urriola and Lona punched and kicked him, this would demonstrate 14 that there was no need for force, the amount of force used was disproportionate, or Henderson
15 didn’t pose a threat to the safety of the defendants or others. Infliction of pain in the 16 circumstances that Henderson describes would be unnecessary and wanton. Triable issues of 17 fact thus preclude summary judgment on Henderson’s excessive-force and assault-and-battery
18 claims against Urriola, Zuniga, and Lona.

19 20       D. Henderson’s retaliation claim is limited to Urriola’s alleged actions on the day of the physical altercation.

21       Henderson’s third claim for relief is under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and alleges that the 22 defendants retaliated against him for reporting violations of his civil rights and filing and 23

1 exhausting prison grievances.<sup>49</sup> Defendants argue that they are entitled to summary judgment on
2 this claim because Henderson didn't exhaust his administrative remedies for a retaliation claim
3 and he has failed to identify what grievance or reports he filed that resulted in the allegedly 4 retaliatory conduct by the defendants.<sup>50</sup> Henderson responds that he did exhaust and has 5 properly identified the grievance and resulting retaliatory conduct because his "grievances
6 clearly reference the fact that Defendant Urriola searched his cell the following day after being 7 informed by a fellow officer that Mr. Henderson likes to write grievances and would file a
8 grievance on Defendant Urriola."<sup>51</sup> The grievances also "reference the fact that Mr. Henderson
9 voiced his complaint about the cell search to Defendant Urriola, asked to speak with a lieutenant
10 to complain about the cell search, and was denied the request by Defendant Urriola" who told 11 "Mr. Henderson that he had 'gotten what he deserved' in the form of the search for 'being a 12 snitch,' a reference to c/o Dawson's previous day's remark about Mr. Henderson's propensity to 13 write grievances."<sup>52</sup> "The grievances finally reference Defendant Urriola and Lona's violent
14 unprovoked attack upon Mr. Henderson."<sup>53</sup>

15        Though Henderson doesn't use the word "retaliation," the upshot of his narrative in 16 grievance #20062968941 is that Urriola—who's identified with details but not by name—tossed
17 Henderson's cell and then attacked him because another officer told Urriola that Henderson
18 would file a grievance for the pat-search that Urriola performed on Henderson a day or two 19
20

---

21 <sup>49</sup> ECF No. 21 at ¶¶ 55–59.

22 <sup>50</sup> ECF No. 41 at 17–21.

23 <sup>51</sup> ECF No. 46 at 12.

<sup>52</sup> Id.

<sup>53</sup> Id.

1 earlier.<sup>54</sup> Henderson pursued grievance #20062968941 up to the second level where it was 2 denied,<sup>55</sup> which is the end of the NDOC's grievance process.<sup>56</sup> The defendants have not
3 established as a matter of law that Henderson failed to satisfy the Prison Litigation Reform Act's 4 requirement to administratively exhaust his claim that Urriola retaliated against him for his 5 propensity to file grievances.

6 However, Henderson doesn't provide any evidence that Dr. Aranas, Lona, or Zuniga
7 knew about his claimed propensity for filing grievances. Nor does Henderson provide evidence
8 to support his allegation that the defendants retaliated against him after the physical altercation.<sup>57</sup>
9 I therefore grant the defendants' motion for summary judgment on Henderson's retaliation claim
10 in part as to Dr. Aranas, Lona, and Zuniga and I deny it as to Urriola. Henderson may proceed 11 with this retaliation claim only on the theory that Urriola retaliated by tossing his cell and 12 physically attacking him.

13 E. Henderson fails to raise a genuine dispute that he suffered emotional distress.

14 Under Nevada law, the elements of a claim for relief for IIED are "(1) extreme and 15 outrageous conduct with either the intention of, or reckless disregard for, causing emotional 16 distress, (2) the plaintiff's having suffered severe or extreme emotional distress, and (3) actual or 17 proximate causation."<sup>58</sup> To "[be] extreme and outrageous," the alleged conduct must fall
18 "outside all possible bounds of decency and is regarded as utterly intolerable in a civilized
19

---

20 <sup>54</sup> ECF No. 42 at 88–89.

21 <sup>55</sup> Id. at 101.

22 <sup>56</sup> ECF No. 41 at 18 (explaining that the NDOC's administrative grievance process has three 23 levels—informal, first, and second—and "is considered exhausted" when "a decision has been rendered on a Second Level grievance").

<sup>57</sup> ECF No. 21 at ¶ 15.

<sup>58</sup> Dillard Dep't Stores v. Beckwith, 989 P.2d 882, 886 (Nev. 1999) (internal quotation omitted).

1 community.”<sup>59</sup> To establish severe emotional distress, the plaintiff must present “objectively
2 verifiable indicia of the severity of his emotional distress.”<sup>60</sup> General physical or emotional
3 discomfort is insufficient to demonstrate severe emotional distress.<sup>61</sup>

4 Defendants argue that Henderson’s IIED claim fails because there is no evidence that he 5 suffered severe or extreme emotional distress. Henderson contends that his “complaint clearly 6 alleges” a claim for IIED, but Henderson needs more than the unverified allegations in his
7 second amended complaint to survive summary judgment. Even if I could consider Henderson’s
8 unverified allegations at this summary-judgment stage, they are conclusory and don’t
9 demonstrate that he could satisfy his burden on this element at trial.<sup>62</sup> He offers even less factual
10 detail in his declaration, vaguely concluding that he “was extremely traumatized by the attack
11 and the fact that [he] had suffered what would be a lifelong deformity to [his] ear.”<sup>63</sup> Henderson
12 fails to present evidence that he suffered severe or extreme emotional distress, let alone
13 objectively verifiable indicia of the severity of the distress he claims to have suffered, so I grant
14 the defendants’ motion for summary judgment on his IIED claim.

15 F. Fact disputes preclude summary judgment on qualified-immunity grounds.

16 Defendants argue that they are entitled to qualified immunity on Henderson’s excessive-
17 force and deliberate-indifference claims.<sup>64</sup> I have already decided that all the defendants are 18

---

19 <sup>59</sup> Maduike v. Agency Rent-A-Car, 953 P.2d 24, 26 (Nev. 1998) (internal quotation omitted).

20 <sup>60</sup> Miller v. Jones, 970 P.2d 571, 577 (Nev. 1998).

21 <sup>61</sup> Burns v. Meyer, 175 F. Supp. 2d 1259, 1268 (D. Nev. 2001) (citing Chowdhry v. NLVH Inc., 851 P.2d 459, 462 (Nev. 1993)).

22 <sup>62</sup> ECF No. 21 at ¶ 67 (alleging that the defendants caused Henderson “to endure humiliation, anxiety, embarrassment and severe emotional distress”).

23 <sup>63</sup> ECF No. 46 at 24, ¶ 30.

<sup>64</sup> ECF No. 41 at 25–26.

1 entitled to summary judgment on Henderson’s deliberate-indifference claim and Dr. Aranas is 2 entitled to summary judgment on Henderson’s excessive-force claim, so I address only the
3 question of whether Urriola, Lona, and Zuniga are entitled to qualified immunity on Henderson’s
4 excessive-force claim.

5 “Qualified immunity protects government officers ‘from liability for civil damages
6 insofar as their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of 7 which a reasonable person would have known.’”<sup>65</sup> “To determine whether an officer is entitled 8 to qualified immunity,” the court asks, in the order it chooses, “(1) whether the alleged 9 misconduct violated a right and (2) whether the right was clearly established at the time of the 10 alleged misconduct.”<sup>66</sup> “‘For a constitutional right to be clearly established, its contours must be 11 sufficiently clear that a reasonable official would understand that what he is doing violates that 12 right.’”<sup>67</sup>

13 The entirety of the defendants’ qualified-immunity argument is that, “[g]iven
14 Henderson’s repeated failure to comply with orders and continued resistance, objectively 15 reasonable officers” in the defendants’ positions “would not have been on clear notice that their 16 split-second decisions to use limited force to restrain Henderson to the ground, control his arms,
17 and restrain his wrists, as well as the decision to discharge a blank—but not live—warning shot,
18 would violate constitutional rights.”<sup>68</sup> But as I explained above, Henderson provides a detailed 19 declaration that paints a different picture than what the defendants contend happened.

---

21 <sup>65</sup> Maxwell v. Cty. of San Diego, 708 F.3d 1075, 1082 (9th Cir. 2013) (quoting Harlow v.
22 Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818 (1982)).

23 <sup>66</sup> Id. (citing Pearson v. Callahan, 555 U.S. 223, 232 (2009)).

<sup>67</sup> Id. (quoting Hope v. Pelzer, 536 U.S. 730, 739 (2002)).

<sup>68</sup> ECF No. 41 at 26.

1 Resolving the factual disputes in Henderson’s favor and granting him all reasonable
2 factual inferences, the record shows that the physical altercation has its genesis a day or two
3 earlier when Urriola was informed by another corrections officer that Henderson had a
4 propensity to file grievances and would file one against Urriola for pat-searching him. Then 5 when Urriola worked Henderson’s unit, he tossed Henderson’s cell, left it in disarray, and 6 verbally abused Henderson when he asked to report the incident to a lieutenant. Later that day,
7 Zuniga opened the cell doors in a way that trapped Henderson alone in an area with Urriola, who
8 was out of uniform. Henderson did not exit his cell in an aggressive manner. Henderson
9 complied when Urriola ordered him to the wall. Urriola aggressively pat-searched Henderson
10 for several minutes while threatening to take Henderson down to the ground. Henderson didn’t 11 come off the wall. Urriola suddenly took Henderson down to the ground and punched and 12 kicked him. Lona then punched and kicked Henderson, too.

13 Henderson’s account of what happened leads to the inference that Urriola and Lona used
14 force maliciously and sadistically and that Zuniga assisted in their actions. The use of force
15 resulted in Henderson’s right earlobe being partially torn from his head, which required stitches.
16 A reasonable officer in the circumstances that Henderson describes would have known of the 17 right of an incarcerated person to be free from unprovoked blows that are not de minimis and 18 resulted in injury.<sup>69</sup> Thus, I deny the defendants’ motion for summary judgment on Henderson’s 19 excessive-force claim on the ground of qualified immunity.

---

21 <sup>69</sup> See Hudson, 503 U.S. at 9–10 (explaining that “every malevolent touch by a prison guard”
22 doesn’t “give rise to a federal cause of action” because the Eighth Amendment “necessarily 23 excludes from constitutional recognition de minimis uses of physical force” that are not “repugnant to the conscience of mankind” and concluding that blows that “caused bruises, swelling, loosened teeth, and a cracked dental plate are not de minimis for Eighth Amendment purposes”); Felix v. McCarthy, 939 F.2d 699, 701 (9th Cir. 1991) (explaining that it has been the standard in the Ninth Circuit since 1985 that a reasonable correctional officer “would have

1
2 G. Factual disputes preclude summary judgment on discretionary-function-immunity grounds.

3 Defendants argue that they are entitled to discretionary-function immunity on 4 Henderson’s IIED and assault-and-battery claims.<sup>70</sup> I have already decided that all the 5 defendants are entitled to summary judgment on Henderson’s IIED claim and Dr. Aranas is 6 entitled to summary judgment on Henderson’s assault-and-battery claim, so I address only the 7 question of whether Urriola, Lona, and Zuniga are entitled to discretionary-function immunity on 8 Henderson’s assault-and-battery claim.

9 Nevada’s discretionary-function-immunity statute prohibits an action against an officer or 10 employee of Nevada “based upon the exercise or performance or the failure to perform a 11 discretionary function or duty on the part of the State or any of its agencies . . . or of any officer, 12 employee, or immune contractor of any of these, whether or not the discretion involved is 13 abused.”<sup>71</sup> To qualify, a state official’s “decision must (1) involve an element of individual
14 judgment or choice and (2) be based on considerations of social, economic, or political policy.”<sup>72</sup>

15 Discretionary-function immunity is not available for intentional torts and bad-faith
16 conduct.<sup>73</sup> The Nevada Supreme Court has explained that an act or omission of bad faith is one

17
18 understood that he would violate the Constitution by delivering strong blows upon a prisoner for 19 no purpose, using force that could be characterized as ‘intentional, unjustified, brutal, and offensive to human dignity’” (quoting Meredith v. Arizona, 523 F.2d 481, 484 (9th Cir. 1975)).

20 <sup>70</sup> ECF No. 41 at 27–28.

21 <sup>71</sup> Nev. Rev. Stat. § 41.032(2).

22 <sup>72</sup> Martinez v. Maruszczak, 168 P.3d 720, 729 (Nev. 2007).

23 <sup>73</sup> Franchise Tax Bd. of Cal. v. Hyatt, 335 P.3d 125, 139 (Nev. 2014) (holding that intentional torts are exempt from statutory discretionary-function immunity), vacated on other grounds, 136 S. Ct. 1277 (2016); Sandoval v Las Vegas Metro. Police Dep’t, 756 F.3d 1154, 1168–69 (9th Cir. 2014) (explaining that immunity does not apply “where an officer’s actions are attributable to bad faith” (internal quotations omitted)).

1 that occurs “outside the circumference of authority.”<sup>74</sup> In short, “abuse of discretion is
2 characterized by an application of unreasonable judgment to a decision that is within the actor’s
3 rightful prerogatives, whereas an act of bad faith has no relationship to a rightful prerogative
4 even if the result is ostensibly within the actor’s ambit of authority.”<sup>75</sup> Viewing the facts in the 5 light most favorable to Henderson, a reasonable juror could find that the officers acted in bad
6 faith when Urriola attacked Henderson without provocation and when Zuniga and Lona assisted
7 in that attack. I therefore deny defendants’ motion for summary judgment on Henderson’s
8 assault-and-battery claim on the ground of discretionary-function immunity.

9 H. The NDOC is only a nominal defendant.

10 Finally, the defendants argue that the NDOC is entitled to summary judgment on 11 Henderson’s deliberate-indifference and excessive-force claims because it is an arm of the State
12 of Nevada and, thus, not a proper person under 42 U.S.C. § 1983.<sup>76</sup> Henderson doesn’t address
13 this argument in his response.<sup>77</sup> The defendants’ argument has merit,<sup>78</sup> but I note that the NDOC
14 is identified as a “nominal defendant” in the caption of Henderson’s operative pleading and is 15 not included among the defendants later identified in that pleading.<sup>79</sup> This means that Henderson 16 has not alleged any claims for relief against the NDOC. But no party addresses whether 17
18

---

19 <sup>74</sup> Davis v. City of Las Vegas, 478 F.3d 1048, 1060 (9th Cir. 2007) (quoting Falline v. GNLV 20 Corp., 823 P.2d 888, 892 n.3 (Nev. 1991)).

21 <sup>75</sup> Id. (quoting Falline, 823 P.2d 892 n.3).

22 <sup>76</sup> ECF No. 41 at 24–25.

23 <sup>77</sup> See ECF No. 46.

<sup>78</sup> See Hixon v. Nev. Dep’t of Corrections, 2009 WL 10678775, at *2–3 (D. Nev. July 8, 2009)
(explaining why the NDOC “is not a ‘person’ within the meaning of § 1983”).

<sup>79</sup> ECF No. 21 at 1–3 (listing the NDOC in the caption but not among the “parties”).

1 Henderson has properly sued the NDOC as a nominal defendant, so I deny the defendants’
2 summary-judgment motion without prejudice to their ability to seek relief on that ground.

3 To recap: I grant summary judgment in favor of all defendants on Henderson’s claims for 4 relief alleging deliberate indifference to serious medical needs and IIED; in favor of Dr. Aranas
5 on Henderson’s claims for relief alleging excessive force, retaliation, and assault and battery; and 6 in favor of Lona and Zuniga on Henderson’s claim for retaliation. Henderson can proceed only
7 on his claims for relief against Urriola, Lona, and Zuniga alleging excessive force and assault
8 and battery and on his retaliation claim against Urriola. Henderson has no claims for relief
9 against the NDOC, which is only a nominal defendant.

10 II. Defendants’ motion to seal judicial records [ECF No. 43]

11 Defendants move to seal six of the exhibits that they use to support their summary-
12 judgment briefs.<sup>80</sup> Unless a court record is one that is “traditionally kept secret,” there is a
13 “strong presumption in favor of access” to the record.<sup>81</sup> Parties seeking to seal a judicial record 14 must overcome this presumption by “articulat[ing] compelling reasons supported by specific 15 factual findings” that outweigh the traditional right of public access.<sup>82</sup> Unlike with sealed 16 discovery attached to a non-dispositive motion, the “compelling reasons” standard applies with 17 full force to dispositive motions and their attachments—even those “previously filed under seal 18 or protective order.”<sup>83</sup>

19 I have reviewed the sealed exhibits in camera, and I conclude that the defendants have 20 shown compelling reasons to seal these judicial records because they are medical records and the 21 _____

22 <sup>80</sup> ECF No. 43.

23 <sup>81</sup> Kamakana v. City & Cty. of Honolulu, 447 F.3d 1172, 1178 (9th Cir. 2006).

<sup>82</sup> Id.

<sup>83</sup> Id. at 1179.

1 need to protect medical privacy is a compelling one. These judicial records consist of physical
2 examination notes, progress notes, and medical kites. Though Henderson has placed his health
3 at issue in this litigation, balancing the public's need to access information about Henderson's 4 medical history against his need to maintain the confidentiality of his medical records weighs in 5 favor of sealing these judicial records. Thus, I grant the defendants' motion to seal exhibits E–I
6 and K to their summary-judgment motion, which are filed under seal at ECF No. 44.

7 Conclusion

8 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the defendants' motion for summary judgment [ECF 9 No. 41] is GRANTED in part:

- 10 • Summary judgment is granted in favor of all defendants on Henderson's first 11 claim for relief alleging deliberate-indifference of serious medical needs and fifth 12 claim for relief alleging intentional infliction of emotional distress;
- 13 • Summary judgment is granted in favor of Dr. Romeo Aranas on Henderson's 14 second claim for relief alleging excessive force, third claim alleging retaliation, 15 and fourth claim for relief alleging assault and battery; and
- 16 • Summary judgment is granted in favor of correctional officers Efrain Lona and 17 Christopher Zuniga on Henderson's third claim for relief alleging retaliation.

18 The summary-judgment motion is DENIED in all other respects. Accordingly, Henderson may 19 proceed only on his claims for relief against Urriola, Lona, and Zuniga alleging excessive force
20 and assault and battery and on his retaliation claim against Urriola, which is limited to the theory
21 that Urriola retaliated by tossing Henderson's cell and physically attacking him. Henderson has 22 no claims for relief against the NDOC, which is only a nominal defendant, and all his claims 23 against Dr. Aranas have been adjudicated in that defendant's favor.

1 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the defendants' motion to seal judicial records [ECF
2 No. 43] is GRANTED. The Clerk of Court is directed to MAINTAIN the seal on ECF No. 44.

3 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that this case is REFERRED to a magistrate judge for a 4 mandatory settlement conference. The parties' obligation to file their joint pretrial order is 5 STAYED until 10 days after that settlement conference.

6 Dated: January 25, 2019

7
8 U.S. District Judge Jennifer A. Dorsey
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23