Case No. 2:18-cv-00972-RFB-VCF

ORDER

15
16 I. INTRODUCTION

17 Before the Court are Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment (ECF No. 68), 18 Defendant's Motion for Order (ECF No. 71), and Plaintiff's Motion to Withdraw as Counsel of 19 Record (ECF No. 73).

20 For the reasons stated herein, Defendant's Motion for Summary Judgment (ECF No. 68) 21 is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part; Defendant's Motion for Order (ECF No. 71) is 22 DENIED as moot; and the Motion to Withdraw as Counsel of Record (ECF No. 73) is GRANTED.
23

24 II. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

25 Plaintiff filed the Complaint on May 27, 2018, alleging three claims under Title VII of the 26 Civil Rights Act of 1964, for (1) hostile work environment, (2) quid pro quo sexual harassment, 27 and (3) retaliation. ECF No. 1. Defendant filed a Motion to Dismiss on June 19, 2018, and an 28 Amended Motion to Dismiss on June 19, 2018. ECF Nos. 5, 9. Plaintiff filed a response on July 3,

1 2018. ECF No. 12. Defendant filed a Reply on July 10, 2018. ECF No. 13. The Court held a hearing
2 on the Amended Motion to Dismiss on March 15, 2019 and denied the motion without prejudice.
3 ECF No. 34. Following the granting of several extensions of the discovery schedule, discovery
4 closed on April 30, 2021. ECF No. 67.

5 On March 22, 2021, Defendant filed the instant Motion for Summary Judgment. ECF No.
6 68. On April 20, 2021, Defendant filed a “Notice of Non-Opposition,” noting that Plaintiff had not 7 filed a response in opposition to the dispositive motion. ECF No. 69. Defendant sent a letter to the 8 Court on July 26, 2021, indicating the same. ECF No. 70. Defendant filed a “Motion for Order” 9 on December 22, 2021, again notifying the Court that Plaintiff had not filed an opposition to 10 Defendant’s motion for summary judgment. ECF No. 71.

11 On January 26, 2022, the Court ordered Plaintiff to file an opposition to Defendant’s 12 Motion for Summary Judgment by February 11, 2022. ECF No. 72. Plaintiff did not do so. Instead, 13 on February 4, 2022, Plaintiff’s counsel filed a Motion to Withdraw as Counsel of Record. ECF 14 No. 73.

15 The Court now issues the following order regarding Defendant’s Motion for Summary 16 Judgment, ECF No. 68; Defendant’s Motion for Order re Summary Judgment, ECF No. 71; and 17 Plaintiff’s Motion to Withdraw as Counsel, ECF No. 73.

18
19 III. DEFENDANT’S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT (ECF NO. 68)

20 a. Legal Standard

21 Summary judgment is appropriate "if the movant shows there is no genuine issue as to any 22 material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). The 23 substantive law governing a matter determines which facts are material to a case. Anderson v.
24 Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986).

25 When considering the propriety of summary judgment, the court views all facts and draws 26 all inferences in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party. Gonzalez v. City of Anaheim, 27 747 F.3d 789, 793 (9th Cir. 2014). If the movant has carried its burden, the nonmoving party “must 28 do more than simply show that there is some metaphysical doubt as to the material facts. . . . Where

1 the record taken as a whole could not lead a rational trier of fact to find for the nonmoving party, 2 there is no genuine issue for trial.” Scott v. Harris, 550 U.S. 372, 380 (2007) (alteration in original)
3 (internal quotation marks omitted). The nonmoving party may not merely rest on the allegations 4 of her pleadings; rather, she must produce specific facts—by affidavit or other evidence—showing 5 a genuine issue of fact. Anderson, 477 U.S. at 256.

6 “If a party fails to properly support an assertion of fact or fails to properly address another 7 party's assertion of fact the court may: (1) give an opportunity to properly support or address the 8 fact; (2) consider the fact undisputed for purposes of the motion; (3) grant summary judgment if 9 the motion and supporting materials — including the facts considered undisputed — show that the 10 movant is entitled to it; or (4) issue any other appropriate order.” Heinemann v. Satterberg, 731
11 F.3d 914, 915 (9th Cir. 2013) (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e)). When a party fails to oppose a motion 12 for summary judgment, district courts must assess “whether the motion and supporting materials 13 entitle the movant to summary judgment.” Id. (citations and internal quotation marks omitted).

14
15 b. Factual Background

16 i. Undisputed Facts

17 The Court finds the following facts to be undisputed based on the record:

18 In April 2015, Plaintiff began her employment as a treatment coordinator at Defendant All 19 Bright Family Dentistry, LLC (“All Bright”). Plaintiff’s initial duties included managing the front 20 office, coordinating appointments with patients, and overseeing sales duties, which included 21 helping patients obtain financing and collecting payments. All Bright Family Dentistry is owned 22 by Dr. Saeid Mohtashami.

23 Plaintiff was terminated from All Bright on March 15, 2016.

24 Plaintiff subsequently filed a Charge of Discrimination with the Equal Employment 25 Opportunity Commission (“EEOC”), alleging that she had experienced discrimination related to 26 her employment with All Bright. On February 27, 2018, the EEOC issued Plaintiff a Notice of 27 Right to Sue.

1 ii. Disputed Facts

2 The Court finds that there are substantial disputed facts in this case. The parties 3 fundamentally dispute whether the sexually harassing conduct alleged by Plaintiff ever occurred.

4 Plaintiff alleges that during the course of her employment, Dr. Mohtashami repeatedly 5 made unwanted sexual advances towards her, causing her to experience emotional and physical 6 distress, including anxiety and depression. Plaintiff alleges Dr. Mohtashami sexually harassed her 7 by repeatedly insisting that she date him. Plaintiff also alleges four discrete instances of sexual 8 harassment. First, Plaintiff contends that in October 2015, Dr. Mohtashami approached her in his 9 office while he was intoxicated, pulled down her tank top shirt, ripping her tank top, and grabbed 10 her breasts. Plaintiff alleges she “left the office in tears” following this incident. Second, Plaintiff 11 alleges that around December 2015, Dr. Mohtashami took Plaintiff and the other women who 12 worked in the office to a Christmas party at the Sapphire Gentlemen’s Club. Plaintiff alleges Dr.
13 Mohtashami pressured her into going to the party, and that while everyone was in the limousine 14 on their way to Sapphire’s, Dr. Mohtashami took off his clothes, grinded on Plaintiff, and asked 15 her, “don’t you want all of this, baby.” Third, Plaintiff alleges that after the staff returned to the 16 office following the Christmas party, Dr. Mohtashami propositioned Plaintiff to snort cocaine and 17 have sex with him. Fourth, Plaintiff alleges that after she told Dr. Mohtashami she intended to quit, 18 Dr. Mohtashami asked Plaintiff what he would “have to do to keep [Plaintiff],” and that in 19 response, she asked him to buy her a house. Plaintiff alleges that after Dr. Mohtashami purchased 20 her a house, Dr. Mohtashami’s wife confronted Plaintiff about sleeping with Dr. Mohtashami.
21 Plaintiff alleges that Dr. Mohtashami then fired her.

22 Defendant disputes all of the above allegations. Defendant puts forth a fundamentally 23 different account of the facts, alleging that it was Plaintiff herself who created an inappropriate 24 work environment by terrorizing office staff, discussing her sex life at work, and neglecting her 25 job responsibilities. Defendant also argues that Plaintiff repeatedly made sexual advances towards 26 Dr. Mohtashami, including by sending him inappropriate text messages and photographs of 27 herself, referring to herself as a “trophy” wife, and pressing Dr. Mohtashami about his personal 28 life and sexual activities. Defendant argues this inappropriate behavior culminated in Plaintiff

1 attempting to extort Dr. Mohtashami. Defendant argues that Plaintiff informed Dr. Mohtashami 2 that her credit was not good enough to secure a loan for a home purchase, and that he agreed to 3 purchase a home and to lease it to Plaintiff for $990 a month. Defendant argues that Plaintiff 4 subsequently told coworkers and posted online that Dr. Mohtashami had bought her a house, and 5 that when he confronted her about it, she demanded that he pay her a $175,000 bonus, an amount 6 175% of her annual salary, and a 9% cut of All Bright's sales. Defendant argues Plaintiff not only 7 refused to recant her false statements about the house, but also threatened to sue Dr. Mohtashami 8 if he did not agree to her terms. Defendant alleges Dr. Mohtashami at that point had no choice but 9 to terminate Plaintiff. Defendant denies all of Plaintiff's allegations regarding the specific 10 instances of sexually harassing conduct. He admits only to having brought his office staff to the 11 Sapphire Gentleman's Club around December 2015, and to having asked Plaintiff if she wanted to 12 see the view from his hotel room at the Cosmopolitan. He denies that either of these actions were 13 sexual or harassing in nature.

14 c. Discussion

15 Title VII makes it "an unlawful employment practice for an employer . . . to discriminate 16 against any individual with respect to [her] compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of 17 employment, because of such individual's race, color, religion, sex, or national origin." 42 U.S.C.
18 § 2000e-2(a)(1). For the reasons stated herein, the Court denies summary judgment with respect 19 to Plaintiff's first cause of action for hostile work environment, but grants summary judgment with 20 respect to her second and third causes of action for quid pro quo sexual harassment and retaliation.

21 i. Claim 1: Hostile Work Environment

22 Plaintiff's first cause of action alleges that she was subjected to a hostile work environment 23 in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. To survive summary judgment on a sexual 24 harassment hostile work environment claim, a plaintiff must generate genuine issues of material 25 fact that: (1) she was subjected to sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or 26 physical conduct of a sexual nature; (2) this conduct was unwelcome; and (3) the conduct was 27 sufficiently severe or pervasive to alter the conditions of her employment and create an abusive 28 working environment. Ellison v. Brady, 924 F.2d 872, 875-76 (9th Cir. 1991). Here, the Court

1 finds that the record evidence establishes a genuine issue of material fact with respect to all three 2 elements of plaintiff’s claim for a hostile work environment.

3 The Court notes that Plaintiff has not filed an opposition to the motion for summary 4 judgment. When the non-movant fails to oppose the movant’s motion for summary judgment, the 5 Court must nevertheless consider whether the motion and supporting materials entitle the movant 6 to summary judgment. Heinemann, 731 F.3d at 915. The Court has considered the evidence in the 7 record, including the excerpts from Plaintiff’s deposition that Defendant submitted in support of 8 its motion, and finds that there remain substantial issues of material fact which preclude the Court 9 from finding that Defendant is entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law on this claim.

10 With respect to the first element of her hostile work environment claim, Plaintiff testified 11 during her deposition to at least four discrete instances of sexual advances or requests for sexual 12 favors by Dr. Mohtashami. First, she stated that in the fall of 2015, she and Dr. Mohtashami went 13 to dinner at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, and that afterwards, he asked her to go with him to his hotel
14 room. ECF No. 68-12, at 121:12-24. Second, she stated that in October 2015, Dr. Mohtashami 15 approached her in his office, grabbed her breasts, and ripped her tank top. Id. at 146:4-24. Third, 16 Plaintiff testified that in December 2015, she and Dr. Mohtashami were in a limo on their way to 17 the office Christmas party, when he removed his clothing, began grinding on Plaintiff, and asked 18 her, “do you want all of this, baby.” Id. at 179:1-23. And fourth, Plaintiff testified that Dr.
19 Mohtashami directly told her that she “should have sex with [him],” id. at 241:4-7, and that on 20 another occasion, he told her he would “consider turning gay if [Plaintiff] didn’t help him get a 21 release,” id. at 134:7-135-24. Defendant does not deny that these allegations constitute sexual 22 advances, but merely argues that these incidents never occurred. The Court finds that a jury must 23 resolve the dueling testimony of Plaintiff and Dr. Mohtashami in order to determine whether this 24 element has been satisfied. See Zetwick v. Cty. of Yolo, 850 F.3d 436, 441 (9th Cir. 2017) (stating 25 that it is improper for the Court to resolve genuine factual disputes or make credibility 26 determinations at the summary judgment stage).

27 As to the second element—whether the alleged sexual advances were “unwelcome”— 28 Plaintiff testified that Dr. Mohtashami’s conduct made her “uncomfortable,” id. at 147:16-17, that

1 she did not want to have sex with Dr. Mohtashami, id. at 183:14-16, that she felt she had to “keep 2 [Dr. Mohtashami] happy” to keep her job, id. at 124:23-25; 147:21-148:11, and that she only ever 3 spoke about her dating life while at work in order to get Dr. Mohtashami to “back off,” id. at 4 185:11-18. Plaintiff also testified that while she was employed at All Bright, she told her son and 5 her assistant, Danielle, that she felt Dr. Mohtashami had sexually harassed her. Id. at 183:17-6 184:24. Defendant disputes that Dr. Mohtashami engaged in any improper conduct but argues that 7 even if he made sexual advances towards Plaintiff, such advances were not unwelcome. Defendant 8 argues the evidence in the record of “Plaintiff’s provocative speech, relentless talk of sexual 9 experiences, inappropriate messages to Dr. Mohtashami, and dress” suggests that Plaintiff 10 welcomed sexual advances from Dr. Mohtashami. ECF No. 68 at 15. In support of these 11 contentions, Defendant points to the fact that Plaintiff admitted to giving Dr. Mohtashami 12 unsolicited gifts, see ECF No. 68-12 at 141:4-21, and to the fact that another employee, Melissa 13 Rodriguez, testified that Plaintiff would send Dr. Mohtashami extravagant gifts and 14 “inappropriate” photos “with her tongue sticking out,” see ECF No. 68-3 at 56:2-10. Defendant
15 also directs the Court to evidence in the record of text messages that Plaintiff sent Dr. Mohtashami, 16 where she is pictured blowing him kisses, stating that she “love[s] [her] career,” and telling Dr.
17 Mohtashami that she “love[s] [him] so much.” See ECF No. 68-10.

18 The Court is mindful that “the question [of] whether particular conduct was indeed 19 unwelcome presents difficult problems of proof and turns largely on credibility determinations 20 committed to the trier of fact.” See Meritor Sav. Bank, FSB v. Vinson, 488 U.S. 57, 68 (1986).
21 While there is evidence in the record that Plaintiff may have failed to object to Dr. Mohtashami’s 22 alleged advances, as well as evidence that Plaintiff appeared happy with her work environment 23 and her relationship with Dr. Mohtashami, this evidence is not dispositive of whether Dr.
24 Mohtashami’s alleged conduct was “unwanted.” To the contrary, viewing the evidence in the light 25 most favorable to the Plaintiff, a reasonable jury could find that Plaintiff’s amenable or flirtatious 26 behavior was consistent with her testimony that she aimed to “keep [Dr. Mohtashami] happy” and 27 feared she would have been fired if she dared rebuff her employer. See id. at 68 (finding that where 28 a plaintiff voluntarily engages in sexual conduct with a defendant, the conduct may still have been

1 “unwanted,” and that “voluntary” sex-related conduct is not a defense to a sexual harassment suit
2 under Title VII). Courts in this circuit routinely deny summary judgment on hostile work 3 environment claims where there is evidence that a plaintiff may have condoned or welcomed 4 sexual advances in an effort to avoid negative employment consequences. See, e.g. Wilson v.
5 County of Umatilla, No. 3:11-cv-01061-PK, 2013 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 168936, at *36-37 (D. Or.
6 Aug. 9, 2013) (denying summary judgment where a reasonable jury could believe Plaintiff agreed 7 to have sex with her employer because she feared she would be fired if she rejected his sexual 8 advances); Sarantis v. ADP, Inc., 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 31186, at *13 (D. Ariz. Apr. 15, 2008) 9 (denying summary judgment on whether plaintiff welcomed alleged conduct where he “played 10 along with . . . a powerful and influential” supervisor’s sexual advances); Frotten v. INT Techs.
11 LLC, 2018 U.S. Dist LEXIS 84555, at *20 (D. Ariz. May 21, 2018) (denying summary judgment 12 where a plaintiff engaged in inappropriate sexual banter “in order to ‘fit in’ and “be part of the 13 good ol’ boys club”). Further, the Court notes that the Ninth Circuit has found that conduct is 14 unwelcome if the plaintiff complained about it. Nichols v. Azteca Rest. Enters., 256 F.3d 864, 873 15 (9th Cir. 2001). Here, Plaintiff testified that while she was still employed at All Bright, she 16 complained about Dr. Mohtashami’s alleged conduct to her son and her assistant. See ECF No.
17 68-12 at 183:17-184:24. The Court concludes that whether Dr. Mohtashami’s alleged conduct was 18 “unwanted” presents factual and credibility questions that are for a jury, and not this Court, to 19 resolve.

20 Finally, as to the final element of a hostile work environment claim, the Court finds that a 21 reasonable jury could conclude that Dr. Mohtashami’s alleged conduct was sufficiently severe or 22 pervasive as to alter the conditions of Plaintiff’s employment and create an abusive working 23 environment. The Court employs “a totality of the circumstances test to determine whether a 24 plaintiff’s allegations make out a colorable claim of hostile work environment,” weighing factors 25 such as “frequency, severity and level of interference with work performance.” Brooks v. City of 26 San Mateo, 229 F.3d 917, 923-24 (9th Cir. 2000). Further, the Court must consider whether “the 27 working environment . . . [was] both subjectively and objectively . . . perceived as abusive.” Id. at 28

1 923. “When assessing the objective portion of a plaintiff’s claim,” the Court “assume[s] the 2 perspective of the reasonable victim.” Id. at 924.

3 First, as to Plaintiff’s subjective experience of the alleged conduct, id. at 923, the Court 4 concludes there is sufficient evidence from which a reasonable jury could conclude that Plaintiff 5 perceived her alleged treatment as abusive. When asked if she believed she sustained trauma or 6 emotional injury due to Dr. Mohtashami’s alleged conduct, Plaintiff responded that she did suffer 7 such injury. Id. at 201:7. She testified that after the alleged incident in the limousine, she began to 8 feel that she needed to record Dr. Mohtashami, because “it was too much for [her].” Id. at 201:1-9 13. She further testified that she wished to “forget” everything that had happened to her, including 10 the incident where Dr. Mohtashami allegedly ripped her shirt strap and grabbed her breasts. Id. at 11 16-19. This testimony, when construed in the light most favorable to Plaintiff, could suggest to a 12 reasonable juror that Plaintiff subjectively perceived Dr. Mohtashami’s alleged conduct as abusive.

13 Viewed from the perspective of a reasonable victim, the Court also finds that the alleged 14 conduct was objectively abusive. Brooks, 229 F.3d at 923. While “simple teasing, offhand 15 comments, and isolated incidents (unless extremely serious)” do not constitute abusive conduct 16 sufficient to alter the terms and conditions of employment, conduct that is frequent, severe, and 17 physically threatening or humiliating may. Faragher v. City of Boca Raton, 524 U.S. 775, 787-788 18 (1998). Moreover, “even a single incident of sexual assault sufficiently alters the conditions of the 19 victim’s employment and clearly creates an abusive work environment.” Little v. Windermere 20 Relocation, Inc., 301 F.3d 58, 967 (9th Cir. 2002). Here, Plaintiff testified to being sexually 21 propositioned not once, but numerous times, and that during one of the most severe occasions of 22 alleged harassment, Dr. Mohtashami grabbed her breasts and ripped her shirt while he was 23 intoxicated at work. The Court concludes that a reasonable jury could find that Plaintiff’s alleged 24 treatment amounted to more than just “simple teasing” or “isolated incidents,” and that Dr.
25 Mohtashami’s alleged conduct was sufficiently frequent and severe as to be objectively abusive.

26 The evidence provided in Defendant’s supporting materials show that significant disputes 27 of material fact exist with respect to each element of Plaintiff’s hostile work environment claim.

1 As such, the Court denies Defendant’s motion for summary judgment on Plaintiff’s first cause of 2 action.

3 ii. Claim 2: Quid Pro Quo Sexual Harassment

4 The Court next turns to Plaintiff’s claim of quid pro quo sexual harassment. A quid pro 5 quo sexual harassment claim arises when an employer conditions employment benefits on sexual 6 favors. Ellison, 924 F.2d at 875 (citing A. Larson, Employment Discrimination § 41.61 at 8-151
7 (1989)). Quid pro quo sexual harassment occurs when an employer “explicitly or implicitly 8 condition[s] a job, a job benefit, or the absence of a job detriment, upon an employee’s acceptance 9 of sexual conduct.” Craig v. M&O Agencies, Inc., 496 F.3d 1047, 1054 (9th Cir. 2007).

10 Defendant argues Plaintiff has failed to identify any quid pro quo proposition by 11 Dr. Mohtashami or any other All Bright employees—either in her pleadings, or in the evidence 12 produced during discovery. Defendant further argues that none of the events that Plaintiff alleges 13 constituted sexual harassment are of a “quid pro quo” nature; that is, even if the alleged conduct 14 was deemed to be sexually harassing, it is undisputed that there were no overt or implied job 15 conditions tied to the alleged conduct. The Court agrees. The Court finds that there is a lack of 16 evidence in the record from which a reasonable jury could conclude that Dr. Mohtashami explicitly 17 or implicitly conditioned “a job, a job benefit, or the absence of a job detriment, upon [Plaintiff’s] 18 acceptance of sexual conduct.” Id. When asked whether Dr. Mohtashami ever conditioned any 19 aspect of Plaintiff’s job on her performing sexual favors for him, Plaintiff clearly responded that 20 he had not. See ECF No. 68-12 at 130:8-19. At most, Plaintiff testified that she felt a need to “keep 21 [Dr. Mohtashami] happy,” id. at 124:23-25; 147:21-148:11, but absent additional evidence, this is 22 insufficient to support a finding of implicit conditioning, amounting to quid pro quo sexual 23 harassment. See Craig, 496 F.3d at 1054 (finding that plaintiff failed to establish a prima facie case 24 of quid pro quo harassment where she testified that she “felt she had to consent” to sexual relations 25 “if she wanted to keep her job” but failed to offer any other evidence to support that contention).
26 There is simply no evidence in the record, other than Plaintiff’s vague statement that she felt she 27 had to keep Dr. Mohtashami happy, from which a reasonable jury could conclude that 28 Dr. Mohtashami explicitly or implicitly conditioned Plaintiff’s job or job benefits upon the

1 performance of sexual favors. As such, the Court accepts Defendant’s statement of undisputed 2 facts regarding whether Dr. Mohtashami ever conditioned Plaintiff’s job benefits upon sexual 3 favors. See Nguyen v. Esper, 722 Fed. Appx. 688, 689 (9th Cir. 2018) (affirming district court’s 4 granting of summary judgment where the district court “reasonably considered evidence in the 5 record that it could locate and treated facts as undisputed for purposes of summary judgment where 6 it could not locate evidence in the record”).

7 The Court accordingly grants Defendant’s motion for summary judgment on Plaintiff’s 8 quid pro quo sexual harassment claim.

9 iii. Claim 3: Retaliation

10 Finally, the Court addresses Plaintiff’s third claim for Title VII retaliation. Title VII 11 prohibits an employer from retaliating against an employee for engaging in protected activity, such 12 as making a charge or otherwise participating in a Title VII proceeding. See 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-3.
13 To establish a prima facie case of retaliation under Title VII, a plaintiff must demonstrate that: (1) 14 she engaged in a protected activity; (2) her employer subjected her to an adverse employment 15 action; and (3) a causal link existed between the protected activity and the adverse employment 16 action. Nilsson v. City of Mesa, 503 F.3d 947, 953-54 (9th Cir. 2007) (internal quotation marks 17 and citations omitted). If the plaintiff establishes a prima facie case of retaliation, the burden then 18 shifts to the defendant to “articulate a legitimate, non-retaliatory reason for its actions.” Id. at 954 19 (internal quotation marks omitted).

20 The Court finds that Plaintiff fails to establish a prima facie case of Title VII retaliation 21 because there is no evidence in the record that she engaged in a protected activity that was causally
22 linked to any adverse employment action. Protected activity includes the filing of an EEOC 23 complaint and complaints to supervisors about sexual harassment and/or discrimination. Trent v.
24 Valley Elec. Ass’n, 41 F.3d 524, 526 (9th Cir. 1994). While Plaintiff alleges in her Complaint that 25 she was retaliated against by being terminated after complaining about Dr. Mohtashami’s conduct, 26 there is no evidence in the record that she complained about Dr. Mohtashami’s conduct to a 27 supervisor while she was employed at All Bright, or that Dr. Mohtashami terminated her as a result 28 of said complaint(s). Plaintiff only testified that she complained to her son and her assistant,

1 Danielle, about Dr. Mohtashami’s conduct. Even if her complaints to these individuals could be 2 construed as protected activity, there is no evidence in the record from which a reasonable jury
3 could conclude that those complaints were ever relayed to Dr. Mohtashami. See Choen v. Fred 4 Meyer, Inc., 686 F.2d 793, 796 (9th Cir. 1982) (“Essential to a causal link is evidence that the 5 employer was aware that the plaintiff had engaged in the protected activity.”). Furthermore, even 6 if one were to assume that Dr. Mohtashami learned of Plaintiff’s complaints, there is no evidence 7 in the record that he terminated her in retaliation for raising those complaints. Plaintiff testified in 8 depositions that she believed Dr. Mohtashami terminated her because his wife learned of his sexual 9 advances towards Plaintiff. See ECF No. 68-12 at 157:9-158-22. When asked why she believed 10 All Bright terminated her employment, Plaintiff responded that Dr. Mohtashami’s wife informed 11 her that she was being fired from All Bright, and that Dr. Mohtashami told her it was because she 12 “didn’t sound . . . convincing enough to make [his wife] believe that [they] didn’t sleep together.”
13 Id. at 158:18-24. There is simply no indication in the record—through Plaintiff’s own testimony 14 or any other evidence—that Dr. Mohtashami or anyone else at All Bright fired Plaintiff or took 15 any adverse employment action against her as a result of any complaints she raised about 16 Dr. Mohtashami’s conduct. See Nguyen, 722 Fed. Appx. at 689.

17 Because Plaintiff cannot establish a prima facie case of Title VII retaliation based on the 18 evidence in the record, the Court grants summary judgment in favor of Defendant on this claim.

20 IV. PLAINTIFF’S MOTION TO WITHDRAW AS COUNSEL (ECF NO. 73)

21 a. Legal Standard

22 Under the Local Rules of Practice for the District Nevada, an attorney seeking to withdraw 23 after appearing in a case “must file a motion or stipulation and serve it on the affected client and 24 opposing counsel.” LR IA 11-6(b). Leave of the Court is required for an attorney to withdraw from 25 a case, and district courts are given considerable deference in making that decision. See id.; see 26 also LaGrand v. Stewart, 133 F.3d 1253, 1269 (9th Cir. 1998); Whiting v. Lacara, 187 F.3d 317, 27 320 (2d Cir. 1999) (collecting cases).

1 “Except for good cause shown, no withdrawal or substitution will be approved if it will 2 result in delay of discovery, the trial, or any hearing in the case. Where delay would result, the 3 papers seeking leave of the court for the withdrawal or substitution must request specific relief 4 from the scheduled discovery, trial, or hearing.” LR IA 11-6(e).

5 b. Discussion

6 Plaintiff’s counsel seeks to withdraw from this matter due to a health crisis she suffered in 7 the early months of 2021. Plaintiff’s counsel represents that as of March 2021, she has been 8 incapable of practicing law full time. In support of her motion to withdraw, Plaintiff’s counsel 9 provided evidence of an e-mail she sent to Plaintiff on March 22, 2021, in which she informed 10 Plaintiff that she could no longer represent Plaintiff and would be notifying opposing counsel of 11 her intent to withdraw from the case. Plaintiff’s counsel also attached an e-mail she sent to 12 opposing counsel the same day, in which she notified opposing counsel of her intent to withdraw 13 from the case. Plaintiff’s counsel represents to the Court that she has not had any communication 14 with Plaintiff or defense counsel since April 2021.

15 The Court finds there is good cause to grant the motion given Plaintiff’s counsel’s 16 representation that she is suffering from ongoing health challenges that preclude her from 17 practicing law full time. However, the Court is mindful that Plaintiff’s counsel did not file a Motion 18 to Withdraw as Counsel with this Court until February 4, 2022, nearly a year after she first told 19 her client that she could no longer represent her. In the interim, Plaintiff’s counsel knew or should 20 have known that Defendant’s Motion for Summary Judgment (filed March 22, 2021) was pending, 21 and also knew or should have known that Defendant had filed three notices/motions indicating that 22 Plaintiff had not yet filed an opposition to the Motion for Summary Judgment.

23 To mitigate any potential prejudice to Plaintiff resulting from a withdrawal of counsel at 24 this late stage, the Court grants the Motion to Withdraw but directs Plaintiff’s counsel to appear at 25 one final pretrial conference.
