REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION OF U.S. MAGISTRATE JUDGE

This Report and Recommendation is made to the Honorable Edward C. Reed, Jr., Senior United States District Judge. The action was referred to the undersigned Magistrate Judge pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(B) and the Local Rules of Practice, LR IB 1-4.

Before the court is Defendants’ motion to dismiss or for summary judgment in the alternative. (Doc. #16.) Plaintiff has opposed the motion (Doc. #42), and Defendant has replied (Doc. #43). After a thorough review of the arguments and relevant legal authority, the court recommends that Defendants’ motion should be granted.

I. BACKGROUND

At the time of the events alleged in his complaint, Plaintiff was in custody of the Nevada Department of Corrections as an inmate at Ely State Prison (ESP), which is a maximum security facility. (Doc. #4 [Complaint] at 1.¹) Defendants Vidrine, Hendrix, Ramsey, and Rollins are correctional officers at ESP, and Defendant Brooks is the Associate Warden of

1 Operations. (Id. at 2-3.) Defendant Ramsey is a senior officer, and Defendant Hendrix holds
2 the rank of lieutenant. (Id. at 2.)

3 According to this civil rights complaint, brought pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1983, Defendant
4 Vidrine escorted Plaintiff to his cell after Plaintiff asked the barber for an eyebrow trim. (Id. at 5 3.) Defendant Vidrine allegedly threw Plaintiff to the floor while he was wearing handcuffs and 6 leg irons without justifiable reason. Defendant Rollins was also present. (Id. at 6.) Plaintiff
7 further alleges that Defendants Brooks and Hendrix failed to respond to the numerous
8 administrative complaints filed by Plaintiff arising from this incident. (Id. at 5.)

9 Based on these facts, Plaintiff alleges an Eighth Amendment claim for cruel and unusual
10 punishment for excessive force by Defendant Vidrine and Defendant Rollins, who witnessed the 11 incident. Plaintiff seeks a permanent injunction for imminent serious bodily injury. (Doc. #4 12 at 9.) Plaintiff also alleges claims against the remaining defendants for violating his “right to 13 redress against all grievances against the government.” (Doc. #4 at 4; 6.) In his opposition,
14 Plaintiff clarifies that these claims are based on the First Amendment. (Doc. #42 at 2.)
15 Defendants move to dismiss because Plaintiff has not stated a cognizable Eighth Amendment
16 claim for excessive force or for a violation of the First Amendment. They also contend a lack of 17 personal participation and qualified immunity for a majority of the defendants. (Doc. #43 at 18 3-6.)

19 II. LEGAL STANDARD

20 In general, if a district court considers evidence outside the pleadings when ruling on a 21 Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss, the motion will be treated as one for summary judgment. Fed.
22 R. Civ. P. 12(d). There is, however, a narrow exception allowing the court to consider a limited
23 set of documents without converting the motion into one for summary judgment. This includes 24 documents attached to the complaint, documents incorporated by reference in the complaint,
25 and matters that can be judicially noticed. United States v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 907 (9th Cir.
26 2003). The instant motion falls within this exception, as it is only necessary to consider the 27 administrative records attached to the complaint in considering the motion to dismiss.

1 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) provides for dismissal of a complaint for failure
2 to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. All allegations of material fact are construed
3 in the light most favorable to Plaintiff, taking any reasonable inferences drawn from them as 4 true. Broam v. Bogan, 320 F.3d 1023, 1028 (9th Cir. 2003). The plaintiff need only give 5 defendants a fair notice of what the claim is and the grounds upon which it rests. Erickson v.
6 Pardus, 127 S.Ct. 2197, 2200 (2007). A Rule 12(b)(6) dismissal may arise from lack of a
7 cognizable legal theory or the absence of sufficient facts alleged under such a theory. Johnson
8 v. Riverside Healthcare Sys., LP, 534 F.3d 1116, 1122 (9th Cir. 2008) (citing Balistreri v.
9 Pacifica Police Dep't, 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1990)). “Conclusory allegations of law and 10 unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss for failure to state a
11 claim.” In re VeriFone Sec. Litig., 11 F.3d 865, 868 (9th Cir. 1993). At minimum, the complaint
12 should plead “enough facts to state a claim for relief that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp.
13 v. Twombly, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 1974 (2007).

14 A pro se complaint, however inartfully pleaded, must be held to less stringent standards
15 than formal pleadings drafted by lawyers. Erickson, 127 S.Ct. at 2200 (quoting Estelle v.
16 Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 106 (1976)). The court must construe the pleadings liberally and afford
17 the plaintiff any benefit of the doubt. Thompson v. Davis, 295 F.3d 890, 895 (9th Cir. 2002).
18 However, sweeping conclusory allegations will not suffice. Leer v. Murphy, 844 F.2d 628, 634
19 (9th Cir. 1988). In giving liberal construction to a pro se civil rights complaint, the court is not 20 to supply essential elements of the claim that were not initially pled. Ivey v. Bd. of Regents of 21 the Univ. of Alaska, 673 F.2d 266, 268 (9th Cir. 1982).

22 III. DISCUSSION

23 A. EIGHTH AMENDMENT EXCESSIVE FORCE CLAIM

24 Defendants argue that the complaint fails to state a claim for excessive force under the 25 Eighth Amendment. When prison officials use excessive force against prisoners, they violate
26 the right to be free from cruel and unusual punishment. Clement v. Gomez, 298 F.3d 898, 903
27 (9th Cir. 2002). However, “[n]ot every push or shove, even if it may later seem unnecessary in 28

1 the peace of a judge's chambers, violates a prisoner's constitutional rights.” Hudson v.
2 McMillan, 503 U.S. 1, 9 (1992). To state a violation of the Eighth Amendment’s prohibition on 3 cruel and unusual punishment, an inmate must allege something more than a de minimis use
4 of force unless the use of force was “repugnant to the conscience of mankind.” Id. In 5 determining whether a use of force rises to the level of a constitutional violation, it may be 6 necessary to evaluate the extent of injury, the relationship between amount of force used and 7 the need for it, any threats perceived by prison officials, and any efforts made to temper the 8 severity of the response. Id. at 7.

9 Here, Plaintiff does not indicate that he suffered any pain or injuries from the alleged 10 incident in his complaint or opposition. Plaintiff acknowledged in one of his grievances and 11 separately told a prison nurse that he had not been injured. (Doc. #4 at 18 [letter to Associate 12 Warden of Operations dated October 14, 2007]; 20.)

13 Additionally, the allegations do not suggest a wanton amount of force was used. The 14 entirety of the body of Count I reads, “Officer Vidrine threw me onto the cement floor while I
15 was in handcuffs and ankle irons because I asked the inmate barber to trim my eyebrows.”
16 (Doc. #4 at 4.) There is nothing in the complaint or opposition to suggest that Defendant lifted
17 Plaintiff’s body high in the air before dropping him, that Defendant charged at him, or that there
18 was an ongoing physical confrontation that culminated in this conduct. The court notes that 19 in one of his emergency grievances, Plaintiff indicated that he was kneeling on the floor when 20 Defendant Vidrine threw him. (Doc. #4 at 13 [Emergency Grievance dated October 13th, 21 2007].) The court also takes judicial notice of the fact that the prison records indicate Plaintiff 22 is an adult male and that he weighs 170 pounds, not including the weight of his handcuffs and 23 leg irons he was wearing during the incident.² Therefore, it seems unlikely that Defendant
24 Vidrine was able to throw Plaintiff with significant force, as this action would have been 25 impeded by having to pick Plaintiff up off the ground from his kneeling position. This is further

1 evidenced by the fact that Plaintiff suffered no injuries even after he struck the floor of his cell.
2 Construing the allegations in favor of Plaintiff, his claim is based on a de minimis use
3 of physical force that resulted in no injury to him. While this conduct is serious and served no
4 purpose, assuming the truth of the allegations, there is nothing to suggest that the use of force
5 was “repugnant to the conscience of mankind.” See Albers, 475 U.S. at 322; McMillan, 503 U.S.
6 at 9. Therefore, the motion should be granted dismissing Count I with prejudice.

7 B. FIRST AMENDMENT CLAIM

8 In his opposition, Plaintiff characterizes his remaining claims for “right to redress of all
9 grievances against the government” as based on the First Amendment. (Doc. #42 at 3.)
10 Defendants contend that there are no facts alleged that would support such a claim. Plaintiff’s
11 complaint makes no reference to the First Amendment, and this court’s screening order did not 12 identify such a claim during its initial review. (Doc. #3.) Even liberally construing the 13 allegations, Counts II and III of the complaint provide only that Defendants Brooks and Hendrix
14 failed to discipline Defendant Vidrine regarding the throwing incident. The court is unable to 15 discern what First Amendment right has been violated by this conduct. Plaintiff was able to 16 submit multiple emergency grievances, letters, and written requests (kites) which were 17 answered by prison officials. (Doc. #4 at 14-40.) The failure to respond to these complaints in 18 a manner agreeable to Plaintiff does not amount to a First Amendment violation.

19 Defendants Chambliss (a caseworker at ESP), Neagle (lieutenant officer), and Crossman 20 (officer) are listed in an addendum to the caption but are not mentioned in the section for 21 designating defendants or in the body of the complaint. (Doc. #4 at 1-A.) Liberally construing
22 the complaint and the attached grievances,³ Plaintiff names these defendants because they were 23 somehow involved with denying Plaintiff’s grievances. As above, however, this does not state 24 a violation of the First Amendment. Accordingly, the motion to dismiss should be granted as 25 to Counts II and III of the complaint with prejudice. The remaining defenses need not be 26 considered here.

27 ³ Doc. #4 at 16; 26.
28

1 Count IV of the complaint is missing its second page. See Doc. #4 at 6A. The court is
2 unable to locate a page 6B of this count in the original copy of the pleading or the digitized
3 version uploaded to the court's electronic filing system.⁴ As it currently reads, Plaintiff begins
4 to state that Defendant Ramsey would not process an emergency grievance, but further
5 allegations are cut off. The grievances attached to the complaint suggest that this refers to the 6 emergency grievance dated October 13th, 2007.⁵ The administrative response reads, "This was 7 responded to on 10-13-07. You were seen by medical staff. You had no injuries and recanted
8 your statement." The record therefore indicates that contrary to Plaintiff's allegations, this 9 emergency grievance was processed by the prison administration and denied. Even if additional 10 factual allegations were provided, it is highly unlikely that this could state a First Amendment
11 violation. If Plaintiff so wishes, however, he should be allowed the opportunity refile the 12 complaint stating his First Amendment claim against Defendant Ramsey in its entirety.

13 IV. RECOMMENDATION

14 IT IS HEREBY RECOMMENDED that the District Judge enter an Order
15 GRANTING the Motion Dismiss as to Counts I through III in the complaint with prejudice
16 (Doc. #16).

17 IT IS FURTHER RECOMMENDED that the District Judge grant Plaintiff the 18 opportunity to refile Count IV of the original complaint.

19 The parties should be aware of the following:

- 20 1. That they may file, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(c) and Rule IB 3-2 of the 21 Local Rules of Practice, specific written objections to this Report and Recommendation within 22 ten (10) days of receipt. These objections should be titled "Objections to Magistrate Judge's

⁴ Plaintiff included within his complaint a "motion" for additional pages to plead additional counts,
25 suggesting that he may have simply run out of paper. It appears to have been overlooked during screening because 26 it was embedded within the complaint at page nine. (Doc. #4.) This is not the proper form for a motion to the 27 court. Plaintiff is instructed to file any subsequent motions through separate filings rather than including them
28 within the pleadings.

⁵ At the bottom of this form, Plaintiff made an annotation that Defendant Ramsey refused to have the grievance processed. (Doc. #4 at 15.)

1 Report and Recommendation" and should be accompanied by points and authorities for 2 consideration by the District Court.

3 2. That this Report and Recommendation is not an appealable order and that any 4 notice of appeal pursuant to Rule 4(a)(1), Fed. R. Civ. P., should not be filed until entry of the 5 District Court's judgment.

6 DATED: February 10, 2009.
