UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

DEUTSCHE BANK NATIONAL TRUST
COMPANY, as Trustee for the Holders of Harborview 2005-14 Trust,

Plaintiff,

v.

PACIFIC SUNSET VILLAGE
HOMEOWNERS ASSOCIATION, et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:16-cv-02174-KJD-NJK

ORDER

Presently before the Court is Defendants Saticoy Bay, LLC Series 2995 E. Sunset Road Unit 103's and 2995 E. Sunset Rd. Un. 103 Trust's Motion for Summary Judgment (#62). Plaintiff ("Deutsche Bank") filed a response in opposition (#70) to which Defendants replied (#73).

Also, before the Court is Plaintiff Deutsche Bank's Motion for Summary Judgment (#63). Defendant Pacific Sunset Village Homeowners Association ("Pacific Sunset") filed a response in opposition (#64). Defendants Saticoy Bay, LLC Series 2995 E. Sunset Road Unit 103 ("Saticoy Bay") and 2995 E. Sunset Rd. Un. 103 Trust ("the Trust") also filed a response in opposition (#65). Plaintiff replied (#69/71).

I. Facts

On or about May 3, 2005, Lisa Galanti purchased property located at 2995 East Sunset Road #103, Las Vegas, Nevada 89120 ("the Property"). This purchase was made by way of a loan in the amount of $168,000.00 evidenced by a note and secured by a deed of trust ("senior deed of trust"), which was recorded on May 23, 2005. The senior deed of trust was eventually assigned to Deutsche Bank. The Property was subject to Pacific Sunset's Declaration of

1 Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions and Reservation of Easements (“the CC&Rs”) which 2 required payment of assessments.

3 On March 27, 2012, Pacific Sunset Village Homeowners’ Association, through its agent, 4 Nevada Association Services, Inc. (“NAS”), recorded a notice of delinquent assessment lien. The 5 notice indicated that the amount owed to PACIFIC SUNSET was $1,943.50, which includes late 6 fees, collection fees and interest in the amount of $843.50.

7 On May 10, 2012, Pacific Sunset, through its agent NAS, recorded a notice of default and 8 election to sell to satisfy the delinquent assessment lien in the amount of $3,179.50. The notice 9 did not specify the superpriority amount claimed by Pacific Sunset. Thereafter, on January 9, 10 2013, Pacific Sunset through its agent NAS, recorded a notice of trustee’s sale, which was 11 scheduled for February 1, 2013. The notice stated that the amount due to Pacific Sunset was 12 $5,077.67 but did not identify the superpriority amount claimed by Pacific Sunset.

13 On June 13, 2012, Bank of America, N.A., the servicer of the loan at the time, requested 14 a ledger from Pacific Sunset, through the HOA’s agent NAS, to identify the superpriority amount 15 allegedly owed to Pacific Sunset and offered to pay that amount. Pacific Sunset did not provide a 16 payoff amount. On January 9, 2013, NAS recorded a notice of foreclosure sale. Foreclosure sale 17 was conducted on February 1, 2013. The Trust purchased the Property at the sale for $5,790.00.
18 On June 25, 2014, the Property was sold to Saticoy Bay. Deutsche Bank then filed the present
19 action on September 14, 2016. The parties have each filed summary judgment seeking a 20 declaration as to whether Pacific Sunset’s foreclosure extinguished Deutsche Bank’s lien or 21 whether Saticoy Bay’s predecessor in interest, the Trust, purchased the property subject to the 22 lien. Defendants have also moved to dismiss this action based on the statute of limitations.

23 II. Standard for Summary Judgment

24 The purpose of summary judgment is to avoid unnecessary trials by disposing of 25 factually unsupported claims or defenses. Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323–24 (1986); 26 Nw. Motorcycle Ass’n v. U.S. Dept. of Agric., 18 F.3d 1468, 1471 (9th Cir. 1994). It is available 27 only where the absence of material fact allows the Court to rule as a matter of law. Fed. R. Civ.
28 P. 56(a); Celotex, 477 U.S. at 322. Rule 56 outlines a burden shifting approach to summary

1 judgment. First, the moving party must demonstrate the absence of a genuine issue of material
2 fact. The burden then shifts to the nonmoving party to produce specific evidence of a genuine
3 factual dispute for trial. Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Zenith Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 587 4 (1986). A genuine issue of fact exists where the evidence could allow “a reasonable jury [to] 5 return a verdict for the nonmoving party.” Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 6 (1986). The Court views the evidence and draws all available inferences in the light most 7 favorable to the nonmoving party. Kaiser Cement Corp. v. Fischbach & Moore, Inc., 793 F.2d 8 1100, 1103 (9th Cir. 1986). Yet, to survive summary judgment, the nonmoving party must show 9 more than “some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts.” Matsushita, 475 U.S. at 586.

10 III. Analysis

11 Plaintiff has filed for summary judgment on its claims and the opposing parties have filed 12 for summary judgment on the claims against them. For the reasons stated below, the Court finds 13 that Deutsche Bank’s deed of trust was extinguished by Pacific Sunset’s foreclosure of its 14 superpriority lien. Therefore, Deutsche Bank’s motion for summary judgment is denied and 15 Defendants’ motions for summary judgment are granted.

16 A. Statute of Limitations

17 Before reaching the merits of Deutsche Bank’s motion, Saticoy Bay and Pacific Sunset
18 urge the Court to deny this action as untimely. Defendants argue that Deutsche Bank’s quiet title 19 and declaratory relief claims are subject to a three-year statute of limitations, which began 20 accrual at the time Pacific Sunset foreclosed— February 1, 2013. If a three-year statute of 21 limitations applies, the bank had until February 1, 2016 to bring its claims. Deutsche Bank filed 22 its complaint on September 14, 2016. Accordingly, Defendants argue that Deutsche Bank’s 23 claims are time-barred. The crux of Defendants’ argument is that Deutsche Bank’s claims are not 24 true quiet title claims because the bank never actually held title in the property. The bank is 25 actually bringing an action to enforce rights regarding satisfaction of a superpriority lien which is 26 a right created by statute. According to NRS § 11.190, the applicable statute of limitations for 27 liability created under statute is three years. NRS § 11.090(3)(a). Defendants, therefore, claim 28 that Deutsche Bank’s claims are time-barred.

1 Defendants are incorrect. Admittedly, courts in this district disagree on the appropriate 2 statute of limitations for this type of claim. Deutsche Bank does not allege that it ever held title.
3 Rather, the bank uses the quiet title claim as a vehicle to assert the validity of its preexisting 4 interest in the Property. Despite the district’s split, no Court has found that a three-year statute of 5 limitations is appropriate for these claims. They disagree whether a four-year or a five-year
6 limitations period applies.¹ The disagreement boils down to whether a claim in the context of a 7 nonjudicial foreclosure constitutes a claim to recover property under NRS § 11.080.² If so, a 8 five-year limitations period applies. Both the Ninth Circuit and the Nevada Supreme Court have 9 applied a five-year statute of limitations to these actions. See Weeping Hollow Ave. Tr. v.
10 Spencer, 831 F.3d 1110, 1114 (9th Cir. 2016) (party may bring claim challenging the HOA 11 foreclosure within five years of the sale); Las Vegas Dev. Grp., LLC v. Blaha, 416 P.3d 233, 237 12 (Nev. 2018) (a claim “seeking to quiet title . . . is governed by NRS § 11.080, which provides for 13 a five-year statute of limitations”).

14 Nevertheless, a minority of courts have determined that § 11.080 does not apply to this 15 type of quiet title claim because the bank or lender never actually held title—nor do these banks 16 claim to have ever held title. See U.S. Bank, N.A. v. SFR Invs. Pool 1, LLC, 376 F.Supp.3d 17 1085, 1089–91 (D. Nev. 2019). Those courts have found that NRS § 11.220’s so-called “catch-18 all” provision imposes a four-year statute of limitations because the bank cannot recover 19 property to which it never held title. See NRS § 11.220 (where the Nevada Revised Statutes are 20 silent regarding a statute of limitations, a four-year period applies).

22 ¹ Compare Bank of New York Mellon v. Khosh, No. 2:17-cv-0957-MMD-PAL, 2019 WL 2305146 (D.
23 Nev. May 30, 2019) (applying five-year statute of limitations to quiet title claim under NRS § 11.070); Newlands 24 Asset Holding Tr. v. SFR Invs. Pool 1, LLC, No 3:17-cv-0370-LRH-WGC, 2017 WL 5559956 (D. Nev. Nov. 17, 28 F.Supp.3d ---, 2019 WL 1383265 (D. Nev. Mar. 27, 2019) (applying four-year catchall provision under NRS § 11.220); Nationstar Mortg., LLC v. Safari Homeowners Ass’n, No. 2:16-cv-0542-RFB-CWH, 2019 WL 121960

(D. Nev. Jan. 6, 2019) (same); Bank of America, N.A. v. Country Garden Owners Ass’n, No. 2:17-cv-1850-APG-CWH, 2018 WL 1336721 (D. Nev. Mar. 14, 2018).

² “No action for the recovery of real property, or for the recovery of the possession thereof other than mining claims, shall be maintained, unless it appears that the plaintiff or the plaintiff’s ancestor, predecessor or grantor was seized or possessed of the premises in question, within five years before the commencement thereof.”

1 In any event, the Court need not resolve this dispute here. Deutsche Bank’s claims are 2 timely under either § 11.220’s four-year catch-all provision or § 11.080’s five-year period for 3 recovery of real property. At the latest, Deutsche Bank’s claims began accrual on February 1, 4 2013, when NAS recorded the trustee’s deed upon sale. See G & H Assocs. v. Ernest W. Hahn, 5 Inc., 934 P.2d 229, 233 (Nev. 1997) (accrual begins when the plaintiff first knew or should have 6 known of the injury). Deutsche Bank brought this suit in September of 2016—less than four 7 years from the date of accrual. Therefore, the Court need not definitively decide whether 8 Deutsche Bank’s quiet title claim is subject to a four-year or five-year statute of limitations
9 because its claim is timely under either. Therefore, Defendants’ motions for summary judgment 10 based on application of the statute of limitations are denied.

11 B. Foreclosure of the Superpriority Lien

12 1. Tender

13 Deutsche Bank contends that its attempt to ascertain and pay the superpriority 14 amount of Pacific Sunset’s lien constituted valid tender and preserved its deed of trust. The 15 Nevada Supreme Court has addressed whether valid tender preserves a lender’s deed of trust in a 16 series of recent cases. In Bank of America, N.A. v. SFR Invs. Pool 1, LLC, the Court definitively 17 held that a lender’s valid tender prior to the association’s foreclosure preserves the lender’s first 18 deed of trust. 427 P.3d 113, 118 (Nev. 2018) (“Diamond Spur”). Tender is valid if (1) it pays the 19 entire superpriority lien (id. at 117) and (2) it is unconditional or insists only on conditions the 20 tendering party has a right to insist upon (id. at 118). The tendering party is under no obligation 21 to “keep [the tender] good” or deposit the tender into an escrow or court-established account. Id.
22 at 120–21. At bottom, valid tender voids the association’s foreclosure of the superpriority portion 23 of the association’s lien, which results in the buyer taking the property subject to the lender’s 24 first deed of trust. Id. at 121.

25 Then, in Bank of America, N.A. v. Thomas Jessup, LLC Series VII, the Nevada
26 Supreme Court reaffirmed the tender rule and carved out an exception where an association 27 makes clear that it will reject tender. 435 P.3d 1217 (Nev. 2019). Thus, a lender can preserve its 28 deed of trust against an association’s foreclosure by calculating the superpriority balance and

1 tendering payment for that amount. Diamond Spur, 427 P.3d at 117. Or, even if money never 2 changes hands, the lender's deed of trust survives foreclosure if it attempted to tender payment, 3 but the association rejects that payment. Thomas Jessup, 435 P.3d at 1220. This Court has 4 adopted the Nevada Supreme Court's reasoning. See RH Kids, LLC v. MTC Fin., 367 F.Supp.3d
5 1179, 1185–86 (D. Nev. 2019); Deutsche Bank Nat'l Tr. Co. v. SFR Invs. Pool 1, LLC, No.
6 2:17-cv-0457-KJD-GWF, 2018 WL 5019376 (D. Nev. Oct. 16, 2018).

7 However, in the present action, Deutsche Bank has made no showing that it 8 tendered the superpriority portion of the lien. Instead, Deutsche Bank asserts that the undisputed 9 facts show that Pacific Sunset and/or NAS obstructed their attempt to ascertain the superpriority 10 amount. However, Deutsche Bank admits or has no evidence that it did anything other than have 11 Miles Bauer send a letter seeking the superpriority amount. There is no evidence of any actual 12 attempt at tender. Deutsche Bank did not calculate the superpriority amount and send a check.
13 Additionally, there was no clear communication by NAS or Pacific Sunset that tender would be 14 rejected if made. See Jessup, 435 P.3d at 1217, 1220. Further there is no clear connection 15 between the testimony offered by Deutsche Bank from other cases involving other parties to the 16 parties involved in this action. There is no case cited where sufficient tender was found by 17 merely offering to pay the amount but failing to do so, without more. See, e.g., See RH Kids, 367
18 F.Supp.3d 1179, 1185–86 (D. Nev. 2019); Bank of America, N.A. v. Sagecreek Homeowners 19 Assoc., 2019 WL 3325805 *4 (D. Nev. 2019) (only reasonable construction of agent's letter to 20 bank stating that HOA did not believe that it had to provide an account ledger in the absence of 21 lender foreclosure was that it would reject any tender). In the absence of a valid tender, the Court 22 denies Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment on this claim and grants Defendants' motions.
23 The foreclosure sale extinguished Plaintiff's lien.

24 2. Constitutionality of NRS § 116

25 As an alternative argument, Deutsche Bank argues that NRS § 116 is 26 unconstitutional on its face and as applied under the facts of this case.

27
28

1 a. NRS § 116 is Facially Constitutional and was Applied Constitutionally Here
2 Because Deutsche Bank Received Adequate Notice of the HOA-Foreclosure Sale

3 First, the Court must determine whether and to what extent the Ninth Circuit’s 4 determination in Bourne Valley Court Trust v. Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. binds its decision in this 5 case. 832 F.3d 1154 (2016). The parties’ dispute arises out of the disagreement between the 6 Ninth Circuit and Nevada Supreme Court regarding the facial constitutionality of the so-called 7 “opt-in” notice provision of NRS § 116.3116(2). See id. at 1158. The Nevada Supreme Court has 8 since considered—and rejected—the Ninth Circuit’s reasoning in Bourne Valley. SFR Inv. Pool 9 1, LLC v. Bank of New York Mellon, 422 P.3d 1248 (Nev. 2018) (“SFR 2”).

10
11 1. Given the Nevada Supreme Court’s Contrary Decision, Bourne Valley’s
12 Determination that NRS § 116 is Facially Unconstitutional No Longer
13 Binds This Court

14 The Ninth Circuit’s holding in Bourne Valley hinges on two important 15 points: state action and an impermissible “opt-in” notice scheme. Bourne Valley, 832 F.3d at 16 1158, 1160. Related to state action, the Court found that NRS § 116’s superpriority-lien scheme 17 so degraded a lender’s property interest that the passing of the statute itself constituted state 18 action. Id. at 1160. In other words, there was state action because but for the enactment of the 19 statute, a bank would have a fully secured interest in a property. Id.

20 As for notice, the Court determined that that NRS § 116.3116(2) created an 21 unconstitutional “opt-in” scheme that provided notice only to those parties who asked for it—22 parties that may not have known that their deed of trust was at risk. Id. at 1158. Reaching this 23 conclusion, the Court rejected the argument that NRS § 116 incorporated NRS § 107.090, which 24 required notice to other parties whose deeds of trust could be extinguished by the HOA’s 25 superpriority lien. Id. at 1159 (citing NRS § 107.090(3)(b)) (requiring notice by registered or 26 certified mail to every entity “with an interest or claimed interest . . . subordinate to the deed of 27 trust”). Incorporation would cure the “opt-in” notice deficiency but would also “render the 28 express notice provisions of [NRS §] 116 entirely superfluous. Id. Having found state action and an impermissible “opt-in” notice scheme, the Court declared § 116 facially unconstitutional.

1 The Nevada Supreme Court disagreed. After Bourne Valley, another Court in this district 2 certified a question to the Nevada Supreme Court seeking clarification whether incorporation of 3 NRS § 107.090 required an HOA to provide notice of default or notices of sale to subordinate 4 entities even when those entities did not request notice. SFR 2, 422 P.3d at 1250. The Nevada
5 Supreme Court broke from the Ninth Circuit and determined that NRS § 116 indeed incorporated 6 the notice provisions in NRS § 170.090. Id. at 1253. In fact, the Nevada Supreme Court 7 considered the Ninth Circuit’s position and expressly “decline[d] to follow the majority holding 8 in Bourne Valley.” Id. By incorporating § 107.090, the Nevada Supreme Court eliminated the 9 “opt-in” notice scheme rendering the statute facially constitutional. Finding no constitutional 10 deprivation, the Court did not reach the question of state action.

11 In light of SFR 2, Bourne Valley is no longer binding on this Court so far as it relates to 12 the facial constitutionality of NRS § 116. A state’s highest court has the final word on the 13 interpretation of state law. Gurley v. Rhoden, 421 U.S. 200, 208 (1975). Thus, Bourne Valley’s 14 interpretation of NRS § 116 was only binding absent the Nevada Supreme Court’s contrary 15 finding. Owen v. United States, 713 F.2d 1461, 1464 (9th Cir. 1983); Miller v. Gammie, 335 16 F.3d 889, 892–93 (9th Cir. 2003) (“where the reasoning or theory of . . . prior circuit authority is 17 clearly irreconcilable with the reasoning or theory of intervening higher authority, [the Court] 18 should consider itself bound by the later controlling authority”).

19 Bourne Valley’s holding that NRS § 116 is facially unconstitutional is irreconcilable with 20 the Nevada Supreme Court’s holding in SFR 2. Therefore, inasmuch as Deutsche Bank argues 21 that Bourne Valley controls the facial constitutionality of § 116, the Court rejects that argument.

23 b. The Notice Required Under NRS § 107.090 Is Constitutionally 24 Adequate Because It Alerted Deutsche Bank to the Foreclosure Action and 25 Gave the Bank an Opportunity to Object

26 Deutsche Bank next argues that, despite the incorporation of NRS 27 § 107.090, NRS § 116 is still unconstitutional because the notice it required is constitutionally 28 deficient. The argument is two-fold. First, Deutsche Bank argues that Bourne Valley correctly determined that Nevada’s implementation of NRS § 116 constitutes state action for purposes of 1 its due process claim, a claim that the Nevada Supreme Court has not addressed. It contends that 2 Bourne Valley's state-action decision survived SFR 2 because whether legislative enactment

3 constitutes state action is a purely federal question. Second, the bank argues that § 116's notice 4 requirements as incorporated did not sufficiently warn lenders that their property interests were 5 at stake. Because the Court finds that Deutsche Bank received constitutionally adequate notice, it 6 need not determine whether enactment of NRS § 116 constituted state action. Accordingly, the 7 Court turns to § 107.090's notice provision.

8 Section 107.090 requires the HOA—through its trustee or agent—to provide notice of 9 default (1) to each person who has requested it and (2) to each person with an interest 10 subordinate to the HOA's deed of trust. NRS § 170.090(3)(a)–(b). The statute ensures that a 11 lender or other lien holder receives notice if they stand to lose their interest due to the HOA 12 foreclosure. Here, the HOA recorded at least one notice of default, and the bank does not dispute 13 that it received notice. On May 10, 2012, HOA-trustee NAS recorded a Notice of Default and 14 Election to Sell. In capital letters the notice warned that failure to pay the delinquent balance 15 could cause the homeowner to lose their home. Id. Next, NAS recorded a Notice of Trustee's 16 Sale on January 9, 2013, which warned of an impending foreclosure sale unless the parties 17 satisfied the delinquent HOA assessments.

18 Deutsche Bank argues that those two recorded notices were insufficient to alert the bank 19 that its deed of trust was at risk for two reasons. First, the bank contends the notice was 20 insufficient because it did not reveal the existence of a superpriority lien that threatened to 21 extinguish all other liens. And second, the bank argues the notices were insufficient because they 22 did not adequately instruct the bank how to protect its deed of trust from being extinguished.

23 Due process requires notice that is “reasonably calculated” to alert interested parties to 24 the action against them and provide them an opportunity to object. Mullane v. Cent. Hanover 25 Bank & Tr. Co., 339 U.S. 306, 314 (1950). However, due process does not require actual notice 26 of an impending action. Jones v. Flowers, 547 U.S. 220, 226 (2006). Rather, the provided notice 27 must be “reasonably certain” to inform the other party of the pendency of the action. Nozzi v.
28 Housing Auth. of City of Los Angeles, 806 F.3d 1178, 1194 (9th Cir. 2015) (citing Mullane, 339

1 U.S. at 314).

2 Here, the HOA trustee provided notices that adequately informed Deutsche Bank that the 3 HOA intended to foreclose on the Property. In tandem, NRS § 116 also put the bank on notice 4 that the HOA’s foreclosure could extinguish its interest in the property. The notice’s failure to 5 explicitly inform a lender that its deed of trust is at risk does not render that notice insufficient. It 6 is now settled law in Nevada that a properly conducted non-judicial foreclosure creates a 7 superpriority lien in favor of the HOA, which can extinguish all other deeds of trust. See SFR
8 Invs. Pool 1, LLC v. U.S. Bank, 334 P.3d 408, 409 (Nev. 2014). While § 116’s effect on deeds 9 of trust may have been less clear at the time of this foreclosure, the statute nonetheless provided 10 the potential for a lender’s deed of trust to be extinguished by HOA foreclosure. The HOA’s 11 notices need not articulate points of law that were available to each lienholder in the Nevada 12 Revised Statutes. Nationstar Mortg., LLC v. Amber Hills II Homeowner’s Assn., No. 2:15-cv-13 01433-APG-CWH, 2016 WL 1298108, at *7 (D. Nev. Mar. 31, 2016) (“The fact that a notice 14 does not identify a superpriority amount is of no consequence because [NRS § 116] gives 15 lienholders notice that the HOA may have a superpriority interest that could extinguish their 16 security interests”).

17 Instead, the notices only needed to provide information that would reasonably warn other 18 lienholders of some action that could affect their property interests. These notices did just that.
19 Both the Notice of Default and Election to Sell and the Notice of Sale made clear that the HOA 20 was attempting to satisfy the delinquent assessment balance through a foreclosure sale. Those 21 notices, together with NRS § 116’s creation of a superpriority lien, provided sufficient notice to 22 Deutsche Bank that its deed of trust risked being extinguished and gave the bank enough 23 information to challenge the foreclosure.

24 Deutsche Bank’s next argument—that the HOA’s failure to instruct the bank how to cure
25 the superpriority lien rendered the notice unconstitutional—is also unavailing because the HOA 26 need not provide the bank the tools to protect its interest. Due process does not require “an 27 exhaustive guidebook to preserving one’s interest.” Bank of New York Mellon v. Log Cabin 28 Manor, ---F.Supp.3d---, No. 2:15-cv-2026-MMD-CWH, 2019 WL 302489, at *4 (D. Nev. Jan.

1 23, 2019). It requires notice of the “pendency of the action.” Mullane, 339 U.S. at 314. Notices 2 such as these, that provide the date and time of the imminent foreclosure provided the bank with 3 the information needed to appear and object. Accordingly, the Court finds that NRS 4 § 116.3116’s notice scheme was constitutionally adequate. The Court denies Plaintiff Deutsche 5 Bank’s motion for summary judgment on this issue.

6 3. Equitable Relief under Shadow Canyon

7 Next, Deutsche Bank argues that even if NRS § 116 is constitutional, the Court 8 should nevertheless unwind or set aside the HOA foreclosure because it was tainted by 9 unfairness and oppression. The Court may equitably set aside a foreclosure where evidence of 10 fraud, unfairness, or oppression accompanies a grossly inadequate sales price. Nationstar Mortg., 11 LLC v. Saticoy Bay, LLC Series 2227 Shadow Canyon, 405 P.3d 641 (Nev. 2017) (“Shadow 12 Canyon”); Golden v. Tomiyasu, 387 P.2d 989 (Nev. 1963). Shadow Canyon reinforced that a 13 grossly inadequate sales price is not enough to set aside a foreclosure sale. 405 P.3d at 647. The 14 threshold question thus becomes whether there is evidence of fraud, unfairness, or oppression in 15 the HOA sale. If so, the Court then determines whether the sale price was grossly inadequate. If 16 the Court answers both questions affirmatively, it may equitably unwind or reform the 17 foreclosure sale. See id.

18 Deutsche Bank argues that a clause requiring judicial foreclosure of an HOA lien
19 in the HOA’s CC&Rs and the fact that NAS took the position in other litigation that the HOA 20 superpriority lien did not attach until the bank foreclosed on its deed of trust evince an unfair or 21 fraudulent sale. The judicial foreclosure clause in the CC&Rs does not rise to the level of direct 22 misrepresentation necessary to demonstrate fraud or unfairness and does not justify unwinding 23 this foreclosure. At bottom, the provisions in community CC&Rs cannot override state statutes.
24 See, e.g., SFR Invs. Pool 1, LLC v. U.S. Bank, 334 P.3d 742, 757–58 (Nev. 2014) (“Nothing in 25 NRS 116.3116 expressly provides for a waiver of the HOA’s right to a priority position for the 26 HOA’s super priority lien . . . [t]he mortgage savings clause thus does not affect NRS 27 116.3116(2)’s application in this case”); Bank of America, N.A. v. Azure Manor/Rancho de Paz 28 Homeowners Ass’n., No. 2:16-cv-0765-GMN-GWF, 2019 WL 636973, at *6 (D. Nev. Feb. 14, 1 2019) (mortgage protection clauses cannot supersede the provisions of NRS § 116).

2 However, the Nevada Supreme Court and this Court have recognized that a clause in the 3 CC&R's coupled with an HOA's direct misrepresentation of the safety of senior deeds of trust 4 can render a foreclosure sale unfair. Shadow Canyon, 405 P.3d at 648 n.11 (citing Zyzzx2 v.
5 Dizon, No. 2:13-cv-1307-JCM-PAL, 2016 WL 1181666, at *5 (D. Nev. Mar. 25, 2015)
6 (“irregularities that may rise to the level of fraud include . . . an HOA's representation that the 7 foreclosure sale will not extinguish the first deed of trust”). Zyzzx2 offers similar facts to this 8 case. There, a Court in this district analyzed a non-judicial foreclosure that threatened a Wells 9 Fargo first deed of trust. 2016 WL 1181666, at *1. Like here, Wells Fargo argued that the 10 foreclosure sale was commercially unreasonable in part because of the HOA's CC&Rs. Id. at *5.
11 There, however, the HOA also sent a letter to Wells Fargo and other interested parties 12 confirming that the HOA foreclosure would not affect their deeds of trust. Id. Based on that 13 affirmative misrepresentation, the Court concluded that the HOA's sale was unfair. Id. As a 14 result, the Court granted summary judgment for Wells Fargo and set aside the HOA's 15 foreclosure sale. Id.

16 Absent here is any direct confirmation from Pacific Sunset to Deutsche Bank that the 17 CC&Rs immunized the bank's deed of trust from extinguishment or non-judicial foreclosure.
18 Direct confirmation of the judicial foreclosure clause between the HOA and other lienholders is 19 necessary to find unfairness because the judicial foreclosure clause on its own is not enough.
20 Azure Manor, 2019 WL 636973, at *6. In fact, the Court that decided Zyzzx2 has since clarified
21 that its holding hinged upon the HOA's representations in its letter to Wells Fargo. Bayview 22 Loan Servicing, LLC v. SFR Invs. Pool 1, LLC, No. 2:14-cv-1875-JCM-GWF, 2017 WL 23 1100955, at *9 (D. Nev. Mar. 22, 2017) (“Indeed [Zyzzx2] was rendered in light of the 24 combination of the mortgage protection clause and the HOA's misleading mailings”) (emphasis 25 added).

26 Deutsche Bank's argument that NAS took the position in other litigation that most tender 27 checks were rejected as insufficient, because NAS had a more inclusive view of what amounts 28 could be included in the superpriority lien is not evidence of unfairness or oppression in this

1 case. There is no direct evidence in this case, that NAS would have rejected tender. Further, the 2 circumstantial or inferential evidence is not enough to raise a genuine issue of material fact.

3 Likewise, Deutsche Bank has not shown that the judicial foreclosure clause in the HOA's 4 CC&Rs chilled bidding and depressed the sales price. The bank argues that no rational buyer 5 would pay fair market value for the property because the CC&Rs preserved the existing deed of 6 trust. As a result, the HOA sale could not recover both the HOA's delinquent assessments and 7 the amount necessary to cure the default on the bank's deed of trust. However, Deutsche Bank 8 has not provided evidence that the CC&Rs had any effect on the sales price whatsoever.
9 Accordingly, the Court finds that the judicial foreclosure clause did not render the HOA sale
10 unfair. Relief under Shadow Canyon is denied.³
