UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

SATA GmbH & Co. KG,

Plaintiff

v.

NingBo Genin Industrial Co., Ltd. d/b/a

Hoteche,

Defendant

Case No.: 2:16-cv-02546-JAD-GWF

Order Granting Motion for Attorney's Fees

[ECF No. 16]

10 Defendant NingBo Genin Industrial Co., Ltd., doing business as Hoteche, defaulted in 11 this patent- and trademark-infringement case.¹ I directed the Clerk of Court to enter default 12 judgment against Hoteche in the amount of $50,000 in statutory damages for infringing on 13 plaintiff SATA GmbH & Co. KG's intellectual property, and I imposed a permanent injunction, 14 preventing Hoteche from further infringing on that property.² But I denied SATA's request for 15 attorney's fees without prejudice because it failed to satisfy the local rules.³ SATA has now 16 filed a local-rules-compliant motion for attorney's fees.⁴ I find that its requested fees are 17 reasonable, and I grant the motion.

Discussion

The Lanham Act permits an award of attorney's fees to the prevailing party in "exceptional cases,"⁵ and the Ninth Circuit has held that willful-infringement cases like this one are "exceptional."⁶ So, SATA is entitled to an award of reasonable attorney's fees. "The most

1 useful starting point for determining the amount of a reasonable fee is the number of hours
2 reasonably expended on the litigation multiplied by a reasonable hourly rate.”⁷ The moving 3 party bears of the burden of proving the reasonableness of its fees by producing detailed time 4 records that describe the work performed and the hours spent.⁸ The court then scrutinizes the 5 records for unnecessary, duplicative, or excessive entries, and considers the prevailing hourly
6 rate for attorneys of comparable experience, skill, and reputation in the moving party’s locale.⁹
7 The court has discretion to reduce an award based on inadequate evidentiary support.¹⁰

8 A. SATA’s billed hours and rates are reasonable.

9 SATA requests $11,117 in attorney’s fees.¹¹ It supports this amount with a 32-page 10 exhibit containing invoices for work performed by multiple people, the lion’s share of which was 11 completed by Mr. Caloiaro.¹² Mr. Caloiaro declares that the invoices are accurate and only 12 account for time and work spent on this case.¹³ The invoices show that: Mr. Caloiaro worked 13 21.7 hours at $320 per hour, .7 hours at $345 per hour, and 9.5 hours at $275 per hour;¹⁴ “J.
14 Pellant” worked 2.5 hours at $345 per hour; “C. Hebert” worked 1.1 hours at $260 per hour; and 15 “L. Williams” worked .6 hours at $285 per hour.¹⁵

23 given the opportunity to reevaluate its calculations, it realized that work unassociated with this 24 case was inadvertently included in the prior numbers, so the current request is an accurate one.

1 Based on my review of the detailed descriptions of each billing entry, the trajectory of 2 this case, and personal experience in complex civil litigation in this market, I find that the hours
3 spent by each of these individuals is reasonable and that none of their work was duplicative, 4 unnecessary, or excessive. Counsel also provides a handful of cases from this district that 5 awarded attorney's fees in the trademark-default context. Three of the four cases are 6 persuasive.¹⁶

7 The first case was an eight-month-long trademark-default case that resulted in attorney's 8 fees for $14,776.20.¹⁷ And the other two cases—both of which I ruled on—also resulted in 9 attorney's-fees awards of $17,408.48 and $20,234.40 after a trademark infringer defaulted.¹⁸ I
10 specifically found in Mayweather that rates between $295 and $675 are reasonable for trademark 11 litigation in Las Vegas.¹⁹ Mr. Caloiaro represents that he has been practicing as an intellectual-12 property litigator for more than seven years; has successfully litigated dozens of patent, 13 trademark, copyright, and trade-secret cases; has given numerous CLE presentations on 14 intellectual property subject matter; and has written articles on trademark and patent 15 infringement.²⁰ Based on his extensive experience in the practice area, Mr. Caloiaro's variable 16 rates of $275, $320, and $345 an hour are reasonable, as are the rates of his colleagues.

17 ¹⁶ The fourth is inapposite because the parties engaged in extensive litigation and full discovery
18 over the course of two years before the pro se defendant from Belgium gave up and defaulted.
