ORDER

15 This is a standard foreclosure case involving one property. The Complaint is a fifty-16 eight-page fraud-and-conspiracy-type complaint listing eleven causes of action. The case is not 17 part of MDL Case No. 2119. Three motions are pending before the Court: a motion to remand, 18 a motion to dismiss, and a motion to amend.

19 I. THE PROPERTY

20 James L. Chase gave two mortgages on his home at 3880 Antelope Valley Road, Reno, 21 NV 89506 (the "Property") to lender United Residential Mortgage, LLC ("United"): one for 22 $524,000 (mortgage), and one for $65,500 (Home Equity Line of Credit ("HELOC")). (See 23 Mortgage Note, Sept. 16, 2005, ECF No. 11, at 7; HELOC Note 10, Sept. 16, 2005, ECF No. 11,
24 at 12). Stewart Title was the trustee on the HELOC Deed of Trust ("DOT"). (DOT 1, Sept. 16,

1 2005, ECF No. 11, at 25).¹ No Notice of Default (“NOD”) is attached, but Plaintiff alleges an 2 NOD was filed by First American Title on behalf of Recontrust Co. This indicates a statutory 3 defect in foreclosure. See Nev. Rev. Stat. § 107.080(2)(c).

4 II. ANALYSIS

5 A. Motion to Remand and to Amend

6 1. Federal Question Jurisdiction

7 The Court denies the motion to remand, as there is both federal question and diversity 8 jurisdiction. Plaintiff has pled no federal causes of action directly, but Defendants argue some of 9 the claims Plaintiff has pled require the substantial interpretation of federal law to resolve. In 10 response to this argument, Plaintiff has filed a motion to amend the Complaint to remove any 11 such claims, as well as to further specify the alleged conduct of certain Defendants. Plaintiff 12 adds claims in the proposed first amended complaint for unfair debt collection practices under 13 section 649.370 of the Nevada Revised Statutes (“NRS”) and for unfair and deceptive trade 14 practices under section 598.0923, the former of which in fact supports federal question 15 jurisdiction even if no claim in the original Complaint did.

16 Section 649.370 creates no private cause of action,² so the claim that refers to FDCPA
17 necessarily relies directly on the federal cause of action. Even if the Court found an implied 18 state cause of action, it would necessarily require substantial interpretation of federal law,

20 ¹Only the deed of trust for the HELOC loan is produced in the record, not the deed of 21 trust for the mortgage loan. The HELOC DOT, however, refers to the first DOT and notes that 22 the HELOC DOT is subordinate to it. (See DOT 3). It also indicates that the first DOT was 23 given for the benefit of Countrywide, which is odd, because the payee of the mortgage note that 24 the first DOT presumably secures is United, not Countrywide. (See id.; Mortgage Note 1). It is 25 also odd that the HELOC DOT bears a date of September 16, 2005 but claims to be subordinate to a mortgage DOT allegedly dated September 21, 2005. See id.

²Neither “damages,” “cause of action,” nor “attorney’s fees” appear anywhere in Chapter
649. The Chapter provides only for criminal penalties or administrative fines. See Nev. Rev.
Stat. §§ 649.435, 649.440.

1 because a violation of the state statute is defined purely by reference to FDCPA. See Mesi v.
2 Wash. Mut. F.A., No. 3:09-CV-582 JCM (VPC), 2010 WL 3025209, at *2 (D. Nev. July 30, 3 2010) (Mahan, J.). Contra Atkinson v. Homecomings Fin., LLC, No. 3:10-cv-00418-LRH-VPC, 4 2010 WL 3271741, at *2 (D. Nev. Aug. 16, 2010) (Hicks, J.) (“[C]ontrary to Defendants’
5 position, the act defines a state claim that is separate from its federal counterpart. Although a 6 federal regulation is expressly noted in the Nevada statute, the reference to the federal act only 7 provides a framework for determining the type of claim that can be brought under the state 8 statute.”). The Court respectfully believes that the Mesi case is better reasoned. Although an 9 appropriately drafted state statute could incorporate federal standards in such a way that a 10 violation of federal standards would be sufficient, but not necessary, to constitute a violation of 11 the state statute, in the present case the Nevada Legislature has made the reach of section 12 649.370 coextensive with FDCPA and its attendant regulations. See Nev. Rev. Stat. § 649.370
13 (“A violation of any provision of the federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 14 1682 et seq., or any regulation adopted pursuant thereto, shall be deemed to be a violation of this 15 chapter.”). The Atkinson court reasoned that because the Nevada Supreme Court had resolved 16 other sections of Chapter 649 without reference to federal law, a section 649.370 claim could be 17 resolved without the substantial interpretation of federal law. See Atkinson, 2010 WL 3271741, 18 at *2 (citing State v. Hartford Accident & Indem. Co., 477 P.2d 592 (Nev. 1970)). But Hartford
19 did not involve the resolution of any section of Chapter 649 that made reference to federal law, 20 much less section 649.370, which was enacted thirty-seven years after Hartford was decided. See 21 2007 Nev. Stat. 2500; Hartford, 477 P.2d at 593 (interpreting former section 649.080, which did 22 not rely on any federal law). The fact that some sections of Chapter 649 can be applied without 23 interpreting federal law tells us nothing about whether any other particular section therein can 24 be. Plaintiff has not pled any violation of Chapter 649 except section 649.370, which is by its 25 text coextensive with FDCPA. Therefore, any claim under section 649.370 necessarily requires

1 the substantial interpretation of federal law, and there would be federal-question jurisdiction
2 even if a private cause of action lied under Chapter 649 such that Plaintiff did not need to rely on 3 FDCPA directly.

4 Federal-question jurisdiction can be based purely on a state claim if its resolution 5 necessarily requires the construction of federal law:

6 The rule is well settled that a state claim "arises under" federal law "if the 7 complaint, properly pleaded, presents a substantial dispute over the effect of federal 8 law, and the result turns on the federal question." *Guinasso v. Pacific First Fed. Sav.
9 & Loan Ass'n*, 656 F.2d 1364, 1365-66 (9th Cir. 1981), cert. denied, 455 U.S. 1020, 10 102 S. Ct. 1716, 72 L. Ed. 2d 138 (1982). The "vast majority of cases brought under 11 the general federal-question jurisdiction of the federal courts are those in which 12 federal law creates the cause of action[.]" *Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals Inc. v.
13 Thompson*, 478 U.S. 804, 808, 106 S. Ct. 3229, 3232, 92 L. Ed. 2d 650 (1986), but 14 a case may also arise under federal law "where the vindication of a right under state 15 law necessarily turn[s] on some construction of federal law." Id. (quoting *Franchise
16 Tax Bd. v. Construction Laborers Vacation Trust*, 463 U.S. 1, 9, 103 S. Ct. 2841, 17 2846, 77 L. Ed. 2d 420 (1983)).

18 Berg v. Leason, 32 F.3d 422, 423 (9th Cir. 1994). In cases such as the present one, where the 19 state claim directly incorporates the substance of federal law, see Nev. Rev Stat. § 649.370, and 20 where the state claim raises no federal constitutional issues, federal-question jurisdiction exists 21 only if the federal law that is incorporated into the state claim provides an independent federal 22 claim:

23 In Merrell Dow Pharmaceuticals Inc. v. Thompson, 478 U.S. 804, 106 S. Ct.
24 3229, 92 L. Ed. 2d 650 (1986), the Court considered in detail the principles of 25 removal jurisdiction when applied to a well-pleaded complaint that relies on a state cause of action which incorporates federal law as one of the elements of recovery.
The Court held that in such a case, the state claim does not involve a substantial federal question unless the federal law incorporated in the state cause of action provides a federal private right of action for its violation. Id. 106 S. Ct. at 3237; see also Utley v. Varian Assoc., Inc., 811 F.2d 1279 (9th Cir.) (applying Merrell Dow), cert. denied, 484 U.S. 824, 108 S. Ct. 89, 98 L. Ed. 2d 50 (1987).

Ethridge v. Harbor House Rest., 861 F.2d 1389, 1394 n.4 (9th Cir. 1988). The FDCPA provides a private right of action. See 15 U.S.C. § 1692k. If NRS section 649.370 contained additional substantive bases for liability apart from FDCPA, then such bases of liability could be invoked

1 without creating federal-question jurisdiction. But section 649.370 refers exclusively and 2 coextensively to FDCPA for its substance and provides no basis for liability apart from that 3 provided for in FDCPA, under which a private, federal right of action lies. The Court therefore 4 finds that even if a private cause of action lied under section 649.370 (none does), such a claim 5 would support federal-question jurisdiction. See Ethridge, 861 F.2d at 1394 n.4.

6 The proposed new claims are futile, as well. Non-judicial foreclosure does not constitute 7 “debt collection” under FDCPA. Diessner v. MERS, 618 F. Supp. 2d 1184, 1188–89 (D. Ariz.
8 2009) (citing Perry v. Stewart Title Co., 756 F.2d 1197, 1208 (5th Cir. 1985); S. Rep. No.
9 95-382, 1977 U.S.C.C.A.N. 1695, 1698 (1977)). And no violation of section 598.0923 is pled 10 with particularity, even if the three-year statute of limitations had not run. Because amendment 11 would not rescue any claims or add any plausible claims, the Court denies the motion to amend.

12 2. Diversity Jurisdiction

13 Even if there were no federal question jurisdiction, there is diversity jurisdiction. The 14 only non-diverse Defendants are Lorraine Shuart and Stewart Title. Shuart’s only connection to 15 the case is that she was formerly an employee of Countrywide “either as a loan officer or a loan 16 processor.” (Compl. 17). Plaintiff has not pled enough facts making her liability to Plaintiffs on 17 any claim plausible. Next, Stewart Title was the original trustee on the DOT. Plaintiff 18 specifically alleges that First American filed the NOD on behalf of Recontrust, which is in fact 19 why the foreclosure may have been statutorily defective. No claim possibly lies against Stewart
20 Title based on the facts alleged. In fact, it appears to be Plaintiff’s contention that Stewart Title 21 would have been the proper entity to foreclose, either itself or through an agent. Next, doe 22 defendants are ignored for the purposes of diversity. 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a) (“For purposes of 23 removal under this chapter, the citizenship of defendants sued under fictitious names shall be 24 disregarded.”); Cripps v. Life Ins. Co. of Am., 980 F.2d 1261, 1266 (9th Cir. 1992) (citing id.);
25 Bryant v. Ford Motor Co. (Bryant II), 886 F.2d 1526, 1528 (9th Cir. 1989) (citing id.)

1 (“Congress obviously reached the conclusion that doe defendants should not defeat diversity
2 jurisdiction.”), cert. denied, 493 U.S. 1076 (1990). The 1988 amendment to § 1441(a) that 3 established the current rule overruled the Ninth Circuit’s 1987 ruling in Bryant I. Cripps, 980
4 F.2d at 1266 & n.5 (citing Bryant v. Ford Motor Co. (Bryant I), 832 F.2d 1080, 1082–83 (9th 5 Cir. 1987) (en banc)). When the fraudulently joined and doe Defendants are discounted, there is 6 complete diversity.

7 Finally, the subject matter of the lawsuit is the almost $600,000 in loans, and the Property
8 securing these loans. The loans are in default, and Plaintiff seeks to prevent any future
9 foreclosure. If Plaintiff were to win all his claims as pled, Defendants would lose their security 10 interest a property purchased for $524,000, and although the Property is likely worth much less 11 today, it is almost certainly still worth more than $75,000. But even discounting the value of the 12 property itself, Plaintiff seeks the return of all interest paid, emotional distress damages, statutory 13 damages (treble damages, in fact) under certain claims, punitive damages, and fees and costs.
14 Such claims could easily total more than $75,000. The amount-in-controversy requirement is 15 satisfied.

16 B. Motion to Dismiss

17 Rather than responding to the motion to dismiss, Plaintiff’s counsel, as he typically does 18 in these cases, has filed a “Notice of Intent to Withhold Response to Motion to Dismiss Pending 19 Ruling on Motion to Remand to State Court.” This constitutes consent to granting the motions.
20 Local R. Civ. Prac. 7-2(d). Counsel has no authority to institute a partial stay of a case 21 unilaterally, which is what these notices essentially purport to do. And the requirement to file an 22 opposition is not a “burden” imposed by a potentially improper removal, as counsel has argued 23 in other similar cases, because Defendants surely would have filed the same motion to dismiss 24 had the case not been removed. In fact, Plaintiff would only have had ten (10) days to respond to 25 that motion in state court before failure to respond constituted consent to granting it, whereas he

1 had fifteen (15) days to respond in this Court. Compare Nev. Dist. Ct. R. 13(3), with Local R.
2 Civ. Prac. 7-2(b). Removal therefore had the effect of giving Plaintiff an additional five days to 3 respond to this inevitable motion to dismiss, in addition to the delay in Defendants' filing of the 4 motion created by the removal process itself. There is simply no legitimate excuse for failing to 5 respond.

6 CONCLUSION

7 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Motion to Remand (ECF No. 3) is DENIED.

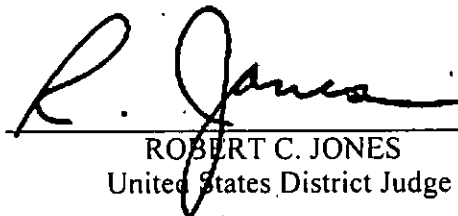

8 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Motion to Amend (ECF No. 18) is DENIED.

9 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Motion to Dismiss (ECF No. 10) is GRANTED in 10 part and DENIED in part. All claims before the Court are dismissed except the claim for 11 injunctive relief based on statutorily defective foreclosure.

12 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendants will submit a proposed order concerning 13 mediation and interim payments with respect to the Property, in accordance with the Court's 14 instructions at the hearing.
